2— If the father, (or mother, if the father is deceased,) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such persons as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

3—If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent, or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

Sealed Tenders, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Public Building, Whitby, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 p. m. on Tuesday, September 22, 1908, for the construction of a public building at Whitby, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAP. TESSIER,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,

SOLDIERS IN BATTLE

How Men Feel and Act With Death All About Them.

THE STORY OF A PRIVATE.

With the Beginning of the Fight Comes Fear, but That Soon Passes Away in the Eagerness For Killing. Varying Effects of Wounds.

A narrative of the battle of Solferino as told by a veteran survivor to Robert Shackleton appears in Harper's. It is, word for word, a chapter of history as seen by a man in the ranks. Incidents which impressed him are curious:

"We halted, and a Tyrolese lying on the ground cried out: 'I am dying. Give me to drink.' Whereat my companion stooped to offer him a flask, and as he stooped the Tyrolese struck savagely at him with his bayonet, but my companion jumped back, and it missed him, and he said, 'You Tyrolese, you said you wanted a drink before you died, and now you shall die without the drink.' And he stuck his bayonet through him as a boy would stick a pin through a fly.

"The fighting soon began again, and it was very fierce. It was soon that we came to know that we were to capture a little village and the hills about the village. The village was named San Maritino, and there were walled barns and gardens, and the Austrians were very strong there.

"The bursting of the shells was very bad. Sometimes all of us close by would be thrown down and be covered with mud and earth, but most of us would jump up again, not wounded, but always there were some who would not jump up again, because they were wounded or dead.

"At the beginning of a battle a soldier feels afraid. At the beginning of this battle I felt afraid, and I know that other men felt afraid, though it was not our first battle, and we knew what it was to be under fire.

"So it was that at the beginning we commended ourselves; we felt like death, but soon that passed away, and we thought no more of death, but only of the killing of the Austrians.

"All around me men were killed. There were heads and arms blown off, and men flew into pieces like the smashing of a jug. But we did not care. We thought nothing of it. I do not know that we even knew we saw such things, but some of them come to me as I sit with you and talk of that long day. We did not notice, and we did not think that at any moment we too might have our heads blown off or be smashed into little pieces like the breaking of a jug.

"Once, when we rushed over the big guns and killed the men who still fought with us, we turned the guns to fire on the Austrians as they flew away, but they had driven bits of steel into the touchholes, and so we could not fire them. They were of a courage, those Austrians.

"Only once in all that battle did I think much of what I saw or heard, and that was when there was the terrible screaming of a captain who had his foot shot off. He twisted and turned as he cried out, and it was a very bad sound. But it is just as it chances. I saw many men who were hurst worse than that captain and many who were blown into little bits, but I did not trouble about them. It is just if it chances so.

"It is very often that a man does not know that he is hurt. I remember that once there was a man near me with a great hole in his forehead, but he ran right on with us with his bayonet, and I thought, 'He will fall dead.' But after that I saw him no more, for there was always the fighting.

"The storm and the blackness, they made of us a great mixing. Yes; it was a very great tangling, for all lines were lost, and I know that sometimes Austrians struck at Austrians and sometimes Italians struck at Italians, for we were in a very great mixing and very fierce in the blackness of that storm.

"We were told to lie down and sleep. So we lay down where we were, among the dead and the wounded, among the Italians and the Austrians.

"And we slept. Yes; we were tired, for we had fought hard for all that long, long day, and on that hill that at last we had gained we slept, and we gave no heed to the dead men or the wounded.

"The wounded they made very great cries, and there were men sent to go among them with lights. Some were surgeons, and some were men to carry them to the field hospitals. But the most of us we lay there and slept, and we were very tired, and we knew that with the morning there might be another fight."

CORNS CURED IN 24 HOURS

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

1—At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

2—If the father, (or mother, if the father is deceased,) of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

3—If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

WOMEN WERE SCARCE.

There were few women in the California mining camps in the old days, and the advent of an emigrant wagon with a woman in it caused a furore, as is proved by the following incident from the reminiscences of former Senator William M. Stewart: "Women were so scarce in California at that time that this was sufficient to arouse the whole camp. The 'boys,' as we were called, were scattered along the coyote diggings for a distance of about four miles, and when anything unusual happened the words, 'Oh, Joe!' would be passed along the whole line. When I saw the feminine raiment I raised the usual alarm, 'Oh, Joe!' and this called the attention of the miners on Buckeye hills, where I was, to the clothesline which had attracted my notice. They gathered around on the hill, nearly surrounding the covered wagon and its contents. The rush of the boys in the immediate vicinity to see the wonderful sight attracted those farther away, and in less than ten minutes two or three thousand young men were anxiously watching the wagon, clothesline and fascinating lingerie. In alarm the man that belonged to the woman inside stuck his head out of a small tent beside the wagon. I assured him that no harm was intended, but that we were very anxious to see the lady who was the owner of the clothes. This aroused her curiosity sufficiently to induce her to pull the curtain of the tent aside so that her face could be discovered, but not fully seen.

"I then proposed that we make a donation to the first lady that had honored our camp with a visit. I took from my camp a buckskin bag, used for the purpose of carrying gold, and invited the boys to contribute. They came forward with great eagerness and poured out of their sacks gold dust amounting to between $2,000 and $3,000. I then proposed to appoint a committee to wait on the lady and present it. The motion was unanimously carried, and one of the gentlemen appointed on the committee suggested myself as chairman. I took the sack of gold and went within about thirty feet of the tent and made as good a speech as I could to induce the lady to come out, assuring her that all the men about her were gentlemen, that they had seen no ladies for so many months and that the presence of one reminded them of their mothers and sweethearts at home. I told her that the bag of gold was hers on condition that she would come out and claim it. Her husband urged her to be brave, but when she finally ventured out about halfway the cheers were so vociferous that she was scared and ran back.

"She repeated this performance several times, and I kept moving slowly back far enough to get her away from the little tent so the boys could have a good view of her. I suppose half an hour was occupied with her running back and forth while the boys looked on in admiration, when I finally gave her the bag, with all the good wishes of the camp. She grabbed it and ran into the tent like a rabbit. The next morning the wagon, oxen, man and owner of the inspiring apparel were gone, and we never heard of them is after life."

Where the Funds Went.

As an instance of the happy go lucky character of the early darky the following extract from the Albany (N. Y.) city records may prove interesting:

"In 1826 the trustees of the African Baptist church applied to the common council for permission to circulate a public subscription paper in aid of the funds of the church. It was moved to lay the petition on the table, pending investigation, for the reason that the principal part of the funds secured by a previous subscription for the African church had been used by the trustees in 'treating themselves to hot suppers.'"

Faded.

Tess — Yes, she said her husband married her for her beauty. What do you think of that? Jess—Well, I think her husband must feel like a widower now.

Tired Tatters—I wisht I had money enuff t' patent a idee uv mine. Weary Walker—Wot's de idee? Tired Tatters—A noomatic tire fer perlice clubs.

SUMMER COMPLAINT.

Everyone Should be Prepared for it with a Bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Very few people escape an attack of Summer Complaint. It may be slight, or it may be severe, but nearly everyone is liable to it.

You cannot tell, when it seizes on you, how it may end.

Let it go for a day or two only, and see how weak and prostrated it will leave you.

There is only one safe way to cure it and that is by DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. It has been on the market for sixty-three years and has been proved and tried so you are not experimenting when you buy it.

Do not accept a substitute or imitation, as many of these are positively dangerous to life and health. Insist on having DR. FOWLER'S.

Mrs. Norman H. Eisau, Ship Harbor, N.S., writes: "Last summer my baby was very bad with Summer Complaint. I tried most everything for him, but nothing seemed to help. One day a neighbor called in and told me to try DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY, so I got a bottle and after a few doses my baby was cured. I shall always keep it in the house."

Help for Weak Backs

Few old people are entirely free from Kidney trouble. That is why so many men and women of 50 and 60 and over, suffer with backaches, sharp twinges in the back and legs, Rheumatism and Sciatica, bladder troubles, scalding urine and frequent passages at night.

Gin Pills mean a healthy, hearty old age. Gin Pills keep the kidneys well and strong. Even when there are no severe pains or dizzy spells, three or four Gin Pills a day will keep the Kidneys flushed and free from accumulations and in perfect order so that they can perform their work of filtering the impurities from the blood, and thereby keep up the vigor and vitality of youth.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 12.

"I have suffered from sick kidneys for about five years and had got very little relief from various medicines I had taken, until I tried Gin Pills which gave me instant relief. I cannot speak too highly of them and will recommend them to my friends."

MRS. M. LAWRENCE.

Don't make the mistake of neglecting your kidneys. Pains in the back and limbs are not "signs of old age." They are signs of kidney trouble. Get Gin Pills to-day and see how quickly you improve.

Gin Pills are guaranteed to cure or money refunded. For sale by all druggists and medicine dealers at 50c. a box or—6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your dealer does not handle them.

We have such unbounded faith in the curative qualities of Gin Pills that we will let you test them free. Mention this paper and we will send you a sample box free of change.

FREEDOM—AFTER 25 YEARS BEHIND PRISON BARS

to Chicago a constant panorama of new scenes was opened up, but Gales showed no surprise. On one side were miles of stones piled up, and Mr. Huss explained to his charge that they resulted from the making of the drainage canal. This seemed to awaken an interest in the old man, as he had spent many years breaking up stones into smaller ones.

At Archer avenue they changed cars and he was told that he was in Chicago. At the time Gales left the city it had not grown to anything like the extent that it now occupies. The miles and miles of houses, the crowds of people coming and going which whirled across his vision seemed to increase his bewilderment, and when he stepped off on State street he bumped into the people who were rapidly coming and going until he stood still in the middle of the sidewalk. Mr. Huss then took him by the arm and led him down the street to a restaurant, where they ordered lunch.

Three days in the city gave John Gales an entirely different appearance from that which he had when he emerged from the big institution. He had spent his time at the home of a friend, staying for the most of the time inside the house, although once in a while taking a walk around the block. But he was breathing the air of freedom, and unconsciously he took on the look of a man who had not the prison taint.

"It is good to be out again," he said. "Do I feel any resentment at the management of the institution? Not in the least. They did simply as they were required to do by law, and I obeyed their rules. Prisoners mostly find it to their interest to do so, for there is no particular fun in standing up shackled to an iron door for 18 hours out of the 24, which is what is done with those who break the rules. I have never broken any of the rules, which was one of the reasons why I was released.

Talked Once a Year

"No, I never got acquainted with any of the prisoners to amount to anything. We are not allowed to talk to them, and the only chance one gets to converse is on the Fourth of July every year, when we are allowed to get out in the yard. The treatment of the prisoners down there now is much better than it was under the contract system, when we all had to work as hard as it was possible to do, and when a prisoner was likely to be sent down to the punishment cell if he didn't finish his task. There is still a little of the contract system left, but not much. We are allowed to read a book once a week and I learned the English language pretty well."

Here Gales paused a moment and looked reminiscently out of the window.

"What will I do," he resumed, "I suppose I will go to work on a farm in a few days. I don't feel just like it just now, as there is something the matter with my legs, I suppose from walking so long on cement floors and stone pavements in the penitentiary. They are gradually feeling better, however. I certainly am glad to be out, although the penitentiary had come to be almost the same as a home to me, for I figured that, having no friends on the outside, I never would be released. Sometimes I find myself talking to a man and then stop short, forgetting that there is no guard near by and it does not mean a night in the dark cell."

Is Officially Dead

The case of Gales is unique in many respects, for, according to all the existing records, he is officially dead. He was sentenced to be hanged March 24th, 1882, and as far as anything to the contrary exists this was done, as there is nothing to show that he was ever sent to the penitentiary. However, Governor Cullom took notice of his case, and, coming to Chicago, talked to Gales for two hours through an interpreter, and found that he should have his sentence commuted on account of extenuating circumstances connected with the case. But he was immediately sent to the penitentiary, and there is no record of it at the county jail on the North Side. Had he escaped from the institution he could not have been sent back, and it would have been an easy matter to secure his release on a writ of habeas corpus had it been necessary.

But the State Board of Pardons decided that in consideration of his exemplary record he was entitled to freedom.

The crime for which Gales has paid his debt to the state was committed shortly after his arrival in America. He had come from a tiny plot of ground in Luxemburg, where he had worked as an apprentice to his uncle, and had located in America, believing that the new country would bring him fortune. He settled down in Port Washington, where he had relatives, and after being there a short time he came down to Chicago and secured work near Evanston. He got work on a farm, but one night he was attacked by a fellow-labourer, and in self-defence Gales threw an axe at him. The man was instantly killed, but Gales did not know it. He left the place that night and was picked up the next day on the street by the police. When arrested he expressed the greatest surprise that the man had been killed. However, having no friends his case went to trial within two weeks, and he was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged, but he never had any idea that the sentence would be carried out, for he was convinced that when the governor heard his story the sentence would at least be commuted. This is what happened and Gales went to the penitentiary.

Freedom Through Countryman

It is probable that he would never have been released, however, but for the Luxemburg Society, of which Matthew J. Huss is president. The case was inadvertently brought to their notice, and, finding that the convict was a fellow-countryman of theirs and that there were extenuating circumstances in the case, the effort was made to secure his freedom. The society will keep him in mind until he can earn his own living, and the man will then be practically where he was when he started out in Chicago twenty-seven years ago.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. AN OLD RESIDENT IN A REMINISCENT MOOD TELLS OF THE FORMER BRIDGES THAT HAVE SPANNED THE WATERWAY ON AYLMER STREET

Mr. William Logan Remembers the Corduroy Structure That Stood More Than Half a Century Ago —Doesn't Expect to See Another

THE NEW BRIDGE DESCRIBED

With the completion of the new concrete structure spanning the creek at the corner of Aylmer and Brock streets, Mr. Wm. Logan, carriage maker, will have witnessed the construction of three bridges there, and he also remembers the old corduroy crossing that served as a bridge, at the middle of the last century. Mr. Logan has followed the occupation of a carriage maker in Peterborough for the past fifty-seven years, his place of business being the shop that stands at the corner where the new bridge is nearing completion. Last night an Examiner representative, in looking over the work, fortunately met Mr. Logan and secured some interesting reminiscences of bridges that have come and gone at the corner of Aylmer and Brock streets.

It was some time during the year 1852 that Mr. Logan began his apprenticeship in his present premises. The building he first worked in has changed—in fact it was burned—but the location is the same. At that time there stood an old corduroy bridge, and when one was driving over there was no possibility to him going to sleep.

About five years later this was replaced by a bridge built of cedar stringers covered with clay. The contractor was the late Robert Rowe. This structure remained together for about thirty years, when the wooden bridge that has recently been torn away was erected by the late Col. Poole.

"I guess this one will outlive me," remarked Mr. Logan, as he referred to the fourth which has come under his observation.

A Splendid Structure

As stated above, the new Aylmer street bridge is almost completed. It was built by the city by day labour under the foremanship of Mr. W. J. Martin. City Engineer T. A. S. Hay was the designer. The work was begun about four weeks ago, and with the exception of the wing-walls at the north end, it is about finished. These wing-walls are for the purpose of sending the ice and water from the sides of the creek into the centre. Railings have also to be added.

The bridge is apparently a serviceable one. It is 175 feet long on one side and 165 feet on the other, and has a span of 27 feet. The Kahn system of reinforced concrete has been used in its structure and this is guaranteed to last. It is similar to the one recently build on King street by day labour and also by the same foreman.

Mr. Thomas Brightman, proprietor of the tannery to the south of the bridge, is extending the west concrete abutment to his dam, which will enclose that side in a straight and regular channel.

SUCCESS OF THE PETERBOROUGH INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION DEPENDS ON CITIZENS' ATTENDANCE

The citizens of Peterborough have a duty to perform in connection with the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition—that is, if they desire to see it a success. The Exhibition opens next Thursday, and on Friday morning will be in full swing. The success depends on the number of entries and the number of persons present—principally the latter. It is the duty of every citizen of Peterborough to attend the Fair on either Friday or Saturday, and also for him to take along with him as many visitors and friends as he can gather together. Tell your customers and those you meet on the street that the Fair is going to be a splendid one—for it is—and fill the grounds both days. The crowd alone will make everybody proclaim it a good Exhibition, and if the business men of the city as well as other citizens will do all the "boosting" they can, it will work wonders.

If the whole population of Peterborough would turn out during the last two days, what an Exhibition we would have. The attendance from the country would produce the surplus.

THE SMITH, ENNISMORE AND LAKEFIELD AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY TO HOLD EXHIBITION SEPT. 29-30

The attention of the Examiner's readers residing in the division comprising the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society, is called to the fact that the exhibition this year will be held on Sept. 29 and 30. Efforts are being made to increase the membership and place the standing of this sterling old society upon a sound basis. All farmers and others are urged to become members and thus assist in improving the exhibition by permitting the offering of better prizes and attracting a larger attendance. The society's new buildings and grounds, coupled with the co-operation of all concerned in promoting the success of the show, will make the fortieth exhibition a great success. Let every farmer in the district enroll his name as a member.

DIVERSION OF MASON'S CREEK; AN IMPORTANT CITY ACCOMPLISHMENT

The diversion of Mason's Creek which originally ran down through the city and emptied into Patterson's creek on Bethune street has been one of the chief accomplishments of the Board of Works this year. This stream has been continually giving trouble, especially during the time of the spring freshets, when cellars along McDonel street between Bethune and Aylmer streets were flooded, as well as outside property.

Its course has been changed. Instead of coming down the side of the Lakefield Grand Trunk track and down Aylmer street to McDonel and thence to the creek, it has been diverted to run along Argyle street and eastward to the river. A 36-inch pipe has been laid, and as this has the same sectional area as the one that carried the water across the G. T. R. tracks for years, no trouble is anticipated in getting all the water safely to the river. Mason's creek takes its rise up in Smith township.

ARM WAS BROKEN AT CAMP DURING THE BIG SHAM BATTLE

At Camp Barrisfield on Thursday Gunner Hagley, of this city, had his right wrist broken during the big sham fight. He was putting a brake on one of the wheels when his arm was caught, with the result above mentioned. He was taken to the military station hospital and is still there.

SUN SPOTS SEEN BY THE NAKED EYE WERE OF VERY LARGE PROPORTIONS

Many saw the sun spots last night with the naked eye. Dr. Marsh, Springville, photographed them and measures about 100,000 miles by 20,000 miles in diameter at the widest point. This spot together with a number in the immediate vicinity measure about 160,000 miles by 20,000 miles. Another spot nearby is about 18,000 by 18,000 miles in size.

THOROUGHBRED HEREFORDS FROM SASKATCHEWAN FOR LOCAL FARM

Four car loads of thoroughbred Herefords have been received by Mr. Mousom Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, from his ranch near Prince Albert, Sask. They are in good condition, but will be given more care at Mr. Boyd's farm at Cayegeon, as they are to be sold at the Windsor market. They are fine looking cattle, and when ready for the market should be an unusual sight in this district.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY TO CAVANVILLE YOUTH; KILLED RETURNING FROM KINGSTON

Port Hope, Sept. 12.—(Special)—Henry Neville, aged 22 years, of Cavanville, a popular young farmer, well known in Millbrook, was instantly killed here last night, when he jumped from a freight train going west and was struck by an eastbound light engine. The accident occurred near the Port Hope station. Neville had been at camp in Kingston, cooking for the officers of the 10th Brigade, and came up on the freight to catch his companions on an earlier train. He was a noted solo singer in the countryside.

It is learned in Peterborough that Neville was a member of the 27th Field Battery, in command of Major Young. He was of English birth and comes from a highly respected family in the Old Country. Last summer he worked in Cavan for Mr. Thos. Hetherly. This year he has been staying with Mr. Robert Hutchinson, Cavanville, who has taken charge of the body.

Young Neville, it is said, joined the A. O. U. W. last June and has $1,000 life insurance with that society. It is also stated that he was to have been married in the near future to a Cavan lady, to whom he has left the insurance.

A SWIMMING POOL

WOULD BE ATTRACTION

Inverlea Park next summer will likely have a wading pool for small children if the intentions now under consideration are carried out. The park has always been exceedingly popular, but with a sandy pool in which the safety of the children is almost absolutely assured, it should have a greater patronage than in the past.

An arrangement was made between the Hydraulic Power Company and the officials of the park whereby the former agreed to build a wall along the shore to protect it from being washed away by the water, as the company may have to raise or lower it above their dam, according to their requirements for running their plant.

Accordingly, the wall is now in course of construction. A large gang of the company's men have it well under way. It is of cement and is about four feet high. It is 18 inches thick at the top, but gradually increases as the foundation is reached. It commences at the Smith street bridge, extending around the bend of the park about 500 feet.

The Wading Pool

This wall is built far enough out in the water to provide for a bathing pool on the inside. It is understood that the park management will clean out the bottom from the wall to the shore for some distance, and then spread sand and small gravel. This it is believed will make one of the finest pools for small children that can be found anywhere.

A MEMORIAL ISSUE

South African Newspaper Deals With Reigns of the Late Queen Victoria and King Edward—Belongs to Mr. D. Spence

A GREAT LITERARY CURIO

We are apt to regard Canada, in the language of the schoolboy orator, as "the brightest jewel in the British crown." While that is true, there are others of the British dominions beyond the seas that have a brightness of their own, and are progressive, enterprising and prosperous. Mr. David Spence, 530 Bethune street, who has a passion for literary and other curios, has shown the Examiner a copy of a memorial number of the Natal "Witness"—an Empire Day number, issued on May 25, which would do credit to any country in its typographical and special features. It is eight pages, 21x26 inches, and its distinguishing characteristic is a contrast of the reigns of Queen Victoria and King Edward, profusely illustrated, not only as to well written letter press, but with excellent engravings. One page is topped with the coats-of-arms of the various colonies, that of Canada occupying a conspicuous place, the place of honour in the middle. If this memorial number is taken as an evidence of progress and advancement in Natal, this younger of the dominions beyond the seas gives proof that the Empire is growing in greatness throughout all the world-encircling band of red. Mr. Spence proposes to add this Natal memorial issue to the many contributions of interest he has made to the Victoria Museum.

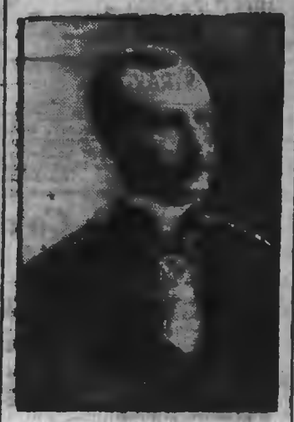
THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH IS FORTUNATE REGARDING ITS SPLENDID SUPPLY OF WATER

Owing to the increased consumption of water by the National Exhibition, the City of Toronto are asked to cease watering their lawns till the Exhibition closes. What a sight the city will be in a few days with this dry and scorching weather. We could not think of that in Peterborough. Under the recent and existing weather conditions it seems almost impossible to keep lawns green.

The drouth is indeed becoming serious. On unoccupied premises or where city water is not available, shrubs and small trees, not deeply rooted, are dying with shrivelled, drooping leaves as it scorched by a blast of flames. In country districts remote from streams, farmers' stock is suffering from lack of water, pastures are burned to brown wastes, milk supply is decreased and the dairying interest suffers. It is now nearly, if not quite two months, since any rain worth mentioning has fallen in this district. We, of the city are fortunate in having an excellent and reliable water works system, backed by a practically inexhaustable supply. It measures had not been taken to conserve the water in our northern lakes and streams we might, at times like this not have had water enough to turn the wheels.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL WILL BE OPENED ON TUESDAY NEXT; DESCRIPTION OF THE BUILDING

THE HEAD OF CITY'S NEW NORMAL SCHOOL TO OPEN ON TUESDAY



MR. DUNCAN WALKER, B.A., Principal of the Normal School.

150 Pupils Are Expected—They Will Find a Building Modernly Constructed in Every Particular

SOMETHING ABOUT STAFF

The commodious new Normal School in Dixon Park will be open for use on Tuesday of next week when Principal Walker and the staff will be ready to meet their pupils. The interior of the building will not be completed by that time but will be far enough advanced to begin the school work and the pupils will not be handicapped in any way. The building is certainly a credit to the city both in appearance and in point of usefulness. The exterior is particularly handsome. A splendid porch surrounded by massive cement pillars makes the main entrance very ornate while the whole building which is of Milton brick with the window frames and coverings of cement presents a very attractive appearance. An Examiner reporter visited the school yesterday afternoon and was kindly shown around the building by Principal Walker. The furniture is just being installed, but it was possible to form a good idea of the building as it will be when completed. The interior is finished in Canadian pine with hardwood floors and metal ceiling, and is bright and attractive in appearance.

In the basement are situated the gymnasium, two manual training rooms, the boys' lavatory, a janitor's store room, and another room for the use of the janitor, a boiler room, a fresh air room, for ventilation purposes. The gymnasium is located in the north-east corner of the building, and is a commodious room, in which free gymnastics will be taught. The manual training rooms are large and well lighted, and should admirably suit the purpose for which they are intended. The lavatories are of most modern construction, with tiled floors and walls, and marble partitions. There are two immense boilers in the basement, manufactured by the Jenkes Machinery Company, of St. Catharines. The fan ventilating system will be used throughout the building.

Ground Floor

The ground floor contains a library, three class rooms and the principal's room, the secretary's room, a cloak room, which will be fitted out with individual lockers, instead of the old style clothes hooks. The library is a splendid room of large proportions, and lighted by no less than nine windows. The class rooms are large, and the matter of light and ventilation has been carefully looked after.

On the second floor are two class rooms, a lecture room, with raised seats, a science room, with an apparatus room in connection with it, ladies' cloak room, a male teachers' room and a lady teachers' room. The science room is fitted out with two large tables and is admirably suited for the teaching of practical science work.

The feature of the top storey is a magnificent assembly hall, in proportions somewhat larger than that of the new Collegiate Institute, and equipped with a commodious stage. The hall will be arranged to seat 400 people, but there is space enough to accommodate twice that number. The assembly hall, however, does not take up all the room on the top storey, as there is an art room in the north-east corner lighted by seven windows and a sky-light. This room will be equipped with individual drawing desks. South of it is situated the domestic science kitchen, or drawing room, and adjoining the domestic science room itself.

It has been necessary to cut down most of the trees in the Park, and men are at work just now in grading the grounds properly. It is the intention to terrace the land surrounding the school.

Some twenty-five or thirty pupils have already made application for admission, and it is expected that there will be about 150 in all when the school opens. The Peterborough school is intended to accommodate one-half of the eastern portion of the province, the other half being looked after by the Ottawa school. On the opening of the school next week there will be an examination to complete the entrance qualifications for those who come from other than approved schools.

Students in Grade A, who are pupils who have attended Model School, taught for a year or more, are ex-

NO CRIMINAL CASES

LOCAL MONEY CONTROVERSY

On Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock the autumn Assizes open. They will be presided over by Mr. Justice Magee and will be heard by a jury. There are four cases on the list, two of which are of such a nature that they will be tried jointly, making practically only three. There are no criminal cases on the docket.

Port Hope Brewing & Malting Co. Limited, versus Manley E. Fox. In this case the plaintiffs claim that the defendant, Mr. E. Fox, Trenton, entered into an agreement with them to become a shareholder in the Port Hope Brewing & Malting Co., Limited, to the amount of two shares, valued at $200. This the defendant has not done, and they claim $200 with interest amounting to $27.60, and the costs of the action. Defendant denies that he ever executed such an agreement as alleged, or that if he did the plaintiffs were not a properly constituted incorporated body. O'Connell & Gordon for plaintiffs; Archie Abbott, Trenton, for defence.

Perthusia McIlmoyle and Harriet Bell versus William J. Baker. The plaintiffs reside in Peterborough and Smith, respectively; the defendant a farmer residing in Smith. The defendant is the son of Margaret Baker, deceased, her executors being the plaintiffs. The Plaintiffs allege that W. J. Baker, by undue influence when his mother was feeble and near her death, did induce her to sign a cheque on the Dominion Bank in his favour for the sum of $1,500, which he cashed and still retains.

The defence deny the allegation and claim that Mrs. Baker fully understood what she was doing and that she gave him the amount as a mark

CAVALRY RETURN IN 10 HOURS

From 8 a.m. to 10.30 p.m. is the time spent by C Squadron of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons in returning from Kingston yesterday, according to one of the officers. Their opinion of the G.T.R. service is not at present very pleasant, as yesterday's experience is still too recent. After many stops they arrived in Port Hope at 4.30 and the train pulled into Peterborough at 10.30 after almost six hours on that division. Not only that, but the men say that no lights were provided in the cars, and when night fell they were in darkness.

The horses had been fed at 3.30 on Friday morning and had received nothing during the day. The camp itself was one of the best the Dragoons have participated in and was thoroughly enjoyed.

LACK OF RAIN IS BAD FOR CROPS

"We certainly need rain, and we need it badly," was the reply of more than one farmer at the market this morning, to the query of an Examiner reporter.

"The ground is as parched as it could possibly be," said a man from Otonabee, "and the farmers are worrying about their fall work. It is almost impossible to do any of the fall seeding, as the ground cannot be broken with a plough. Besides the seed planted several weeks ago has shown no signs of sprouting. The root crop is also suffering. The potatoes are not so bad as they are ready to be taken in, but the turnips, etc., are looking dried up and are not advancing.

"The water for stock is in places running dry. Yes," he concluded, "a day's rain would just do a world of good, and relieve an anxiety that is becoming general."

HE THOUGHT LOCAL MAN WAS BLISS

Mr. "Jack" Crough, well known in local athletic circles, has returned from a trip to Toronto where he had a funny experience the other day by being mistaken for Mr. Raffles, or Billy Bliss, as he is commonly known.

One young man put his hand on Jack's shoulder and said, "You are the mysterious Mr. Raffles." Mr. Crough explained that he was not and that he was deaf. The amateur detective was very much astonished but not more so than Mr. Crough when he found that the "sleuth" could talk with his fingers. "Jack" denied the accusation, but it was some time before he could convince the youth that he was not Mr. Raffles. There were others with the man who thought he had won the prize and one followed the Peterborough youth for an hour before he was satisfied.

NAG AND A WAGGON ARE MISSING

"Well, that beats the d——." This was the laconic expression that fell from the lips of a startled-looking employee of a local bread manufacturer this afternoon as he emerged from the alleyway of a Hunter street hotel, to find that his horse and delivery waggon were gone. He almost ran over a reporter in getting onto the street.

"Guess I've been talking to the girls too long," he confessed with a blushing face and off he went westward along Hunter street in search of the missing "nag" and bread waggon. Through lanes to the rear of houses he went, carrying his almost empty basket and inquiring from every pedestrian about the departed beast. On reaching Aylmer street he turned the corner and was lost to view.

BARN USED BY BAND OF THIEVES

A number of boys while playing near a barn in the southwest part of the city a few days ago discovered a number of articles in the barn which would apparently indicate that it was the rendezvous of a gang of thieves. Two baskets of Lombard plums and a large piece of roast beef were among the things found and the gang have evidently been using the barn as a place in which to dispose of their spoil. It is not known where these articles were obtained.

There are some very bad boys in the city who resort to every method of petty thieving, and no doubt one of these gangs has seized upon the empty barn as an admirable place for the storing of such loot as they may pick up in the course of their rambling.

A case was heard at Police Court this morning in which five boys were charged with housebreaking. During the hearing of the case the Magistrate remarked that he had never heard of such thieving before.

FIRE ALARM BOXES; HOW TO OPERATE THEM

Chief Howard is writing letters to the press, explaining the manner of using the fire alarm boxes. This is all very well as far as it goes. But it is suggested that these directions should be placed in an always accessible form. Print the directions, brief and clearly expressed, in strong type on cards, and place these cards on every alarm box so that the street lights will strike them at night. Thus any person on the street having cause to send in an alarm has plain directions always available.

A GOVERNMENT OF PROGRESS

The twelve year record of the Laurier Government represents an era of progress, which brightens as it goes. While the whole twelve year period has been marked by advancement, the progress represented by the Government's achievement for the past four years is notable—progress in the work of building up and settling the West, progress with the Transcontinental Railway and all the possibilities of progress its construction implies; progress in the evolution of Canadian nationhood; progress in the enactment of legislation to promote industrial peace and the welfare of the workers. Praise is due the bridge that carries us safely over the stream and into the land of hope and an ever-widening horizon of advance.

OUTLOOK IMPROVING.

Indications are not wanting, either locally or generally, that times are "on the mend." From the local point of view, these consist in a perceptible stiffening of property values and renewed activity in real estate transactions. Messrs. Blewett and Middleton, real estate agents, say that there have been more real estate changes in the past three weeks than in the three months previous. In the vicinity of the new Normal School buildings several residences are in course of erection, and there is a considerable activity in building in the western and southwestern sections of the city. The new Methodist church and the fine new Roman Catholic church in the south end are important additions to our public buildings. The new curling rink on Charlotte street, the reconstruction of the Peterborough Cereal Company's buildings, the new furniture factory buildings in East City, the new buildings for the Diamond Caulk Horseshoe Company, and for the Collier-Cunningham Company, electrical devices; the new buildings of the Peterborough Lubricator Company, the new cold storage establishment of Scott and Hogg, East City; the new buildings for the German Cardboard Company, and, not the least important, the project for the establishment of a great manufacturing concern on the lines of the late William Hamilton Company, indicate a return of confidence and hope for the future.

As to the general outlook, that, too, is promising. One of the best tests of quickening commercial and industrial activity, railway freight business, shows a decided improvement; the resumption of work at the Steel Rail and Steel Works at the Soo, a fortnight before the time recently set—September 15 instead of October 1—owing to rush orders for steel rails, including 15,000 tons of steel rails for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, is a further indication of improving times, and the latter item serves to show how the construction of the Transcontinental Railway helps to promote industrial and commercial activity. A further indication added to many others which might be mentioned is that furnished by Mr. Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, who, on completing at Regina a tour of his system, says that the good harvest in the West will go far to relieve the money stringency and promote the return of normal good times.

AFTER THE HORSE IS STOLEN.

The steam roller with the front wheels armed with spikes is ripping up and rolling down Aylmer street from Simcoe to Hunter street. This is a commendable proceeding, but it is very like locking the stable after the horse is stolen. A few years ago Aylmer street was beautifully metalled and made such a splendid driving service, that horsemen could hardly be prevented from using it as a speeding track; but it was left severely alone by the street authorities, and the surface became broken up and filled with holes, making necessary the work now going on. If this street had been properly cared for—it, when depressions developed they had been treated to a little finely broken street metal from time to time, the street would have been in as good condition now as the day it was completed. Not only this, but the public would have had the continuous use of a smooth-driving highway and would not have had to bump through mudholes as they have had to do the past two or three years.

Repair to highways is as important and indespensable as care in original construction. With very little care from time to time they can be kept in first-class condition. But, if they are allowed to deteriorate without timely repair, they go from bad to worse, and nothing short of complete reconstruction will serve. The present way of pricking the street surface and rolling, as on Aylmer street, is not effective. It makes a nice looking and smooth surface for a time; but the holes being filled with loose material which cannot be reached by the roller on account of the surrounding hard surface, are not cured—a little traffic settles the material and we have them appear again in a few days. The only way is to give the street surface constant supervision and timely repair, something which costs but little, and is effective. The railways do things better; they have section men, and that name explains everything. The whole track for thousands of miles is under constant supervision and is KEPT in repair. The railways do not do this altogether out of deference to the bones of the passengers. They keep the track in good repair and smooth for the benefit of their rolling stock, the wear and tear being greatly intensified by a rough track. The object of the streets is for the use of vehicles; if they are kept smooth and in good repair, there is less wear and tear of horse flesh and vehicles, saving of time, and those who use them get good value for their money, contributed in the way of taxes, to provide good streets. So far as this object is not gained is the money spent on streets, wasted. We shall never have good streets till some intelligent system is substituted for the hap-hazard and perfunctory way in which work is done upon street works. At present, and for years, the only object seems to have been to spend money and do the work—someway—without due regard to the sole object of street work—providing a smooth, permanent and continuously good driving surface. No one City Council is responsible for the defective conditions that prevail. They have been in existence for years. What is wanted is a complete revolution in the methods of dealing with our streets, the adoption of a system and the best that can be devised, and strict adherence to it. The city fathers should call Mr. A W Campbell, Provincial Road Instructor, into consultation.

THE REMEDY.

A paragraph in an Ottawa paper of late date states that there are two hundred men thrown out of employment by the closing of the J. R. Booth pulp mills and a part of the saw mill on account of low water in the Ottawa River, and the Ottawa Power Company is running at half capacity from the same cause. This is in doleful contrast to Peterborough, where there is yet abundance of water in the Otonabee for both navigation and power purposes. Both the Trent Valley and Ottawa Valley water sheds are subject to the same meteorological conditions, yet we find this sharp difference. The manufacturers and users of power in Peterborough can now better appreciate the advantages they derive from a proper system of water conservation. Not many years ago the conditions that are paralyzing manufacturers and forcing breadwinners into idleness, in Ottawa, were in play in Peterborough. Now all is changed. We have a reasonably steady flow of water at all times of the year. This result has not arrived without doing something. Three or four years ago Hon. Mr. Stratton then Provincial Secretary, secured the assent of the Provincial Government to the transfer of the Trent water system — about 140 square miles, or 90,000 acres, to Dominion jurisdiction. This permitted of the adoption of system-of-ic measures of conservation by the strengthening of reservoirs in the north, implied in the maintenance and care of thirty-two dams which create reservoirs to hold water to be released as needed during the season. Since Mr. M J Butler, C. E., has been Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, the work of improving and extending the reservoir system has been energetically pursued. Upwards of $10,000 per year has been expended upon this work which is still going forward. With proper reservoirs the work of water regulation is easy; we have the waste of water in spring checked and a more uniform flow maintained throughout the season. The regulation of the volume of water available will be made easier when the work of canal construction is completed, the height of the water often being regulated by the demands of construction work. As the dams are added to, or the existing ones made more effective the volume of water available will be largely increased. The transfer of these waters to Dominion jurisdiction and the consequent improved conservation and regulation have not only improved conditions for power producers and manufacturers, but removed one of the stock objections of opponents of the Trent Canal—alleged insufficiency of water for navigation purposes. If the Ottawa Valley and tributary waters were transferred from the Public Works Department to the Department of Railways and Canals, they could and doubtless would, be soon subjected to the same conservation conditions, with similar happy results—the water supply would not be rushed off in spring but held back for release as needed, a regular and sufficient flow assured throughout the year and periods of drought like the present would lose their terrors for power owners and power users. The people of this district do not always realize what they owe to their representatives who watch over their interests and to the Government which heeds representations made and provides the conditions that make for the good of the community.

of her esteem and for past considerations. Dumble & Johnston for plaintiffs; Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr, for defence.

Dr. T. W. H. Young, versus the Dominion Engineering and Construction Co., Limited. The plaintiff claims $301 for giving medical attention to David J. Moore, who was injured on May 9, 1907, while engaged in the work of building at the C. G. E. establishment, which work was being done by the defendants.

The defence's statement of the claim is that the Dominion Engineering and Construction Company had entered into a contract with the C. G. E. Company, Limited, for the construction of the building, and that while engaged in these operations injuries were sustained by David J. Moore, an employee of the Canadian General Electric Co. They claim that plaintiff was regularly employed by the C. G. E. Co., and that if he rendered medical aid he did so in pursuance of his duties as doctor for the company. R. F. McWilliams for the plaintiff; Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr for the Dominion Engineering and Construction Co., and Kerr, Davidson Paterson and McFarland, Toronto, for the third party — the C. G. E. Company.

WEDDING BELLS

NICHOLLS—BREWER

A quiet wedding was celebrated on Saturday, September 6th, at All Saints' rectory, when Miss Mary Brewer, daughter of Mr. Charles Brewer, Alfred street, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Nicholls, of Campbellford. Rev. Mr. Major performed the ceremony at 11 a. m., in the presence of a few immediate friends. The bride, who was unattended, was attired in a suit of fawn lady's cloth and wore a becoming white hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls left on the noon G. T. R. train for Toronto and Hamilton. They will reside in Campbellford.

FOR SUNDAY READING

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

The questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club for Sunday, September 13, are as follows:

David made King over Judah and Israel. II Sam. 2: 1-7; 5: 1-5.

Golden Text — David went on and grew great, and the Lord God of Hosts was with him. II Sam. v:10.

Verse 1 — Did David expect a definite and clear-cut answer from the Lord in response to his enquiry?

What method did God probably take to answer David's two matter-of-fact questions?

Is it reasonable, or is it fanatical, to expect God to definitely answer similar matter-of-fact questions to-day?

If our first answer from God is not clear and full, ought we to keep on asking until we are satisfied? (See I Sam. iii:21, xiv:37, xxiii:2, iv:9-12.)

Verse 2 — Was God pleased or displeased with David for having so many wives?

What is the evidence, from the Bible, that God has planned for one man to be the husband only of one wife?

Is polygamy always wrong, and monogamy always right, under any and all circumstances, and why?

Verses 3-4 — How long before this did David know that he was going to be king? I Sam. xvi: 1-13.

Does God ever give a personal promise in these days, and will He ever fail in its fulfilment?

What are the chief human qualities which are necessary in order to have success in life?

Chapter 5

Verse 1 — Why did not God make David king of Israel at the time he made him king of Judah, eight years previously?

Can God always bring things to pass when he desires, regardless of what men do?

Why is it, and is it always right, that we should favour those who are "our bone and flesh" more than we do others?

Verse 3 — Is real ability and merit always, or generally, rewarded in this world?

To what extent does it depend upon ourselves as to our promotion or success in life? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the Club.)

Verse 3 — God had planned that David should be king over all Israel, has He in like manner a plan for the life of every man?

Need there be any doubt on the part of any of us that we shall fulfil our high destiny in life?

Verses 4-5 — At what period in life is a healthy man at his best?

What is your estimate of David's character as an individual man?

Lesson for Sunday, September 20, 1908, is the Review for the past quarter.

Public weeknight meetings at 8.00 p. m. on Monday, Thursday and Saturday. Everybody welcome.

FAITH VS. DOUBT.

(J. Miles Chambers, M.R.C.S., Eng., L.R.C.P., London in the Christian Science Sentinel)

Most people are familiar with the story of Peter's attempt to walk on the water, but the Master's gentle rebuke for his failure to continue doing so, is of special interest to Christian Scientists. Jesus said to Peter, "O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?" There are perhaps very few if any of us, who, even if bidden by the Master himself, as Peter was, to come to Him on the water, would attempt to do so without considerable feeling of doubt. There are also very few who would attempt to put into practice, with any hope of success, the words of Jesus "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you." These words were uttered to the disciples when they asked for an explanation of their failure to heal a lunatic, and we, like they, seek to know why we ever fail to carry out an earnest desire to heal a disease, or it may be to change a discordant circumstance.

As Christians we believe the words of Jesus to be absolutely true; as Christian Scientists we know that the immutable, perfect law of God can bring about the desired result as a natural outcome of that law, and not as a miracle, but as mortals we find that the result does not always appear. Why is this so when we ask only for what we believe to be good, when we do all we can to increase our faith, but still we do not achieve the result? Why did Peter fail? Where was his faith weak? Peter did not doubt Jesus' word or power. He had just seen Jesus himself walking on the sea, and had received the command "Come" direct from the Master himself; therefore there was every reason, humanly speaking, why he should not entertain the doubt which was evidently responsible for his failure.

Peter's first thought, doubtless, when he essayed to carry out the command, was one of implicit faith in Jesus, and consequently he "walked on the water," but when he took in the evidence of the senses, "when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid." Why was he afraid? Here again he should still have had faith, for he had himself proved that he could walk on the water, and his faith should have been strengthened, not diminished. It is very likely that he was afraid because the thought which he unwittingly allowed to dominate his consciousness was not based on the Principle of being, but was derived from the evidence of his physical senses; and this evidence ousted the thought of faith in God and put on one side the divine law under which Jesus was safe a few yards away from Peter. In reality, Peter was under the same law, but had no faith in it. His faith immediately reverted to the so-called law of nature, and his sinking was the outward expression of his belief that material law was the true law; every thought in Peter's consciousness being that this action was performed under the guidance of asserted laws, the belief in which had been ingrained into him since he first began to think at all.

Peter's physical senses witnessed to the fact that Jesus could walk on the water, and also that he himself could do so, but he concluded that this was due to Jesus' miraculous power, not that it was in accordance with the laws of omnipotent Principle. Hence the failure; it was not doubt of Jesus' word which caused him to sink, but belief in a law other than the true law of Life and its spiritual processes. So it is to-day with mortals who try to move the mountains and even the mole-hills of daily life; they meet them with a belief in God's word word and God's love, but with a yet stronger belief in the action of material law. To gain a faith which will not fail to perform works, we must start by learning anew the true laws which govern the universe and man, and apply them day by day to every detail of life, until this application gives us a new set of results from which we shall form our conclusions of the facts of Life eternal as it is here and now; and these conclusions will be the ones which will present themselves to our consciousness immediately a thought is taken up in place of the conclusions deduced from the premise of belief of life in matter, and they will guide our actions accordingly.

The demonstrations which we are called upon to make are mechanically frequently to be made by faith based on knowledge gained by living our understanding of eternal Life, than by one great act of faith in the omnipotence and love of God. Every application of divine law to our actions, whether small or great, will add to our faith, and by degrees we shall be able to demonstrate that "nothing is impossible" unto us and we shall reap the full benefit of the promise, "All things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive."

WHAT IS MAN?

So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him: male and female created He them.—Genesis I: 27

I gravely question what is man?
Where shall I for the answer look?
Where in the universal plan?
Where else but in God's sacred book?

I take the chart and early find
The answer to my query writ,
Man's origin and man defined
In words that can no doubt admit.

In God's own image man was made,
By Him created, God hath said;
None can deny and none evade
The record that my eyes have read.

And God reviewed His work, 'tis writ;
Saw everything that He had made;
Approved and fully sanctioned it;
His "very good" in truth is stayed.

Is man God's image still, I ask?
God's likeness doth man still reflect?
Has aught annulled the Maker's task?
Does God His likeness now reject?

Why should not man his birthright claim,
With Christ joint - heirship, as He said;
And count distrust man's greatest shame—
Stand nobly in the Saviour's stead?

What is God like? Where shall I look
But to the image He hath made?
A god-like man fulfils the book,
Who perfect is, as man was made.

God's idea is man's true ideal,
Reflecting e'er his Maker, God;
Man's sonship is as nobly real
As is the fatherhood of God.

Man's ideal is God's image true,
The answer to my question grave;
And God His likeness doth renew
When man his likeness strives to save.

Nor church nor creed defies the man,
Except as Christ the pattern sets;
Unfolds the great Creator's plan,
Shows us the man—that Love begets.

FIRES IN MINNESOTA.

Grand Marais and Beaver Bay Burning—Flames Spreading.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 12.—Beaver Bay, on the north shore of Lake Superior, 90 miles northeast of Duluth, is reported to be burning.

The citizens have appealed to Governor Johnson for aid.

The Booth ship America has gone to the rescue.

Forest fires rage all over Lake and Cook Counties. Hundreds of homesteads have been burned and 2,000 people are homeless.

The town appears to be doomed and it is feared that before morning 1,500 people will be homeless there.

DROWNED DURING FIRE.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Joseph F. Passmore, 361 East Gerrard street, was drowned and about $30,000 damage done to property in a fire which broke out at E. Housey's boathouse at the Queen's Wharf, foot of Bathurst street, yesterday morning. Forty launches, boats and canoes were destroyed, including the fleet of the Toronto Motor Boat Club.

Among those who set to work to rescue launches was Joseph Passmore. He owned a launch which he kept at the Housey boathouse. Passmore fell into the water, and when taken out ten minutes later efforts to restore consciousness failed.

An Italian's Revenge.

Heidelberg, Sept. 12.—An act of revenge on the part of an Italian laborer, because he considered he had been dismissed without cause, has cost the Government of Baden the sum of $875,000.

The Government has been constructing a railroad tunnel through Black Forest Mountains, working in from each end to meet the centre. It was discovered yesterday that the two halves which should come together at the village of Forbach, miss each other by two feet. The reason is a mistake in the survey, which arose from the purposeful misplacing of a surveying pin. The act was the work of the Italian who had a grudge against the Government.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather months. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets cure these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent the trouble coming on. And the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that the Tablets contain no opiate or harmful drug. Mrs. Geo. Mineault, Jr., Mont Louis, Que., says:—"Before giving Baby's Own Tablets to my little one she suffered greatly from colic and stomach troubles, and cried a great deal. The Tablets soon cured her and she is now a plump, healthy child who does not look as though she ever had an hour's illness." You can get the Tablets from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Catarrh, the Bane of the World
Pe-ru-na, the Standard Remedy.

HOT WEATHER CATARRH.

Affects the Stomach, Kidneys, Bowels, Pelvic Organs.

COLD WEATHER CATARRH.

Affects the Head, Throat, Lungs, Bronchial Tubes.

Catarrh is recognized all over the civilized world as a formidable disease. In the United States alone, two hundred thousand people have catarrh annually. In other countries the ratio of victims is as great.

For many years Pe-ru-na has held the foremost place as a standard remedy for catarrh.

Pe-ru-na is well-known in both the western and eastern hemispheres.

RECEPTION GIVEN TO NEW PASTOR

Congregation of Park Street Baptist Church Welcome Rev. Mr. Riddiford

An enjoyable evening was spent at Park Street Baptist Church last night, when a welcome reception was given to the new pastor, Rev. W. C. Riddiford and his wife. The church was appropriately decorated with the season's flowers. Tea was served from 7 to 8 o'clock and the congregation was largely represented. Addresses of welcome were made by Rev. J. R. Webb, Rev. Mr. Jones, of Lakefield, and Rev. Mr. Bonner, of Gilmour Memorial. Rev. Mr. Riddiford made a feeling reply. He was pleased with the heartiness of the welcome, and thanked the congregation and visiting pastors for their kind words.

A musical programme was presented during the evening. The choir and a male quartette were heard several times. Mr. J. Miller gave a cornet solo and with Miss Hall sang a duet that was well received.

Mr. Harry W. Cooke to Begin Studies for Course in Engineering.

Mr. Harry Cooke, who, for the last two years has been on the office staff of the C. G. E. Works, left to-day for Belleville to begin his studies at Albert College. He will ultimately take up a course in engineering. During his sojourn in Peterborough Mr. Cooke has won for himself a host of friends, who, while regretting his departure extend to him their best wishes of success. He possesses a marked musical ability, having played a clarionet in the 57th Regimental Band, and was connected with the Mandolin Club, having frequently appeared with them in concert. He should be a valuable member of the College Glee Club.

ANOTHER GERM DESTROYER

Herpicide is Death to Dandruff Germs

The germ burrows into the scalp, throwing up the cuticle in thin scales, called dandruff or scurf, and digging at the root of the hair, where it saps the hair's vitality. First comes brittle hair, then lustreless and dead-like hair, then falling hair, and finally baldness. Nine-tenths of the hair troubles are caused by dandruff. Without dandruff, hair will grow luxuriantly as nature intended. "Herpicide" kills the dandruff germ, leaving the hair to grow unhampered as it does with the American redman. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1. UNVEILING OF THE LATE DR. BRADD'S MONUMENT

At the regular meeting of Sherwood Forest Camp, W. O. W., on Monday night, it is expected that the business will be of more than usual interest, and a large turnout of Woodmen are expected. Arrangements will be perfected for the unveiling of the late Dr. Bradd's monument, which will take place on Sunday afternoon, September 20th, in the Little Lake Cemetery. A number of the head officers will be present to assist in the impressive ceremony.

An express train running 60 miles an hour without stopping for 25 hours would just travel the distance covered by the packets (placed end to end) sold in one year of "Salada" Tea. Annual sale exceeds eighteen million packets. 71

A MARTYR TO SCIENCE.

An Interesting Interview with Dr. Hall Edwards.

The other day at Sheffield, says a writer, during the meetings of the British Medical Association in that city, I had a chat with Dr. J. Hall Edwards, of Birmingham, whose virtual martyrdom in the cause of X-ray science has lately evoked so much interest. One might almost call him a pathetic figure, as he took his place among his fellow surgeons, did not his cheery face and good-humoured manner belie the description. The public know that one arm has been amputated at the elbow, and the four fingers of the other hand have also been sacrificed, but he still congratulates himself that he has got one thumb left, and that it possesses good movement. He is very much touched by the messages of sympathy that have reached him, and an honour that has given him great pleasure is the bestowal upon him of the Honorary Fellowship of the Royal Photographic Society.

Speaking of his present condition, Dr. Hall-Edwards says that the stump of his left arm is exceedingly tender and painful, and any movement of the shoulder joint increases the discomfort, which is continuous, and attacks of spasmodic twitching come on at intervals. But, so far, there is no sign of recurrence of the dermatitis.

Like a true hero, instead of bemoaning his own misfortunes, Dr. Hall-Edwards has set himself to consider ways and means of protection for other X-ray workers, and at one of the Sheffield meetings he read a paper on this subject. A short time ago the statement was made with some authority that X-ray warts were the result of developing photographic plates after exposure to the rays, and that one might use the tube with impunity, so long as one refrained from developing the plates afterwards. Dr. Hall-Edwards does not think that this can be the case, and he says that workers who have only used the fluorescent screen and not the plates at all, have also become victims of chronic dermatitis.

His own idea of protection is to have large screens composed of wood, covered with thin sheet lead, containing a window of lead glass of sufficient size to allow the operator to watch the patient. One of these screens should be placed on each side of the X-ray installation, and the switches for manipulating the apparatus should be placed behind the screen, so that the doctor need not come into the path of the rays at all. Dr. Hall-Edwards says that there is scarcely a hospital in the provinces and very few in London, where proper protection is provided for X-ray workers, and he suggests that Parliament should be called upon to move in the matter.

At the same time, lest anyone should run away with the idea that the X-rays had best be shunned altogether, it ought in fairness to be pointed out that some people appear to be marked out as victims, while others, with comparatively slight protection, use the rays without injury. Possibly a difference in the skin of tissues accounts for it. The man who ought to go to any length in protecting himself, supposing that he is forced to continue using the rays at all, is a man whose hands show the early signs of dermatitis. For the rest, ordinary methods of protection are quite sufficient.

IMPORTANT DAY IN HISTORY OF NORWOOD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO BE CELEBRATED

Examiner Special

Norwood, Sept. 12.—In 1846 Rev. J. M. Roger of Peterborough organized the Presbyterians of this neighbourhood into a congregation, although for some years before he had given occasional services. To-morrow, Sept. 20, and Monday, the 21st, the Presbyterians of Norwood will celebrate this event in connection with the re-opening of their church which for some weeks has been in the hands of the decorators. Rev. A K McLeod, B.A., of Brighton will preach morning and evening. On Monday evening a social and reunion will be held and addresses appropriate to the occasion are expected to be made by Rev. Mr. McLeod, Mr. G. M. Roger, son of Rev. J. M. Roger, and others. Music will be furnished by the male quartette of St. Paul's church. The story of Presbyterianism in this locality since 1831 has been written, and will be on sale as a souvenir of the occasion. It is expected that a large number of people from Peterborough and other points, who were members of the congregation at one time, will be present and they will be most cordially welcomed.

Ontario's Supremacy In Cheese Market Endangered

A Decrease of 10 Per Cent. From Last Year — Deserves Serious Consideration.

NEW ZEALAND'S SEASON

During the first seven months of 1906 Canada shipped 793,000 long cwts. of cheese to Great Britain, the total imports of the mother country for the period being 1,288,000. Thus Canada's proportion of the whole was nearly 62 per cent.

During the first seven months of the present year Canada's shipments of cheese to the same market amounted to only 596,000 long cwt. out of a total of 1,145,000. Canada's share in the total of Britain's cheese imports in the latest period under review was, therefore, only a little over 52 per cent., a decline of nearly ten points in three years.

Nor is this all. While we have been going back, New Zealand, which of late years has been our chief rival, has been going forward. In the first seven months of 1906 New Zealand's shipments of cheese to Great Britain amounted to 115,000 long cwts. In the seven months ending with July last they totalled 244,000. In other words while our cheese exports have declined by nearly 200,000 long cwts. those from New Zealand have more than doubled.

These facts, taken from Weddell and Co.'s Dairy Produce Report of August 14th, are deserving of serious consideration by Canadian dairymen. It is true that Canada still holds a commanding position in the British cheese market. It is also true that New Zealand's season of maximum production is our season of minimum output, and that there is not the same direct competition as there would be if the seasons were the same in both countries. But, even with this allowance made, the figures given are sufficient to justify a feeling of uneasiness. Our chief boast in the matter of agricultural production has rested on our dominance in the British cheese trade. The chief source of Ontario's agricultural prosperity has been found in the predominant positions held. Are we now in danger of losing that position? It begins to look like it.

It is not so much a matter of quality as quantity, although New Zealand old cheese was quoted in London on the 14th ult. at a shilling a long cwt. above the price of new Canadian. These figures, remembering the difference between the value of the old and new article, indicate that our cheese is still first in quality. But, in view of the fact that New Zealand is new in the business, while we have been in it for a generation, it is quite clear that our principal rival is close behind us in quality, and is rapidly gaining in quantity as well. In the latter fact is found the main reason for alarm. We are in serious danger of seeing a trade which we captured from the Americans twenty years ago taken from us by the new Dominion of the Pacific.

The Dominion Government is doing good work at the marketing end. Both departments and the agricultural press should unite in urging our dairymen to increase the volume of goods offered. We cannot afford to suffer our dairy industry to decline.

A Large Gathering Of Many Prominent Y. M. C. A. Workers

ADDRESSES WERE GIVEN

Last Thursday evening eighty-six men from all over Canada were the guests of Mr. John Penman, at McConkey's, Toronto, Mr. Penman, well known for his large gifts to educational and philanthropic institutions and his active interest in Y. M. C. A. work, is chairman of the Provincial Committee which has the supervision of the Y. M. C. A. work in Ontario and Quebec.

Among the guests were Principal Falconer, of Toronto University; Principal Kilpatrick, of Knox College; Professor McCrimmon, of McMaster, and many prominent business and professional men of Toronto and Montreal.

Addresses on different phases of Association work were given by Messrs. T. H. Billings, Student Secretary for Canada; J. M. Dudley, Railroad Secretary for Canada; F. H. Ritchie, Boys' Secretary for Canada; C. R. Sayer, Provincial Secretary for the Canadian West; D. A. Budge, of Montreal, and C. M. Copeland, Provincial Secretary for Ontario and Quebec.

The growth of the Association in Canada and its tremendous possibilities, as well as its value in influencing the lives of young men was the dominant note of all the speeches.

There was present a business man from St. John's, Newfoundland, who stated that there was no Y. M. C. A. in Newfoundland, but initial steps are now being taken toward organization.

The local Association was represented by Mr. F. G. Hassard, the General Secretary, and Mr. G. M. Roger, one of the Directors, who is also a member of the Provincial Committee of Ontario and Quebec.

AS OTHERS THINK.

While everyone has a right to his own opinion, yet it is wise to always consider what others think, and profit by it.

Nothing makes life so miserable, or interferes so widely with the usefulness of the average person, as indigestion, and it is fair for us to give fair consideration to what others think about this remarkable affliction.

Wm. Madill is positive that in Mi-o-na stomach tablets he has an absolute cure for indigestion and the many disagreeable symptoms that follow this disease, such as distress after eating, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, flatulence, and nervousness.

He sells Mi-o-na with satisfaction guaranteed or money back. He believes in it, and so may you.

GANG OF FIVE YOUNG BOYS FACE CHARGES OF HOUSE BREAKING; THEIR SENTENCE WAS RESERVED

Two charges of house breaking against a gang of five boys ranging in age from 15 to 17 years, were heard in police court this morning. Four of them were charged with breaking into the house of Ed. McGregor at Downer's Corners on Saturday last, and stealing two jars of fruit, a portion of bread, a set of underwear, a pair of trousers, a bracelet and a pair of cuff links.

All of the quartette elected to be tried by the Magistrate and three pleaded guilty to the charge, the fourth pleading not guilty.

One of the boys who had pleaded guilty, testified that the four had walked out on the track and had stopped at the McGregor house to get a drink of water. Not finding anyone at home three of them had gotten into the house by means of the cellar door for the purpose of getting something to eat. They found some preserves and bread in the cellar which they had eaten and had brought some out to the other boy. Witness carried some cream out to him. The latter had said that he would stay outside and wait for the others. After examining the cellar they had gone up stairs. Witness took a bracelet and a pair of trousers, leaving the latter behind a tree. He had handed the bracelet into the police station. Witness also admitted taking a handkerchief.

Ed. McGregor testified that on Saturday afternoon last there had been no one at his home. His sister had come home first and discovered the cellar door had been broekn oped to gain entrance into the house.

Miss Lizzie McGregor, sister of the previous witness, testified to the discovery of the burglary. She had returned to the house between 2 and 3 o'clock and had missed some fruit and on looking around the house had found other things gone. She identified the bracelet produced in court as hers.

Another of the youthful quartette testified that he was fifteen years of age. He corroborated his companion's evidence in regard to the house breaking. Witness admitted taking two bottles of preserves.

Another of the prisoners testified that he had taken nothing from the house, although he had been through the rooms. He was looking for "stuff" he admitted to the Crown Attorney, and further confessed that he was ready to steal if he had found anything he wanted.

On this charge the Magistrate found the fourth boy guilty and reserved judgment until Friday of next week.

The fourth with a fifth boy who was arrested last week by Special Officer Lytle, were charged with breaking into the hotel of J B Laroeque on Thursday, Sept. 3rd, and stealing therefrom a case of brandy. The first boy arrested pleaded guilty to the charge and the remainder this morning pleaded no guilty.

The boy who had pleaded guilty testified that they were passing the hotel on Thursday night when some one proposed that they should get a bottle of liquor. The boys walked to the corner of Aylmer and Sherbrooke streets and then witness and another boy returned to the Montreal House while the others went on. The other boy had lifted the cellar door and held it while witness entered and secured a case of brandy.

Special Officer Lytle testified to finding the case of brandy hidden near the telephone pole yard on Aylmer street and to watching it all night and until noon of next day, when the five boys came along. He had seen one of them dragging the box from among the bushes, where it was hidden and had arrested him while the others made their escape.

Mr. Larocque, proprietor of the hotel, identified the case produced in court as his. He had not missed the brandy until the case was found.

One of the boys testifying on his own behalf, stated that he did not know of the liquor being stolen until the next morning, although he admitted that he had drank some of it after he had learned that it had been stolen. He informed the court that the boys had been down to the Barrichfield Camp with the soldiers and had just returned to the city the night of the robbery. Witness had been afraid to go home as it was so late and the boys slept in a barn on the outskirts of the city that night.

The Magistrate found one of the boys guilty and aquitted the remaining three, leaving two to be sentenced on this charge. In this case also judgment was reserved until Friday of next week, the boys being allowed to go on their promise to be on hand.

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—A great many people would like to know through your paper who has charge of the streets and vacant lots, because they are not capable, and I would like to see someone that is capable. For instance, go up the street car line and there are a couple of lots near Central Park, and also a large lot just north of that beautiful Inverlea Park, full of weeds —some four feet high. I hear it belongs to a wealthy firm. Why not employ an industrious man to clear those lots and charge the expense to the owners.

POPULAR YOUNG MAN WAS PRONOUNCED NOT GUILTY BY THE JUDGE IN MOCK TRIAL CASE

Charge of Breach of Promise to Marry Jerusha Perkins Was Not Proven—Successful Production

LARGE NUMBER PRESENT

The mock court trial which was held at the Conservatory Music Hall last night under the auspices of the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. was one of the most successful events of that nature that has been seen here for some time. The audience was large and appreciative and in every particular those connected with the prosecution of Mr. Charles Reid carried out their parts in the spirit which was intended.

The latter was arraigned on a charge of breach of promise to marry the "woman in the case" being Miss Ruth Carlisle, who, as Jerusha R. Perkins, took the part in an exceedingly clever and amusing style. She was supposed to have been the proprietress of "Perkins' Paradise," as one of the witnesses termed her boarding house, but which was more commonly called the "hashery." Mr. Reid was not aware that he would have the part of the defendant until three o'clock yesterday afternoon, but anyone not knowing this fact would be none the wiser, for he accepted his role in a most appropriate manner. The jury pronounced him "not guilty." The whole farce trial was replete with laughable hits, in which Col. A. V. Newton of Worcester, Mass., and Mr. Walter Davidson contributed the major share.

The characters were as follows:—

Judge—Mr. R. F. McWilliams.

Plaintiff—Miss Ruth Carlisle.

Defendant—Mr. Chas. Reid.

Prosecuting Attorney—Col. A. V. Newton, Worcester, Mass.

Defendant's Attorney—Mr. Walter Davidson.

Clerk of the Court — Mr. S. R. Armstrong.

Court Officer — Mr. Jeffrey Russel.

Court Crier—Mr. Geo. Martin.

Witnesses — Dr. J. Malcolm McCullough, G E Bruce, Frank Simpson, and Miss Florence Coveney and Miss Hazel I. Pentland.

Jurors—Messrs. A W Cressman, J J. Turner, Jr., J J O'Connal, A B Cunningham, E N McWilliams, R M Glover, R L Dobbin, C G Graham, A McFarlane, Bruce Fisher, Louis Mendel and W J Clement.

Three preliminary cases, in which local men were charged with nonsensical crimes (?) were heard, but judgment was reserved in each case.

Col. Newton, in the breach of promise hearing, as prosecuting attorney and really the leader of the performance, caused rounds of laughter, and his concluding address was particularly good. In this respect also Mr. Davidson made an impromptu appeal in his usual brilliant and witty style which was well worth hearing. Clerk Armstrong and Judge McWilliams were also very good.

The committee of the Y. M. C. A. boys wish to express their deepest gratitude to all those who assisted in making the trial such a success.

Children's EYES

Need the most careful and persistent attention. Early headaches and other troubles frequently emanate from defective eye-sight, which in itself, may have originated in early neglect of the eyes. The trouble is, parents seldom know their children's eyes are weak until it is too late.

School will be opened shortly, you had better bring your children to us, as we make a specialty of examining the eyes of the young and fitting them with the proper lenses.

BUSINESS COLLEGE FALL TERM

Increased Number of Students and Efficient Staff.

The autumn term of the Peterborough Business College is now in full swing with a larger attendance than ever. Principal Spotton was in the city to-day and was pleased with the results. The increased number of students is the result of good advertising, he believes, as they are received from a much wider district than heretofore. The staff is proving itself most efficient, and the results achieved are pleasing to both the staff and students.

I will sell by public auction, on Saturday morning, September 12th, on the Market Square, at eleven o'clock, one Rubber Tire Stanhope. This is a high-seated vehicle of the runabout style and is practically as good as new. Sale without reserve.

24th Field Battery Home; Acquitted Themselves Well

"Best Horsed Regiment in Camp," Was Verdict of Chief Veterinary Officers—The Sham Fight on Thursday.

CAMP WAS VERY ORDERLY

The 24th Field Battery, Canadian Artillery, under the command of Major Young, arrived home yesterday afternoon in fine shape after twelve days' training at Barriefield Camp. The battery had a quick run home, leaving Kingston at 11 o'clock and arriving here about 5 o'clock, parading to the Armouries in East City as soon as the guns were unloaded. The battery acquitted itself most creditably at Barriefield, 86 men out of a total of 104 were on hand, while they had 58 horses out of 64.

The medical officers, after examining the men of the 24th, pronounced them as splendid a body of men as there was in camp, while Major Morgan, the principal veterinary officer, stated that they were the best horsed regiment at Barriefield. Lt.-Col. Massie, the chief veterinary officer, announced that the team on Gun No. 1 the property of David McGregor, was the best team he had seen at any camp.

The 10th Brigade, of which the 24th Battery formed part, participated in the sham-fight on Thursday last under command of Major Young. The 10th were with the defence and fought a rearguard action in which they were successful in protecting the retreat of the main body of the defence, allowing them to get across the bridge at Kingston Mills, despite the efforts of the attack, which was under command of Col. E B Edwards.

A funny incident occurred during the sham-fight. As the 10th Brigade was on the advance, Major Powell, a brigade major of infantry, galloped through the column, and, imagining he was a member of the attacking party trying to find out the strength of the defence, Major Young set out in hot pursuit of the major and succeeded in rounding him up after a hard chase. He announced that he was only a spectator, but Major Young kept him a prisoner until he had him turned over to the chief umpire, Col. Taylor.

Lt. J J Duffus, 3rd Dragoons, had command of all the signallers who were detailed for the defence.

Major Young stated to the Examiner this morning that the camp was one of the most successful on record and that the members of the 24th acquitted themselves well. The camp was very orderly and the men of all regiments were on their good behaviour throughout.

A Quartette Of Accidents In Which Left Hands Suffer

Four accidents in two days at the C. G. E. Works is recorded for Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Louis Beauregard had his left hand jammed while at work hooking for the small crane in the main shop. He was forced to quit work to have the injury attended to.

Mr. Robt. Pilling had the index finger on his left hand ground to the bone while working at an emery stone.

While working a small compressed air hoist Mr. Marcello Mowry had his left hand rather badly bruised by a shaft falling on it. He had to have it dressed and will not be able to use it for some time.

The left hand was also the member that suffered in the case of Mr. Michael Sharpe, who met with a distressing accident. His hand caught in the machine he was working at and several fingers were torn off.

He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he underwent an operation. Two of his fingers, it is learned, will be saved. Dr. Carmichael was acting in the absence of Dr. Young.

MR. WM. IRWIN SELLS FAIRY LAKE VILLA

Two United States Gentlemen the Purchasers.

Mr. Wm. Irwin has made a sale of Stony Lake property, which shows the wide fame and warm appreciation of the attractions of the Kawartha Lakes as sites for summer homes and sources of holiday pleasures. Mr. Irwin has disposed of Fairy Lake Villa, situated on the mainland, about midway between Burleigh Falls and Juniper Island, with several acres of land, to Messrs. W. W. and W. F. Willoughby, of Porto Rico, an island ceded to the United States by Spain in 1898. One of these gentlemen is a member of the Executive Council, and Deputy Governor, of the island, and the other is Professor of Political Economy in Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. It is the intention of the purchasers to not only make considerable additions to Fairy Lake Villa, but to build two fine new summer cottages next spring. This year was marked by their first visit to Stony Lake, which pleased them so well that they purpose, with their families, spending their summers there in future. This is flattering testimony to the desirability of our lakes for summer homes. Mr. Irwin has about twenty-five or thirty desirable building sites on his property for disposal.

LETTER ADDRESSED TO FARMERS

Dominion Grange Enters Political Struggle With Circular.

TO PRESS THEIR DEMANDS

Message to Subordinate Granges Does Not Ask Abandonment of Parties With Which Farmers Are Now Allied But Seeks Nomination of Candidates Who Will Support Agricultural Interests.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—The Dominion Grange of Canada has entered the arena of active politics. A circular letter has been issued to the subordinate granges by J. G. Lethbridge, master, and W. F. W. Fisher, secretary, saying:

"The executive of the Dominion Grange respectfully directs the attention of all members of subordinate granges to the opportunity which the pending Dominion election affords, impressing forward certain demands to which the grange has on more than one occasion committed itself. We do not ask that any member of a subordinate grange shall abandon the party with which he is allied. What we do ask is that all those who are connected with either one of the great party organizations shall endeavor to make use of that organization to advance the reforms which the grange has been steadily urging for years. This can be done by endeavoring, where nominations have not yet been made, to secure the nomination of candidates in sympathy with our views; by pressing, by letter or personal interview, those views on candidates already in the field; by making the questions in which we are so keenly interested subjects of discussion at meetings to be held during the campaign about to open.

CHANGES GAZETTED.

Federal Appointments Announced Contain Important Alterations.

Sir Charles A. P. Pelletier, K. C. M. G., to be Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec.

Sir Louis A. Jette, K.C.M.G., to be puisne judge of Quebec Superior Court.

Prof. Adam Shortt of Kingston and Michel G. Larochelle of Montreal to be civil service commissioners.

Judge J. J. Kehoe of Sudbury, to be local judge of Ontario High Court.

Jailers Must Take Care.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Hon. W. J. Hanna has ordered a close season in the provincial jails.

"In future whenever the escape of a prisoner is due to carelessness on the part of a jail official, immediate suspension is to follow."

Albert Hinnegan, turnkey at Sarnia, has been dismissed for disobeying rules and regulations, a prisoner having escaped from a corridor there three weeks ago.

Balloonist In Peril.

Rotterdam, Sept. 12.—A pilot steamer in the North Sea yesterday picked up a balloop containing two aeronauts named Tennett and Shoft. The balloon ascended at Battersea, a district of London, at 10 o'clock Thursday night and was blown out to sea.

When discovered the balloon was close to the water and could not have been kept up long enough to reach land.

Italian Stabbing Affair.

Harrisburg, Sept. 12.—An Italian quarrel took place Thursday night between two section men of the Grand Trunk at Harrisburg. An Italian named Galillo Puno put a torpedo on the rail and the train ran over it. Sug Vetto, a big strong Italian, told him not to do so and cuffed him. Galillo Puno drew his stilleto and slipped up behind Vetto and plunged it into his back, striking his collar bone.

Two Years For Snow.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Two years in the Central Prison was the sentence meted out to Robert Snow, 16 years old, the youngest of the seven jail-breakers.

Snow laughed when an additional charge of stealing a set of harness fell through, but burst into tears when sentenced.

MANAGER STEWART IS WANTED

False Returns Charged Against Ex-Bank Manager.

HE CANNOT BE LOCATED

High Constable Sent to Serve Warrant on Former Head of Sovereign Bank Cannot Find Him—Charged With Making False Representations In His Monthly Returns —Skewood on His Trail.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—Acting on behalf of the Dominion Government's Finance Department, Col. F. W. Hibbard has issued a warrant for the arrest of Duncan M. Stewart, formerly general manager of the now defunct Sovereign Bank.

The warrant charges Mr. Stewart with having signed false statements of the bank's financial condition during the months of March and April, 1907, and the most serious detail of the statement—alleged to be false—is that the bank had at the time fifteen million dollars of current loans in Canada. Just what knowledge the department has of the actual amount of these loans at the time mentioned is not stated.

Rumors have been so many for weeks past that the legal action now taken is not a matter of any great surprise. It is known that Mr. Stewart learned three months ago that a careful enquiry was being made by the Finance Department with a view to criminal prosecution. He then made preparation to leave Montreal, and, acting upon the advice of friends, he gave up his business as a private banker and went away. The fact was published at the time.

D. M. STEWART,

A little over a week ago he came to Montreal and, staying with friends, closed up his private affairs and went away again.

When the warrant was issued it was at once handed to High Constable Bissonnette. That officer went to Mr. Stwart's home, but got no satisfaction beyond the statement that Mr. Stewart was not in. In the office on St. James street it was found that the business had been closed for some time.

What steps will now be taken to trace the accused is not known, but there is good reason to believe that the matter will be placed in the hands of Col. Sherwood, chief of the Dominion police, with instruction to find him at any cost or trouble.

Injured Man's Trip.

Cobalt, Sept. 12.—Charles Manary, a young man of 27, whose home is in Bracebridge, was brought into Cobalt to the Red Cross Hospital suffering from a broken skull and broken nose. He will recover.

It appears Manary and companions were behind a tree waiting the report of a blast, and Manary came out too soon.

The accident occurred seven days before the young man finally landed in the hospital, his companions having spent days in getting him down in a canoe and carrying him over the portages between the lakes.

Bush Fires at Brockville.

Brockville, Sept. 12.—Bush fires are raging in the vicinity of Brockville to an extent that is becoming alarming on account of the continued drouth.

Not far from the town a swamp is located called "The Black Pond" is in flames. Nothing can be done to stay the progress of the fire except rain, which is urgently needed.

Lake Michigan Floated.

Broadstairs, Eng., Sept. 12.—The British steamer Lake Michigan, from Montreal Aug. 29, with passengers for London, which stranded on Thursday near Margate, was floated yesterday. Tugs will dock her at Millwall.

Mine Still Burning.

Halifax, Sept. 12.—The fire in No. 1 colliery of the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co.'s mine is still burning, and the company's fire-fighting apparatus of the plant is concentrated on No. 1.

Girl Shoots Men.

Cripple Creek, Col., Sept. 12.—Armed with a rifle, Miss Annie Coplen of Gillette, 12 miles from here, fired as rapidly as she could into a group of men who were making a disturbance in front of her mother's home on Friday night. Two were injured.

Yesterday's Record.

Washington, Sept. 12.—In a flight lasting one hour, ten minutes, six seconds, Orville Wright late yesterday surpassed all his previous exploits for a time and distance flight for a heavier-than-air machine.

Sunday Service on Niagara Railway Will Be Resumed.

Welland, Sept. 12.—Interesting developments are expected to follow the operating of a passenger service on the Welland division of the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway on Sunday next. Notification was quietly sent out to agents yesterday from the head office.

When this division was put in operation early last year, the Sunday service awakened a storm of protest, fanned by Rev. C. Caldwell and Rev. C. N. Simmons of Fonthill. The matter was reported to the Lord's Day Alliance, and in turn to the Railway Commission.

The Sunday service was suddenly discontinued and notice posted to the effect that its discontinuance had been ordered by the Railway Commission.

Citizen of Fonthill then held an indignation meeting, which 600 attended, and passed a vote of approval of the Sunday service. Two months ago a petition was circulated and largely signed, asking the railway to again put on the service. It would appear that this has had the desired effect.

BLESSES DELEGATES.

Ten Thousand Receive Benediction From Cardinal Vannutelli.

London, Sept. 12.—The success attending the Eucharistic Congress reached its climax last night when some 10,000 Catholics received the blessing at the hands of the legate. It was a remarkable reception, but unfortunately was attended, owing to some lack of proper organization, to needless confusion and crushing.

The Protestant Alliance, continuing its opposition to the appearance of the host in the procession to be held in this city next Sunday in connection with the Eucharistic Congress, telegraphed an appeal to the Home Secretary to prevent the carrying of the host and the wearing of vestments on this occasion.

Woman Murdered.

New York, Sept. 12.—Evidence of a murder was revealed yesterday when the body of Mrs. Anna Maura, 22 years old, the wife of an employe of one of the traction companies, was found lifeless in her apartments at 517 East 45th street. The woman had been rendered unconscious by a blow on the head, strangled with a long automobile veil and her hand tied to her waist by another veil.

The body was fully dressed, and appearances indicated that the woman had been dead two days, during which time her husband has been missing.

Stewardess Sold Whisky.

St. Catharines, Sept. 12.—Magistrate Campbell heard the evidence yesterday in the case against the St. Catharines' Country Club, charged by License Inspector King with violating the liquor license act. Mrs. Clarke, stewardess, against whom action was also entered, swore to having dispensed whisky and beer at the club house, and received money for the same. She had also ordered liquor when requested by members to do so. Judgment was reserved until to-day.

Candidates to Meet.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—For the first time in the history of modern politics, two rival candidates for the Presidency of the United States will meet at the same board and address the same audience, when William H. Taft, Republican candidate, of Ohio, and William J. Bryan, Democrat, of Nebraska, are to be the guests of honor at the annual banquet of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Auditorium on the evening of Oct. 7.

Out of Work; Ends Life.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—William McTaggart, 65 years old, was found dead in the Old Fort grounds just west of the signal station. He had taken carbolic acid.

In an unfinished letter to his sister, Ellen, he asked for money, and said that he had been without work for a long time. He was a Master Mason of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, No. 117 and a member of the International Sailors' and Firemen's Union.

Officially Declared Dead.

Hamilton, Sept. 12.—Judge Shider in the Division Court yesterday handed down his judgment in the action brought by the wife and son of Samuel Pilgrim, to have him declared legally dead, owing to his absence for nine years. The judge declared Pilgrim dead and ordered that the estate be administered. The family will not take action to collect the life insurance.

Trip to Colorado.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Hon. J. M. Gibson is going to Colorado and will not assume office as Lieutenant-Governor before the middle of next month.

In the meantime Sir Mortimer Clark will continue to act. His Honor is preparing for his retirement by having his resident on Wellington street, near Clarence square, refitted and decorated.

Jumps to His Death.

London Sept. 12.—At Victoria Hospital about 6 o'clock yesterday morning, Charles Judge, aged 25, a patient with typhoid fever, jumped from a half-open second storey window to the cement pavement below. He died while being carried to the operating-room.

MANY LOCAL ENTRIES ARE IN FOR Y. M. C. A. HARRIERS' MEET; OTONABEE CLUB'S RUNNERS

The All Saints' Boys' Club have entered Cecil Armstrong in the mile walk at the Harriers' Meet next week. Armstrong won the Y. M. C. A. four day walking match last spring, and as he is decidedly fast, should do well at the short distance. The walk should be one of the most interesting events on the bill.

Twenty-one local entries for the meet would seem to presage its success, and there are more to come.

With Tom Longboat, Sellen and Black, of the Irish-Canadians; Thorpe, Fowler and possibly Simpson, of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers; and Smoke, Robinson and McMartin, of the Otonabee Athletic Club, fighting out the three miles, this event should be the feature of the bill.

The Y. M. C. A. Harriers had a big squad of men out at the rink last night getting in shape for the meet. J. H. Crocker, manager of the Olympic team, will be here for the meet and will give the local Harriers every assistance in his power.

The meet will mark Tom Longboat's first race in Peterborough, and a big crowd will want to see the famous Indian. He was here last year, but did not take part in the events. He will have his work out out for him to beat the field that will be trotted out against him in the three mile event, and there will be no lagging anywhere along the line.

Following are the local entries in the meet:

50 Yards, Handicap—
Jack Bailey, (unattached.)
Harry Munro, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.
Ernie Wilson, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.
W. Milburn, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.

220 Yards, Handicap—
Jack Bailey, (unattached).
Ernie Wilson, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.
W. Milburn, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.

Half Mile, Handicap—
J. Mahoney, Otonabee Athletic Club.
L. Giroux, (unattached).
Geo. Fowler, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.

One Mile Open—
Jimmy McMartin, Otonabee Athletic Club.
Ernie Wilson, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.
Geo. Fowler, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.
Chas. Thorpe, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.

Three Miles Open—
Albert Smoke, Otonabee Athletic Club.
George Robinson, Otonabee Athletic Club.
Jimmy McMartin, Otonabee Athletic Club.
Chas. Thorpe, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.
Geo. Fowler, Y. M. C. A. Harriers.
L. Giroux, (unattached.)

One Mile Walk—
Cecil Armstrong, All Saints' Boys' Club.

The entries for the Y. M. C. A. Harriers' meet next week will close on Tuesday night next, and all those intending to enter should leave their names with Secretary Glover at the Examiner office before that time. It should be understood that all competitors must be registered amateurs—that is that they must hold a registration ticket from the C. A. A. U. Those who have not secured such tickets should see about the matter at once, as they will not be able to compete without carrying out this condition.

The mile walking race at the Y. M. C. A. meet should be a feature. It is expected that Geo. H. Goulding Canadian champion, who represented Canada in England, will be on hand for the event, and with him his closest rival, Chuck Sikene, of the Irish-Canadians and formerly of the (West End Y. M. C. A.

HASSAN ABDALLAH HAS GREAT RECORD AT WRESTLING GAME; FAVOURITE OF THE SULTAN

Turkey, the land of the Orient, that is so much in the eye of the politician of to-day has for ages been the land of wrestlers. Long even before this land, that to-day boasts of its Gotch, Burns, Jenkins and Rogers, was even discovered, the land of the Sultan had the great wrestlers.

In recent years probably the Turkish wrestler most in the eye of the American public was poor Yousouf, who, with his purse of dollars, went down in the ill-fated Elbe. Then there was Madrali, the man whom Hack beat in two minutes. Both these men were the Sultan's wrestlers, attached to the Sultan's palace on the shores of the Golden Horn. Madrali was told to come back without a defeat or his head would be put in a basket. Literally, too. He never went back to the land of the olives, however, for he got wise and is still in England. And now comes another Sultan's royal wrestler, Hassan Abdallah, a man who has won great honours both in Paris and Brazil, where wrestling is a great sport.

Abdallah is a man of good family in his own town on the Bosphorus. His brother is on the private staff of the Sultan, and Hassan got away without that forbidding honour of losing his head if beaten.

He is undefeated in Brazil, once defeated in Paris by Paul Pons, and is undefeated in America, although it must be explained he has only wrestled four matches. These were with Karlsen of Sweden, Auvrey of Belgium, Perrille, the fighting Dago, (this was undoubtedly a clever performance), and on Monday where he beat Sinard, the French-Canadian heavyweight in 6 minutes and 4 minutes. To show his great strength of arm and hand, he took from the people in the audience a number of pennies and bent them between his fingers with one hand.

When told he was matched with a man who had a victory over Yankee Rogers, whom he said he heard of in Paris, he shrugged his shoulders and said he would meet both men the same evening. There is evidently gall as well as intrigue in Constantinople. Can Hurtubise hold his own with this man? Is not the local management giving their man too severe a trial? Gene is willing and anxious, but is it wise?

Y. M. C. A. "Gym" Opens The Season On Monday Next

The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will be opened for the season on Monday, September 21st, under the direction of Mr. S. W. Colling, late assistant at the Toronto Central Y. M. C. A. The "gym" will be given a new life and under Mr. Colling should be a great success. At present the complete plans have not been arranged, but it is assured that indoor athletics, gym work and basket ball will receive every attention. In fact, there will be a general boom in gym work and wrestling will be one of the features. Mr. Colling is well known as a wrestler, having met Hurtubbise several years ago in the Canadian championship matches. There will be three classes a week for the senior men, thus giving them every advantage. This is one class more than in the past. The class for the business and professional men will be held on Tuesdays and Fridays at 5.15 o'clock. Business boys' gym classes will meet twice a week at 7.30 p. m. Students have Mondays and Thursdays at 4.15 p. m., the Collegiate boys at 4.15 on Wednesdays and 10.30 a. m., Saturdays. Junior school boys will meet on Tuesdays at 4.15 p. m. on Tuesdays and 9.30 a. m. Saturdays. The indoor work this season should appeal to a large number of young men who have been looking forward to this opportunity of taking up "gym" work.

ESTIMATE GOES DOWN.

Dominion Crop Outlook Affected by Severe Drought.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The census and statistics monthly for September reports the rainfall of the month as scant and the temperature high, and the condition of the later ripening cereals somewhat lowered as compared with promises of June and July.

In Quebec the outlook has continued to be favorable and in Ontario also, in spite of the drouth, the conditions have been fairly well maintained. West of the Great Lakes cereals were considerably affected by hot winds in August, but less in Alberta than elsewhere, owing to the earlier ripening conditions there.

In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta the estimated yield of wheat is 104,053,000 bushels, as compared with 110,594,000 bushels at the end of July. The estimated yield of oats has also fallen from 120,358,000 bushels to 107,380,000.

The following gives for the Dominion the estimated total yield at the end of August: Wheat, 194,680,000; oats, 289,944,000; barley, 49,499,000.

New York, Sept. 12.—Geo. Koellner, a motorman, was killed and 25 passengers were injured in a rear-end collision of two elevated railroad trains on Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn.

Gasoline Explosion.

Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 12.—With a roar audible for blocks the dye shop of the Wildridge-Latimer Co. in this city blew up yesterday afternoon, killing one man and injuring a number of people.

An explosion of gasoline from some unknown cause demolished the two-story shop, scattering the roof and brick walls in all directions and setting fire to dwelling houses on each side.

Mortgage Deposited.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The indenture of the mortgage, bearing date Jan. 1, 1908, made between the Berlin, Waterloo, Wellesley and Lake Huron Railway Co., the Royal Trust Co. and the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. for the purpose of securing bonds of the Berlin, Waterloo, Wellesley & Lake Huron Railway Co. to the extent of $625,000, has been deposited in the office of the Secretary of State for Canada.

Will Invite British Fleet.

London, Sept. 12.—A Melbourne despatch says a proposal is afoot to invite the British fleet to Australia. Sir T. Bent says the fleet would receive an overwhelming welcome. Its influence on political interests in the Pacific would be incalculable, and it would reassure Australians with reference to the Admiralty's disposition towards the Commonwealth.

THE EXPLOSION PROVED FATAL

Brantford Has Disaster in a Theatorium Building.

ONE KILLED; MANY HURT

Six Out of Dozen Injured in Ignition of Natural Gas May Not Recover—Side of the Street is Wrecked—Family is Buried in Debris—One Child is Killed and the Mother May Not Recover.

Brantford, Sept. 12.—A natural gas explosion, the worst in the history of Brantford, occurred at two o'clock yesterday afternoon along the south side of Colborne street, just west of King street, demolishing several of the important places of business, killing one child, injuring a dozen people and piling the ruins in the street.

A child name Hornie is dead.

The list of injured is as follows: Albert Holstock, badly burned and cut; Charles Stover, internal injuries; Lloyd Meyers, leg broken; Joseph Blaybore, internal injuries; Mr. and Mrs. Hornie, cuts, bruises and shock; James Finch, cut by glass; Allan McFarlane, cut by glass.

There were three shocks and they were felt in every building in the business section. For a great length, all the buildings on one side of the street are caved in, others have only walls standing, and for a distance of many yards no building on one side of the street but is damaged to a great extent. On the opposite side of the thoroughfare the buildings are also damaged badly. Windows are broken in, and the fronts of business houses badly disfigured. At least six people are injured more or less seriously if not fatally.

The origin of the catastrophe was in a theatorium building, which is the most complete ruin on the street. Strange to say, there was no fire consequent upon the explosion, except a small blaze from an over-turned stove.

One family, Mr. and Mrs. Hornie and two infants, were buried in the debris, and were removed by the firemen. The elder of the children died within a couple of hours from a fractured skull.

The family lived in the first storey of the building next to the Theatorium. The foundation gave way and they were precipitated with the falling walls to the cellar. All were hurt except the younger child, who escaped unhurt. Mrs. Hornie, who was in bed with the infant at the time, is very seriously hurt.

The wrecked buildings include Stephan Armour's Theatorium, Boston Chinese Cafe, Jas. Doyle's poolroom, John Bousey's bowling alley, T. B. W. Henderson's tailor shop, James Williams' restaurant, O'Neil's flour and feed store, Miss Radford's furniture store, Western Counties Power Co., Cockshutt Securities Co., and Stedman's warehouse; across the street, Jack Kelly's cigar store.

The loss in all will amount to nearly $50,000. The Theatorium was a four-storey building, and O'Neil's a three-storey affair. Both are complete wrecks.

How Injuries Were Received.

Two of the worst injured are Holstock and Blayboro. They were sitting in the steps waiting for a key to enter the Theatorium to do some work. Both were knocked clear across the roadway. Holstock, when picked up, was in a state of delirium, while Blayboro was unconscious.

Lloyd Myers, who was seated in Grierson's delivery rig across the road at the time, was knocked out by the explosion and sustained a broken leg.

Miss Radford, who was in her furniture store, also on the other side of the street, was severely cut by flying glass and taken to her home unconscious.

Charles Stover was at work constructing a trench in the street for the gas company and his condition is reported serious.

There were many narrow escapes. Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Smith with children, who resided next to the Hornie rooms, were nearly buried in the wreck. The front of the room in which they were was blown right out. The stove, in which there was a fire, tumbled from the open side into the mass of debris and resulted in a blaze, which was quickly extinguished.

The theory is generally held that there was an underground escape of natural gas which filled the whole row of buildings along the street. James Williams, restaurant keeper, says he reported the matter to the authorities several days ago.

Turnbull's Fall Millinery and Fashion Show

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY September 15th and 16th

Millinery of Distinction

Visitors to our exhibit of new Fall Millinery will bear us out in the statement that our display of Stylish Hats this season is by far the finest we have ever shown. The exquisite blending of the new shade results in composite colour schemes that are revelations of beauty.

Hats Very Large

One of the most marked features in the new Hats this season is their great size, but we have a big showing of the small and medium types.

The Directoire and Turban Shapes, Leaders

The newest shape is the Directoire in which some very attractive models are shown. The new Turbans will also be very popular.

Miss L. F. BELL, of Cleveland

We have secured the services of Miss L. F. Bell of Cleveland, who is acknowledged to be one of the cleverest Hat designers in America, to take charge of our Millinery Department for the Fall season, which means having at home the services of Millinery skill found only in the largest cities.

Advance Novelties From The Best Designers

"Directoire" the Keynote

This up-to-date Outfitting Establishment for Women and Children will be at its best this week. We have done everything possible in the way of collecting full apparel for the approval of the hundreds who will visit the department to see the styles.

NEW COATS, $5 to $100 each

Empire, Princess and Directoire Style Coats, man tailored garments in Plain and Fancy Wale and Chevron Weave. Cloths in Plain Colors, Black, Green, Navy, Brown and Wine. Features — Revers, Hipless Effects, Side Vents, Trimmings and Buttons.

FALL SKIRTS, $5 to $15 each

WAISTS, $1 to $15 each

Long Sleeve Effects, though not new, will be much seen this fall. The tailor-made idea in Taffetas, Vestings, Madras, etc., will be strongly in evidence. The Net and Allover Waists will be big favourites in Ecru and White with Coloured Trimmings

300 Hats on Exhibition and each Hat Different

One particular feature about every single hat shown by us is that its style is authoritative and different. The result is a great gathering of attractive style idea from which any woman or all women are sure to find something desirable.

TOMATOES WERE VERY PLENTIFUL

Market Was Large This Morning—Fruit And Vegetables in Abundance.

"They ought to sell those tomatoes at 10 cents a peck," a London street woman was heard to remark at the market this morning as she passed the long row of waggons, nearly everyone of which displayed a big supply of the article which forms the basis of nearly all the 57 varieties.

"They are so plentiful," she said, "that they ought to almost give them away. Why I do not think that I ever saw so many on the market before."

The market was largely attended and the exhibition of tomatoes was the feature. The price was within bounds. There was not a large supply of fowl and eggs, and butter was only fairly plentiful. Apples, watermelons, muskmelons, pears, grapes, plums, these and a great many other articles were to be had in plenty.

Dressed Hogs	8 50
Live Hogs	6 50
Hay, bale	15 00	to	0
Hay, per ton	13 00	to	14 00
Straw	6 00	to	6 50

McDERMID AND JURY'S NEW STORE

To Occupy Premises of Demetrie Bros.—Latter Going to Montreal.

McDermid & Jury, druggists, have secured a lease of the store at the corner of Charlotte and George street, now occupied by Demetrie Bros. They expect to move their goods from their upper store on George street to the new one about the 5th of October next. They are vacating their present premises for Mr. T C Elliott, of the Knitting Works, who has secured the store. Demetrie Bros., it is understood, intend leaving Peterborough for Montreal.

POINTS FOR POULTRY FANCIERS

They Have the Advantage Over Other Businessmen.

From the Canadian Dairyman

The poultry keeper above all other business men has the advantage of having for sale a product which is saleable every day in the year in any part of the country. There is no town so small, no village so remote that poultry and eggs are not in demand at all times, and in many instances the more remote the town the better the prices. The poultry keeper has also the advantage of being able to foretell within a narrow range what price he will obtain for his produce. He knows that at certain times he will be able to get high prices and at other times prices are very likely to fall. He knows that year after year certain price curves will be found in the market quotations and these will not vary widely in any series of years. The price of beef, mutton, pork, wool, cotton, farm produce of any kind, is likely to swing through a wide arc in consecutive years, prices being made on demand or according to the quality produced. With the products of the poultry yard it is different. Prices go up and down almost as regularly as if they had been fixed to remain permanent, and the poultry keeper need not worry about supply and demand. He should give his whole attention to the economic phases of the work.

He should endeavor to feed so as to produce the greatest possible revenue from a given quantity of feed. He should study his fowls and use every endeavor to secure the largest number of eggs from each laying hen. It is characteristic of the business of producing eggs that a shortage in the summer or an overplus in the winter does not affect prices to any great degree. This is because the law of average applies. If one poultryman's hens lay well in winter the increased supply is not large enough to lower prices, while if one flock ceases to produce in early summer other flocks go right on producing the usual summer output. This gives the individual poultryman an opportunity to conduct his business so as to get the best results by producing the largest number of eggs at a time when the prices are highest. In the poultry keeping as in any other business it is ability to see ahead which makes for success.

THE PROPER FEED FOR POULTRY

Arrangement Should be Made for Early Green Food.

From The Canadian Dairyman.

Don't think because you have a pure breed you have reached the limit. There is more difference very often in the individuals of the same breed than there is between the breeds. During six months of last year one half of our whole flock (four breeds) laid over 13,000 eggs, while the other half laid 5,000; but ten hens out of one pen laid 1,400, while another ten hens in the same pen laid 140—that is one hen laid as many as ten. Which kind is the more profitable?

20TH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

A very interesting event took place in the Park street Sunday school, yesterday afternoon, when the twentieth anniversary of the opening of the school was commemorated. There was a very large attendance of the scholars and their friends, and the occasion was a memorable one. Special exercises by the children were included in the programme.

After the opening exercises and the chairman's address there was a recitation by Viola Palmer and a song by Wilton Tranter, both numbers being much appreciated. The offering for foreign missions was then taken up, after which there was a song from the girls entitled "Sunbeams Bright," and Mr. R J Kidd, the first superintendent of the school gave an interesting address.

A selection by the orchestra, and then Miss Mann, the superintendent, gave an interesting and comprehensive historical sketch of the school, in which she referred to her commencement on the second Sunday in August, 1888, in the building on Dalhousie street, known as the mission building. The school was formerly called the "South Ward Baptist Mission." The attendance on the first Sunday was 20 and there has been a steady and gradual increase. In 1891 a new building was erected on the lot on Aylmer street, until recently occupied by the church.

A song from Mrs. Wright's class and an address by Rev. J R Webb, of Murray street church, brought the programme to an end.

During the afternoon letters of regret at being unable to be present, were read from Rev. P Clifton Parker formerly pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, and from Mr. Stock, one of the first teachers of the school.

Rev. Mr. Parker's message was as follows:

My Dear Friends,—I rejoice with you in your 20th anniversary and give you my earnest and hearty greetings.

Twenty years ago it seemed an almost presumptious undertaking when we opened a Sunday school and preaching service on Dalhousie street. But the years have justified the venture and God has crowned your labours with abundant success, until we can almost say, the little one has become a thousand.

I am further rejoiced that some of those who were permitted to be in all the beginning of the work have continued taking responsibility and giving service until to-day. I especially give thanks for Sister Mann and Bro. Thomas Gillespie, as well as others whose names do not so readily come to my mind. My prayer for you, individually and collectively, is that the God of all grace, Who hath called us to eternal glory by Christ Jesus, may make you perfect, establish, strengthen and shelter you.

On the day of your 20th anniversary, Sept. 13th, I shall have the joy of opening up a new Sunday School in Central Fairview, Vancouver. Your baby sister from the "Sun Set City" greets the 20 year old with a holy kiss.

EAST CITY BUSH AND GRASS FIRE

Extinguished With Rubber Coats of the Firemen—No Damage

A small bush and grass fire occurred this morning at the rear of 162 Maria street, East City. A telephone message at 9.10 brought out the brigade. For lack of water in that section the hose could not be used, and as the blaze was not of sufficient consequence to require the services of the engine it was beaten out by the rubber coats of the firemen. No damage was done.

HOUSE BREAKERS INVADED "CASTLE KNOCK" LAST WEEK; OWNER OUT OF THE CITY

Some time last week "Castle Knock" the beautiful residence of Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun at 755 Water street was entered and ransacked by some party or parties at present unknown to the authorities. It is not known what what was stolen from the house or just when the robbery was committed. Mrs. Dennistoun is at present in Winnipeg and the house has been closed up for some time.

Mrs. Airriess, McDonel street, was instructed by Mrs. Dennistoun to call at the house once a week to see that everything was all right, and on her visit last week discovered that some one had gone through the house. Entrance had been gained by the prying open of a door by means of a jimmy.

The police were notified and P. C. Newhall visited the house. Everything was in disorder inside, as drawers had been opened and their contents strewn over the floor. A quantity of jewellery and silverware was amongst the articles and the housebreakers had evidently been in search of money.

In the absence of the occupants of the house, the police are at a loss to know just what has been stolen and have written to inform Mrs. Dennistoun of the robbery.

St. Peter's T.A.S. Decide Not To Buy Park On River At Present

Question Was Laid Over for Six Months—Re-commence Membership Campaign—The Society is Flourishing.

MR. BENNETT'S ADDRESS

The question of purchasing a park to be used for picnic purposes on the Otonabee was thoroughly discussed at yesterday's meeting of St. Peter's T.A.S. A lot on the Otonabee side of the river has been under consideration for some time. The purchase price is reported to be $1,000.00. While the members feel that they require a picnic grounds they were loth to taking the necessary steps just now. The question was therefore laid aside for the time being.

Another important question brought up yesterday was the organization for the continuation of the campaign to secure 1,000 members. All the plans were laid out and work will be taken up again to-night. There are not many more to secure, and a determined effort will be made.

At the meeting yesterday one of the pleasing features was an address on temperance by Mr. Jas. Bennet. Twenty-two new members were initiated yesterday.

PIG BORN IN TOWNSHIP OF DUMMER WITH SIX FEET

Examiner Special

Warsaw, Sept. 14.—A little pig with six feet, born last Tuesday, is the latest monstrosity of the animal kingdom in Dummer township. A breeding sow belonging to Mr. Paul Payne, of Dummer, on Tuesday of last week gave birth to a litter of twelve, all of which are living and thriving. Among the dozen was one provided with six feet, which of course, is a rarity so far as any animal is concerned and its existence has given rise to considerable interest. Farmers from various sections of the township have seen this living example of a sexaped and express wonderment at its existence. The extra two feet project from the front feet of the little animal. It uses the whole six when walking so that they will all likely develop with its growth.

There is a possibility that this peculiar specimen of the hog family will be taken to the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition where no doubt it would prove an attraction equal to the best of them.

Bright Prospects For Fair; Entries Are Coming In Fast

Fair week has arrived at last, and the directors of the big Peterborough Industrial Exhibition are redoubling their efforts, knowing that the end of their work is in sight. All are enthusiastic and not at all doubtful of the prospects, feeling that the Fair of 1908 will be the most successful in the history of the event. All that is necessary now to assure that fact is fine weather, and if the brand that is being handed out to-day continues until the end of the week, all records in point of attendance should be left far behind. Secretary F. J. A. Hall, who has opened an office at Messrs. Storey and Simpson's store on Water street, is a very busy man just now. The entries are coming in fast, and what is causing the secretary to smile joyfully is that many of them are from new exhibitors.

Thursday is opening day and will as usual be devoted to the placing of exhibits in the grounds. On Friday at ten o'clock the judging will commence, and the formal opening will take place at 1.30 o'clock. At three o'clock the performance in front of the grandstand by the Leo Aribos Company and the Kennedy Bros. and Mack in their unique comedy novelty "The Trick House" will take place. The 57th Band will be in attendance and a programme of horse racing will be seen on the splendid half-mile track.

In the evening the grounds will be brilliantly illuminated and a choice programme will be given, including a concert by the band, moving pictures, and the special grandstand attractions.

The directors, realizing that good horse racing is always popular, have put up good purses for this attraction, $650 in all being offered. The events will be as follows:

Friday Afternoon—
2.50 class, trot or pace, purse $100.
2.20 class, trot or pace, $200.

Saturday Afternoon—
2.28 class, trot or pace, $150.
2.17 class, trot or pace, $200.

YOUNG FOLKS IN SUNDAY DANCE ON THE SHORE OF THE OTONABEE

Merriment reigned supreme yesterday afternoon and evening on the bank of the Otonabee River near Crawford's Grove, where a number of youths and maidens assembled to join in the mazy whirl of the dizzying dance to the sound of the "fiddle." The young folk landed late in the afternoon and very soon the strains of the violin in hands equal to those of Longfellow's "Michael" of Evangeline fame were heard reverberating amongst the trees of the grove. The merry music for "The Lancers" was played, and through the dull atmosphere, murky with smoke, one could see the happy company move lithely in and out in the tripping of the light fantastic. The Lancers was followed by waltzes, two and three-steps and quadrilles, and apparently everybody enjoyed the fun "on a Sunday afternoon."

Mr. Bailey Defends The Dog In His Characteristic Style

Chief Reazel has received another lengthy communication from W. A. Bailey in which, after paying his usual respects to the newspapers, he goes on as follows:

"The other day the Examiner had an article on lawns and flowers and the way they are damaged.

"As to the boys and men who distribute bills, they can be watched and dealt with for trespass. As to the dogs, there is a short and sure way, but most people, unless absolutely goaded to it, are averse to employing it, and will not employ it.'

"The above is from the article and is undoubtedly an incitement to crime. What is more noble than a dog?

"'Not Afraid of Dogs

"'Sir—If Toronto citizens had no other dangers to encounter on our streets except the dog we would have no need to worry for the safe return home of our absent ones.—Jas. Smith.'

"It is a poor plant or lawn not worth guarding by a fence, and the public streets were never intended to be private gardens. The trees are beautiful and one would find sufficient to do to appreciate nature's unaided charms. The citizens might improve the streets, at present untidy and dangerous. I am asked to draw your attention to the dirty bills circulated by some of the banks.

Yours obedient,
W. A. BAILEY."

A SAMPLE.

Mr. Burnham, as Conservative candidate, has issued his address to the electors. Thus it and the candidate become public property and legitimate subjects of criticism. The address is an appeal to prejudice and contains many misstatements of facts upon which its imperfect deductions are based Here is a single example that will serve as a specimen brick. The address contains it as the backbone of its argument. It is printed in bold black type, was doubtless intended to be a crusher and reads as follows:—

"The charge we make against the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is that it is in the grasp of the great money-lenders."

How does this extravagant and foundationless statement work out in the light of facts:

Which Government went to the money-lenders most? What do the facts show? In the twelve years of Liberal administration it spent 117 millions on capital account, 10 millions have been expended on improving the lighthouse and coast service, 25 millions upon public works, for which the country clamoured for years, but which the Conservative Government could not afford. Immigration, agriculture, militia and other services called for other expenditures, and all this was done, and we have kept within our income. In other words, in ten years the Liberal Government spent in services in the interests of the country a total of something like 180 millions and the net debt was increased on this account by only 2 millions. Here is the contrast. The late Conservative Government in the ten years from 1886 to 1896 spent on similar services 62 millions, and to do it increased the public debt by 35 millions. What nonsense to say that the Liberal Government is in the grasp of the great money-lenders! This is only one gem from the cluster that studs the address of the Conservative candidate, only one example of the misleading and imperfect statements set forth as the basis of his deductions. A good cause does not require the help of such methods.

MR. BORDEN OPPOSED.

Mr. Borden the leader of the Opposition, is not having his Halifax platform swallowed wholly enthusiastically by his followers. His public ownership plank is saturated with cold water, thrown by the greatest Conservative journal in Canada—the Montreal Gazette. Now the Kingston Standard, truculently "Tory," condemns Mr. Borden's public ownership theories and endorses the policy of the Liberal Government which is not merely talked about, but carried into practice—Government control of public utilities. The Dominion Government, through the Railway Commission, controls the railways in every way in which the public interest is concerned, freight rates, etc., etc., without the tremendous financial burden which purchase would involve. Through the Railway Commission the Government also controls telephone and telegraph systems as effectively as if it had paid millions for them. What the people are concerned in in relation to railway and similar operations is reasonable rates and effective service. These are obtained through the government control of such public utilities without immense expenditure in purchase maintenance, and management, and without robbing private enterprise of the results of its energy and the fruits of its expenditure of effort and money. The time may come when Canada can contemplate an extension of the principle of public ownership. She now has the Intercolonial Railway, which has been since its construction a rather heavy burden, but under Liberal rule has become a going and a paying concern. Canada will own outright 1,800 miles, odd, of the Transcontinental Railway when it is completed. These are beginnings and a practical and prudent concession to the principle of public ownership of utilities, which, doubtless, is all right where conditions make its adoption wise and feasible.

The Brantford Expositor deprecates what it calls "the usual mystery about the date of the elections"—the public should be relieved. The Expositor should possess its soul in patience. The election dates will be announced in due time.

MONTREAL AS A GRAIN PORT.

(Insurance and Finance Chronicle.)

Those who, but a short time ago, were inclined to complain at the projected expenditure of some $10,000,000 on Montreal harbour, are now becoming convinced that the Dominion could not have made a better investment for the country as a whole. The recently published special report of Messrs. George W Stephens and Frederick W Cowie, president and chief engineer of the Montreal Harbour Commission, made clear certain lessons which are to be learned from European ports; but made no less clear the unique natural advantages which Montreal possesses, and which it has for some time past been developing along progressive lines.

The Harbour Commission is no believer in a policy of laissez faire. Recently, at the request of the Montreal Corn Exchange, f.o.b., charges on rail-carried export grain were reduced to meet prevailing terminal charges for similar service at New York, Philadelphia and Boston. During the past week the president has returned from looking into facilities for handling grain in the West, having been engaged in making first-hand inquiries at Chicago, Duluth and Minneapolis, as well as at Canadian grain-shipping centres. Mr. Stephens reports that Montreal's growth in favour as a grain port is widely in evidence. One shipper stated that within the past year he had sent 2,000,000 bushels by Montreal, 300,000 by Portland and 164,000 by Buffalo, giving as his reason that it is handier to ship through Montreal than any other North Atlantic port. The trade is not hampered by petty charges, and better dispatch is given. In the matter of grain shipments via Canada, it is gratifying to hear that there is general recognition by American shippers of the superior integrity of the grain inspection carried out under the Canadian grain inspection department of the Dominion Government by Chief Inspector Horn.

MARINE INVESTIGATION.

It is perfectly true, as critics of the Minister of Marine have insistently urged, that the inquiry now being held before Judge Cassells was not asked for by the Opposition, and that it was asked for by the Hon. Mr. Brodeur. Not all those who believed in Mr. Brodeur's probity and ability agreed with him that such an enquiry was necessary or desirable. Enough had been brought out in the committees and in the House to warrant his going ahead with a strong hand to the completion of the work he had been tentatively engaged in for a couple of years. Mr. Brodeur's sense of justice is very strong, however, and if he must get rid of important officials he wanted the reasons for his doings to be clear and open to all. Some of the evidence coming out, such as that which tells of the destruction of books and documents, makes unpleasant reading. It will be well, however, to remark that time is an essential factor in this case, and that the methods against which complaint might reasonably be made encountered severe checks about the time Mr. Brodeur came into charge of the department. His statement at Sorel was that he started in to clear the place of boodlers and grafters—a legacy so far as personnel and system are concerned from Conservative times—and that they turned upon him in their rage. It will be well to note in how far the evidence supports that statement of the position. Certainly Mr. Brodeur, in putting it to the test of such an inquiry as this, even against the counsels of those who thought a vigorous reorganisation of the department all the occasion called for, has made a virtue of boldness to a remarkable degree. —Montreal Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES

La Presse, Montreal, makes an apt point. Referring to the fact that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association had sent an apology to a British Board of Trade for the statement of a trade journal, Industrial Canada, that British shoddy clothing was infected with the germs of filthy and incurable diseases. La Presse points out that there is due an apology from British sources for the slander implied in the false statement that Canadian cattle were afflicted with disease, and excluded from the British market accordingly.

Mr. Borden makes a good deal in the way of talk of civil service reform. He has theories on the subject. When he comes to Ontario Sir James Whitney will show him how far he is ahead of theory. He will show Mr. Borden how he, Sir James, has removed every vestige of politics from the civil service. People in the civil service, with wrong politics—that is Grits—had their heads chopped off and the spoils system was worked over time. The saying that adversity makes strange bedfellows, can be extended to include politics. Mr. Borden and Sir James Whitney, snoozing under the same civil service reform blankets is laughable.

Statistics show that railway business in Canada is picking up, especially as compared with that of the United States for June, 1907, the decrease in railway earnings in the United States and Canada was in about equal proportion. For last July the Canadian railway earnings showed a decrease from June, 1907, of $704,000, or 10.2 per cent, while those of the United States showed a decrease of $18,186,691, or 17.3 per cent. For the full eight months of the current year United States bank clearings show a decline of 20 per cent. from 1907, while the decline in Canada for the same period is only 11 per cent.

WEDDING BELLS

MACDONALD—DENNISTOUN

All Saints' Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, September 9, at 4 o'clock, when Miss Jessie, daughter of the late J. F. Dennistoun, and Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun, was married to Mr. J. A. Macdonald of Toronto, by the rector, the F. C. C. Heathcote. The chancel was banked with ferns, palms and cut flowers, bunches of pink asters, tied with pink satin ribbon, marking the pews reserved for the guests.

Promptly at the appointed hour the bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Max Dennistoun, and was preceded up the aisle by the surpliced choir singing "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." The four ushers, Dr. R. M. Simpson, Dr. John Macdonnell, Mr. Dennistoun Jones and Mr. Wm. Macdonnell; two little pages, Peel Dennistoun and Barry Bain, in man-of-war suits, and her bridesmaid, Miss Baldwin of Toronto, Mr. Hugo Ross supporting the groom as best man.

The bride looked very stately in a handsome empire gown of white liberty satin, the plain skirt made en traine, and the chemisette of tucked net joined to the bodice with ornament of seed pearls, a fichu of embroidered net draped over long sleeves of tucked net was finished with a buckle of white satin. Her tulle veil was worn over the face and was held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms and coronet of pearls. She wore the gift of the groom, a handsome diamond and pearl pendant and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and valley lilies. The maid of honour wore a beautiful gown of pale pink marquisette over chiffon taffeta of the same shade, the long trained skirt being finished with tucks and band of embroidered marquisette, the bodice having a yoke of ecru net outlined with lace, around which was draped a fichu of embroidered marquisette and the long Directoire sleeves. Her large hat of pink satin was faced with panne velvet, the crown being swathed with pink tulle and American Beauty roses. She wore a gold bangle, the gift of the groom, and carried a sheaf of American Beauty roses with streamers of pink satin ribbon. During the signing of the register the choir sang "O Father All Creating."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Mrs. J R Jones, sister of the bride, the bridal party receiving in the spacious hall. After the cutting of the cake by the bride, her health was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Heathcote, the groom responding in appropriate words. The health of the bridesmaid was proposed by the groom and responded to by the best man, after which the bride retired to dress for travelling.

Mrs. J F Dennistoun, mother of the bride, who was handsomely gowned in black panne velvet with chemisette of rose point lace, wore a bonnet of black lace and jet wreathed with mauve flowers, and carried mauve orchids.

Mrs. Max Dennistoun looked very stunning in a Directoire gown of pale blue liberty satin with yoke bebe Irish lace and bands of blue satin, outlined with gold braid, embroidered in white floss and studded with amethysts, caught at the back with cabochons of the same stones, the long sleeves being made of chiffon strapped with blue satin. The hat worn with this costume was a large hat of pale blue satin, the crown being trimmed at the front with two tailored bows of satin, and the three large plumes falling over the hair being held on the crown with knots of amethyst velvet and ornaments.

Mrs. J R Jones was becomingly gowned in grey satin striped voile with yoke of spotted net edged with a silver passementerie. She wore a large rose velvet hat faced with white satin and trimmed with flowers of darker shade, and carried pink roses and valley lilies tied with pink satin ribbon.

Mrs. A. Bain looked very smart in a gown of apricot marquisette with round yoke of spotted net relieved with touches of black and a large plumed hat of apricot velvet faced with black satin.—Winnipeg Telegram.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Paris is Full of Them and Nearly All Use Parisian Sage

In the beauty show at the metropolis two years ago gold medals were awarded to five different women.

To the most beautiful woman between 20 and 25; between 25 and 30; between 30 and 35; between 35 and 40 and between 40 and 45.

A society reporter who interviewed all five women in the interest of his papers, reported that all of them had beautiful hair, and that each of the five enthusiastically attributed her luxuriant hair to Parisian Sage. Wm. Madill, corner of George and Hunter streets, sells Parisian Sage for 50 cents a bottle. He guarantees it to cure a dandruff in two weeks; to stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. It makes any woman's hair beautiful, soft and luxuriant.

DON'T BLAME HER

For she cannot help it. Women are often cross, irritable, hysteric, and declare they are driven to distraction at the slightest provocation.

Men cannot understand why this should be so. To them it is a mystery because in nine times out of ten this condition is caused by a serious feminine derangement.

A remedy is necessary which acts directly upon the organs afflicted, restoring a healthy normal condition to the feminine system, which will quickly dispel all hysterical, nervous and irritable conditions. Such is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Henry Clark, Glandford Station, Ont., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years, and never found any medicine to compare with it for sick women.

—"I had ulcers and a displacement of the female organs, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has cured me."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

SCOTT TO RETIRE.

Venerable Secretary of State Will Rest on His Laurels.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—Announcement of dissolution of Parliament will be made this week by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. No official information as to the exact date of the election is yet available, but it is practically certain that the day selected for polling will be, as announced some time ago by your correspondent, either Wednesday, 28th, or Thursday, 29th, of October. Good progress has been made with the printing of the voters' lists, and the Secretary of State Department is now sending them out to the various constituencies as rapidly as possible.

It is stated on good authority that a Cabinet change will probably be announced shortly. Hon. R. W. Scott, the venerable Secretary of State, after over fifty years of public service is ready to be relieved of the constant stress of statecraft, and Mr. Charles Murphy, one of the foremost members of the eastern Ontario Bar and a prominent Irish Roman Catholic, is said to be slated as his successor. Mr. Murphy will probably be the Government candidate in Russell county.

WIZARD OF THE AIR.

Three More Records Are Broken by Orville Wright.

Washington, Sept. 14.—In two flights at Fort Myer Saturday afternoon, Orville Wright in the "Wright Flyer" broke three records.

Staying up nine minutes and six and one-third seconds in the first flights, in which George O. Squier, acting chief signal officer, accompanied him, Mr. Wright broke the record for a two-man flight which he established on Tuesday.

In the second flight Mr. Wright broke the record for time and distance of a heavier-than-air flying machine which he established yesterday, by remaining in the air for one hour, fourteen minutes and 24 seconds. In this flight he also went higher than an aeroplane has ever gone, rising to an altitude of 250 feet.

Mr. Wright also maintained a higher speed than in his other flights at Fort Myer, sailing around the grounds at the rate of 38.35 miles per hour on the first flight, when Major Squier accompanied him.

In this flight Mr Wright broke the world's record for time and distance for the fifth time last week.

Beats Zeppelin's Trip.

Berlin, Sept. 14.—A record flight was made by the military semi-rigid dirigible balloon, under command of Major Gross, which returned here shortly before noon Saturday, after having been in the air for 13 hours and two minutes.

This surpasses the record made by Count Zeppelin, when on July 1 he traversed the greater part of northern Switzerland, occupying 12 hours in the journey.

Unusual Fog.

Port Dalhousie, Ont., Sept. 14.—The dense fog which is impeding navigation on the upper lakes, has struck Lake Ontario, also the Welland Canal. Boats that were bound both up and down the canal had to tie up all night, being dangerous to navigate. Old experienced navigators never saw the fog so thick. It did not lift until the sun was out good and strong yesterday morning, and then set in again and still is as bad as ever here. The fog horn is blowing continually.

Killed by a Car.

Kingsville, Sept. 14.—While riding on a gravel train on the Windsor, Essex and Lake Short Electric Railroad, George Sherman of Windsor, an employe of the road, happening to make a misstep when the car was in motion, was run over and instantly killed.

Dumb Man Henpecked.

New York, Sept. 15.—Charging that his deaf mute wife nags him in sign language, James William Nash, himself deaf and dumb, has instituted divorce proceedings, which will be heard before Vice-Chancellor Howell in Newark on Wednesday.

Used Revolver.

Guelph, Sept. 14.—There was a shooting in the downtown streets on Saturday evening, and Joshua Peters can consider himself fortunate that he didn't kill a man.

Joshua is the city dog catcher. He says he was chasing a canine back of the Central Hotel when Robert Bulger interfered. Peters started in to use his "billy" on Bulger who got possession of it and struck back. Then Joshua drew his revolver and fired. The bullet went over Bulger's shoulder and passed through the hat of the usual innocent bystander.

Bulger grappled with Peters and both were on the ground when P. C. Borthwick arrested them.

Lawyer Fights C.P.R.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 14.—Joseph Martin, K.C., has issued a writ against the C.P.R. for unstated damages arising out of a fight he had with a policeman two weeks ago on the company's wharf here.

Plague in Russia.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 14.—The Asiatic cholera in St. Petersburg is increasing, and each day that passes brings a larger number of cases. Already it has assumed the proportions of the epidemic of 1891. Up to noon Saturday 169 new cases had been officially received at the hospitals. Twenty-three deaths were reported on Saturday.

Rivals Use Poison.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—The "war" between the Jewish butchers in the "Ward" assumed a serious aspect on Saturday night when D. Caplan, who started the trouble by underselling his competitors, suffered the loss of a horse valued at $200. The animal was poisoned in the stable between 10 and 12 o'clock Saturday night.

Arrested at Brantford.

Brantford, Sept. 14.—Fred McArthur, a well-known local man, was arrested here early yesterday morning, following an attempt to rob the grocery store at Harp Bros. in West Brantford. Entrance was effected through a rear window and the marauder's presence was noticed. A small amount of cash was secured.

Dangers of the Harvest.

Oak Lake, Man., Sept. 14.—At the farm of George Mackay, near Kenton, Herbert Laird, aged 30, from Prince Edward Island, engaged at threshing, fell into the separator and was killed.

Deaths Number Two.

Brantford, Sept. 14.—The death list resulting from the explosion now totals two—Charlie Hornie, aged two, and Joseph Blaybesough. The others are progressing favorably.

Feared Consumption.

Youngstown, N.Y., Sept. 13.—H. C. Marshall, Jr., who was found dead in a field in Stanton avenue, Pittsburg, yesterday, is said to have told his friends here that he feared he had consumption, and to have declared that if he ever became positive that he was thus afflicted, he would kill himself.

Horse Killed; Men Escape.

Belleville, Sept. 14.—William Dean and a companion were driving near Garson Hill and tried to run their horse over the G.T.R. crossing towards which a train was coming. The train was too quick. The horse was cut in two and the two men had a narrow escape.

Brantford Man Dies.

Brantford, Sept. 14.—William G. Elliot, managing director of the Ontario Portland Cement Co., and one of the most prominent of Brantford's business men, died suddenly of heart failure yesterday. A week ago he had a stroke of paralysis.

Burned to Death.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 14.—Miss Galloway, aged 26 years, was in her dressing-room last night when a lighted lamp dropped on the floor igniting her dress. She was burned to death in a few minutes.

Kinmount Fair One Of The Best And Biggest In History

THE WEATHER WAS IDEAL

Kinmount, Sept. 14.—Special.—Back in the north country for miles around Kinmount the Galway Fall Show is awaited with expectancy every year by hundreds, and the directors of that fair pride themselves upon having "the best fair in the north country," and perhaps rightly so.

This annual event was in progress here last Thursday and Friday, and another notch, indicating success, has been made by the directors of the show. The fair this year could hardly be classed the "best in history," but everybody—and there was a good crowd there — went away satisfied and happy, and what more would you want?

The weather could not have been better had it been ordered for the occasion. The clouds, which had obscured the sun earlier in the morning, rolled away by noon. A cool breeze alleviated the heat to some extent, and plenty of pink ice cream and cider kept the inner man at a comfortable temperature.

Surrounded by rocks of all sizes and descriptions, which only add to the picturesqueness of the place, lies Kinmount, the location of the fair, on the shores of the Burnt River. The village has a quaint charm of its own, though the prevalence of dry, dusty sand is no dream. This sand lies inches deep on the road and manages to penetrate every portion of one's clothing, much to the wearer's discomfort. The race track at the fair grounds is composed of the same brand of sand and the going was very heavy.

Special rates were in vogue on the Grand Trunk, and an excursion train brought a crowd from Lindsay and intervening points. About 50 came down on the special from points north and up along the I. B. & O. There were many more from nearby villages, and every farmer in the vicinity was in for a big day.

The grounds are located about half a mile from the village and are reached by following a roadway that winds through the rocks and is ankle-deep in sand. The track on which horse-racing takes place is a half-mile one, and, as said before, was very heavy. A grandstand provided accommodation for any who wanted to secure for themselves a vantage point from which to view the sights.

Events on Thursday

On Thursday the fair was opened, but the big crowd did not arrive until Friday. The Farmers race, open to the four townships surrounding Kinmount, for a purse of $25, induced a number of agriculturists to enter their "drivers" to really see how fast the steeds could go. The race was won in straght heats and the prize-winners were:

Gray Ned, John McKinley... ...1 1 1
Ben D., John Davis... ... ...3 3 3

Probably the most humourous attraction on the programme was the scrub race. In this event the slowest horse carried off the money. To make matters more complex, and therefore more interesting, no man was allowed to ride his own horse, thus each rider was striving to make his mount go ahead and thus leave his own horse, which somebody, else was riding, behind. No whips were allowed and half-mile heats were run. A prize of $5 was offered for first and $2 for second. Alex Orego's Shetland pony won the race as it succeeded in being outdistanced. It might not have fallen behind the others, but a heavy rider was perched on its back and it got tired. Wallace Craig's horse, Ben Patch, got second money. The race created lots of fun.

Friday's Racing

Some good horses were brought out for the speeding events on Friday. Among the notables was that old campaigner, Orillia Belle, owned and driven by the veteran turfman, Geo. Powell. Geo. Curtis had a likely-looking beast on the track in Pathfinder. Both these horses were entered in the free-for-all, but were beaten by an Orillia horse, Walter G., owing probably more to the heavy track than anything else.

Green Race

In the green race four horses fought for the money. Joe Patchen owned by T. T. Hodgins, Orillia, and driven by George Powell, won the race in straight heats. Sid Passmore's Danny Bright, was tramping on the winner's heels all the way and several pretty heats were recorded. Powell managed, however, to keep his pacer's nose ahead of Passmore's horse. The summary of the green race was:

Joe Patchen, Hodgins, Orillia...1 1 1
Danny Bright, Passmore, O...2 2 2
Lapadis Smiler, Geo. Barry, West Guilford 3 3 3
Fanny Anteam, C. Aldous, Fenelon Falls... ... ...4 4 x

Best time, 2.59 1-4.

The 2 40 Race

Dr. Cowan's Harry K., of Lindsay, is a strong going horse, and its strength took it through the heavy track in the 2.40 to victory. The "Doc." drove himself and won handily in straight heats. Geo. Dettman, of Kinmount, had Minnie J. in the race, with Charlie O'Neill in the sulky. The horse was a little light for the heavy going, but made a race of it in each heat. More was expected of A. J. Ashmore's, Lindsay, Lou Keswick, but the little mare hadn't the strength. Pat Hickey kept her near the leaders, however. The summary:

Harry K., Dr. Cowan, Lindsay...1 1 1
Minnie J., Geo. Dettman, Kinmount... ... ...2 2 2
Lou Keswick, A. J. Ashmore, Lindsay... ... ...3 3 3

Best time, 2.49 1-4.

George Powell tried hard to win the free-for-all, with Orillia Belle, but the old horse looks good for the superannuated list. Perhaps the condition of the track was accountable, but the Belle couldn't nose ahead of Hodgins, Orillia. Walter G. The later horse is a nice goer, and won the race in a similar manner to which the other races were won, viz., in straight heats. Sid Passmore handled the reigns above her. George Curtis had Pathfinder in line, but the horses did not take kindly to the track. The first heat he was bad on the start, and a number of scores were made which tired him. The animal showed bursts of speed that marked him as a good one, and he will be heard from later, no doubt. The summary:

Walter G., T. Hodgins, Orillia...1 1 1
Orillia Belle, G. Powell, Peterborough... ... ...T2 2 2
Pathfinder, G. Curtis, Lindsay...3 3 3

Best time, 2.30.

(Mr. Tom Bowes, of Lindsay, made a capable starter.

Ladies Driving

This competition is one that always creates a good deal of interest at a fair. Three expert lady drivers were entered in the competition Friday, and Miss Quinn finally carried off the coveted prize. Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Hodgins also competed.

Some of the judges were: Horses, Mr. Elliott, county treasurer, Peterborough; A. Braden, Bobcaygeon; cattle, sheep and pigs, Jas. Mortimer, Minden, Joseph Handley, Burnt River; vegetables, dairy and domestic, and grain, W. White and Joseph Brown, Lindsay, John Brandon, Fenelon Falls; lady judges, Mrs. W. Thorndyke, Oakwood, Mrs. J. Brandon, and Mrs. J. Austin, Fenelon Falls; poultry, Walter Stevenson, of Fenelon Falls, Albert Townsend, Burnt River.

The horse racing was the feature of the fair. Each driver tried hard to win and there were many exciting heats.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE'S ADDRESS UNDER CRITICISM

"Elector" Analyzes Some of Its Features---Ranges From Anarchy to Insanity

Dear Sir,—As an elector, interested, like all the electors of the riding and district, in seeing the best representative of West Peterborough at Ottawa, I ask space for a little reference to the extraordinary address to the electors issued by Mr. Burnham, the Conservative candidate. To characterize it in general terms it may be described as a combination of sophistry and sentiment demagoguery and cant. The opening sentence furnishes the key note to the character of the candidate's capacity—impracticality and incompetence. "Gentlemen, the condition of industry in Canada is bad. The condition of the working man is following suit." It may be admitted that there is depression in business which promises to be only temporary, but let me inquire what Mr. Burnham, the candidate has done, proposes to do or has the ability to do, to improve the condition of industry in Peterborough or elsewhere, or what has he ever done to help the workingmen of Peterborough? Has he ever been known to invest a penny of his money to encourage manufacturing or furnish employment for working men? Not that I known of and I know Mr. Burnham and industrial conditions in Peterborough pretty well, and I know nothing of them in common. Mr. Burnham (remember I am dealing with him as a candidate) has never lifted a finger to give practical effect to his pretended interest in industry and working men. Assured of an easy life—a life without work—he has, so far as practical effort goes, no thought for others—to an extent that will induce him to risk the slightest sacrifice for their benefit. He admits this, when in closing his address, he says: "I have no money to lose." I have no fault to find with the Conservative candidate taking this position—he has a perfect right to look out for himself. But he has no right to posture as a friend of industry and the working man, under false pretences—without a record of ever having done a tap to practically help either one, without evidence of ability or willingness to do so, beyond mere words. I don't call the Conservative candidate a demagogue, but I should feel that I would be a demagogue if, as a candidate, I professed an interest I never showed out in works—to catch votes, to gold-brick the electors. The Conservative candidate in this connection reminds me of our Lord's saying: "Woe unto ye lawyers! for you lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and you yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers."

This precious address is not only specious but incorrect in statement. It says, "These things were not so under a protectionist government." This is bombast. We have a little touch of depression just now,, but, in nearly every year of the eighteen years of Conservative rule, we had no better times than we have to-day. The worst period of depression, the worst conditions of trade—business depression, low wages, trade stagnation, falling revenue, deficits and general discouragement in national outlook ever known in Canada, marked the closing year of the Conservative reign. There have never been twelve years of greater prosperity, growth and development than the twelve years since the Liberals came into power. Never twelve years of such high wages and abundance of employment. The people felt their prosperity in their pockets—didn't have to look for it in cooked census returns.

The Conservative candidate insults the intelligence of the electors in telling them that the worst of hard times we have in Canada is due to our tariff. The United States has, perhaps, the highest tariff in the world—much higher than Canada, yet times are ten times worse than here. There are more idle workingmen to the thousand in the States than in Canada.

The Conservative candidate opposes immigration, the necessary element in national development. He opposes railway construction, an indispensable element in national development. He proposes to make workingmen rich by high taxation. The government's policy is to build up the country by developing its resources. To fill up vacant land with producing settlers, which will widen our home market, give orders to eastern factories and employment to workingmen.

What in this precious address is not incorrect statement, misleading insinuation and demagogic appeal, is—well to be as respectful as possible—flapdoodle and buncombe. What in the way of meaning or sense can one make of a sentence like this?

"A high national deficit is accumulating this year, and unless times are checked and we are restored to our own, the coming winter will be a veritable horror."

Or this?

"The charge we make against the Liberal administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is that it is in the grasp of the great money lenders. It has ceased to represent the people. Is it any wonder men lose faith in government? Without any government at all they would be a happier people. If the times are not rescued, whether it be by a party or a people, civilization will be destroyed."

What does all this mean? In one sentence we are told that there will be trouble unless "the times are checked," and in the other "unless the times are rescued." Without any government at all we should be a happier people." Why, that's flat anarchy. Does the Conservative candidate in his address know what he is talking about? He toadies to the working class to get their votes, he, who has never done anything to put a dollar in their way. Pandering to the prejudices of the unthinking he makes anarchistic denunciation of capital. To the same end he exploits the "yellow peril" and in doing so tells—stories. He speaks of "the millions of the Orient displacing the whites in British Columbia"—exaggeration to the extent of misstatement. The Conservative candidate's address is an appeal to prejudice and passion—a vote-begger. He is cloudy and obscure, theoretical and unpractical. Is he the man who will make a good live representative? Will he watch our interests, fight our battles, look after our wants and get what we want? His address shows that he is a dreamer. I don't say this in discourtesy, but as a simple statement of fact, borne out by the character of the address he has issued, and as evidence that he lacks the practical qualities, the business experience, the business ability, the energy of character, to give West Peterborough the practically beneficial representation it requires. Would it be good business to have a theoretical representative on the Opposition benches at Ottawa?

Mr. Burnham says, "Let humanity have a chance." Let West Peterborough have a certainty of capable and energetic representation, says

Yours truly,
ELECTOR.

ELOQUENT ADDRESS ON TEMPERANCE

Rev. Dr. O'Brien Spoke at St. Peter's Cathedral Yesterday—Pointed Out Good Results.

BENEFITS TO ABSTAINERS

An eloquent address was delivered by Rev. Dr. O'Brien at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday on the subject of "Temperance." He spoke to two kinds of men, those who had not yet joined the society and those few who had, but who had fallen away having surrendered to the increased temptation which the summer always presents.

In the course of his remarks he stated that he had heard it said that temperance was his hobby. Rev. Dr. O'Brien then pointed out the utter absurdity of such statements. Temperance, like all the other virtues required constant watchfulness just as intemperance like other vices, should always be guarded against. Rev. Dr. O'Brien vividly portrayed the home where the "demon of intemperance" had entered, and referring to the vast amount of good the society had accomplished, urged all the men of the congregation to ally themselves with the work for their very presence, as a member increased the society's influence and prestige.

PETERBORO' ATTRACTING ATTENTION

That Peterborough is attracting international attention is shown by the not unfrequent space devoted by American papers to this flourishing city. The Buffalo Courier of this week contained several views of this city, and a cut of the lift lock and also a description of it. Among the photos were one of George street, looking north from the customs building; the Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., the Hydraulic Co's power plant, the oldest residence of Peterborough; the Customs building, and Quaker Oats Company's mills. A good photo of Mr. Fred McCorry, a well-known resident of this city, was also given, showing the three medals this old veteran has won in the service of his country. Mr. McCorry received the long service medal, as well as one for service during the Fenian Raid and during the Northwest Rebellion.

SPLENDID WORK ON NEW FURNITURE FACTORY

Mr. Wm. Mein Contractor for Brick Work—Walls Rising Rapidly.

Mr. Wm. Mein, the contractor who has charge of the brick work on the new furniture factory, East City, belonging to Mr. F W Oke, is making rapid progress with the work. When completed the factory will be the second Mr. Mein has erected for Mr. Oke and both of them will be creditable monuments to his ability as a mason.

The foundation of the new factory, is under the contractorship of Mr. Bert McMillen and he also has made an excellent job of the work. The new factory will be in operation in the near future.

A CURIOUS FACT

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Yesterday, the 13th of September, was in the Church of England Calendar, the 13th Sunday after Trinity. This will not occur again until 1936. How many of us will live to see it?

Yours truly,
C. O. E.

CATCHY BARN DANCE

No piece of music has ever sprung into popularity in so short a time as "Happy Group" barn dance. The sale of the piece of music in the past month has been tremendous and far beyond expectations. The outlook indicates that the sale will run in hundreds of thousands and outsell any piece of music that has ever been published in years.

The barn dance is not a new dance, but a reminiscence of 1850, and dancing masters consider it such a beautiful dance that they have taken it up again. Not alone is it an enjoyable dance in the ball room and dancing school, but at home just as well.

The music of "A Happy Group" is so exceptionally catchy that it is recognized as being the best on the market, and no other barn dance can compare with it.

Despite the warm weather of Saturday afternoon, a number of Rugby enthusiasts were out at Riverside Park and a lively practice was indulged in. It was really too warm for the strenuous sport, but the players kept at it for over an hour. Among those out were Dickson, Fitzpatrick, A. Quinlan, H. Quinlan, Hickey, Davidson, Mulhern, Hall and Meldrum.

Large And Jolly Crowd At Benefit Society Excursion

Sixth Annual Outing a Complete Success—The Races and Other Sports Enjoyed.

JUBILEE THE DESTINATION

The sixth annual picnic of the Canadian General Electric Company's Mutual Benefit Society on Saturday afternoon, was a complete success. The works closed down at eleven o'clock and an immense crowd of the employees with their families and friends met at the Wolfe street wharf, where they boarded the steamer Otonabee. The picnic was to Jubbilee Point, and when the boat pulled away from the city wharf at 12.30 it carried one of the jolliest crowds that ever left the city. Upon arrival there the committee in charge of the sports immediately got busy. The down trip was very enjoyable, and the people were in splendid mood to enjoy the races, the results of which were as follows:

Boys' race, 15 years and under—F. Cassidy, R. Carson and J. Henry.

100 yard dash, open—F. Terrell, R. Evans.

Bottle race—J. Crough.

Peanut race—L. McDonald, R. Carson.

Egg and spoon race—Nellie Leaman and Pearl Dunford.

Biscuit eating contest—H. O'Hara.

Smoking contest—A. Everson, J. H. Dennard.

Sack race—F. Terrell, R. Evans, V. Bouskell.

Tug of war—The team captained by E. Hurtubise won in two straight pulls from J. J. Hickey's team.

An extra event was put on, known as horse wrestling. This proved a great source of enjoyment and also showed what the human body will stand when in proper condition. Terrell on top of Dennard won from Crough on top of Hurtubise.

The officials were:

Starter—J. H. Dennard.

Judges—Geo. Lynch and F. Desautel.

Clerks—W. Dickson, E. Hurtubise.

Officers — R. Morrison, president; W. A. Anson, vice-president; T. A. Shannon, secretary; R. E. Harding, treasurer.

After the sports were concluded supper was partaken of and the early evening was quietly spent. The return journey was very pleasant. The boat arrived at the Wolfe street wharf about 10 o'clock, and all went home happy.

ROUSING OPENING RALLY AT STRATTON'S COMMITTEE ROOMS

Several Short Addresses---Enthusiasm and Confidence Their Keynote---Candidate Heartily Endorsed

At the opening Saturday night meeting at Mr. Stratton's committee rooms they were well filled, and the greatest enthusiasm and confidence were in evidence.

Mr. A. McFarlane, vice-president of the city committee, occupied the chair and called for brief addresses.

Mr. Stratton in opening spoke of the heartiness of the reception he had met with from his old time supporters and friends. He referred to the excellent work done by Mr. Hall during his four years of representation in the interests of the riding. He said he would devote some evening to a consideration of some things that were required, and to what he might be expected to accomplish in his representative capacity.

Mr. Wm. Eyres, one of Mr. Stratton's old time supporters, was warmly applauded. He referred particularly to the manner in which the application of the Liberal Government's policy had built up and developed the Northwest, where he had considerable interests, and where the growth and improvement were very great. There had been a great growth in population and in the acreage under crop. The energy of the government in building the Grand Trunk Pacific was sure to increase the prosperity of the West. This showed that they appreciated their responsibility to help the progress of the country, as further evidenced by the business way they had handled the Trent Valley Canal, which had so long been hanging fire. It was now on the verge of completion, and would be a great factor in promoting the great development that was taking place, and would take place in the future under a progressive and capable Administration.

Mr. John McCann spoke of the importance of Peterborough having a member with the will and ability to work for it. Mr. Stratton had showed by his past splendid record of work for West Peterborough that he was the man for the position. He had not only been a live and alert member, but he had made good in every walk of life he had thrown his energies into. He was the working man's friend, not be mere word of 'mouth but he had showed it by his active and substantial interest in almost every industry in Peterborough. He said the country had prospered greatly under the present Government, and West Peterborough should send it a live and energetic supporter. He thought it was not time for a change, for a change from Fielding and a full treasury to Foster and deficits. The country had had experience enough of "mouldering branches." The tree had been pruned and was in good growing condition, bearing good fruit and we should keep it so.

Mr. R. R. Hall spoke of the record of the government. In twelve years it had accomplished great public works and all this had been done practically without the addition of a dollar to the public debt. In eighteen years the Conservatives had added millions to the public debt, and under their rule the progress of the country was at a standstill. Under the Liberal Government Canada was being brought up to the standard of a go-ahead and flourishing nation. Since the Liberal Government came into power the trade of the country had increased nearly two hundred million dollars. In 1896 it was some two hundred and thirty millions. Last year it was six hundred and thirty millions. He referred also to the government's practical interest in transportation, by the deepening of the canals, the improvement of navigation, the business dealing with the Trent Valley Canal, and the Transcontinental Railway. Reference was made to the campaign of slander which the Opposition were waging in order to draw away attention from the Government's great record of achievement which so strongly commended them to the support of the people. This campaign of slander and side issues had its local features. Some of the Conservatives of Peterborough were making him an object of pity and were trying to make it appear that he was sidetracked as a candidate. He knew the facts himself and was no object of pity or sympathy. He had declined the candidature for purely business reasons and that was the simple truth. He had retired off his own bat, and he wanted it distinctly understood that till two days before the convention he had no thought of not being a candidate if the party wanted him. In view of the nature of his affairs, he had consulted with his friends as to his retirement, and the result was that he dropped out as a candidate, and he was proud that he had succeeded in bringing about the nomination of Mr. Stratton. He wanted no mock sympathy and wanted no crocodile tears shed over him by Mr. Kendry or Mr. Burnham. They would need their tears for themselves. He thought it fortunate that a man of Mr. Stratton's ability and capacity for good service for Peterborough and West Peterborough had been secured as candidate.

Mr. J. J. Hartley spoke of the splendid record of service Mr. Hall had achieved during his short term of four years. His retirement under other circumstances would be a loss not easily repaired, but with Mr. Stratton as canddiate now, and member later, we should be sure of a continuation of good service. He might be expected to be assailed by the old ties and slanders, but in spite of all this, he stood high in the confidence of the people. Both Liberals and Conservatives appreciated his past services and had confidence in his ability, to make just the kind of live representative the riding wanted. He was born and brought up in Peterborough and has always been Peterborough's friend, working hard for its interests, and taking an active share in promoting by both his means and his efforts everything calculated to benefit the city and county. They had heard all sorts of yarns about Mr. Stratton. If, as was alleged, or insinuated, he was a thief, how was it that he hadn't stolen something from Peterborough people: if he was a liar, as is alleged by hostile jealousy, now is it Peterborough people will take his word for any statement, while they would hardly take some of his detractors' bonds, which were needed to give faith in what they say? If, as alleged, he was crooked, how had that been shown? Where was the proof beyond wild and venemous talk? If we sent Mr. Stratton to Parliament, which we should do, he will be able to hold his own with any member of Parliament on the floor of the House, and he would no doubt be called to higher service in the counsels of the country.

Mr. J. J. Thornton said there was no doubt about the result of the campaign in West Peterborough. It only needed work and effective organization. The electors could have no doubt as to a choice between Mr. Stratton's work for West Peterborough in the past and the professions of his Conservative opponents. He was a broad-minded, public-spirited man with a large capacity for useful service. He was a man of the people, for the people — the people wanted him, and they would have him.

The highly successful meeting closed with the usual cheers.

PRIZE FOR DOG RACE AT THE FAIR

Mr. Wm. Yelland Offers $5.00 as a Stimulant to Canine Owners

Ex-Mayor Yelland has decided to offer a prize for a dog race, to take place at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this morning. Five dollars will be given to the boy who owns the fastest canine, so that it is up to the kids to get their dogs in shape. Mr. Yelland was the promoter of a similar race some years ago, and was a great success providing plenty of amusement for the crowd, and, no doubt, will prove equally successful this year. Boys who own trained dogs should enter them with Secretary F. J. A. Hall, who will be found at Messrs. Storey and Simpson's store, Water street.

THE FRUITS OF THE EARTH

Seem To Be Nature's Provision For Keeping Man Healthy and Warding Off Disease.

Cereals, vegetables and meat supply the elements needed for man's nourishment. Yet fruit — though it has very little food value—has proved to be absolutely necessary for perfect health.

Careful investigation has shown that all the common fruits act on the Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Skin. These are the organs that rid the body of dead tissue and waste products, and the fruit juices stir them up to more vigorous action, thus keeping the whole body clean and healthy.

But few people eat enough fruit. Realizing this, after several years of experimenting, a prominent Canadian physician succeeded in combining the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes in such a way that the medicinal action is many times multiplied. Then he added valuable tonics and made the combination into tablets called "Fruit-a-tives." They are really Nature's cure for Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness and Stomach Troubles. Mild as Nature itself — but more prompt and effective. Sold by dealers at 50c. a box—6 boxes for $2.50—trial size box 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

SNOW GETS THROUGH THE PRISON BARS

HAS A BAD JAIL RECORD

Another of Notorious Family Whose Youngest Son Got Away In Big Jail Delivery at Toronto Jail Defies Imprisonment While Convicts Are at Chapel and Is Still at Large — Seen In Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Forcing his way through the 6 1-2 inch space between the sill and the first bar on a window in the Central Prison on Sunday afternoon, William Snow got clear away. He is a brother of the notorious young Robert Snow who was one of the seven making the getaway from the Toronto jail some time ago.

The escape is supposed to have taken place about 3.30 in the afternoon; he was not missed till 4, and an additional quarter of an hour was lost trying to locate him in one of the cells, so that he had a good three-quarters of an hour start.

He is reported to have been seen at his father's home wearing a short coat over the regulation blue and brown striped garb of the institution, a peaked cap, and a pair of rubbers. He was also seen in the "Ward."

On Sundays no guards patrol the walls as all the outer doors are locked up. Snow was attending divine service in the prison chapel and during service whispered to the guard at the door that he wanted to go down to his cell for a minute, and the guard, knowing that all the doors were securely locked and barred, gave him permission without attending him, or sending any one along with him.

Crossing the swing bridge separating the cell galleries from the main building, Snow made his way to the bottom floor. Convenient to his purpose he noticed beneath a window, set fully six feet from the floor, a wash tub which had been used to wash up some of the prison vessels. He climbed the tub, and thus was enabled to get a good purchase on the solid bars. Pulling himself up he got his head and arm through the six and a-half inch space between the solid masonry and the long bar, gradually pulled himself upward and outward and got through.

It was but the work of a minute for him to place a couple of 18-foot planks against the wall — one reaching to within a couple of feet from the top at a steep incline, and the other at a long angle.

The escaped man has a bad record. Three months ago he had aided his brother in the robbery at Peter Ellis' sporting goods place.

The sums for which William Snow was sentenced to 23 months was for robbery in Kling Bros'. jewelry store on West Queen street.

The police only got Snow and his companions after some shooting, but they consented to waive extradition.

Will Organize Japs.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—R. P. Pettapiece of British Columbia, who is in the city at present, intends running as a Socialist for Medicine Hat. Mr. Pettapiece, in an interview, expressed his intention of organizing the Japanese.

He states that the Orientals in British Columbia are well armed and ready to prevent any further attacks from the exclusionists. He has a great opinion of the Japanese, stating that they recently struck on the coast for higher wages, and even appealed to the Trades and Labor Council against white labor acting as strike-breakers.

His avowed intention on his return to British Columbia is to organize the Japanese, and, as he puts it, clean up the country with them.

Offered More, But In Vain.

London, Sept. 14. (C.A.P.)—The Financial News publishes a communication indicating that the tender of the Anglo-Canadian Finance Co. offering one-half per cent. above the highest offer for the recent issue of the Vancouver debentures was rejected by reason stated being ambiguity.

Friends Suicide.

New York, Sept. 14.—Frank Bennett, ex-manager of the Hotel Gotham, and George Crouch, financial writer and friend of Bennett, without pre-arrangement, each shot himself Saturday in this city.

Drowned at Vancouver.

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—E. Hutchinson, formerly of New Liskeard, Ont., and brother of the medical health officer at London, Ont., was drowned while trolling in the harbor here.

Lord Milner's Mission.

London, Sept. 14.—The Journal avers that Lord Milner has gone to Canada to spy out the land in reference to his possible appointment if the Tories resume power.

WAS BRILLIANT FUNCTION

Young British Lawmaker's Nuptials Are Celebrated in St. Margaret's Church Attended by Notable and Fashionable Gathering — Will Spend Their Honeymoon in Berlin—Handsome Presents.

London, Sept. 14.—Winston Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, was married in this city Saturday afternoon to Clementine, daughter of the late Sir Henry Montague Homer, who for thirty-two years was secretary of Lloyds.

The ceremony occurred at St. Margaret's Church, the little edifice which stands in the shadow of Westminster Abbey, where so many fashionable weddings have taken place, and attracted more attention than any wedding this season, principally because of the social and political prominence of Mr. Churchill, who is one of the most discussed men in the United Kingdom.

A reception was held afterwards at Lady St. Helier's in Portland place, where the numerous and costly presents were displayed. A wedding cake five feet high was cut at the reception.

Later in the afternoon the couple took a train for Blenheim Palace. After the visit there they will go to Berlin until the opening of Parliament.

To Be Seen and Heard.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Another feature, besides the talking machine with records of the speeches of candidates, has been added to the novelties of the Presidential campaign by the Democratic national committee, which yesterday announced that moving pictures of William J. Bryan in Chicago on Labor Day would be thrown upon canvasses at political meetings all over the country.

When the pictures show Bryan speaking the candidate's voice will be heard from the phonographic record of the Labor Day address.

Candidates Chosen.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—The following Federal nominations was made on Saturday:

North York Conservatives—John Armstrong, reeve of King Township.

South Wellington Liberals—Hugh Guthrie, M.P.

East Simcoe Liberals—Manley Chew, of Midland.

Peel Conservatives—Richard Blain, M.P.

Infernal Machine In Mail.

Seagirt, N.J., Sept. 14—An attempt to assassinate Governor Fort of New Jersey has been thwarted by the watchfulness of postoffice employes, who discovered an infernal machine addressed to the governor in the mails.

The package contained powder, bullets and matches so arranged that opening it in the ordinary way would have caused an explosion with probably fatal results.

Holland's Queen Expects Heir.

The Hague, Sept. 14.—Joy was brought to the hearts of the entire Dutch kingdom yesterday afternoon by the announcement from the royal castle at Appledoorn that the stories regarding Queen Wilhelmina's condition and her reported premature delivery of a child are false.

The physicians in attendance on the Queen say that an heir to the throne may be expected in April.

Killed by Fall.

Calgary, Sept. 14.—Wm Kincaid, who fractured his skull last Thursday by falling down hotel stairs, died yesterday. The police are waiting instructions from the widow at Paisley, Ont., regarding the funeral.

Hi Henry Dying.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 14.—Hi Henry, the veteran minstrel, lies at his home at Horseshoe Bend, two miles from here, in a critical condition from apoplexy.

STEAMERS COLLIDE.

Corinthian Wrecks Malin Head Off Quebec City.

Quebec, Sept. 14.—A severe collision between the steamers Corinthian of the Allan line and the Malin Head, belonging to the Head line, occurred Saturday morning near the Gosse Isle quarantine station, in a slight haze, and resulted in the Malin Head being beached in a badly damaged condition. The Corinthian, with a few passeners and cargo from Montreal, passed by the part of Quebec at 4 o'clock Saturday morning, and two hours later ran into the Malin Head, bow on, striking the latter almost amidships, and cutting her down below the waterline. She commenced to fill rapidly, and there was nothing left for the master, Capt. Campbell, and Pilot Soulett, in charge, but to beach the vessel. This was done none too soon, for her three holds were by this time filled with water. The Corinthian in the meantime did not escape uninjured. Her bows were stove in, and water commenced to fill her first compartment.

Captain Dunlop and Pilot Simard, in charge of the steamer, covered the badly injured bow with canvas, which enabled her to return to Quebec. It is said that each captain blames the other.

The wrecking steamer Lord Strathcona, with lighters, has gone done to the scene of the disaster to assist the Malin Head.

ACCOUNTS CROOKED.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Revelations of a sensational nature were made public yesterday regarding the failure of A. Booth & Co., the $12,000,000 fish, game and sea food corporation, which was placed in the hands of a receiver Thursday.

That the concern's books have been juggled for a period extending back at least three years, is charged in a circular sent out by the interested bankers, who also set forth that in the company's statements $1,200,000 had been deducted from the liabilities and the books made to balance by a similar juggling in the asset column.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—The failure of the Booth Company of Chicago, known as the fish trust, is of deep interest to Western Canada. Some years ago the company absorbed a number of small concerns operating in the fishing business on the lakes of Western Canada from Port Arthur to Lake Winnipegosis.

PREMIER RESIGNS.

Copenhagen, Sept. 14.—The Danish Premier, J. C. Christensen, on Saturday night handed the Cabinet resignation to the King in accordance with the latter's demand.

The order for the Cabinet's resignation was issued yesterday afternoon in consequence of the strong public opinion against the Ministry, which p wsormeaomlgdbP.U3? [illegible] was compromised through the Premier's guarantee of M. Alberti's honesty and integrity.

Premier Christensen's resignation had been loudly demanded by the public and the newspapers ever since the downfall of M. Alberti, the ex-Minister of Justice.

Excitement In Fireworks.

New Westminster, B.C., Sept. 14.—After deliberating on the question for over two hours, the school trustees of this city have decided that the Canadian flag should be flown over the public schools, this in spite of the order of the Provincial Government calling on all school teachers to fly the Union Jack. Only one trustee favored the floating of the emblem of imperialism.

Toronto Ex. Over.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—There was a bumper crowd watching the closing performance before the Canadian National Exhibition grand stand on Saturday night. The estimate is 15,000. For the final day's attendance the figure was placed at 60,000 people. It is noteworthy that the number of lost articles reported equalled any day during the exhibition.

Fought With Hatchet.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—George Stelton and Henry Green got mixed up in a brawl in the Robert Davies racing stable on Leslie street, and Stelton is alleged to have struck Green on the head with a hatchet, inflicting a bad cut on the ear and one on the head above the eyes. Both men are said to have been drinking during the day.

NEW YORKER WANTS TO BET $2500 SHRUBB CAN BEAT JOHN HAYES

New York, Sept. 13.—Another challenge for a race between John Hayes, winner of the Marathon race at the Olympic games in London, and Alfred Shrubb, the professional distance runner, has been added to the one issued recently by Arthur Duffey, one time amateur champion sprinter. By accepting the challenge and racing Shrubb, Hayes, if he defeats the Englishman, can win $5,000. Duffey has challenged Hayes to race Shrubb for $2,500 a side, and now one Arthur Smith says he and a party of clubmates will bet $2,500 more that Shrubb can defeat Hayes in a race of any distance from two miles to twenty-five.

Dear Sir,—A party of friends and myself are prepared to bet $2,500 that Alfred Shrubb, the English runner, can defeat John J Hayes, winner of the Marathon, in any kind of a foot race from two miles to twenty-five. No one gives more credit to Mr. Hayes for winning the Marathon than I do, and as a true American sportsman I congratulate him and all the other athletes of the Olympic team.

Undoubtedly Hayes is a great runner, but he is not the best in the world by any means. Alfred Shrubb is, I saw Shrubb run five miles against Sam Myers and Frank Kanaly, of Boston. The latter is the professional champion of America. Myers and Kanaly ran two and a half miles each and Shrubb easily defeated them by about 800 yards.

I saw him run against three men at the Boston Park Square Rink last fall in a five relay race. He left the track to change his shoes, came back and won by more than 180 yards. After the race I asked Kanaly his opinion of Shrubb and he said he was a freak and a wonder. Duffey is willing to stake $2,500 on Shrubb for a race with Hayes from five to twenty-five miles.

We'll add the same amount and also bet that Shrubb can beat Hayes and Longboat a ten-mile relay race, winner to take all.

Allow me to remain yours,

ARTHUR SMITH.

Address, Hotel Marlboro.

SHRUBB DECIDES TO RETIRE

Will Devote Himself to Business, Says a New York Despatch.

New York, Sept. 13.—Alfred Shrubb, the great English distance runner, will retire from the cinder path at the end of the season, according to a statement given out by the runner himself in a recent interview. He will run in the Caledonian games at Washington Park, near Meadville, L.I., to-morrow in what will probably be his last appearance in running togs in this vicinity. Shrubb thinks he has been in the game long enough, and while he is still young, is desirous of entering business.

CHICAGO MAN CLAIMS BOBBY KERR

Report That He is to be Transferred to The Windy City.

New York, Sept. 13.—Rumour has it that Chicago, the breezy western metropolis, is to add a distinguished name to its directory. The name in question is Robert Kerr. There are a number of Kerrs in the list of Chicago citizens, but if Robert moves his household goods and chattels to the Windy City the other members of the clan of Kerr will be overshadowed. For Robert is the Canadian sprinter who won the 200-metre dash and was third in the 100-metre sprint in the Olympic games. Kerr is employed in the Hamilton office of a concern that has a plant in Chicago, and it is said that Kerr will be transferred and will compete in American athletic meets. It is also said there is a possibility of the Canadian sprinter entering the University of Chicago.

RUGBY

Is there room for three intermediate and junior leagues in Rugby? Percy Scott of the O.R.F.U. executive says not. If the Inter-Provincial today declares for intermediate and junior sections it will mean a big jumble this fall in the Rugby situation. First and foremost, the majority of the clubs will hold out to see where they can play to the best advantage financially, because it's a well-known fact that the intermediate section of the Big Four last fall was a big loss financially to the clubs interested, on account of out-of-town jumps. If the Toronto clubs could form a section, Hamilton and the Western clubs another, and Peterborough and the teams east another, it would mean a big thing in this Province, while if the Inter-Provincial insists on further smashing the Quebec and Ontario unions by going in for anything else but senior, it will pay neither themselves nor the clubs interested. Let the Inter-Provincial stick to senior and leave the Ontario and Quebec people to form their intermediate and junior sections, and we'll see good Rugby, with good results, but not otherwise.—Toronto Star.

The intermediate and junior series of the O.R.F.U. are in good shape, and applications have been received from practically all the clubs of last year, in addition to some new towns which have been heard from. Taking things as they stand now, the O.R.F.U. are in considerably better shape than at this time last year and the president is looking forward to a good year and seems to have good reason to think so. Clubs wishing any information should address H. M. Gladish, News, Toronto.—Toronto Star.

A communication was received yesterday by President Slee of the O.R.F.U. from J. Stanley Cook, president of the Westmount Football Club, to the effect that they intend staying with the O.R.F.U. and that they wish to be grouped with Kingston, the same as last year, the winners to play off with the winners of the western section of the senior series. Up till a few days ago it did not look as if the O.R.F.U. would have a senior series, but now that this communication comes from Westmount and also that Kingston will be able to have senior and junior teams, things look entirely different.

JIMMY REYNOLDS BEGINS ANOTHER WALK

Leaves Port Hope This Morning for Toronto and Back in 33 Hours

Examiner Special.

Port Hope, Sept. 14.—Jimmy Reynolds, the walking barber of Port Hope, left at six o'clock this morning on an attempt to walk to Toronto and return in thirty-three hours. He is accompanied by Mr. Grant, of the Port Hope Times. Reynolds passed Newmanville at 10.50 a. m. and Oshawa at 1.15 p. m., being reported in good condition when passing the latter place.

TOOK HORSE AND RIG AWAY FROM THE SHERIFF'S BAILIFF

There has been trouble among the Jewish population of Peterborough during the past few days, but it has been all satisfactorily cleared up.

It appears that a Jew junk dealer had rented a house on Parnell street from a fellow countryman of his, and had neglected to pay the rent. He left the city for a while and his landlord took proceedings against him, and a bailiff was sent down to the house to seize the property. The bailiff took possession of the Lewis horse and waggon, but the latter came along in time to take them from the bailiff, who issued a warrant for his arrest for stealing the articles in question. When P. C. McGinty went down to the house to execute the warrant, the Jew's wife sat down in the doorway and refused to let the officer into the house. The constable had to use force to gain an entrance, and when he did get in found that his man was not there.

The matter was fixed up satisfactorily this morning, the rent having been paid, the complainant was quite satisfied to drop the case, and accordingly the warrant was torn up.

SHOOTING ON SUNDAY MORNING

Charlotte Street Resident Disturbed by Revolver Shots

In the wee small hours of Sunday morning the residents of the west end of Charlotte street were awakened from their peaceful slumbers by a fusilade of revolver shots. They rang clear and loud, shattering the oppressive stillness that enveloped the newly-built-up section. Women were frightened and men were disturbed. There was no one in sight, however, and it is probable that some hooligan was responsible for the round of explosions.

The Khedive As Poet.

It is not generally known that the Khedive of Egypt is a poet of no mean order—in Arabic, of course. Those who have read his verses speak of them with enthusiasm. Abbas Hilmi's poetry is melodious, lofty in theme, and full of allegory, as are most Arabian poems. In the course of a former visit to England the Khedive sent the late Queen Victoria a magnificent bouquet with one of his poems. Here is a rough paraphrase of one of the verses: "I send you this bouquet as a testimony of the love of the Egyptian people. Each rose, each lily, each jasmine represents the heart of an Egyptian, and its perfume is the incense of a prayer which mounts to Heaven for thee, O powerful Queen, O flower of Queens." The Queen had the poem framed and hung in her boudoir.

Fish Out of Water.

In Torres Straits there is a fish belonging to the periophthalmus species which is equally lively in or out of water. This is the famous fish of the traveller's tale—the fish which climbs trees; only it is not a tree but a mangrote which he climbs, and literally for the life of him he dare not climb any higher than a spot which will leave his tail in the water, for in his tail he keeps a sort of supplementary breathing apparatus. Another of his peculiarities is an adjustable eyepiece, which enables him to see when he climbs out to take an airing just as well as when he is in his proper element.

UNDERWATER WIRELESS.

English Scientist Proposes to Use Submarine Sound Waves.

John Gardner, the English scientist, purposes accomplishing by means of submarine sound waves very much what is now possible through the agency of Hertzian waves, but he has it in his power easily to improve upon the latter by preventing the purpose of his sound waves being blocked or interfered with by other sound waves set up by someone else either accidentally or intentionally. In wireless telegraphy and in distant control by wireless impulses or waves the rapid and continuous sending of a series of other waves will produce what is technically known as "interference," which has the same effect that two people speaking rapidly at the same time have upon a listener—there would be confusion and but little proper understanding. It was to provide against this difficulty that Mr. Gardner discovered and developed his present system of sound control.

Mr. Gardner has recourse to two simple elements in the get-up of his apparatus. One is a thin strip or tape of metal which he can toughten just as one does the string of an instrument so as to vary its pitch, and the other is a small and very delicately-adjusted microphone. Having tuned his metallic strip to the desired key, Mr. Gardner places upon this strip one of the two small carbons of his microphone. When the right sound waves reach the receiver then, and only then, the intimacy of contact between the two carbons is broken, the electrical current is interfered with and the index hand swings to one side far enough to close or "make" a second and more powerful electrical circuit. This second circuit is strong enough to set in motion certain mechanical functions—the order in which these functions or movements take place depending upon the number of times and the interval between the arrival of the proper disturbing note. Any instrument or any medium that will produce the required tone will answer to set the necessary operations in motion, first by disturbing the vibrator, second, by varying the current flowing through the carbon pencils of the microphone, and thirdly, by closing the more powerful current so that the necessary electrical energy can flow to the various points and cause the movement of the several mechanical features.

Mr. Gardner's laboratory apparatus—which in working principle is identical with that installed in his submarine boat—was made to go through the various movements of revolving a small propeller, swinging a rudder from side to side, and in expelling a miniature dummy torpedo. Each and every one of these operations was proved to be unfailingly responsive to the utterance or sounding of the proper note in the required order.—Technical World Magazine, for August.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAS. TANNER

A well-known resident of Chandos township passed away on Saturday morning in the person of Sarah Simmons, wife of the late Sergt. Jas. Tanner, a veteran of the Indian Mutiny. Deceased was 67 years of age, was born in Bristol, England, and lived at lot 13 concession 6, Chandos. She had been ill for about three months with dropsy and her death was not unexpected. She is survived by six sons and two daughters. The sons are Robert, Charles, George, Francis, Phillip and Victor, all living in Chandos, and the daughters are Mrs. Alfred Clapperton of Port Arthur and Mrs. Thos. Tanner, living in Chandos. Mr. Chas. W. Simmons, Thomas street city, is a brother of the deceased, while one sister living in England is also left to mourn her death. She had been a resident of Chandos since 1875, and was well and favourably known to the people of that township. The funeral took place this morning at 10 o'clock to St. George's cemetery, Apsley.

DAVID SCOTT PATTERSON

This morning the death occurred at the residence of Mr. James Haggart, Union street, of David Scott Patterson, aged six months. The body was sent to Winchester this morning for burial.

Ideal Citizenship And Its Effect On Canada's Future

THE NEW DECORATIONS

The re-opening of George Street Methodist Church yesterday for divine service, which during the past eigh weeks has been held in the Sunday school room owing to extensive decorations in the sanctuary, was marked by large congregations both in the morning and in the evening.

Artistic treatment by the painters, who had charge of the work, has produced a beautiful harmony of colour. The vaulted ceiling blends with the mural tone in an effect which at once is subdued but strikingly artistic. The congregation may well feel proud of their church, of which its new decorations and system of electric lighting are most appropriate.

The services yesterday were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Young, pastor of Great St. James' Methodist Church, Montreal, and formerly of the George street church. In the evening he spoke to an extremely large congregation, and the splendid patriotic message that he conveyed was received with profound attention. His text was Psalm 115, verse 16: "The heaven, even the heavens, are the Lord's, but the earth hath He given to the children of men."

The Canadian Era

In the course of his remarks he stated that it had been said that the nineteenth century belonged to the United States. Subsequently it had been said in the same manner that Canada rightly claimed the twentieth century. Taking this idea for whatever it was worth, the central thought of Rev. Dr. Young's sermon dwelt upon the duty of the individual and the nation towards the happiest and best realization of the hope that this century belongs to Canadians.

God has given the earth to the children of men, not with absolute authority and ownership, but merely as stewards. Man finds employment here for every talent in his possession. He may develop a civilization in which are found the loftiest ideals of good and truth, or he may formulate a species of living which is revolting and cruel.

Two thoughts enter the human mind, Dr. Young continued, when the individual considers the position in which Almighty God has placed him in this world. He may become a Carnegie or Gould as he realizes his position of strength and power and ownership, thereby developing a spirit of pride, selfishness and arrogance. On the other hand, if he feels himself but a steward in whose hands God has placed a priceless treasure, he recognizes that trust and uses it for God's glory. This man develops ideal life.

In as much as this is true of the individual, in the same degree does it hold good with the nation.

Canada for Canadians

In expatiating on his theme, Dr. Young used these words: "If the twentieth century belongs to Canada, to whom will Canada belong in the twentieth century?" He answered this in the next breath. "If we recognize our responsibility as the nation's stewards; if we put into national life right ideals, Canada will belong to the children of Canadians. If we fail to do this, at the close of the twentieth century it will belong to the descendants of those people who are drifting to our shores from the east to the west—many of whom are living under low standards, socially and morally."

Rev. Dr. Young then introduced the expression which Sir Wilfrid Laurier coined and made current, and which to-day is heard from Gaspe's point on the east to the forest-fringed shore of British Columbia in the west. "Canada for Canadians," he said, "means more than the protection of our natural resources, our industries, our manufactures. It means true patriotism, a land of Sabbaths, of schools and colleges, of pure and sanctified homes—a land whose citizens and men of character."

Ideal Homes

Rev. Dr. Young dealt with the ideal life, morally, socially, politically and commercially.

"The family is the great unit," he said. "No nation can be great, no citizenship can be true, when the home life lacks sacredness and purity." God intended the home for the custodian of morals, and Christianity has preserved its sanctity. Rome's decay was due to the violation of the purity of the home, and the speaker said other nations would fall for the same reason if the home life of their people were not guarded. Rev. Dr. Young stated that we are being assailed by forces of evil on every side. This is an age of material prosperity, he asserted, and the resulting tendency is to loosen the bonds of virtue which weld society together.

The sermon was concluded by an appeal to the people to realize their duty in their home life, to carry it out to the best of their ability, and thus the individual being assured, the whole nation would be a happy blending of ideal citizens who would guide its destinies to the realization of our brightest hopes.

The Decorations

The Ladies' Aid of the church deserve much credit for their efforts in making the improvements possible. Also Rev. Mr. Pearson's Adult Bible Class, who have paid for the installation of the electric lights. The ceiling are painted two figures, one the Angel of Truth and the other the Angel of Purity. These were the work of Mr. Nelson Murray, one of the special artists of the P. C. Brown & Company, church decorattors of Toronto. The electric wiring was done by Messrs. Alexander & Miller, and is excellent work.

INDICATOR AT THE FIRE HALL

Chief Howard Pleased to Show Visitors Workings of Brigade.

Chief Howard to-day received a fire alarm indicator from Montreal and immediately began the work of installing it. Whenever an alarm is sent in this instrument at the same time indicates the box by numbers which appear by an electric device. The indicator will be placed in the main circuit and will be completely installed by Wednesday noon.

Chief Howard will be pleased to demonstrate its mechanism to any of the citizens who call at the hall. He will also show how the alarms are sent in and the citizens are cordially invited to witness the "hitch up" every night at eight o'clock when the brigade gives an exhibition of turning out for a fire.

Mr. Jos. Mantell Returns From a Two-Months Trip.

Last night Mr. Joseph Mantell, aged 99 years, returned to Peterborough after a two months' visit with friends in Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford, Tilsonburg and other Western cities and towns. Mr. Mantell although he has reached that remarkable age is in splendid health. On arriving at the station he refused to be driven, but walked to the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. O'Edwards, Charlotte street. He will be a hundred years old next May.

FATHER ASKS DAMAGES FOR DAUGHTER'S DEATH

Writ Against the Muskoka Lakes Navigation Company—A Fender the Cause

Lindsay, Sept. 15.—Mr. Wm. LeHane returned a few days ago from a visit to his brother, Mr. Denne LeHane, of Toronto, who has been seriously ill.

Mr. LeHane's daughter, Norma, it will be remembered, was killed by a blow from a steamboat fender at Muskoka some weeks ago.

It is understood that a writ was issued on Friday at Osgoode Hall against the Muskoka Lakes Navigation and Hotel Co., Limited, the plaintiff attributing his daughter's death to the company's negligence. Unstated damages are claimed.

TWO HUNDRED WORKMEN ARE ENTRAPPED IN TUNNEL NEAR WINDSOR; ONLY TWO ARE DEAD

Examiner Special

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 15.—Two hundred men were trapped in the Michigan Central tunnel under the Detroit at this side of the river at midnight last night by a fire which started from some unknown cause. All but Walter Kimball, a night superintendent, and Bert Johnson, a labourer, escaped. Kimball reached the surface in safety, but returned to aid others. He had been married only two months. Johnson was single. Many men fell in the wild scramble for safety, but were assisted out by others. The property loss will amount to some thousands of dollars.

PETERBOROUGH MAN ROBBED IN MONTREAL AT G. T. R. STATION

Mr. C. V. Jones, who is taking a course in Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Que., and who spent his vacation in the vicinity of Peterborough, was robbed of his suit case and a new overcoat which was taken from the G. T. R. station, Montreal. Mr. Jones was waiting for the eastbound train on Thursday last, and left his suit case on a seat in the first class waiting room while he went to get a drink of water. He was gone only about ten minutes, and when he returned they were gone. Mr. Jones immediately placed the matter in Chief Carpenter's hands, who placed the case in the hands of a detective. As the suit case contained about $30 worth of effects, and the case was a splendid leather case, and the overcoat was new, Mr. Jones' loss amounts to about $45.

KNIFE ENTERS WOMAN'S NECK AS SHE FALLS DOWN CELLAR

Examiner Special

Havelock, Sept. 14.—Mrs. W. Westcott, who resides at the east end of the town, happened with a very serious accident this afternoon at her own home. She was going down the stairs to the cellar below the kitchen, carrying in her hand a large, sharp knife, when she accidentally slipped and caused the accident. The point of the knife entered the back of her neck, causing a bad gash. She was also bruised on other parts of the body. A doctor was at once summoned to attend the injured woman. Mrs. Westcott is very low to-night but the doctor hopes her condition will improve by morning.

INTERESTING SNAKE STORY FROM BANKS OF SEVERN RIVER

Mr. J. H. Smith, East City, who has been employed on a dam construction at Severn River, returned home yesterday. He tells an interesting tale of a snake battle on the shore of the river between a rattle snake and one of the green variety. The former was twenty-two inches in length, and the latter about eighteen, and after a battle royal lasting for some minutes, the rattler succeeded in actually swallowing his green rival.

Mr. Smith, together with a number of Yankee tourists, were watching the fight with great interest. When it subsided, one of the bystanders threw the lighted stub of a cigar at the victor. In a few moments it became ill and ejected the contents of its stomach—the green snake. The latter was little the worse for its Jonah-like explorations and immediately on regaining its freedom, took its departure in haste.

The rattler, however, was not so lucky, and met its death at the hands of the onlookers. It (was another case of the victor being vanquished.

Strange Actions Of Tough Looking Trio Last Night

The strange actions of three suspicious-looking men on George street between Barnardo avenue and Argyle street last night disturbed the citizens of that neighbourhood for a time. A few nights ago the screws were taken from the lock of Mr. Isaac Eastwood's door, but no entrance to the house was obtained.

Last night three men drove up in front of Mr. Davidson's residence in an old buggy that was almost in pieces. Not much attention was paid to them but later the tallest of the trio was found lurking around the premises and voices were heard in the yard behind Mrs. Foote's residence next door. Questionable happenings of this nature aroused the neighbours but the trio drove away going down George street, finally turning west on Dublin street. Their actions are inexplicable.

JOURNALISTIC "PEDS" ON TRAMP ACROSS CONTINENT

Arrive at Toronto—Robbed Near Three Rivers—Sleep in Barn Over Night.

VANCOUVER BY CHRISTMAS

Toronto, Sept. 15.—Special.—Weather-tanned and dusty, Edward N. Clark and Leo Marchand, Oxford and Cambridge graduates, respectively, and journalists of long experience, walked into Toronto yesterday afternoon en route on a walking tour tour from Quebec, P. Q., to Vancouver, B.C. The men are not walking on a bet or to break any record of physical endurance; they are doing it as a means of "seeing Canada," and incidentally furnishing the readers of certain London dailies with an intimate description of the country they pass through. They are not supposed to spend a cent on the way, except, perhaps for some of the lesser luxuries of life. So far they have, they say, been most generously treated, and are at present the guests of Mr. W. Sprinks of the Grand Opera Hotel on Adelaide street.

The two men left Quebec on August 8th, and it was probably while travelling through the land of the habitant that their hardest experiences came. The natives could not properly grasp the idea of a "stunt," and were less cordial in giving directions and more substantial aid than could have been desired. It was near Three Rivers they were held up and robbed of camera, revolvers and finger rings. For a time they had a bicycle to carry a regular equipment of pots and utensils. They abandoned it, however, and marched on to Toronto with small hand grips. They are looking for knapsacks, but as the condition of their feet prevent them buying them, they are proceeding as best they can without. They average up about thirty miles in a day. Sunday night they slept in a barn near Port Union. A hired man woke them at 7 a.m., and they reached Toronto at 10 o'clock yesterday.

They will set out at 1 o'clock, Thursday, from the Grand Opera Hotel for Sudbury, and hope to in Woodbridge that night. From Sudbury they will strike west for Vancouver. Incidentally they hope to reach there at Christmas. Marchand is thirty-five years old, and weighed 154 1-2 pounds on leaving Montreal. He has lost about ten pounds since then. Clark is thirty years old, and weighed 134 at Montreal. He has lost about eight pounds. Both are unmarried.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY.

In no other department of the public service has there been greater activity shown by the Liberal Government than in the direction of improvement of the service in the Post Office Department. The public advantage and convenience have been served by one-third reduction in the rate of postage, the mail service has been greatly extended, new post offices have been opened and now another advance stage is in contemplation. Though owing to its great expense the general adoption of rural mail delivery is perhaps for the present impracticable, the feasibility of adopting the rural mail delivery as a beginning in certain sections of the country is engaging the attention of Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Postmaster-General. He and Dr. Coulter, Deputy Minister, are making a short tour among the border states of the Republic south of us, with a view of gathering information regarding the working of the rural mail delivery system, which is being employed in some sections of these States. The question of rural mail delivery has been under the consideration of the Government for some time, and Mr. Lemieux on his return will submit the data he has gathered to his colleagues in Council.

AN ERA OF FULFILLMENT.

It is a characteristic of the last twelve years, the years of Liberal Administration, that things have been done which were formerly talked about or promised. Take the question of the British preference. For many years this was talked about. Everybody said that it would be a fitting thing to show some friendship for Great Britain in our tariff legislation, to admit British manufactures at a lower rate than the product of foreign countries. But nothing was done. Fifteen years ago, Mr. Davies, then a prominent member of the Liberal Opposition, now a judge of the Supreme Court, moved a resolution to the effect that the tariff ought to be so framed as to give a preference to imports from Great Britain. The Conservatives met the resolution with an amendment to the effect that Canada would give a preference to Great Britain "if and when" Great Britain gave a preference to Canada. The amendment was carried, and the result was that both countries marked time, and nothing was done.

When the Laurier Government assumed office, the policy of marking time, the policy of "if and when" was discarded, and a bold, decisive step was taken. A British preference was not merely talked about, but placed on the statute book. The legislation attracted the attention and caught the imagination of the British people, and it was one of the leading subjects of discussion in the English newspapers during the Jubilee celebration of 1897. One of them sized up the situation when it said that the Liberal Government had "taken the bull by the horns." In 1896 our total trade with Great Britain, imports and exports, was less than one hundred millions. The effect was to increase the volume, not only of British imports into Canada, but of Canadian imports into Great Britain. The immense extension of the British market for Canadian grain, cheese, fruit and meat, is a direct result of the British preference granted by the Fielding tariff of 1897.

When the Fielding tariff was introduced, Sir Charles Tupper said that he heard "the wail, the sorrowful wail," of the manufacturers of Canada, lamenting the coming downfall of their enterprises. This is what Industrial Canada says to-day:

"During the past decade all have enjoyed expanding prosperity. Workmen have been paid well, and farmers have received big prices for their grain and produce. There has been no complaint from either that clothing costs a few cents a year more than if there were no industries here, or that their implements or household effects were a fraction higher in price. The price of farm products has increased decidedly more than that of any manufactured article. As a result of the presence of the factories they have wherewith to pay the price, and the savings banks of the country amply show that they have something more."

The N. P. was introduced with many promises of prosperity, and for a few years the country did prosper. But in the long run, as the census of 1891 showed, the results were disappointing. The manufacturers of Canada never before enjoyed such prosperity as they have done during the twelve years of Liberal Administration. The phenomenal growth of the city of Toronto is mainly due to the growth of manufacturing industry, and the whole surrounding country, the whole Province of Ontario, has felt the same life-giving impulse. The Conservative party used to claim to be the only friend and protector of Canadian industry. But the solid results show that, in this respect as in others, the twelve years of Liberal Administration have been years of fulfillment.

For many years Canada fixed its hopes of national expansion and prosperity upon the West. Both parties were sincere and earnest in their desire to have this country peopled and developed. If we give credit to George Brown for his persistent and unwearied advocacy of the addition of the West to Canada, we must give credit also to the Conservative Government of a quarter of a century ago for its boldness in pushing forward the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Yet we know that for many years the results were disappointing, and that in his celebrated letter of 1891, the Hon. Edward Blake spoke of "a Northwest empty still." Of the present immigrant population of the three Western Provinces only 45,840 had arrived in Canada prior to 1891; 76,380 arrived between 1891 and 1901; and 233,457 came in the five years between 1901 and 1906, when the immigration policy of the present government was in full swing. It is not a mere accident that the Canadian West under Conservative rule was a land of the hope deferred that maketh the heart sick, while to-day it is a land of fulfillment.

The Railway Commission, talked of under the previous Administration, became a fact under the Liberal Administration. Civil service reform has been removed from the realm of dreams into the realm of action. The importance of the step taken during the last session of Parliament is not fully recognized. It was not a measure calculated to arouse party passion or party enthusiasm. The narrow party man may regret the loss of power and importance given by patronage. The man who regards the success of a party as of no value except as it serves the whole nation hopes that this measure will be the beginning of a new system. Canada, emerging from the position of a colony into that of a nation, will have a national equipment, a civil service that will carry on the work of the nation with energy and efficiency, enabling the nation to use national resources to the best advantages for the good of all the people. Patronage and all its abuses will be discarded as a clog, a hindrance to efficiency. The nation will be free to choose the best men for its service, and they will work for the whole people, and not for a party.

RECKLESS CRITICISM.

The Montreal Gazette is demanding the removal of Mr. Fielding, "the most reckless Minister of Finance Canada ever had," and a menace to "the country's credit abroad." To this the Montreal Herald replies that not one man in a thousand will agree with this opinion, and not that many could offhand account for it. The "most incapable" Finance Minister has produced the most extensive series of surpluses in the history of the Dominion. The "most reckless" Minister has kept the yearly expenditures, vast as they have had to be to keep pace with the demand from a rapidly growing population, uniformly within the revenues. The "country's credit abroad" has suffered no worse mishap than to have the public debt kept stationary for twelve years, while the debt-bearing power, as represented by numbers and wealth, was enormously increased.

The first chance there has been to take a knock at Mr. Fielding comes with the publication of the latest statement of the finances, which shows that, in the present slow state of importation, expenditure has actually gone rather better than a million ahead of revenue in five months. But does it occur to Mr. Fielding's critics that Canada is engaged in the work of constructing a Transcontinental railway, in addition to carrying on the regular work of the country? Or is all this part of a programme to prejudice the completion of the Transcontinental, according to the terms and spirit of the contract, in case Mr. Borden and other open and secret opponents of the project should come to power?

Up to the first of March, 1907, besides holding the debt at dead level, this "most reckless and incapable Minister" had provided over eight millions for this work; in the following twelve months nineteen millions more; and in the five months since the first of March over eight millions more yet. Nobody quite expects Mr. Fielding to see that the whole work is done out of his surpluses. He has managed it so far, but the work is now in full swing, and as it is to be finished in a couple of years it is bound to be getting a little ahead of him, and it is. Do the critics mean that it it does cost more than the surplus on consolidated fund will provide the work must be abandoned or delayed? If they are of that mind, the country is not.

TRANSPORTATION AND PROSPERITY.

The Mail and Empire fears that the transportation facilities available are insufficient to prevent traffic congestion, if Western wheat is moved with sufficient rapidity to get it out before the winter begins. This journal thus raises a point which shows the attitude of its party to transportation and allied conveniences in an unfavourable light. The Montreal Herald remarks upon this as follows. It says that this criticism "raises a point about which the Government itself has been very much concerned. The Government realized years ago that the vital part of the grain transportation problem was the St. Lawrence end of it, and has spent millions of dollars in improving the approaches to the ports, so as to render navigation safe and to encourage ocean steamships to engage in Canada's foreign trade, as well as in improving the storage accommodation at Port Colborne, on the Welland Canal, and at Montreal harbour, where the largest elevator is that built by the Harbour Commissioners on behalf of the Government, who supply the Commissioners with the funds necessary to the prosecution of their plans. The Toronto paper doubts whether even what has been done is sufficient to prevent congestion, if the wheat moves through at the pace that will be necessary to get it out of the West before the winter begins; and it is easy to conceive what the congestion would have been if the Government had not disregarded a great deal of Opposition criticism, and, acting on its own view, spent liberally in making the eastern channels of transportation efficient and in rendering the exit to the ocean navigable for the largest ocean liners. The largest ocean liners can steam up the St. Lawrence at will, and begin to take their cargoes on board as soon as they draw up alongside the wharves at Montreal. A few years ago they could not have reached Montreal at all, the channel not being deep enough; and what vessels did arrive could not travel at night, because of the inefficiency of the light service. Vessels can now travel, night or day, without risk. These improvements, more than anything else, will facilitate free shipment of wheat to Great Britain; and, if there happens to be any congestion, it will be a small matter to what it would have been four years ago.

"The expenditures which have been made on the improvement of the St. Lawrence route, have been characterised by the Mail and other Opposition critics, as having been made by way of concession to the spirit of reckless extravagance. To-day in presence of the actual difficulty, the Government's view is adopted, and there is even the suggestion that enough has not been spent, and that notwithstanding the extent to which elevator capacity of the port of Montreal has been enlarged, the storage provision is not enough to ensure the port against a glut of grain."

This raises the whole question of transportation and emphasises its importance. With the constantly increasing acreage of wheat land in the West with its accompanying increasing output, it is evident that the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific was not begun a day too soon, and it is fortunate that the Liberal Government entered so energetically into the work of completing the Trent Canal. With the improvement in the St. Lawrence channel if the Trent Canal were now in operation, the fear of congestion of traffic would not need to be seriously entertained. It in the last twelve years of its office the Conservative Government had done as much to promote Trent Canal construction as has been done in the past 12 years under a Liberal Government the canal would now be completed and in operation, with all necessary relief to traffic and a lessening of freight rates which would put thousands into the pockets of Northwest farmers in a single year. The banks are said to be chary of advancing money for crop movement—they do not like to run the risk of having millions of money tied up as it would be if there were failure to get the wheat out of the West before winter sets in. Thus is demonstrated the importance of transportation and its natural relation to general financial and commercial prosperity. Any one that opposes, and especially to satisfy a party spirit, the promotion of increased and improved transportation is a public enemy. Effective transportation is the measure of national prosperity.

EDITORIAL NOTES

When a Conservative M.P. like Col. Tisdale or Col. Harry Ward drops out of public life, it is, remarks the Ottawa Free Press, the disappearance of a patriot. When a "Bob" Hall for a "Bob" Macpherson retire for financial reasons, it is a sign of party weakness. At least that's the way the Conservative press puts it. Funny, ain't it?

Fall Assizes Begin To-day; Address To The Grand Jury

Mr. Justice Magee is Presiding—Perjury Charge Against Joseph Levasseur, Jr., is the Only Criminal Case to Come Up.

CIVIL CASE BEGINS TO-DAY

The Fall Assizes of the High Court of Justice opened at one p.m. to-day before Mr. Justice Magee. There are three civil cases and one criminal charge, that of perjury against Jos. Levasseur, Jr., to come up.

The representatives of the bar present were Messrs. E. B. Edwards, of Edmonton; D. O'Connell, G. N. Gordon, W. H. Moore, K.C.; L. M. Hayes, K.C.; D. W. Dumble, F. D. Kerr, R. F. McWilliams, John Green and E. A. Peck.

In his address to the Grand Jury, His Lordship commented upon the fact that their duties would be light as only one criminal case was to come up before them. This was a matter of congratulation in a county of the size and population of Peterborough. The County Judge's Criminal Court in these days disposed of a large number of cases that were formerly heard at the Assizes.

The only criminal case that was to come up before the Grand Jury was one of perjury, and His Lordship went on to briefly state the details of the case. It arose, he explained, out of a prosecution under the Liquor License Act. In giving evidence on his own behalf he understood that the defendant had stated that he had only procured liquor for people going down the river who hired boats from him, and only acted as their messenger in the matter.

His Lordship explained the nature of perjury to the Grand Jury. It was not sufficient to constitute perjury, he explained, that the evidence given under oath should be untrue. Everyone was liable to make mistakes, but if he gave untrue evidence, knowing it to be untrue, and with the intention of misleading the court, it would be perjury, whether the evidence had a material bearing on the case or not. He must have knowledge that his evidence is false, and must also have the intention to deceive.

His Lordship called the attention of the Grand Jury to the fact that they were supposed to visit the public institutions, including the hospitals, and County House of Refuge, and to pay careful attention to the management and care of the inmates, and to make such suggestions as they thought fit.

In connection with the calendar of the jail, he noticed that seven out of the 17 inmates were vagrants, and six of these were over 65 years of age. He did not think it right that men of such an advanced age, who were not criminals but victims of misfortune, should be herded with criminals. The fact that eight inmates of the jail were there on charges of theft was somewhat remarkable, and he advised the jury to try to find some cause for that condition of affairs.

The case of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company against Fox was then commenced, after the Grand Jury had retired to consider the Levasseur bill.

THE MONTREAL HERALD ROAD RACE

To be Held Thanksgiving Day—A Big Field Expected.

The annual race of the Montreal Herald, around Mount Royal, will take place this year, like its two predecessors, on Thanksgiving Day.

Already the announcement of the event has given a fillip to harrier work in Montreal, and club after club and runner after runner are signifying their intention of entering the great Canadian Thanksgiving Day fixture.

The Herald race may be said to have given the first great incentive to harrier work in Eastern Canada. It was founded with the idea of developing and encouraging the younger school of distance runners.

That the Herald has succeeded in its purpose there is no reason to doubt. In harrier circles of the East just now the sole topic is The Herald road race and its probable outcome.

The race is open to any amateur athlete in good standing, irrespective of club, nationality, creed or colour. The only assurance that The Herald asks is that the competitor shall be an amateur in good standing. No athlete against whom there is any suspicion of professionalism will be accepted as a competitor. No doubtful entries will be entertained.

The Prizes of the Herald Race

The prizes given at last year's race were remarkable no less for their value than for the number given. This year they are to be still more numerous and still more valuable.

There will be individual prizes — gold, silver and bronze medals, in addition to the handsome Herald trophy and the Criterion Cafe Club prizes.

Competitors who took part in last year's race were one and all heartily pleased with the manner in which the race was conducted and with the treatment they received.

Last year's race was by long odds the biggest of its kind that ever happened in this country—if not in the world. The entries totalled up to the huge number of 258.

Nearly htwo hundred started, and exactly 163 finished.

The course, from the starting point to the city limits, was lined with spectators. It is calculated that easily a hundred thousand people watched some portion or other of the race.

This year's race—the third annual event—will be greater than either of its predecessors. Enquiries from all parts of Canada are already being made about the race.

To Whom to Apply for Information

OPPOSITION LEADER IN HOME TOWN

Mr. R. L. Borden Addresses Gathering at Halifax.

DID NOT HEAR HIM OUT

With Hanna and Roblin He Opens First of "Premier" Meetings, But Finish of Address is Not Satisfactory—Reprehends Colchester Affair and Argues For a Pure Election For Both Parties.

Halifax, Sept. 15.—The "Provincial Premiers'" meeting, which was organized as a boom for Mr. R. L. Borden's campaign in Halifax, had an auspicious opening and a sorry finish. An audience, estimated at three thousand, assembled in the Arena Rink, which had been nicely decorated with flags and streamers bearing Conservative war cries. Many Liberals went out of curiosity to hear the Provincial Premiers and Ministers from the other provinces, and many more in the audience were ladies. In addition special excursion rates brought Conservatives from different points of the province.

The platform was small and outside of the speakers not a half dozen gentlemen sat on it. The speakers were placed in an elevated position, and every utterance of theirs was easily heard.

Flags and bunting added to its attractiveness. Surrounding, the vast amphitheatre was a border of campaign banners interspersed with flags.

Senator McKeen was the chairman. He first introduced Provincial Secretary Hanna of Ontario, who was received with great applause. His reception was an index of that given to each successive speaker.

Mr. Hanna stated that he was accompanying Mr. Borden as a representative of Sir James Whitney, who was expected to return from England to take a personal part in the campaign in ten days.

R. L. Borden then rose to the accompaniment of music, cheers and applause. He spoke at considerable length on the broken pledges of the Liberal administration, and on his own Conservative platform. Clean elections, pure Government and Canada for Canadians was the theme of his speech, which was a powerful exposition of the Conservative policy.

Hon. R. P. Roblin, Prime Minister of Manitoba, expressed his pleasure at being present and conveying the greetings of the people of the great west.

He condemned the Government for the following reasons: For having violated their promises; for having demoralised the public service of the country; for their extravagance and waste of public funds; for alienating the public domain to political friends; for carelessness and indifference in the administration of public affairs, inefficiency and incompetence, seem to reign in every Department; for having brought the name of Canada into discredit; as witness the Yukon administration; for lowering the public life of Canada.

Premier Hazen of New Brunswick followed in an eloquent address, which was well received.

At the outset of his speech, Mr. Borden referred to his own nomination in Halifax, stating that he had accepted it on one condition, namely that the campaign must be a clean one, adding: "I do not fear defeat in a clean campaign, but I prefer overwhelming defeat to victory won by improper means. I stand upon my platform of a year ago. Fight the ballot thief and the briber. Fight also any influences within our own party which favor corrupt methods. Rely on the justice of our cause and upon a thorough exposure to the people of our opponents' evil record."

Mr. Borden denounced the wrongdoing in Colchester, and declared that those responsible should be punished with the full legal penalties. "If we preach purity and practice corruption, we will be worthy of all the scorn that can be poured upon us," he said.

Coming to the issues of the campaign and the record of the Government, he outlined the declaration of principles of the Liberal party in 1893. Putting aside two minor planks, relative to the Franchise Act and the delimitation of electoral divisions, the present Government, Mr. Borden said, had not pretended or even attempted to carry out its declared and avowed policy except with respect to closer trade relations with the United States. This departure from their announced policy had led to the charge of insincerity, but it must be admitted that no such charge could fairly be made against those who possess no political principle save that of party expediency.

Watching German Warships.

Copenhagen, Sept. 15.—The British Government has sent a diplomatic consul to Frederica in Jutland, whose special mission is to observe the manoeuvres of German ships in Danish waters. The British vice-consuls in Denmark, most of whom are Danes, received instructions recently to report to the home Government all movements of German warships.

Killed in Wreck.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—One woman was instantly killed, five persons so seriously injured that their death is expected, and 28 other passengers were more or less seriously injured in a wreck at Chesterton, Indiana, on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern road early yesterday.

Most of the injured persons were from Indianapolis.

Hindoos to Be Deported.

Vancouver, Sept. 15.—Twelve indigent Hindoos were rounded up during the past few days and will be deported to Hong Kong on the next Empress liner by order of Dr. Munro. A number of them voluntarily asked to be shipped across the Pacific. They did not come by direct passage from India.

C.P.R. Cuts Dockmen's Wages.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 15.—Thirty men quit work and a riot nearly ensued when it was announced to the longshoremen on the C.P.R. dock that wages had been cut from 30 to 20 cents an hour.

The men claim that under it they can make only $4 or $5 a week.

Triple Drowning.

Fort Frances, Sept. 15.—A triple drowning accident occurred at Pithers' Point, near here, in which Capt. Sissons, John Lockhart, Jr., and Patrick Atkinson, lost their lives.

They were running the upper rapids under the railway bridge when the launch was capsized.

Fined on Shooting Charge.

Guelph, Sept. 15.—A crowd of interested listeners were surprised in the Police Court yesterday when a shooting affair of Saturday night was settled with a fine of $2 and costs on Joshua Peters and Robt. Bulger, the parties who took part.

Crushed In Rush to Board Train.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 15.—Wallace Wilson, aged 27 years, was killed, Stanley Dingo and Frank Goaria were severely injured and a dozen others narrowly escaped death when over 100 persons made a wild rush to board a moving train.

EXCAVATION WORK ON NEW CHURCH

First Sod on Park Street Baptist Church Site Has Been Turned

The first sod of the excavation work of the new Park street Baptist church was turned yesterday. The work of excavating is under Contractor F. Coon and it will be pushed rapidly to a conclusion. The contract for the building has not yet been let.

The church is being erected on Park street, where Stewart street intersects it.

MR. BAILEY'S BOOTS TAMPERED WITH

As has been previously explained one of the most novel crafts on the Otonabee River is that built and owned by Mr. W A Bailey. Mr. the river and when he does he leaves Bailey frequently takes a jaunt down his boots and hosiery on the bank. One evening not many days ago the customary happened. Some young ladies were holding a picnic party on the river bank and among other discoveries they found Mr. Bailey's boots.

Girls are mischievous sometimes and this particular party happened to be in that frame of mind. They filled those "prison cells of pride" of Whittier lame with some of the ri st thistle leaves they could find and awaited results which are more easily imagined than described.

MORE STEAMERS FOR LOCAL NAVIGATION CO.

Stated That Two Will be Built—To Purchase Island at Stony Lake.

The Otonabee Navigation Company contemplate extending their field of operations by increasing their fleet of steamers by two. They have purchased a steel frame for an 80-foot boat and will have it brought to their dock yards in East City, where it will be constructed during the coming winter. An engine was also purchased with the frame and the new boat will, it is said, have a speed of about 17 miles an hour. It will probably be placed on the Stony Lake route and will make regular trips between this city and lake points.

Negotiations are on foot for the purchase of an island in Stony Lake which will be made the headquarters of the company. Several suitable locations are under consideration, and it is expected a decision will be reached shortly. The plan of the company includes the construction of a wharf for the use of their own steamers only and for private launches.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Editor:

About six years ago a new Cast Iron Range was put on the market by the McClary Manufacturing Company, and a contest commenced for procuring a suitable name. Some 20,000 were suggested, but the one that appealed most to the judges was "Pandora."

The same year an extensive advertising campaign was put on and has been kept up ever since, by which the name and the Range have become nationally known. Pandora is now a synonym for Merit.

If there could be any doubt in any person's mind as to the value of newspaper advertising, in Canada, the success of the Pandora Range, and the widespread acquaintanceship with the name Pandora, is the best proof that advertising does bring the people in closer touch with exploited goods.

"Pandora" sales record is unequalled anywhere.

Yours truly,
The McClary Manufacturing Co.

(Editor's Note: A series of Pandora advertisements will commence in this paper at once. They were prepared by A. A Briggs, Advertising Manager of the Company, and placed by McConnell & Ferguson, Advertising Agency, London.)

"WITH FINE WEATHER THIS FAIR WILL BREAK ALL THE RECORDS," SAYS PRESIDENT R. H. LEARY

"We'll break all records this year if the weather is fine," was the enthusiastic remark made by Mr. R. H. Leary, president of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition to the Examiner this morning, and the president evidently meant what he said. Secretary Hall and the directors also wear smiles of the breakfast food style when asked about the Fair. Never were the prospects so bright and never has there been such interest taken in the event. The entries have been coming in very fast, so much so that the secretary is kept on the jump all the time.

The directors were on the grounds this morning and put in a couple of hours' work in the preliminary arrangements. Already Exhibition Park begins to take on the appearance of a big Fair. Tents are being pitched on the grounds, and the Midway has been laid out.

"The Pike" this year will be a feature. A street forty feet in width has been laid out and the various shows will be located along this, instead of being spread all over the grounds has has sometimes been the custom. There are many requests already for places on the Midway. A big movin picture show, a snake charmer and a merry-go-round are some of the attractions that will be seen along the line. Secretary Hall says the snake show is a splendid one and has played to five thousand people in one day at the Detroit Exhibition.

The contest for the best loaf of bread is creating a lot of interest among the farmers' wives, and a large number of entries have been received. "We will have enough to feed the poor of the city for a month," remarked the secretary this morning.

The full band of the 57th Regiment will be present on Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon. Mr. Gliddon is preparing special programmes for the Fair which will be published to-morrow.

The directors held a meeting last night to arrange the final details for the Fair, and it was decided to make a big effort to bring Longboat, Simpson and as many other runners as possible together in a three-mile race on Saturday afternoon before the horse races commence. Such a race would prove a big drawing card and the directors will do all in their power to bring it about.

The dining tent privilege has been let to a Toronto firm, who agree to give satisfaction in this respect.

Ex-Mayor Yelland's offer of a five-dollar prize for a dog race has started the youthful drivers of fast cannes going, and this morning a number of dogs were worked out on the track at the grounds.

Some great horse racing should be seen during the last two days of the Fair. Some very classy horses have been entered, the big purses bringing out the fast ones, and this event will be one of the features.

If the citizens turn out as they should, all records in point of attendance will be fractured.

Indians Are Gathering Wild Rice Around Jubilee Point

MOST INTERESTING WORK

The Indians at Rice Lake are now busily engaged in garnering the abundant harvest of wild rice. Looking back through the pages of the history of the people of whom only a remnant now remains along the shores of this historic lake, this custom fails to find a beginning. As far as can be learned the wild rice was stored away every autumn, to be used during the long winter months.

A gentleman who spent Saturday at Rice Lake had the pleasure of witnessing the Indians gathering the rice in the beds which lie along the Hiawatha shore, and in and around Jubilee. They go out in their canoes two Indans in each. A large sheet is spread in the centre and as one paddles through the standing rice the other strikes the heads over the side loosening the grain which falls on the sheet. Up and down they slowly trace their course with the same perseverance which characterizes their fishing.

When a sufficiently large amount has been collected they return to their home or camp where the threshing, winnowing, etc., is done, until finally the grain is separated from the tiny husks.

These operation were not seen by the gentleman who gave the information to the Examiner, but Mr. R M Roy followed the Indians through all their operations and is reported having secured some excellent photographs.

Canada's Northwest As Seen By Rev. Dr. Young Of Montreal

A MUSICAL PROGRAMME

A most interesting and instructive lecture was that given by the Rev. Dr. Young, of Greater St. James' Church, Montreal, in George Street Methodist Church last evening, on a trip through the West. Dr. Young is a fluent speaker, with a power of presenting realistic mind pictures that made his address one long to be remembered, and the fairly large audience present was more than delighted.

Rev. E. A. Pearson, pastor of the church, acted as chairman, and before the lecture there was a short but delightful musical programme. The choir gave a very successful rendition of the anthem, "The Son of God Goes Forth to War," Miss Julia Choate contributed a violin solo in her usual brilliant manner and faultless technique, and Miss Rosser and Miss Sanderson were heard to advantage in a well-rendered vocal duet.

Rev. Dr. Young, after expressing his pleasure at renewing acquaintance with his old friends of the George Street Church, passed on to discuss the itinerary, of his trip through the West.

The first part of the journey was by a Northern Navigation Company's steamer through the thirty thousand islands of the Georgian Bay and on to the Soo. Leaving the Soo on the steamer Manitoba, he sailed through Lake Superior, passing the well-known "Sleeping Giant," a huge granite rock in the shape of a man reclining on a peninsula with his hands behind his head and his limbs drawn up. Port Arthur with its 7,000,000 bushel elevator, and Fort William, which is soon to have an elevator with a capacity of 12,000,000, were next visited, and afterwards Kenora and then Winnipeg, the wide streets of which most favourably impressed the speaker. Old Fort Garry was, of course, visited in Winnipeg, which the speaker referred to as a city in which almost all nationalities were intermingled. "It is the meeting place of the old and the new," he remarked.

The wheat fields to the west of Winnipeg were next discussed by Dr. Young. They were, he said, nine hundred miles in length and three hundred miles in width, containing some 173 million acres.

The problem of transportation was next dealt with. Rev. Dr. Young remarked that the four great railways might be duplicated without any danger of there being too many to handle the products of the West. The possibility of the soil being exhausted was small as some of it had been tested by taking continuous crops from it for as many as eleven years.

Rev. Dr. Young passed on to describe the life a young man would live who went to the West to farm, remarking that it was not so much what a man made as what he saved that tended to make him wealthy.

The ranching district around Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat and Calgary was touched. It was from here that the first glimpse was obtained of the Rockies, the first impression being that of a bank of white clouds, this effect being caused by the snow-capped summits.

At Banff the speaker visited the mineral springs and saw the celebrated herd of six hundred buffalo. The lakes in the mountains were also viewed, and also the "Great Divide."

Miles down Mount Stephen the Kicking Horse River was to be seen and from there the speaker ascended the Selkirk range to Glacier House, then down into the Fraser Canon by the famous railway loop, and so on to the coast.

Rev. Dr. Young drew a splendid word picture of the Pacific Coast sunset and the beauties of the Columbia River, up which he had sailed to Nelson and Kootenay.

At the conclusion of his lecture a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Dr. Young, on motion of Rev. Mr. Manning and Rev. Mr. Henderson.

A GALT NEWSPAPER RETRACTS A SLANDER

Published Aspersions Upon Hon. J. R. Stratton and Retracts in Face of Suit for Damages.

An article printed some time ago in the Galt Reporter, was in statement and inference absolutely false and untrue. It was published like many other slanders, with a view of prejudicing Hon. Mr. Stratton before the people by a newspaper that has printed disparaging paragraphs against Mr. Stratton on more than one occasion. The statement related to something with which Mr. Stratton personally had nothing to do something that was being dealt with in the regular course of business, by a company of which he was president.

Instructions were given for the institution of legal proceedings for damages, with the result that the following retraction appeared in the Galt Reporter of September 11th. The reader will see that the very publication which made the original wrongful statement has, through its solicitors, withdrawn absolutely and unqualifiedly, the statements, insinuations and inferences referred to. The retraction assumes the following form in the columns of the Galt Reporter:

JOHN S. CLARK AND THE G.V.R.

An Explanation Removing Imputations Recently Unwittingly Cast by a Reporter Article.

Exception has been taken to an article in The Reporter of the 19th August, headed, "J. S. Clark on the Warpath," the complaint being lodged more specially at a paragraph stating "It is claimed that over $200,000 of bonds were fraudulently obtained from the Trusts and Guarantee Company, of which James R. Stratton is president, while Mr. Stratton was a director of the G.V.R."

"This statement is not taken from the writ which was issued; this statement does not appear in the writ; no statement is made in the writ of Mr. Stratton having been a director of the Grand Valley Railway Company when the $200,000 of bonds were issued, and if the statement had appeared in the writ it would have been and is untrue. Furthermore, the duty of the Trusts & Guarantee Company, the trustee named in the mortgage given to secure the bond holders, was to certify and deliver bonds on the terms mentioned in the mortgage. That duty of the Trusts & Guarantee Company discharged and it has done nothing more. It could not have refused to certify, and deliver the bonds which were certified and delivered, because the terms of the mortgage were obligatory upon it. It had no discretion which it could exercise and it, in any case, was not and is not aware of any wrong doing by anyone in connection with the bonds.

"Mr. Stratton personally had absolutely nothing to do with the transaction, and, in fact, had no knowledge of it whatever. It would appear from the way in which the paragraph we complain of is framed that it was the intention to create an impression that the Trusts & Guarantee Company had lent itself to some wrong doing for the purpose of giving some benefit to its president, Mr. Stratton. Mr. Stratton did not receive and it was not intended that he should receive any benefit nor was nor is the Trusts & Guarantee Company aware of any wrong doing."

The Reporter very readily and very cheerfully gives place to the explanation from the Toronto solicitors, and regrets that any inference of wrong doing, either on the part of the Trusts & Guarantee Co. or Hon. Mr. Stratton, should have been drawn from the article in question, which came to The Reporter apparently in perfect bona fides and was given out in the ordinary course of news. Despite all precautions, the newspaper is occasionally unwittingly made the medium of persons with sinister motives underlying their communications to its columns.

There is another matter, in connection with the Home Life Assurance Company, of which Mr. Stratton is president, that will, perhaps, require the issue of another writ for damages in a quarter nearer home than Galt. Mr. Stratton is not thin-skinned, and has been rather patient under the policy of slander to which he has been subjected, but there are limits beyond which the slanderer will not be permitted to transgress with impunity.

THE "BILL TAFT" HAT

One of the local hatters is showing to-day a new style of hat which is known as the "Bill Taft." It is a regular street hat of felt in hazel and black colours. The brim is either straight or rolled and the effect is decidedly smart and distingue. It is the kind that the dressy young man likes to have to add an easy appearance to his attire.

PETERBOROUGH BOY FOR OXFORD

Mr. Stanley Fife Leaves Edmonton for England—Brief Sketch of His Educational Career.

WAS BORN IN THIS CITY

Edmonton, Sept. 15. Special.—Gordon Stanley Fite, who secured the Rhodes scholarship for Alberta and Saskatchewan this year, left the city last Saturday on the C.P.R. for Oxford, England, where he will attend Oxford University. The scholarship amounts to $1,500 a year for three years. Mr. Fite will take a course in modern history and literature, with a view to taking a professorship. He is only 19 years of age, and this year completed his third year in Queen's University, Kingston, where he took an honour course in English and philosophy.

He is a son of J A Fife, the mathematical and science master of Edmonton High School, and who filled for fifteen years a similar position in Peterborough Collegiate Institute. He is the eldest in a family of six children, and has been remarked since childhood for the brightness of his intelligence and his industry. He was born in Peterborough and attended the Public School and Collegiate Institute. He graduated from the latter in 1905, taking an honour matriculation in the same year for Queen's.

Whilst in Peterborough he was president of the Collegiate Literary Society, and carried off the first prize in an oratorical contest there. In his first year at Queen's he won again in the inter-year debate. This year he and another student were selected to defend Queen's against Ottawa University in the inter-university.

HARRY SCHRIBER FOUND GUILTY

Allowed to go on Suspended Sentence—Has to Pay Costs.

Stratford, Ont., Sept. 15.—The case of King v. H. Sorober, which was aired in the police court, came to a conclusion about 5 o'clock p. m. on Saturday. The prisoner was found guilty of the charge of theft laid against him by The Courier Press Co., of Toronto, and was given his liberty on suspended sentence. All the property of the company in his possession was returned to the representative of the Courier Co., present at the trial. The prisoner was also charged with the costs of the court which will amount to in the neighbourhood of $70.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally and luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. McDermid & Jury and the Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

WILL ORGANIZE CLUB TO-NIGHT

Young Men of St. Peter's T. A. S. to Take up Music and Debates Again.

A meeting of all the young men of St. Peter's T.A.S. who are interested in music and debating will be held in the assembly hall at 8 o'clock to-night. A club will be organized on a broader scale than last year and it is expected that even better results will be achieved.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien will be present and a start will be made for a good season's work.

ALMOST SENSATIONAL

It's but a short time since the first box of Booth's Kidney Pills came to Peterborough.

What a work this stranger has accomplished. Dozens of residents benefitted and cured of lame, weak and aching backs, urinary and kidney troubles. It is remarkable: the reason for it is Booth's Kidney Pills are a new blend of vegetable ingredients having a peculiar action on the kidney tissue that brings quick help.

Mrs. M. J. Cook, No. 494 Aylmer street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I always find quick relief in Booth's Kidney Pills. They strengthen and relieve my back of a dull, heavy pain, which settles in the small of it and extends into my shoulders. For years I had suffered with these symptoms of kidney trouble and could find no relief. I would have frequent spells of dizziness and headaches. I was restless and weak, and would often awake more tired than on going to bed. I had never found relief for these painful and weakening symptoms of kidney trouble until I used Booth's Kidney Pills, procured at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy. I have had little trouble since as I use Booth's Kidney Pills occasionally and they keep me in the best of health."

HAVE CATCHY WINDOW DISPLAY

Mimic Exhibition Grounds in White & Gillespie's North Window.

The ingenuity of Mr. G W Fitzgerald, the resourceful window dresser in White & Gillespie's grocery store, George street, has developed an interesting effect in their north window. The scene shows a mimic fair ground with grand stand, race track, cattle sheds, horse stables and other features characteristic of the usual fair grounds. Flags are flying on tops of the buildings and the whole scheme constructed out of goods from the store, is very natural and well planned.

Children's EYES

Need the most careful and persistent attention. Early headaches and other troubles frequently emanate from defective eye-sight, which in itself, may have originated in early neglect of the eyes. The trouble is, parents seldom know their children's eyes are weak until it is too late.

Normal School Opened To 104 Students This Morning

EXAMINATIONS FOR SOME

Nineteen young men and eighty-five young women presented themselves at the Normal School this morning for registration. Although the number enrolled was only 104 it is expected that before the classes begin on Thursday all the students will have arrived.

Principal Walker had all his staff present, except Mr. Garrow, who will not begin the classes in manual training until Christmas. Twenty-three of the students, who had come from schools that had not been improved had to write on examinations in Geography, Arithmetic and Grammar as required by the department.

Mr. Walker spent a busy morning in securing homes for those students who had not already secured boarding houses. It is not expected that there will be any difficulty experienced in securing places near the school.

The classes will begin on Thursday morning, when all the students will be present and the work will be begun for the first term.

SENT UP ON HILL FOR TEN DAYS

Such Was the Fate of Alf. Cooney Charged With Vagrancy.

Alfred Cooney, a well known resident of the city, appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning, on a charge of vagrancy, and as a result will spend the next ten days at Castle Nesbitt. He pleaded not guilty to the charge, but Chief Roszel testified that he had no money, and did not support his family and was a habitual drunkard. "He's not such a bad fellow at all, when he's not drinking," remarked the chief.

The magistrate inflicted a fine of $10, to be paid at once, or in default of payment ten days in gaol. He further issued an order to all hotel keepers and dealers in liquor not to sell liquor to Cooney for one year.

When asked if he had any money, the prisoner replied, "No; I'll take the ten days, thank you."

PEELING POTATOES WITH NO LABOUR

Something New for the Housewife—Mr. Collier Home From Toronto.

Mr. H. B. Collier of the Collier-Cunningham Company has returned from the Toronto Exhibition, where he superintended the exhibits of the company as well as those of the Diamond Caulk Horseshoe Company. He reports a great exhibition and splendid sales, and he is perfectly satisfied with his stay in Toronto.

Mr. Collier brought back with him something new, so far as Peterborough is concerned. It is a potato-peeler which requires no manual labour once the potatoes have been thrown into the hopper. It holds about a peck of potatoes and may be filled to be peeled. The bottom contains small projecting teeth and it is so arranged that it is made to revolve by a flow of water striking little flanges underneath. A rubber hose which may be attached to the water tap carries the water to the flanges, and thus the bottom revolves and the potatoes, when peeled, work their way to the top.

WINNIPEG MAN CURED OF RHEUMATISM

Remarkable Case of Cure After Specialists Failed.

Winnipeg, Man.—A prominent resident of this City, who for personal reasons does not wish his name mentioned publicly, but who permits us to show his letter to interested enquirers, writes to say that he was suddenly taken with excruciating pains in the back and side, which were pronounced by his physicians as Rheumatism. Hot applications were at once resorted to, the usual medicines administered, supplemented by electrical treatment, but all to no purpose. In his desperation he took Gin Pills on his own account, and in a few hours after taking the first Pill the pains commenced to subside. He continued taking them and in 48 hours he had not an ache or a pain left.

Gin Pills are sold at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Send to us if your dealer does not handle them. Sample box free if you mention this paper.

A BOILER EXPLOSION IS FATAL

Two Are Killed in Cider Mill in Waterloo County.

BUILDING IS DEMOLISHED

Damien Huber and William Attic Lose Their Lives in Disaster at Huber's Corners Near Linwood — Bodies Blown Into Nearby Field—Cause of Accident Unknown—Rest of Employes Escape.

Huber's Corners, Sept. 15.—By the explosion of a boiler in Huber's cider mill at noon yesterday two men lost their lives, while the building was completely wrecked.

The force of the explosion was so great as to level the building to the ground, while the bodies of the two men were blown into a nearby field.

M.P.P. IS KILLED.

Brest of Quebec Legislature Falls Beneath Car Wheels.

Quebec, Sept. 15.—Mr. Brest, Belgian capitalist and member of the Quebec Legislature, was accidentally killed on the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway.

He was returning to the city from Chicontimi, where he had gone in the interest of his constituents, and on arrival at St. Gideon he stepped from the train to grasp the hand of a friend whom he saw on the platform, but, miscalculating the distance, fell on to the rail, when the wheel completely severed his right leg close to the trunk.

The deceased was reported to be worth a million of money. He came to Canada about seven years ago, and purchased extensive lands in Northern Quebec.

British Embassy Robbed.

Washington, Sept. 15.—Burglars entered the British embassy Sunday night and stole from the room of the housekeeper, Miss Clara Childs, a sum of money, most of her jewelry and a gold watch and chain. Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce are in Europe and Miss Childs, who is in charge of the embassy, reported the matter to the police, who last night arrested George Chism and William Owen, mechanics, who have been doing repair work at the embassy.

The men under arrest protest their innocence.

Three Thousand Protest.

Montreal, Sept. 15.—At an indignation meeting in the open last night, attended by upwards of 3,000 working men, a strong resolution was passed condemning the inaction of the Government in connection with the importation of aliens from the United States and strikebreakers from Britain.

Excursion Boat Overloaded.

Belleville, Sept. 15.—Capt. Roys of the steamer Aletha has been charged by the Dominion Government with on three occasions last summer, carrying more passengers than he had the legal right to.

Col. Moodie President.

Hamilton, Stpt. 15.—J. R. Moodie, honorary colonel of the 91st Regiment, and treasurer of the Dominion Power Co., has been selected as Col. Gibson's successor as president.

Board of Conciliation.

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—The Board of Conciliation to investigate the difference between the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway and their engineers will consist of J. Harvey Hall, engineers; F. B. Richardson for company, and Judge Gunn of Ottawa, chairman.

Gambled on Sunday.

Hamilton, Sept. 15.—John Massey, Michael Coughlin, Donald Graham, William Connolly, John Dacey and Frank Wright, were each fined $5 by the police magistrate yesterday morning for gambling on the Lord's Day.

Sentenced For Wife Murder.

St. Thomas, Sept. 15.—Timothy Linehan was yesterday sentenced for life for wife murder.

Mrs. Linehan was a sister of Frank Monaghan, Pere Marquette section foreman in this city.

Killed by Live Wire.

St. Catharines, Sept. 15.—Charles Stuart of Merritton, while working in front of the public library at Schenectady, N.Y., fell against a live wire, 2,300 volts passing through his body.

practice before Parliamentary committees, has become versed in the ways of politicians. Thus, although he has never sat in Parliament, he has an excellent working knowledge of the country's system of government.

The appointment of D'Arcy Scott, son of the retiring Secretary of State, Hon. Thomas Greenway and W. A. Galliher, M.P., to the Railway Commission, it is rumored, will be confirmed on Wednesday.

Germany Is Peaceable.

London, Sept. 15.—The Standard prints a long interview with Prince Von Buelow, the German chancellor at Norderney. Prince Von Buelow says:

"I can assure you that no one of any sense in Germany dreams of picking a quarrel with England, much less is there any insane idea of invading England. But for Germans there are far more tangible reasons for apprehensions through our exposed geographical position, let alone a dark historical background.

"So far as the idea of Germany's power being a menace to other countries is concerned, Germany, as you well know, is only one of the great powers, which has waged no war during the last thirty-seven years."

Alberti's Brother a Crook.

Copenhagen, Sept. 15.—The King has accepted the resignation of the Cabinet in accordance with his demand, on condition that the Ministers continue to perform their duties until Parliament reassembles on Sept. 28.

The situation is a very complicated one, neither the Conservatives nor the combined Socialists and Radicals being considered strong enough to take office.

The elder brother of M. Alberti, the former Minister of Justice, who is in prison on a charge of widespread fraud, it is learned, absconded more than twenty years ago, after committing frauds and forgeries involving large sums. His sister is a leader of the Danish suffragettes.

Two Men Washed Overboard.

Victoria, Sept. 15.—Word has just reached the city from the Behring Sea sealing fleet, that the schooner Thos. F. Bayard, locally owned, lost two of her crew, John McLean and Arthur Black, the latter an Englishman, on May 30, in a severe storm. They were carried overboard, together with the mate, Blackstad, who, however, was snatched up by Indians.

The Bayard has taken 28 sea otters pelts, being valued at from $15,000 to $25,000. It is a record take.

Ravages of Cholera.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 15.—It is officially announced that from noon on Sept. 12 until noon yesterday, there were 256 cases of cholera and 64 deaths. The mortality since the beginning of the epidemic is over 25 per cent.

Babe's Body Washed Ashore.

Wiarton, Sept. 15.—The body of a newly-born female child was washed on to the rocks at the north side of the breakwater here at noon yesterday. The head is missing and the trunk is considerably bruised.

Train Off the Track.

Kingston, Sept. 15.—A Bay of Quinte Railway train ran off the track at Yarker yesterday. No one was injured. A special was sent out from Kingston to carry the passengers.

Strikebreakers Killed Coupling Cars.

North Bay, Sept. 15.—One man was killed and one fatally injured while repairing cars. Both men were strikebreakers, foreigners, names unknown.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN ONTARIO

Timber Throughout Province Is Heavily Damaged.

NEW ONTARIO SUFFERING

District Between Parry Sound and Sudbury to Swept by Flames and Standing Wood Is Destroyed—Rosseau Has Worst Conflagration In History—Costly Blaze Near Havelock—Pulp Burns.

Toronto, Sept. 15.—Forest fires are raging in many parts of the province. A despatch from Parry Sound says that fires are raging all through the district, extending from the Severn river to Sudbury, and great damage is being done to standing timber.

In the neighborhood of Waubaumic and at other points along the line of the G.N.O.R. and C.P.R. the reflection of the fires is so bright as to almost allow one to read without any other light.

Bush fires are playing havoc around Folger's Station on the K. & P. Railway, and threaten to make serious trouble.

A Havelock despatch says that large bush fires are raging in every direction destroying very much valuable timber and keeping the farmers on the qui vive. The town was in darkness at six o'clock last night owing to the dark clouds of smoke in the air.

Forest fires are assuming serious proportions in New Ontario, says a despatch from North Bay. The towns are filled with smoke by day and blazing fires at night betoken serious menace to settlers and new necessities unless heavy rain comes soon.

At Port Arthur a despatch was received that a large tract of timber land with tie, pulpwood and lumber camps in Mattiwan valley district is in danger of destruction by forest fires, recently started. The district is an unsurveyed township, fifty miles west of here.

Rosseau, Muskoka, is the centre of the worst fire ever known since the settling of the district about the Muskoka Lakes. All work in the village, on the farms and in the woods is suspended, and heroic efforts are being put forth to save the property of those endangered.

Council Unseated.

Toronto, Sept. 15.—For the second time this year, the town of Midland is without a council, and an order has been issued by the Master-in-Chambers for a new election — the third this year. Judgment for the unseating of the mayor and six councillors per quo warranto proceedings, was given at Osgoode Hall yesterday by the Master-in-Chambers.

Councillor Oades is to pay $10, and Councillors Hanly and Simpson the costs throughout. The others escape expense.

The master in his judgment, says that the action of Councillors Hanly and Simpson, in accepting nomination and office after having been declared disqualified in previous judgment, does not differ substantially from contempt of court.

Says He Jilted Her.

Chatham, Sept. 15.—J. S. Fraser, K.C., acting for Mrs. Carpenter, a widow of Wallaceburg, has filed a writ for breach of promise against Salem Merriam, bachelor, a farmer of Sombra, claiming $5,000.

Merriam had bought the wedding ring and told her children to call him "Pa" but refused to set the day for the wedding.

Canadians May Buy Out.

Winnipeg, Sept. 15.—It was announced from Chicago yesterday that the Canadian shareholders in the Booth Fish Co. will likely buy out entirely all the Canadian rights of the company, and in future will run it on exclusively independent lines.

Drowning at Wiarton.

Wiarton, Sept. 15.—Arthur Vogan, the 10-year-old son of Councillor Thos. Vogan, was drowned in the dry dock slip last evening. It is not known how the accident happened. The body was in the water nearly half an hour before being recovered.

Lord Curzon Injured.

London, Sept. 15.—Lord Curzon of Kedleston, chancellor of Oxford University, and ex-Viceroy of India, suffered painful injuries in an auto collision yesterday.

BABY HAD DIARRHOEA FOR SEVEN WEEKS

Thousands of infants die annually who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

There can be no doubt about it. Sixty-three years experience has proved this sterling remedy to be the best for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus Summer Complaint, and all bowel troubles in both children and adults.

Mrs. A. B. De Marchand, Bath, N.B., writes: "My baby was troubled with Diarrhoea for nearly seven weeks. I tried three different doctors, but none of them could do her any good. I was advised to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and less than half a bottle cured her."

LONGBOAT WILL BE HERE ALL RIGHT FOR HARRIERS' MEET ON THURSDAY; MANY FROM TORONTO

The report in last night's Star to the effect that Tom Longboat would be unable to appear here at the Harriers' meet is happily not true, as the local Harriers have succeeded in fixing the matter up satisfactorily. Longboat is to take part in a ten-mile race at Erin on Friday, and the Irish-Canadians were afraid that if he came here he would not be able to get to Erin in time to fill his engagement. However, the Harriers agreed to take him from Toronto to Erin in an automobile. If he did not make train connections, and on this basis the famous Indian will be here Thursday night.

The sporting public will learn with regret that E. P. Archibald, champion pole vaulter, will not be able to be present and give his pole vaulting exhibition. The crack "vaulter" is in Cobalt on business, and has notified the local management that he will not be able to fulfill his engagement.

However, the good news came from Toronto last night that the Central Y. M. C. A. will send Arnold Knox, their crack miler; Jack Near, the well known middle distance man; Geo. H. Goulding, Canadian walking champion; and E. P. MacDonald, his rival and club mate; and that the West End Y. M. C. A. will be represented by Jack Tait and Lou Sebert.

That mile race on Thursday night should be about the fastest and hardest fought 1,760 yards ever seen in Canada. Arnold Knox, of the Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto; Chuck Skene, of the Irish-Canadians; and Jack Tait, of the West End Y. M. C. A., said to be the greatest trio of milers in Canada fighting it out, with Ernie Wilson, Chas. Thorpe and Geo. Fowler, of the "Y." Harriers, it will be a grand race.

The mile walk will be another spectacular event, as Geo. H. Goulding, the Canadian champion, and E. P. MacDonald, also of the Toronto Central Y. M. C. A., are well matched. Local people will be eager to see how the amateur article dished up by this pair compares with the professional walking of Hoagland and Slater.

Following are the entries up to last night. The list closes to-night at 7 o'clock, when the handicaps will be arranged and other details settled.

MANAGER NAYLOR THINKS SYRIAN WILL PUT IT OVER HURTUBISE; HE IS NOT A PARLOUR ARTIST

Everything is now settled and Hassan Abdallah, the Sultan's wrestler, will be in Peterborough ready and willing to throw our Gene all over the mat a la Yankee Rogers. That Hurtubise is up against it, is the opinion of Mr. W B Naylor, who looks after the Turk's interests as well as Yankee Rogers'. In a letter to Chris. Graham this morning he says he thinks his Olive importation is even better than Yankee in some things. If he is, and Manager Naylor should know, for there is probably no one in America better able to judge, the public of Peterborough want to see it. Rogers may at times appear to be rough, but every top-notcher in any game always has that cry ringing in his ears. It is the speed not the roughness that is so evident. The faster the man works the less resistance appears to be offered and then the wrestler looks rough and brutal. Abdallah is evidently no parlour artist and the way he went after John Perrille in Boston, the other night, got the crowd on edge. The management now want Rogers to meet him there but that will not take place. The public will have to watch this bout cool and collected and not yell at every little thing that may happen to Gene and not say anything if the local man gets dirty. It all goes in wrestling and the only hold barred is the strangle. Hassan says this hold is a favourite one in Turkey. In the Turkish style every old hold goes. The choice of referee will not be decided until the arrival of Manager Naylor and his quaint-looking grappler.

HOCKEY SITUATION IN EDMONTON

Club Ready for Organization Again—A Successful Season Past.

On Thursday evening at 8.30 the annual meeting of the Edmonton Hockey Club will be held in the Young Liberal Club Rooms to wind up the affairs of the club for last year, elect officers and arrange for the coming season's sport. Everyone who takes any interest in hockey at all should attend this meeting.

The officials of last year are to be congratulated on their earnest and painstaking work which has resulted in placing Edmonton in the front rank in hockey circles in Canada. Last year a hockey team was got together which won the Interprovincial championship of Alberta and Saskatchewan. Not content with these honours the club management challenged the Wanderers, of Montreal, for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the hockey championship of Canada. The challenge was accepted and the games for this cup will probably be played early next winter in Montreal.

In order to support a professional hockey team capable of challenging for the Stanley Cup it is necessary that every person interested in sport in Edmonton take an active interest in the re-organization of the club on Thursday night. The work in the past has been falling on the shoulders of a few and this year it is only fair that everyone do their share towards bringing that coveted bit of silverware, the Stanley Cup, to Edmonton.

The town of New Westminster, B. C., this year put a lacrosse team in the field that knocked the spots off the eastern teams and brought the Minto Cup west, and there is no reason why Edmonton should not duplicate this by winning the Stanley Cup. The eyes of the east are now being opened to the vast resources of Western Canada, and now is the time to force on Easterners the fact that the West can shine in athletics as well as in business.

At 8.30 to-morrow night, therefore, the Liberal Club Rooms should be filled by an enthusiastic bunch of sports who will take an active interest in the election of officers for the ensuing year and in making arrangements for the season's sport.—Edmonton Bulletin.

BIG RUGBY MEETING TO-MORROW

All Those Interested in Fall Sport Are Asked To Be On Hand.

There will be a meeting of all those interested in Rugby at the Y. M.C.A. to-morrow evening at 7.30 o'clock for the purpose of forming a City League. All teams intending to enter such an organization should be on hand. It is not necessary to send a representative, but what is desired is to have as many of the players of each team present as possible. Everybody interested in the fall game should be on hand.

NEW COVERED RINK FOR TRENTON

Postmaster Christie Decides to Instal Bowling Alleys.

Mr. J B Christie, postmaster of Trenton, who was in the city to-day on business, stated that a meeting will be held there to-night to discuss the building of a new covered hockey rink. The prospects are bright for the erection of the rink and Trenton will be represented by an O.H.A. team this winter.

Mr. Christie who has been an enthusiastic bowler, called upon Mr. J B Hay at the Peterborough Bowling Club this morning and was delighted with the splendid alleys. He has decided to install three alleys in Trenton as a result of his visit.

JIMMY REYNOLDS AT TORONTO

Toronto, Sept. 15.—Jimmy Reynolds who left Port Hope at 6 a.m. yesterday on a wager of $200 against $450 that he would walk to Toronto and return in 33 hours, arrived at the King Edward at 10.05 last night. After signing the register at the hotel he was assisted to a friend's home, where he was rubbed down and given some light refreshments. He set out again about midnight, confident of success. He was almost fagged on reaching the King Edward, but, if the weather keeps favourable he expects to finish his walk in the specified time. He is making almost identical time with his June effort, as these figures indicate:

September, 1908—

Newtonville	8.25

TWO BANKERS RACE ON WATER STREET

Big Crowd Saw Exciting Run at Ten O'clock Last Night.

For a side bet of two dollars, an interesting race was run last night on Water street in which two young bank clerks did a fast stunt, much to the surprise of citizens who were on the street at ten o'clock. A challenge given and taken, the four dollars in safe custody and the new selects went over to the post office corner. The course was up Water street to St. Paul's church and return. The representative of the George street bank won out, after a killing pace in which all time records were broken.

ENGLISHMAN MAKES NEW RECORD FOR 100 MILE WALK

London, Sept. 14.—The English walker, T G Hammond, made a record for the 100-mile walk Saturday. He was one of the 42 contestants who left the stadium at 6 o'clock Friday evening in the walking contest under the auspices of the Middlesex Walking Club. He covered the distance in 18 hours, 4 min., 10-15 sec. In 1907, Hammond made a record in walking from London to Brighton and back. Hammond won also the 24-hour walk. In this time he covered 131 miles 820 yards, breaking all previous records.

Sporting Comment

The Herald Road Race this year promises to be the best yet. With Tom Longboat, Tom Coley, Fred Simpson, Harry Lawson, Eddie Cotter, Claude Pearce and many others training for the event, the "rail-birds" have plenty of work ahead of them.—Hamilton Herald.

• • • •

• • • •

Mr. Percy Crane, police court and social representative of an evening contemporary, was missing yesterday. He was reported stranded on the shore of Stony Lake, but will probably be here for the annual winter hockey game.

• • • •

John Brownlee has sent in his entry for the three and the one-mile races at the Harriers' meet on Thursday night.

• • • •

Thirty-one entries have already been made for the big Ward Marathon 20-mile road race on October 10. Among the entries so far are three Indians—Tom Longboat, who has won the trophy twice; Hilton Green of the I.C.A.C. and Henry Jackson of Midland, who is spoken of as a great runner. Harry Lawson, who won the Canadian Olympic trials; Pat Kelly, the long distance runner of the Toronto Police A. A.; Harry Westerby of West End Y.M.C.A.; Claude Pearce of the I.C.A.C., and John Rice, of the West End Y.M.C.A. have also entered. Last week's entries were: R. V. Pratt of West End Y.M.C.A.; A. Watkins, Central Y.M.C.A.; F. Dixon, Alex K. White, Moore Park; Wm. Gidlow, of East Toronto; J. W. Yates, Boys' Brigade; J. Brown and Ernest Claxton, unattached. The Irish-Canadians have 14 entries.

A Choice and Complete Stock is what people want nowadays. We have it. We are always particular what we buy in the country. We don't buy all the farmer has on his farm to get it a little cheaper, but we take good care and select the best and pay the farmer a little more, then we give our customers the choicest at a reasonable price and will not be undersold by anyone. Our feeders and buyers are experienced men and our meat is slaughtered in one of the best abattoirs in the County of Peterborough. You will always get what you ask for from us. Choice stock of Beef, Mutton, Lamb, Pork, Veal, Sausage and Bologna always on hand. Our Grocery in connection is stocked up with first-class goods. A trial order will convince you. Special attention given to children. Our motto—Goods delivered to all parts of the city without any disappointment.

AGED YOUNG'S POINT WOMAN PASSES AWAY

Death Comes After Illness of Couple of Months to Mrs. Robert Pamnett.

Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock there passed away in the village of Young's Point one of its oldest and most highly esteemed residents in the person of Mrs. Robert Pamment. The deceased had lived to see her eighty-ninth birthday and until a couple of months ago when she was stricken with a paralytic stroke, she had been in good health. The major portion of her life has been spent in Young's Point where she has always been much respected. Her surviving sons are James, of Lakefield and William at home in Young's Point and her daughters, Mrs. McGregor and Mrs. Gordon, Deer Bay; Mrs. Richardson, Young's Point; Mrs. Weaver, Lakefield, and Mrs. E Wright, Peterborough. Her husband also survives her.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to the Lakefield Cemetery.

TRIED TO TRICK THE CLERK

Farmer Pressed Against Roof of Market Scales to Increase the Weight

Market Clerk Ball caught a farmer trying to make his load of hay appear several hundred pounds heavier than it actually was. The load was on the scales, and when Mr. Ball had nearly got the exact weight he noticed the scales suddenly moved as if an extra weight were applied. He looked through the window as the scales were still unsteady and saw the farmer on top of the load pressing his hand against the roof, thus increasing the force which moved the scales. He looked at the man a moment, and being discovered, the latter guiltily withdrew his hand.

A NEW STREET OPENED IN NORTH END

Convenience Afforded the Drivers—Extends Across Old Railway.

Last autumn a new street was opened and graded from Hilliard street, running west, but as this street crossed the old Chemong Railway, its usefulness was curtailed considerably. This year, however, by means of the earth taken from the Normal School site the avenue has been opened across the railway and affords a short cut which is much appreciated by the drivers from the north to the northwest parts of the city.

ANOTHER YOUNG MAN GOES WEST

Mr. Harry Brisbin Left To-day for Killarney, Man.

Mr. Harry Brisbin, of East City, left this afternoon for Killarney, Man., where he has secured a good situation. Last night he was taken by surprise by a number of his friends who presented him with a suit case. In leaving Peterborough he will be missed by a large number of the younger men among whom he was a general favourite. He carries with him their best wishes for a successful future in his new surroundings.

HARRY BURRIDGE HOME FROM YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO

Harry Burridge, last year's catcher of the Peterborough Midland League team, and this year with the Youngstown professional team in the Pennsylvania and Ohio League, arrived home last night and will spend the winter here. Harry is quite satisfied with his debut in fast company and likes the work immensely. He was well treated in Youngstown, although the fans were inclined to knock at first, but they soon came around and he was the white-haired boy during the last part of the season. The Youngstown team which led the league earlier in the summer, took an awful slump at the close and finished up in fifth place. The pitchers went to the bad on end, and the team found the toboggan slide well greased.

Burridge expects to be with Youngstown next season, although the club is under new management and all the players are free at the present time.

WEDDING BELLS

ELLIS—HUBBARD

A wedding of unusual interest took place at 2 o'clock yesterday in Toronto when Mrs. Leonidas Hubbard, widow of the late famous explorer in Labrador, was married to Mr. Harold Thornton Ellis, only son of the Right Hon. John E. Ellis, P. C., of Wreakhead, Scarborough, Yorks, England, former Under-Secretary of State for India. The bridegroom's mother and sister arrived out from England a fortnight ago for the event and have been visiting friends of the bride in Toronto. Mr. Ellis, with his father, another sister, and his aunt, Miss Ellis, of Leicester, arrived last week. These, with the bride's immediate family, were the only witnesses of the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. G. W. McCall of Napanee, brother-in-law of the bride, at 8 Prince Arthur avenue, which the bride's sister, Mrs. J M. Roberts, had rented for the occasion. Mrs. Hubbard is the daughter of the late James Benson, of Bewdley, Rice Lake, and of Mrs. Benson, who was present at the ceremony. There were no attendants. The bride wore a gown of pale gray Nitas silk trimmed with antique Flemish lace, the gift of the bridegroom's mother. She carried a nosegay of pale pink roses, which, with a diamond bracelet, a gold watch wristlet and a Russia leather fitted travelling bag, was the bridegroom's gift. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis left in the afternoon for New York, the latter travelling in a simple suit of brown broadcloth and blue and green hat trimmed with roses. They will sail for Liverpool on Wednesday, and the honeymoon will be spent in motoring through Scotland. Later Mr. Ellis will settle in Berkshire, England.

LANCASTER—ELMHIRST

A quiet wedding took place in St. Luke's Church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the rector, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. John C. Lancaster of Westwood and Miss Jane Stella Elmhirst of Westwood. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Lancaster. The bride's suit was of navy blue broadcloth with hat to match. The happy young couple leave to-day for Alberta where they will make their home on the farm taken up by the groom.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and these who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. FREE MAIL DELIVERY FOR THE FARMERS

System That Will Benefit One Half of Agricultural Class is Promised

Niagara Falls, Sept. 16.—Special.—During his speech yesterday Hon. Mr. Lemieux announced the inauguration of a rural mail system, utilizing the present delivery system between railway points and interior post offices.

"This system," said an intimate associate of the Cabinet, "is a compromise between the United States system of delivering at every house in some districts and the Canadian system of bringing sealed packets to post offices in country districts. It has been found that, as registered letters are not left, that robbery of these boxes is almost unknown. The cost will be large, but not prohibitive. It will cover nearly 50 per cent. of the people and will be inaugurated over the whole of Canada.

DUCK SHOOTING AT THE LAKE

Is Fair Now But Will Surely Improve With Colder Weather.

The duck-shooting season so far this year has been fairly good, but owing to the continued warm weather it has not been quite as good as in former years. Those who have been enjoying the sport say that the game is most plentiful in the creeks along the river and just at its mouth. A gentleman who spent Sunday at Jubilee Point states that during the night the birds could be heard dropping into the water in the bay west of the hotel. They are plentiful enough in those parts but will be much better when the chills of October drive them from their northern haunts. Local sportsmen should not be alarmed that the game is going to be scarce, according to report, and it will likely be their own fault if they do not have their usual share of the fun.

APSLEY YOUTH GETS TWO BLACK BEARS

An Exciting Hunt of Roy Coon—Hit a Third But Didn't Get It.

Apsley, Sept. 16. — Bear-hunting near Apsley seems to be pretty good if the performance of Roy Coon, a youth scarcely out of his teens, is any criterion. Last week Roy went out to look at some marsh hay, and for protection he took his Winchester rifle along with him. While going through the marsh he suddenly came upon five bears. He lost no time in getting his rifle to his shoulder. He succeeded in shooting three of the animals while two made off to the woods. The bears that were shot were the old she bear, a cub and a yearling, although the yearling got up and ran away, it having been only wounded.

Roy had an exciting time with the old bear for a couple of minutes, as she turned upon him and showed fight, but the boy had good nerve and was a steady shot. He only had a limited amount of ammunition or he would have secured a bigger prize, but two bears at any time is pretty good bear-hunting.

Music and Drama

A GINGERBREAD MAN STORY

With just six minutes in which to catch a train J. J. McGowan, a comedian of "The Gingerbread Man" show rushed to the desk and paid his bill. Suddenly he bethought himself of a bundle of manuscripts which he had left on the dresser in the room he had just vacated. "Here, boy," said he to a lanky, coloured bell hop, "run up to 56 and see if there's a package on the bureau. Hurry." The youth disappeared skyward and the comedian impatiently awaited his return. Three minutes elapsed before he returned, out of breath. "Well," said McGowan, "was it there?" "Yas, sah, I done saw it on the bureau, jus' wher yo' said it was, sah." Words cannot express the diminutive funny man's ire, and the newspapers will not print what he said.

BURNING BEE TREE MAY HAVE CAUSED THE DISASTROUS BUSH FIRES IN DUMMER TOWNSHIP

Examiner Special

Warsaw, Sept. 16.—Forest fires of large proportions are raging through a section of Dummer northeast of here, and between the seventh and eighth concessions. The fire is now running through a wood lot, the property of Mr. Joseph Little, and is said to be destroying an immense amount of timber. It was thought on Saturday that it might burn out and die down, but the winds of Sunday night and Monday started the sparks flying again and if rain does not soon come it is difficult to say where a stop will be made, as the section is heavily wooded and human effort would be useless.

Mr. F. F. Calder, who owns property adjoining that of Mr. Little, and who visited that section shortly after the fire started, is of the opinion that it originated by someone who had cut a bee tree, and after extracting the honey, for some unknown reason set the log ablaze and left it, with the result that the underbrush and leaves being dry as tinder, it would quickly spread and already hundreds of dollars damage has been done.

Mr. W. R. Kavanagh, who lives about four miles east of here, is also a heavy loser by fire, which started in a field adjoining his property last week and has swept through a large tract of hardwood. A number of men were out fighting against the progress of the fire yesterday, and it is possible its advance may soon be checked.

VIAMEDE SUMMER RESORT COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY FIRE YESTERDAY EVENING

TWO COTTAGES BURNED

Examiner Special:

Mount Julian, Sept. 16.—Viamede, the popular and picturesque summer resort on the Burleigh shore, was, last night completely destroyed by fire. It occurred between eight and nine o'clock, and for a couple of hours lit up the whole of the bay in front of the landing, as well as the islands and water lying in front.

Its origin is in doubt, although it is believed it started from a fire in the stove of the Landing department. Mr. and Mrs. Hood had used it to cook their evening meal about four o'clock, and no other fire had been used in the building. Mrs. W. M. Graham, the proprietor, as well as the others of the family, had left Viamede last Monday, and were at their residence in Lakefield.

The house was looked after by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hood, who have been there all summer, and who at the time the blaze began were at Mr. Wm. Langford's residence, Burleigh. From there they noticed the smoke and flames and hurried to the rescue as soon as possible.

Despite the industrious efforts of the large number who quickly assembled on the scene, the main building, the cottage to the west known as "Eyrie," and "Shamrock," to the east, were burned to the ground. The extent of the loss is yet unknown, but it is roughly estimated at between two and three thousand dollars.

Buildings Saved

Those who were present worked hard and succeeded in saving Viamede store, the pavilion, ice house and a cottage to the east of the main building. The piano, which was in the pavilion, was, of course, not burned. Some furniture was also saved.

The blaze was first noticed by a party at the Mount Julian Hotel, who gave the alarm.

The extent of the insurance has not yet been learned. Mr. and Mrs. Graham are expected to arrive on this morning's boat.

MR. WM. HEATH RETURNS AN OPTIMISTIC WESTERNER

Returns After An Absence of Ten Years—Visits the Peterborough Lift Lock

HAS A FARM IN THE WEST

Mr. Wm. Heath and his native heath are in communion. After an absence of ten years spent in the opulent West at Yorkton, Sask., he is home on a visit the guest of his sister, Mrs. R. Henderson, King street. It is ten years since Mr. Heath left Peterborough and he notices incredible improvement and growth. Where he then saw vacant lots, grass grown, he now sees rows of handsome houses happily occupied. He also indulges in the usual uplift—of hands in wonder and surprise—at the world-famed lift lock, and the new, perfectly-appointed and well-manned fire buildings elicit his admiration.

Mr. Heath has a little farm of 640 acres in the Northwest, and his enthusiasm and faith in the land of golden grain are as unbounded as its far-flung prairies. He is an occidental optimist in regard to the West, which he says is all right for the man that works and practises habits of reasonable thrift. The West has its "knockers," who went out from the east, where they failed to practise the qualities of industry and saving necessary to success. Taking the same habits of laziness, idleness and shiftlessness to the West, they naturally fail, and are loud in their condemnation of the West—they could make good neither in the East nor West nor anywhere else, with the same habits. Then," suggested a representative of the Examiner, "you consider the West the land of promise?" "Yes, and more than that; it is the land of fulfilment—the golden West for me."

Mr. Heath had a lot of interesting things to say about James Sharp, the shotgun prophet, who terrorized the Yorkton district till rounded up by the Northwest Mounted Police. He was the terror of women and children, and even the farmers feared that in his mad freaks he might do substantial damage.

Mr. Heath left this afternoon for North Bay to spend a few days visiting before returning home.

Everything At The Grounds Is Ready For The Big Fair; Entries Come In With A Rush

Everything at the grounds is in readiness for the big Peterborough Industrial Exhibition which begins to-morrow. Superintendent J J Bennett has had a staff of men at work since Monday and Exhibition Park has been cleared up and presents a very attractive appearance. The decoration of the main building has been completed, the poultry tent is erected and the coops are ready for the birds that will arrive to-morrow and the midway is being built up fast. Many applications for privileges have been received and the superintendent this morning remarked that the midway would be the biggest in the history of the fair.

If things are busy at the grounds they are equally so at Messrs. Storey & Simpson's store on Water street, where Secretary Hall is located and which is the up town headquarters of the exhibition. The secretary and his assistants have had their work cut out for them to-day as the entries have been coming in with a rush that threatened to paralyze the clerical staff. Nothing but "heavy draught horses," "brood sow," "Cotswold," etc., can be heard around the secretary's desks and the live stock exhibits promise to break all records both in point of quality and quantity.

To-morrow, the first day of the Fair, will be devoted mainly to the bringing in and placing of exhibits and there will be nothing for the public until Friday, when the Fair will be opened at 1.30 o'clock. The programme of races will commence at 2.30 o'clock and at 3 o'clock there will be a spectacular performance in front of the grand stand and in which the trick comedy horse act will be put on in a manner that will make a big hit.

The full band of the 57th Regiment will be on hand during the afternoon and also in the evening when a fine programme will be presented, including the grandstand attractions,

SHOT AN EAGLE ON A SMITH FARM

Mr. Thos. Graham the Lucky One—Is Having It Mounted

Mr. Thomas Wilson, a Smith farmer, shot a bald headed eagle on his farm last Monday. The Latin phrase describing it is "haliaetus leuco cephalus," which indicates that strictly speaking, it is the white headed eagle.

Mr. Elcome, taxidermist, is mounting the bird, which certainly will present an attractive appearance.

DR. ROBERTSON RETIRES.

On account of having removed from the riding, Dr. A J Robinson at the East Peterborough Liberal convention, Norwood, resigned the secretaryship of the Liberal Association which he has held for several years, and was replaced by Dr. Wilson, of Norwood, son of Rev. J P. Wilson, formerly pastor of the George street Methodist Church, here, who will doubtless make a good successor. And he will have to be a good man to fairly fill the place of his predecessor. Dr. Robertson has made a most painstaking, energetic an successful Association secretary. He was always ready and prompt in responding to the call of duty and resourceful, energetic and successful in meeting its demands. His services have been freely and generously given, and deserve the hearty recognition that is given by all those who know of their extent and value.

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

The successful and enthusiastic Liberal convention at Norwood yesterday, Mr. E A Tanner, of Lakefield, as a Mr. E A Tanner, of Lakefield, as a candidate in the Liberal interest. In effect it was a concession to the northern part of the riding. Heretofore the southern part has furnished the candidates and members. Not only on this account is Mr. Tanner's selection as a candidate a good one but also on account of his personal qualties and qualifications. Mr. Tanner is a prominent and successful business man in Lakefield, of unblemished record as a citizen, well known and held in high respect in all parts of the riding. He is energetic, aggressive, of first-class business abilities, a good speaker, well-informed on public questions and above all possesses the best gift of all—strong, common sense. He has a natural energy and instinct of organization, which will make his campaign a vigorous one, and, with the united co-operation of his party, which was assured by the harmony and enthusiasm which marked his nomination, a triumphant success.

A DIFFERENCE.

While Conservatives are loud in making complaints of Liberal wrongdoing, they are careful not to put them in the shape of formal charges that can be subjected to investigation and proof or disproof. In the good old days, when Conservative purity was paramount, the Pacific scandal charges were made openly in Parliament, and in 1874, the Conservative Government involved was driven from power on that account. Later the Public Works Department came under fire. The Conservative Government did not do as the Liberal Government has done, appoint a commission to unearth suspicion of crookedness, but a deaf ear was turned to tales of wrongdoing, and it was not until Mr. Tarte as a Conservative independent, preferred charges in the House and proved them, that the minister of of the Crown in charge was found guilty and driven from public life. Hon. Mr. Fielding has aptly pointed out that "No member of the Conservative party had dared in Ottawa to make a charge of corruption against any of the ministers. Suspicion had been cast on some of the tens of thousands of men employed by the Government, but it was only fair to these men, the appointees of a Conservative Government, to say that so far no charge of corruption had been sustained." The Conservative Government of 1896 fell of its own dead weight—because most of the members were discredited, had forgotten their responsibility and were quarrelling among themselves for spoils of place and preferment. Now, some of these same men are claiming to be charged with the responsibility of administering a trust which they so flagrantly betrayed, in, especially their closing years of office. There is no evidence that they have repented—that the leopard has changed his spots. They have not repented nor brought forth fruit meet for repentance and cannot expect absolution at the hands of the electorate.

The Belleville, Ontario, says, with Mr. Stratton in the field the hopes of carrying West Peterborough and thereby winning one of the Ontario seats held by the Government may as well be abandoned by the Conservative candidate. Mr. Stratton is the most popular man in the constituency which he is seeking to represent, and that he will head the poll in the coming election is about as certain as anything mundane can be.

A SLANDER EXPLODED.

It seems to be the policy of the Conservative party to thrive on slander. The election literature of the party, in the last provincial contest was untruthful to a degree. Slanderous charges, one after another, made only to be disproved, were the only evidences of statesmanship exhibited by the Conservative Opposition at Ottawa during the late session. The same policy of slander and maliciously, and known, false, statements and so-called charges are the policy in conducting the present contest. Even newspapers with a reputation to lose do not refrain from giving currency to charges against the Liberal Government and party, that have been repeatedly disproved and are without foundation. The Mail and Empire leads this shameful crusade. A short time ago in dealing with the Saskatchewan Land Company, the chief organ of the Conservative party—chief only in political unfairness and recklessness of statement—summed up its fabrications, which assumed Mr. Adamson, M.P., to be the sole owners of the lands in question, stated falsely that Adamson received $2,000,000 from sale of lands for which he paid $250,000, making a profit of $1,750,000. These are the misstatements. What are the facts?

The sale to the company, was a sale of even numbered sections, of which the odd numbered sections had formed part of a grant given by the Conservative Government to the Qu'Appelle and Long Lake Railway Company, in which Mr. E. B. Osler, Conservative (M.P., Toronto, was largely interested. He is a shrewd man, well versed in Western land values, and absolutely refused to accept the land as a bonus, because it "was not fit for settlement." His partner, Mr. Nanton, of Winnipeg, a well known real estate man, agreed with Mr. Osler, and these gentlemen entered suit in the Exchequer Courts to compel the Government to give them land "fit for settlement." The most practical evidence of the value or want of value of this land in its natural condition, is that though the Qu'Appelle Railway had run through it for years there was not a railway station for sixty-five miles. The land had been adversely reported upon by railway and Government officials and private valuators. It was shunned by settlers and was a waste as late as 1907. A company which had experience with dealing with lands of this character, on the line of the Northern Pacific land grant, and had disposed of them to settlers accustomed to that kind of land, were interested in the Qu'Appelle land by Mr. Adamson, who was not then a member of Parliament, and the condemned land was sold to the company, for $1.50 per acre, without settlement conditions, which afterwards purchased the even numbered sections, to the extent of 250,000 acres, with onerous settlement conditions. This same land, which Mr. Osler, M.P., refused as a bonus to his railway, and for which he agreed to accept $1.00 per acre, was sold to the Saskatchewan Land Company at $1.50 per acre. This company was composed of many persons, and Mr. A. J. Adamson was only one and with a very small interest. For the Mail to make it appear that Mr. Adamson, as a member of Parliament, made the bargain with the Government and reaped all the profit, is a gross fabrication, which would only be made, it is hoped, by the Mail newspaper. Equally false is its allegation that the land was valuable and sold for a song. When Mr. Sifton, for the Government, sold the land for $100 per acre, he builded better than he knew. He made a good bargain for the country. The men who bought it set their agency forces to work and placed on the land settlers of the class who knew how to farm semi-arid land to advantage, with the result that after these lands were taken up, prosperous homes appeared and there followed an enormous immigration of the better class of homesteaders from the United States.

Thus the despised and neglected lands, scorned by Mr. Osler as a bonus for his railway company, are now the centre of a prosperous population. The railway, that ran for years through a veritable waste, now passes through an area dotted with towns, villages, churches, schools and prosperous homesteads, replacing previously uninhabited and uncultivated wastes. The country has reaped an immense advantage on account of the sale of these semi-barren lands sold to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company.

We see what the Mail and Empire falsely asserts was a crooked and unthrifty transaction is a positive benefit to the country, a large step in the development and settlement of the West. This is only a specimen of the kind of scandals exploited by the Conservatives, and is exploded and demolished by facts as the others have been. When a statement on political matters is seen in the Mail and Empire it is wise not to accept it at its face value.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

THE MARINE DEPARTMENT.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

The investigation by Mr. Justice Cassells into the administration of the Marine Department having been adjourned, by force of circumstances, until October 6, the time is opportune for pointing out how completely the evidence before the commissioner has disposed of the charge of "lack of conscience" made by Messrs. Courtney and Fyshe against the department.

Business men of repute in Montreal, men whose word is as good as their bond, have one after the other testified that not only was there no double-dealing between themselves and any Government official, but that in every case the Government received the lowest market price and that their profits upon transactions with the department were lower than upon ordinary business with private individuals or companies.

Only in one case was there any admission of "gifts" to Government employees. One Alfred Francoeur, a retired grocer at Lorel, testified that it had been the custom to make gifts to captains or stewards of boats to whom he sold goods and that he gave a discount of two per cent. to two employees of Government dredges, just as he did to captains of American barges with whom he did business. The bonus came out of his own pocket and amounted to only $8 or $9 apiece. It was not shown that the Government paid any more for its supplies because of this custom or that prices were higher than those charged to other customers of the firm.

When one recalls all the vituperative abuse of the Marine Department indulged in by the Conservative party—led by Mr. George E. Foster, who himself ran the department on the basis of a patronage list—one must ask what all the fuss has been about. Much of the attack has been aimed at the Lighthouse Board, as to which the Civil Service Commissioners said that its creation had been most unfortunate and that the departmental members acted under political pressure and influence, while the non-official members looked only after their own interests. The best answers to these charges were given by Mr. Thomas Robb, secretary of the Shipping Federation, and by Mr. Hugh A Allan of the Allan line.

Mr. Robb swore that, as a result of the operations of the Marine and Fisheries Department under the present Government, the St. Lawrence river channel has been made deep enough for the largest ships; the improved system of lighting has made the channel as safe by night as any street in Montreal; the rates of insurance have been lessend by reason of the reduced risks; and the pilotage system has been freed from any semblance of political influence.

Mr. Allan, who represents the shipping interest on the Lighthouse Board, declared before Mr. Justice Cassells—

"The Board has on it representatives of two of the shipping companies of the St. Lawrence route, and men, representing such vast business interests as the shipping companies of the St. Lawrence, with their immense tonnage and volume of trade are supposed to stoop to act without sense of their responsibility. I must say I feel sorry for the people who would think such a thing of them and express the opinion that the business instincts of the men of this country had fallen so low."

The Civil Service Commissioners vaguely suggested that the changes in the buoy lights to those of a more powerful lumination were unnecessary and extravagant. Mr. Allan said he had discussed the question with the navigating officer of the British flagship at Quebec during the visit of the British battleships and he expressed himself as highly pleased with everything. The officer had read the Civil Service Commissioners' report, and he strongly denied that any of the lights in the channel were too strong, pointing out that in so vast a body of water as the Gulf, subject to fog and other atmospheric disturbances, just such powerful lights were needed. Mr. Allan added that he did not believe there was an unnecessary buoy in the St. Lawrence.

The home thrust to the Civil Service Commissioners' criticism was, however, given in the following statement:—

"I think it is the most fortunate thing that ever happened to the shipping interests of this country that the Lighthouse Board was established as it was. Any man who knows the first thing about the shipping business can not go from Montreal to the sea, even as a passenger, without having forced upon his attention the tremendous strides that have been made in the improvement of the St. Lawrence navigation. Take merely the most elementary instance. To-day the largest steamer can navigate between Montreal and Quebec, which they could not have done before the present lights were adopted. My experience is that the formation of this board has been the occasion of further organization in the department, whereby the whole system has been assisted in a way it never was before, so that now the shipping interests are looked after and the various works of the department properly reported and looked after. Thus not only is the channel better lighted, but better control of the lights is secured—infinitely superior to anything we ever had before. The result has been that instead of being the worst lighted and buoyed channel of its size, the St. Lawrence route will now compare favourably with any water route of like nature in the world. If the shipping of Canada was to go ahead and compete with the rest of the world, we could not afford to tie our ships up in the channel, awaiting daylight, between here (Montreal) and Quebec. The boats must be run economically, and these aids to navigation were necessary, and to a large extent have met the requirements of trade. Of course, there are other improvements which we shall press for, but everything that has been done has been done well.'

Thus we see that instead of the policy of the Marine Department having been worthless, wasteful, and prodigal, it has been of value to the country—value which is tangibly represented in the reduction of insurance rates on provisions from 34 1-2 cents in 1900 to 38 cents in 1906, and on grain from 99 cents to 38 cents; value which the products of Canada are having paid back to them by a saving of from $1,500,000 to $2,500,000 in the rates charged upon their products; value which has made the St. Lawrence the safest waterway in the world and the pride of every loyal Canadian.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur can, in view of the facts thus presented, justifiably point with pride to what has been accomplished and confidently appeal to his fellow-countrymen for endorsation of a policy so beneficial to the shipping interests of the farmers, the dairymen and all other exporters of the country.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

By inadvertence credit was not given the Toronto Star for an excellent article, "An Era of Fulfilment," reprinted in yesterday's Examiner.

Toronto is behind the times as compared with Peterborough's progress. The Board of Control is now only advising the adoption of a system of imposing water rates, identical with that adopted by the Water Commissioners of Peterborough (on assuming control of the Water Works, built a dozen years ago—in February, 1902.

DIED SUDDENLY AT UNION STATION

Mr. Edward Williams Succumbed to An Apoplexy Stroke—Formerly Lived Here

WAS SEEING SISTER AWAY

Mr. Edward Williams, of Toronto, a son of the late Mr. Angus Williams, who passed away at his residence 71 Crescent street some months ago, succumbed to apoplexy in the Union Station on Monday night and died before medical aid could be summoned.

The deceased was sixty years of age and left Peterborough about twenty years ago. His last visit to this city was at the time of his father's death. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

A dispatch from Toronto, referring to Mr. Williams' death, is as follows: "Complaining of feeling tired and setting down a couple of heavy grips that he was carrying, Edward Williams, 57 years old, of 7 Clifford street, collapsed in the entrance to the Union Station shortly after eight o'clock last night and died before medical aid could be secured. Death was due to apoplexy.

"Last evening, Mr. Williams, accompanied by his wife, went to the Union Station to see his sister-in-law, who was returning to Trenton, off on the train. The party got off the car outside the Front street entrance and Mr. Williams carried the grips across the street. At the top of the station steps he complained of feeling ill and put the grips down. He dropped to the pavement almost immediately after. The ambulance was summoned, but before it got to the station Mr. Williams was dead. The body was removed to Murphy's undertaking establishment at 479 Queen street west, and later taken home. Mrs. Williams was so overcome by the shock that the ambulance had to be summoned to take her home."

OBITUARY.

MR. LOUIS McGREGOR

There passed away in Midland on Tuesday morning at the ripe old age of 83 years Mr. Louis McGregor, a resident of Peterborough for many years. Mr. McGregor was probably in this city for twenty years. He was proprietor of the North American Hotel, which stood on George street near the present location of the Examiner office. He is survived by his wife, four sons and three daughters. The sons are William and Louis of Lindsay, Malcolm of Indian Head, and Jas., proprietor of the Gladstone House in Midland, and the daughters are Mrs. E. B Tully, Mrs. W H Spooner and Mrs. H S Switzer, all of Midland.

The funeral will take place from the G.T.R. station here on Friday on the arrival of the 11.45 train from Lindsay, and will proceed to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

MRS. JAMES MONGRAW

Mr. James Mongraw, barber, Simcoe street, returned last night from Midland City where he was attending the funeral of his mother, Mrs. James Mongraw who passed away there on Saturday morning. Her other sons are George, of Bufffalo, and Max, of Midland, and her surviving daughters, Mrs. Gage, of Vancouver, Mrs. Fourd, Port Hope. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon to Midland City Cemetery.

EVA JANE ROBINSON

The death occurred this afternoon at two o'clock of Eva Jane, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jane Robinson, Bridgenorth. The funeral will be held on Thursday morning at ten o'clock from the residence of Mr. McCall, 501 Bethune street, to Bridgenorth Cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS

LAWRENCE—HENDERSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Rev. and Mrs. Geo. W. Henderson at the Charlotte street Methodist parsonage this afternoon when their only daughter, Miss Maude Evangel Henderson, was united in marriage to Mr. William Ralph Lawrence, second son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lawrence of Sarnia, Ont. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, who is pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Carroll of Bowmanville, the groom's uncle.

The bride was attended by Miss Louise M. Dickson of Port Hope, while the groom was supported by Mr. C. Douglas Henderson, B.A., of Toronto, the bride's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence left on the afternoon train for the Pacific Coast, and on their return will take up residence in Sarnia.

Pelletier Sworn.

Quebec, Sept. 16.—Sir C. A. P. Pelletier, formerly Speaker of the Senate and latterly judge of the Superior Court, took the oaths of office of Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec yesterday afternoon, amid the booming of the citadel cannon and in the presence of a brilliant concourse assembled in the Legislative Council Chamber.

Fifteen Acres Burned Over.

Biddeford, Me., Sept. 16.—A spectacular fire, which caused a property loss estimated at $800,000, destroyed more than 15 acres of lumber yards, more than a score of tenement buildings, several factories and some railroad property, early yesterday on both sides of the Saco river, in the cities of Saco and Biddeford.

Civil Service Commissioners Busy.

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—Civil Service Commissioners Shortt and Larochelle started work yesterday. They have no announcement of policy to make, they state, but simply to carry out the terms of the act.

Earl Grey Takes Holiday.

He will camp out, and will be looked after by a detachment of Northwest Mounted Police.

New Hotel For Kingston.

Kingston, Sept. 16.—If the city will guarantee bonds for $75,000 and give a fixed assessment for ten years, W. Telfer, proprietor of the British American Hotel, offers to erect a new building to cost $150,000.

Five Killed In Explosion.

Aix-la-Chapelle, Sept. 16.—Five men were killed and 16 others were injured, as a result of a boiler explosion, yesterday morning in the Laura mine, near Heerlen, on the Dutch border.

Fire at Smith's Falls.

Smith's Falls, Sept. 16.—A frame building occupied by N. McLeod as a shoe repair shop, and H. Kinch as a wall paper and paint store, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday.

Lightning Kills Pupil.

Winnipeg, Sept. 16.—Lightning on Monday struck the Spring Coulee School, killing Anna Radton, who was standing with the teacher and a number of pupils in the porch.

Professor Found Dead.

Lowestoft, Eng., Sept. 16.—Prof. John Churton Collins, author, essayist and lecturer, and professor of English literature at Birmingham, was found dead in the woods near here yesterday.

It is believed that he poisoned himself during a fit of depression resulting from illness. He was born in 1848.

Collected on Fake Death.

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 16.—The Northern Life Assurance Co. is suing Mrs. George Zigler and her mother-in-law for $1,000 fraudulently obtained on a bogus death, by George Zigler, the company's agent here, who later suicided. His mother got $200, she says the daughter-in-law got $800. This the latter denies.

TWO MEN SUFFOCATED.

Windsor, Sept. 16.—The first double fatality to be charged to the construction of the Michigan Central tunnel under the Detroit river occurred early yesterday in shaft No. 4, of the Canadian approach to the tunnel, when two men were suffocated to death by smoke from burning timbers and tar paper in the shaft, and two others were temporarily overcome by smoke while attempting to enter the shaft in a rescue party. The dead:

W. R. Kimball, superintendent of shafts No. 1 and 2.

About 200 men were working in the tunnel when the fire broke out. It was necessary to pass the men slowly through the air lock as they had been working under air pressure. All were reported checked out of the shaft, however. Kimball and Johnson apparently lost their lives through returning into the burning shaft to look for men who might possibly have been left behind. Their bodies were both found near the foot of the stairs leading down the entrance to the shaft.

MURDERER IMMUNE.

Dr. Rustin's Slayer Killed Him as a Favor and Goes Free.

Omaha, Sept. 16.—A curious phase of the legal status of the Rustin murder case has cropped out, and even if Charles Edward Davis, who is under arrest on a charge of murdering Dr. Rustin, should be found guilty of the murder, lawyers here say there is no statute in Nebraska under which he can be punished.

The idea that one man would shoot another simply because the other wanted to die never occurred to the Nebraska law-makers and the statutes do not cover the crime for which Davis has been arrested. Another curious point which has arisen is that under the law, while Mrs. Rice, who didn't kill Dr. Rustin, may be guilty of murder in the first degree, Davis, if he did kill Rustin, is not guilty of anything at all.

SHOOTS NEGRO.

F. C. Eller Killed In Drunken Affray at Temagami.

Temagami, Sept. 16.—E. G. Eaton shot and killed F. C. Eller, a colored man, after a drinking bout.

The shooting occurred in a barber shop. Eller attacked Eaton with a razor, when the latter pulled a revolver and fired four times, one bullet going through the colored man's lungs. Eller died 20 minutes later. The men had been drinking together and had quarrelled.

Eaton's chum received a bullet in the hand while looking in the door. It is rumored that the razor could not be found after the negro was dead.

STRIKE-BREAKER SHOOTS.

Non-Union Man Seriously Wounds a Picket—Lynching Talked Of.

Winnipeg, Sept. 16.—Monday evening in the western part of this city, James Pepperton, a strike-breaker, was accosted by a picket of three, who asked him where he was employed. For answer Pepperton pulled a revolver and opened fire, shooting Robert Kerr in the hip. Pepperton then fled, but subsequently was arrested in the yards by one of the C.P.R. special constables. Kerr was removed to the hospital, where the bullet was removed at midnight. The case is serious, but not hopeless, although there is intestinal injury. The shooting of Kerr has aroused a bitter spirit among the strikers and threats of lynching Pepperton are heard.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The National Trades and Labor Congress of Canada opened its annual convention in Quebec yesterday.

The rail mill of the Lake Superior Corporation at Sault Ste. Marie opened yesterday morning with a full staff.

The Western Canada Flour Mills Co.'s elevator at Oakburn was totally destroyed by fire early yesterday. One thousand dollars' worth of flour and three C.N.R. cars were burned.

Hard Times In North.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 16.—That labor conditions in the north are very bad is the report all northern boats have been bringing down lately. According to the stories of returning passengers, men are practically starving at Prince Rupert. Hundreds of employes who have been working sometimes are in debt to the company for board and living expenses, and with no chance of paying fares to Vancouver.

Marmora Mill Burned.

Marmora, Sept. 16.—The Marmora Cooperage mill was burned Monday night, with a loss of about $20,000, with some insurance. The mill employed nearly sixty men.

Offer For Power.

Winnipeg, Sept. 16.—The Winnipeg Street Railway Co. has made an offer to the City Council to furnish 10,000 horse-power for ten years at $18.40 per horse-power per annum.

Earl Stanhope Coming.

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—Earl Stanhope, who is making a tour of the Dominion, was in Ottawa yesterday. He goes to Toronto to-day. He is 28 years of age.

PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

A Prominent Canadian Gives His Experience With the World-Famous Remedy For Catarrh.

Chronic Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

So Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrhal Diseases.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages.

Sometimes fever accompanies the first attack, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, producing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membranes known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

CURE COLDS—PREVENT CATARRH.

What should be done when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

But, even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

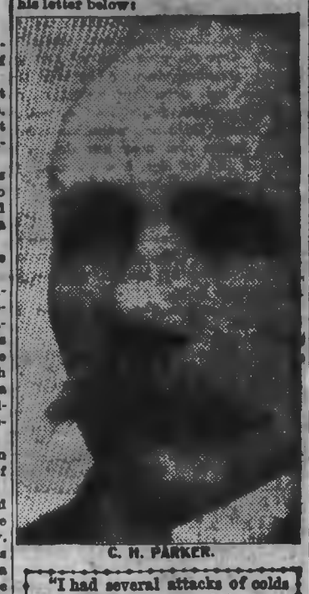
Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice—Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Sobbetown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scotstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:



C. H. PARKER.

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

INTERESTING FAMILY CASE IS BEING AIRED AT FALL ASSIZES; SISTERS' ACTION AGAINST BROTHER

A very interesting civil case was commenced before Mr. Justice Magee at the Fall Assizes yesterday afternoon and is being continued to-day. The case arises out of an action by Mrs. Perthusia Mellmoyle of Peterborough and Mrs. Harriet Bell of Smith township against W. J. Baker, a Smith farmer, to set aside the payment of $1500 to defendant by the late Mrs. Margaret Baker. The plaintiffs who are executors of her will were the daughters of the late Mrs. Baker, and defendant was her son. The plaintiffs allege that defendant, by undue influence when his mother was feeble and near her death, induced her to sign a cheque on the Dominion Bank for $1500 in his favour.

Messrs. Dumble and Johnston are appearing for the plaintiffs while the interests of the defendant are being looked after by Messrs. Denniston, Peck and Kerr.

The case promises to occupy the greater portion of to-day's sittings. Only two witnesses were examined yesterday afternoon, when the session continued until 6.15 o'clock and there are about a dozen more whose evidence is to be heard to-day.

Mrs. Bell, one of the plaintiffs, was the first witness and she was on the stand for over two hours, being ut through a long cross-examination by Mr. Kerr. She related the manner in which the property left by her father had been divided, and told of a transaction in which her mother divided $1900 which she had in the post-office savings bank between witness's two sisters, her brother and herself. The question of the giving of the cheque by her mother to her brother was gone into at some length. Witness stated that her mother was not sharp and knew nothing about money matters; that she, for instance, did not know that eleven hundred dollars was more than a thousand dollars.

To Mr. Kerr, witness admitted defendant had taken care of his mother and looked after her until her death.

Miss Ray, assistant in the Lakefield post-office, gave evidence in regard to the dividing of Mrs. Baker's money in the post-office savings bank between her four children. Witness had been asked to withdraw the money for Mrs. Baker and had done so and had had the cheque cashed in the bank. The money was divided into four equal parts which were given to Mrs. Baker's daughters, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Mellmoyle, Mrs. McConkey and her son, William. Sometime afterwards witness was present when Mrs. Baker decided to get back the money given to her son. The daughters, the witness thought, were angry that he had received the money. His share was given back and divided among his sisters. Witness thought Mrs. Baker was in her right senses and knew what she was doing at the time of this transaction.

At this point adjournment was made until 9.30 this morning.

Otonabee Farmers Who Won In Field Crop Competition

The Agricultural Societies' branch of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, have completed the examination in the standing field crop competition in Otonabee and the winners are announced. Mr. Wm. W. Shearer of Lang came first in the competition with a score of 90, leading Mr. Peter Drummond, who came second, by six points. Following is a complete list of the winners:

W. W. Shearer, Lang, 90, 1st.
Peter Drummond, Lang, 84, 2nd.
John Miller, Lang, 83, 3rd.
John Fife, Lang, 81, 4th.
Fred Speer, Keene, 80, 5th.

CHANGE IN TORONTO WATER RATES

Adopt a Plan Similar to That Used in Peterborough—Fix Charge by Rooms Instead of Occupants

RELIEF TO SMALL HOUSES

Toronto, Sept. 16.—That the water-takers of Toronto are wilfully cheating the city of water rates, was the statement made by Controller Spence to the Board of Control yesterday when he brought in the report prepared by Controller Harrison and himself on the classification of civic salaries.

The controllers, in looking for information, found that the waterworks officials were wasting their time and efforts in useless work — that of gathering unreliable returns as to the number of inmates in the houses.

They now advise that the waterworks by-law be amended.

According to Rooms

"Abolish the 25-cent rate for each inmate and increase the 25-cent rate for each room in the house to 50 cents," said Controller Spence.

"Such a provision would abolish the cheating, and would increase the water rates by 25 per cent., but we will get no more money then than we would if the people paid their water rates fairly. The rates would fall heavier on wealthy people with large houses, and the charges for poor people in small houses would be reduced. You will find that six people in a ten-roomed house will use more water than ten people in a six-roomed house."

Mr. Spence quotes this comparison between the assessors' returns and the water inspector's figures:

	Water Inspector.	Assessor.
Chestnut street...	950	1419
St. David street...	288	393
St. George street...	683	1171

"The St. George street people are the worst sinners," said the mayor.

Haven't Time to Stop Waste

The report of the two controllers reads as follows:

"Your committee, appointed to report upon the question of classification of salaries, find that in the Revenue Collecting department of the waterworks service there are employed a number of inspectors whose time is mainly occupied in rating, and who therefore cannot attend to the important work of inspection to prevent waste of water, which they are supposed to perform.

"They further find that while the basis of water rating for dwellings is 25 cents per annum per room, and 25 cents per inmate, a much less rate is collected in many cases because the actual number of inmates is not reported. Evidently the inspectors spend much of their time in gathering information which is inaccurate, and the inaccuracy results in extensive shortages in the waterworks' receipts.

Doubling up the men

"Your committee also find that all inspectors come to the City Hall twice each day for instructions, instead of communicating with the Hall by telephone; and last, that when a house is to be rated a turnkey goes to turn on the water, and an inspector follows to make a record of the inmates, rooms, and special water services, so that two visits are made when one might be sufficient.

"Your committee therefore recommend that the basis be changed, so that residences be rated at 50 cents per annum per room with no charge for inmates. When this is done there will be a reduction in the water rates paid by large families in small houses, where such families make honest reports; there will be a slight increase in the rating of small families in large houses, where there are also accurate statements given to the inspectors. On the whole, however, the result will mainly be the securing of honest payment by all. There will be an increase in the aggregate of water rates collected, although scarcely any more than there would be under the present plan if the rating work were efficiently done and if all water-takers made accurate statements concerning the inmates of their houses.

Divide City Into Districts

"Your committee further recommend that the special position of turnkey be abolished; that all turnkeys and inspectors be classed as inspectors, and that the city be divided into sufficient districts to give all of them work; that arrangements be made by which each man may have access to a telephone in his district, so as to communicate with the City Treasurer's office, and that each inspector do the turning on and off of water in his district, devoting the rest of his time entirely to the work of inspection to prevent water waste, and to seeing that the proper number of rooms and special water services are reported for each residence."

The Board sent on the report to the Council.

The report as to the grading of salaries will be first submitted to each controller, and some days after considered by the Board. It is not yet ready.

MORE ABOUT THE HIDDEN SCOW OF TIMBER

Port Perry Man Offers to Raise It—Wants Divers' Uniform.

A communication was received by the secretary of the Water Commissioners, Mr. Rea, from Mr. Brady, of Port Perry, asking for the loan of a diver's uniform and a man to work for a day. Mr. Brady intends to send a man down after the sunken boom of logs and hopes to raise it within a few days.

The matter was brought up at the meeting of the Commissioners yesterday afternoon and was discussed rather humorously. Mr. Hammond the superintendent, seemed to be the only man present, outside of the reporters, who know very much about this quantity of hidden timber. He had been told, he said, that some years ago a scow of about the same dimensions as the boom sunk in that spot, and it was believed that the scow was below covered with many feet of earth. He had also been informed by one who had been on the spot that no such timber of any description existed. — Lindsay Free Press.

EMERGENCY DANGER

When a Harsh Catarrhal Cold Fastens on the Breathing Organs a Life is Threatened

There are times when a Hyomei outfit is worth a life and having it at hand will save a sick, insufferer precaution can be suggested than calling at Wm. Madill's drug store and getting a supply for use in following cases.

When a child shows the first sign of croup a breath of Hyomei through the inhaler will check the trouble instantly.

When through catching cold you seem to be choking up, difficulty to breathe, pain or soreness over the lungs and other symptoms of pneumonia, the instant relief from Hyomei air is marvellous.

It penetrates quickly to the inner recesses of the bronchial tubes and lungs where no liquid or moist medicine can reach.

When an asthmatic condition presents unusual wheezing and oppressed breathing, Hyomei will bring rest, complete outfit $1.00.

HAS HAD SUCCESS TA JUBILEE

Mr. "Al" Belcher Getting Good Share of Fish and is Having a Good Time

Mr. A. E. Belcher, of Rochester, is having great luck with the trawl and also the rod and line at Rice Lake. Every season he is one of the regular tourists that come over from Rochester to spend his vacation with Mine Host Gilman. This year he has already been a guest at the hotel during the past eight weeks, and if the weather continues as it has during the past weeks, he will not conclude his stay until he has enjoyed another fortnight. In writing to one of his friends the other day he sent along the following lines:

"I never have envied the luckier men who've captured both fortune and fame.
Not jealous a bit of the geniuses who have made the imperishable name;
The man who have millions have earned 'em I 'spose; I'm not a bit jealous but, WOW!
I do envy him, that wiseacre who postponed his vacation till now."

He asked his friend if that was the way he felt during these warm autumn days, when the weather is ideal for fishing and boating. Just the other day he landed eight bass and two 'lunge, and this is only a sample of the luck that has been coming his way since he first came to Jubilee this year.

HE QUENCHES A CHEESE FACTORY FIRE WITH WHEY

North Ops Building Narrowly Escapes Destruction.

About noon on Monday a fire broke out in the North Ops cheese factory and burned a hole six feet square in the roof. The fire was discovered by the cheesemaker, Mr. Dundas, who was the only one near the building at the time. There was no water near, so he was forced to pour whey upon the blaze. Mr. George Gillespie, the Peterborough cheese buyer, was on his way to the factory when the fire occurred. There were 140 boxes of cheese in it at the time, 70 of which were cured and ready for Mr. Gillespie to inspect.

Fall Opening

Come and See All The Latest Styles of the Season
Fresh From The Leading Fashion Centres

The Latest Contribution from the Realms of Fashion will be Presented To-morrow

WHAT the world's cleverest designers have conceived and talented fingers have realized—what work-rooms have produced and factories wrought to grace the Autumn Maid and Matron, will be presented to the friends and customers of this store to-morrow. It is no light task to forecast the trend of the styles--to summon from the ranks of bidders for Fashion's favour, the new things which will be acclaimed, approved and adopted-- to separate the good from the indifferent-- the pure gold from the dross. Yet on its ability to do this rests the success of a store. How well we have worked to this end remains for you to say, and we await your verdict with confidence--a confidence justified by the care and pains--the study and effort which this whole organization has expended to lay at your feet the Very Best of the Newest productions of the Leading makers of fashions. The curtain is lifted--style secrets are out--Autumn is at hand Our fall Opening occurs to-morrow--and YOU are invited to attend.

The New Suits will Delight You

Initial Display of all the Best Styles. The "Directoire" style dominates the suit situation. The tight fitting sleeves, the long clinging lines of the coats, the ample lapels and the panel indications in many of the skirts all evidence it. And these Directoire tendencies are charming, refined and becoming. Truly the Directoire is a blessing. Though all the skirt suits mirror the same tendencies, their styles are as varied as you please. Scores of models to choose from in scores of weaves and many colourings. Enough to afford a satisfying and becoming choice to the most particular. And as to a price standpoint--our showing is equally as diversified--Suits from 15.00 to 50.00, and every suit, no matter the price, a masterpiece of perfect style and skilled tailoring- Ours is the leading suit showing in Peterboro' you'll agree with us when you come and see.

The Millinery Section is Resplendent with Beautiful Creations

The new Millinery is bewitching Our showing is a revelation of the season's most approved New York and Parisian Style ideas. What's fashionable is here. We have avoided the styles of indifferent worth. Every hat we show exploits one of the best and most authentic style ideas. Big hats predominate but as great favour is shown in many unique effects in medium and small hats, our display features hats of all sizes strongly. The Directoire style, the new mushrooms, novel turbans all are represented. In trimming flowers are scarce--plumes, ribbons and velvets are the fashionable thing. But why deal with generalities-- a visit will reveal more than volumes of words. And a visit will be delightful. Come!

The Fall's Most Fashionable Dress Goods and Silks In a Wide Variety

Diversity is the feature of our Dress Goods and Silk exhibits. Every new fabric idea, every new weave effect, every fashionable colour scheme is represented in our showing. A more stylish, satisfying or complete assortment cannot be found anywhere. Here are Chevron Stripes, Chiffon Broadcloths, Panamas, in the very latest colorings and as reliable and dependable in quality as the best looms produce. Prices are fair, of course.

Mr. E. A. Tanner Nominated For East Peterborough

As Candidate in the Liberal Interest-----Unanimously Chosen Amidst Great Enthusiasm---An Alert And Energetic Standard Bearer.

A well attended and enthusiastic convention of delegates, representing the several polling subdivisions of the riding was held in the Town Hall, Norwood, on Tuesday, to nominate a candidate to contest East Peterborough in the Dominion elections in the Liberal interest. The result was the nomination of Mr. E. A. Tanner, of Lakefield.

In the absence of Mr. John Lang, ex-M.P., on account of illness, the chair was occupied by Mr. John Hull, Lakefield, and on the platform were seated besides, Mr. John Finlay, M.P., Hon. J. R. Stratton, Messrs. R. R. Hall, Rev. Father Conway, Messrs. G. A. Gillespie, J. B. McWilliams, Wm. Matheson, C. H. Curtis and P. McNulty.

Dr. Robertson, having ceased to be a resident of the riding, Dr. Wilson, of Norwood, was appointed secretary, in his stead.

The following were duly proposed as candidates, Messrs. John Finlay, M.P., Norwood; Thos. Johnston, Otonabee; E. A. Tanner, Lakefield; Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. R. R. Hall, Peterborough; Messrs. J. W. Bryans and W. G. Curtis, Havelock; and Mr. W. T. Buck, Asphodel.

All of these retired except the following, whose names went to ballot: Messrs. John Finlay, E. A. Tanner, Thos. Johnston, W. T. Curtis and J. W. Bryans. On each ballot the names of the nominee receiving the lowest number of votes dropped out, and the third ballot — among Messrs. Tanner, Johnston and Curtis —resulted in Mr. Tanner receiving 97 out of the total ballots cast, giving him the nomination of the convention.

Mr. Finlay moved, seconded by Mr. Curtis that the nomination be made unanimous. This was carried amidst great enthusiasm, and Mr. Tanner in a neat speech heartily thanked the delegates for the honour of the nomination, which, he believed, with the hearty co-operation of the friends of good government in the riding, with his own efforts, would be converted into a triumphant election.

The meeting separated with the usual cheers.

Third ballot—Tanner, 97; Johnston, 43; Curtis, 16.

Drove On After Seven Hogs Fell From His Waggon On Roadway

While Mr. Harry Wheeler of Otonabee was driving into the city with a waggon load of hogs this morning the rear board became loose and seven of the ten porkers got out on to the roadway unnoticed. It was not until Mr. Harry Fox called his attention to it that Mr. Wheeler noticed his loss. The hogs were driven into a farmer's yard where they were again put into the waggon. Mr. Wheeler was delivering them to Mr. W. A. Stabler, who had purchased them.

A True Bill Against Levasseur; Grand Jury On Tour Of Inspection

The Grand Jury at the Fall Assizes yesterday afternoon brought in a true bill against Joseph Levasseur, Jr., on a charge of perjury against him in connection with the recent liquor case which was heard in the local Police Court. The case will not likely be proceeded with until to-morrow. The civil case of Bell and Melimoyle versus Baker is being heard to-day before Mr. Justice Magee and is not likely to be finished until late this afternoon, and perhaps not then.

The Grand Jury yesterday afternoon visited St. Joseph's Hospital and the House of Providence and this morning inspected the Nicholls Hospital, the Children's Aid Society's Shelter and the Protestant Home. At noon they left for Lakefield, where the House of Refuge will be inspected.

The Jury may make their presentment to His Lordship this afternoon but it is hardly likely it will be ready before the morning.

JUDGMENT GIVEN FOR THE PLAINTIFFS

In the Case of Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company versus Fox

The case of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company, Limited, versus Manley E. Fox, was taken up at the Fall Assizes yesterday afternoon. In this case the plaintiffs claim that the defendant, Mr. E. Fox, Trenton, entered into an agreement with them to become a shareholder in the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company, Limited, to the amount of two shares, valued at $200. This the defendant has not done, and they claimed $200, with interest amounting to $27.60, and the costs of the action.

OBITUARY

GEORGE CAREY

Word has been received in the city of the death in Seattle last week of George Carey, a former resident of Otonabee, who has many relatives in Peterborough. The deceased left Peterborough some twenty-seven years ago. Mrs. T. J. Henry, Mrs. D. J. Moher, Mrs. P. Torpey, Mrs. W. Cleary and Miss Agnes Carey, of Peterborough, are sisters of the deceased, and Mr. R. P. Carey, also of this city, is a brother. The late Mr. Carey leaves a wife and three children.

DATE OF ELECTIONS MAY BE OCTOBER 27TH

Consideration to be Given to Religious Gatherings and Hunting Season

Monday, Nov. 2nd, which had been thought of as a good day for the elections, turns out to be All Soul's Day, the feast of the dead, and not at all the occasion therefore, that any Government would care to choose for a general election date. In many parts of the country, the weather, at the beginning of November is most uncertain, and as good roads are an important consideration in getting out the rural vote, the last week of October is regarded as preferable to the week following.

Important religious gatherings of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches on the 28th and 29th of October have put those dates out of the question. Wednesday, 28th, being the date which would otherwise have been appointed for the recording of the vote.

Of the remaining days in this week, Tuesday, 27th, would appear to be the most suitable, though no definite conclusion seems as yet to have been reached in the matter, the question being left open for a general expression of opinion among the Ministers when the Cabinet assembles.

THE FARMERS' INSTITUTE MEETINGS

Will be Held at Ennismore and Lakefield Early in December

The West Peterborough Farmers' Institute will hold their regular meetings in December, probably about the 10th of the month. These meetings will take place at Ennismore and Lakefield, and will be addressed by prominent men in agriculture.

A cordial invitation is given to all to visit the Turnbull Co's. Millinery Display, to-night, from 7.30 to 9.30.

SAWING BEE HELD LAST NIGHT

Chamberlen Street Man Has Enough Wood Cut to do Him a Year.

A sawing bee was held last night at the residence of Mr. Arthur Armstrong, Chamberlen street, when twenty of his friends — would-be knights of the cross-cut — gathered at his home and cut enough wood to last a year. The wood pile slowly disappeared and this morning it was transformed into a big pile of stove-length pieces. A circular saw would have blushed at the work done by the combined saws.

DO YOU REMEMBER MRS. NEWLYWED?

"Young lady, do you look like Mrs. Newlywed? If so, the Leffler-Bratton Co. are looking for you to create the part in the new Cartoon Comedy with Music, 'The Newlyweds and their Baby.'"

This advertisement appears in the New York Telegraph and will likely be a rich plum for the girl who is fortunate in possessing the features and figure of George McManus' "Mrs. Newlywed." This musical piece of nonsense is founded on the pictures by George McManus which appear in the New York World. The book is by Aaron Hoffman and Paul West, and the Lyrics and music by A Seymour Brown, Nat D Ayer and John W Bratton.

Children's EYES

Need the most careful and persistent attention. Early headaches and other troubles frequently emanate from defective eye-sight, which in itself, may have originated in early neglect of the eyes. The trouble is, parents seldom know their children's eyes are weak until it is too late.

School will be opened shortly, you had better bring your children to us, as we make a specialty of examining the eyes of the young and fitting them with the proper lenses.

Chicago Editor Tells Of Railway Advancement Here

HER PROGRESS IS GREAT

That Canada, and particularly the Western portion, is being brought more prominently before the people of the United States as a result of the recent visit of the party of Chicago editors to the West, is evidenced by a lengthy article which appeared on Thursday, Sept. 3, in the Chicago Evening Post, written by Herbert Vanderhoof, editor of the magazine, Canada-West. The article, after dealing with the rapid growth of Western Canada and the almost boundless opportunities for advancement offered its settlers, refers to the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific through Western Canada as follows:

"Owing to the physical character of the country, the western division of the National Transcontinental is subdivided into the prairie section and the mountain section, the former extending from Winnipeg via Edmonton to Wolf Creek, Alberta, a distance of about 916 miles, and the latter, as its name indicates, being the section over the mountains from Wolf Creek to Prince Rupert, B. C., about 840 miles.

"This division is constructed at the expense of the company, the Government aiding by guaranteeing first mortgage bonds of the company, principal and interest for fifty years to the extent of $13,000 a mile on the prairie section and for three-quarters of whatever the cost may be per mile of the mountain section. The Grand Trunk Company of Canada guarantees an issue of bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company, principal and interest, to provide the remainder of the cost of construction.

"To indicate how rapidly proceeds the construction of the 1,756 miles of rails from Winnipeg to the Pacific, on Monday, July 20, the company had completed the laying of rails from Winnipeg to Battle River, a distance of 675 miles, where teh work necessarily ceased, until the completion of the bridge which is being erected over the Battle River. On July 31 a train load of people travelled this entire distance.

"Work is under way on the steel construction of the bridge, and the plan is to have it ready for the rails by the latter part of October. It is 160 miles from Battle River to Edmonton but the grading has all been completed. As soon as the bridges are done there will be a race to Edmonton before work is concluded this autumn.

"A force of about 3,500 men is at present employed by contractors on the grade west of Edmonton, a large portion of these being between the city and the Pembina River. H. J. Fetler, superintendent of construction, stated that the grade as far west as Pembina would be completed and ready for steel before the cold weather.

"Already Canada has set a pace in railway building that has left the United States behind. She now has more railway mileage per capita than any other country on the globe. In spite of the activity in the United States, only 5,874 miles of new road was added to the total of 222,282 during the last year, or an increase of 2.50 per cent. In Canada the total mileage of 21,353 was increased by 1,492, or 6.9 per cent.

"The ratio to population is still more striking. Mexico has a population twice as great as that of Canada, but only 356 miles of railway was laid in Mexico in 1907, or one mile to every 38,218 persons. The United States added one mile to every 14,218 persons of her 83,000,000. Canada, with only 6,442,581 inhabitants, constructed a railway mile for every 4,980."

TRAIN FOR BUSINESS

Most men train their brains and almost entirely neglect their bodies. They do not seem to realize that keenness of judgment and clearness of thought depend as much on the body as on the brain itself. Any man can prove this to his own satisfaction by attempting to decide a weighty business problem while suffering with an acute attack of indigestion or a violent spell of biliousness.

The amount of work that the brain can do depends much on the healthfulness of liver, bowels, kidneys and skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" are "fruit juices in tablet form. They act directly on liver, bowels, kidneys and skin—and enable these vital organs to rid the system of all impurities. Thus the blood will be kept pure and rich, the brain active, digestion sound, and life made pleasant.

"Fruit-a-tives" are now put up in two sizes—the new 25c box as well as the regular 50c size. If your dealer does not carry them, write Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE BIG CONVENTION AT MONTREAL

Tone of Manufacturers at Montreal is Pessimistic.

DISCUSS LABOR PROBLEMS

C. M. A. Convention Hears Report on Discontinuance of London Employment Bureau — To Fight Labor Legislation at Ottawa—Protest Against Liability of Employers Regarding Child Labor.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—The labor question loomed large in yesterday's reports, presented before the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

J. D. Rolland, in his presidential address, predicted a reptition of last winter's hard times.

The parliamentary committee was also inclined to pessimism.

The report of the British office committee, of which G. W. Watts was chairman, was devoted to a discussion of the employment of labor. The closing of the association's labor bureau in London was lengthily explained.

"Strictly speaking," says the report, "there was but one cogent and valid reason for taking this step, and that was that the office had ceased to satisfy its existence as a business enterprise." There were, however, other influences tending to make the bureau unpopular then, but a revival is hoped for.

Complaints were being made that the help supplied was unsatisfactory; that hands for whom a fee had been charged never reported for duty; or worse still, that parties whose passage had been advanced left their posts without discharging their indebtedness.

Organized labor, the report says, has continued throughout the year to press for class legislation at Ottawa, though not perhaps with as much insistence as usual, and the defeat of the agitation for an eight-hour day on Government contracts was easy. To recognize the union label as a trade mark, attempted legislation, which also fell through, would "simply be to legalize the boycott."

The committee saw to it, therefore, that prominent members on both sides of the House were well supplied with data on the subject of Ralph Smith's resolution, which was never reached.

The employment of child labor in factories is condemned, but that the parents, not employers, should be responsible if depositions of children are found to be incorrect.

The association's efforts to secure the franchise for incorporated companies on money bylaws have at length been successful, so far at least as Ontario is concerned.

The clause in the Ontario Election Act allowing employes from 12 to 2 p.m., at the employers' expense, to vote, is not relished and the committee are of the opinion that the act should be amended at once, either by the inclusion of the old proviso or by keeping the polls open until 8 p.m.

Babe Was Murdered.

Wiarton, Sept. 16.—At the inquest into the cause of the death of the newly-born babe found on the bay near the breakwater Monday noon, Dr. Wigle gave it as his opinion that the child was alive when born, and that death resulted from a terrible battering the head had been subjected to before the body was placed in the water.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Gets Historic Reception at Falls.

CANADA MUST LOOK AHEAD

Premier Answers Criticism of Conservatives and Outlines His Program —Graham, Lemieux and Several Others Speak — Tory Mayor Gives Leader of Government a Hearty Welcome to Falls.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 16.—Within the sound of the great Niagara cataract in a setting of scenic magnificence and of historic significance, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was tendered a reception yesterday which will take its place among the notable demonstrations of its kind in the political history of the country.

Sir Wilfrid was greeted by a number of prominent residents who were presented by W. M. German, M.P., for Welland.

Mayor Carter, who is a prominent Conservative, then read an address of welcome to Niagara Falls, to which the Prime Minister replied briefly.

The parade, which started at Suspension bridge, at 1 o'clock, followed a route of two and a half miles. Flags floated from almost every window.

From the platform in Victoria Park probably 15,000 people listened to addresses of Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues. Their speeches were freely applauded. Some of the outstanding utterances of the afternoon were:

THE PREMIER.

(From his latest photograph.)

Sir Wilfrid Laurier assured his auditors that the Hudson Bay Railway would be undertaken at once, and would be built by the Government of Canada.

The date of the election the Premier was not in a position to announce, but he intimated that it would be made public in his speech at Strathroy on Saturday.

The greater Welland Canal with 25 foot channel would be undertaken as soon as the country's revenues were sufficiently buoyant to justify the step.

Sir Wilfrid then alluded to the historic Pacific, McGreevy and Lake St. John scandals, where the Government was taken to task. In charges of corruption that had been made not one had been made against his colleagues during the eight months' session. The charges were all against subordinates, and the Government had taken quick steps to have the accusations fully investigated.

The present administration in twelve years could show a surplus of $113,000. That was his reply to Mr. Foster's charge of criminal extravagance. Investors had become inspired with confidence and $350,000,000 of new capital had poured into the country. The trade of the country rose, he pointed out, from $250,000,000 to $650,000,000 annually.

"The one question to which we have given greatest attention, the one measure which will do more for the people of Canada than any other is, I believe, the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific. We were attacked by all the forces for taking that step. They said 'Don't go so fast.' That railway was not started one day too soon. It is already serving settlers along hundreds of miles of its lines in the west.

"We have undertaken to build the Hudson Bay railway. It may not appeal to the people of Welland, but I say to you that what affects one part of the Dominion affects all, and you are asked to bear your share of this national undertaking.

"We have reached the status and dignity of a nation," said the Prime Minister in conclusion. "The British Empire is composed to-day of a galaxy of young nations and among these Canada is by consent in the first rank."

Mr. Seeley, Liberal candidate for Wentworth, opened the meeting.

Mr. Miller, Liberal candidate for Haldimand, spoke in appreciation of the Premier, and predicted a Liberal victory in Haldimand.

Hon. G. P. Graham was cordially received.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux brought from the old historic Province of Quebec a message of good-will. The bond of the Canadian peoples was sealed at the time of Confederation and now they were engaged together in making this one of the great countries of the world.

Trolley Bumps Rig.

St. Catharines, Sept. 16.—A trolley car with a load of St. Catharines' Liberals, bound for the Laurier meeting at Niagara Falls, collided with a Singer sewing machine rig, occupied by local Manager Townsend and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend escaped by jumping, but the rig was wrecked.

SLEUTH IS WANTED BY POLICE

Toronto Private Detective Must Face Three Charges.

ABDUCTED A YOUNG GIRL

A. G. Cardwell Persuaded Mother to Let 15-Year-Old Accompany Him on Trip — Charged With Extortion From Prisoner in Jail—Accused of Conspiracy to Compromise Husband in Divorce Case.

Toronto, Sept. 16.—A. G. Cardwell, superintendent of the International Detective Bureau, Continental Building, is wanted by the police. A warrant has been issued, charging him with abduction of a girl under 16 years of age. Cardwell is not to be found.

It is alleged that Cardwell, in the month of August, went to a woman living in the north end of the city. He told her that he had to go to Niagara Falls, N.Y., in pursuit of his calling. He asked her to let her 15-year-old daughter, who was attending school, go along, so that nobody would think he was a detective. The mother was persuaded to allow the child to accompany him.

It is also said that Cardwell saw a man at the jail, and by threats of continued imprisonment, induced him to sign over his share of a patent to his partner, under promise upon his release, he would be re-employed upon a good salary, which was not done.

It is further alleged that while employed by a woman seeking a divorce from her husband, who lives in another city, Cardwell conspired with a woman employed in one of the stores, to seek out and compromise the husband, which was done.

A Narrow Escape.

Guelph, Sept. 16.—In leaving a moving train Charles F. Raymond, well-known among newspaper men, had a narrow escape from being killed.

Raymond had been seeing some friends off and did not notice that the train had got so well started. When he jumped he was only a few feet from the high railway bridge, just east of the station. The speed of the train threw him on his face, so close to the wheels that the crowd on the station platform were certain he would be killed. When the train passed, however, he got up and walked calmly back to the station with nothing more than a slight limp, caused by a sprained ankle.

Dynamite Explosion.

Windsor, Mo., Sept. 16.—A car of dynamite standing on the track in front of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad station here exploded at 10 o'clock yesterday morning with terrific force. The car and the station platform were demolished and 18 persons standing near by were more or less seriously injured. Three are dead.

Yellow Fever at Havana.

Havana, Sept. 16.—A case of yellow fever in Havana is officially reported.

Fires In Muskoka.

Huntsville, Sept. 16.—Bush fires have broken out in many sections surrounding Huntsville. Francis Island, Fairy Lake, took fire, and destroyed one of the summer cottages.

Close to Nover over 9,000 cords of wood belonging to the Standard Chemical Co. of Toronto are threatened by fires, which are raging on three sides.

There is a large amount of standing timber destroyed from Huntsville north to South River.

Protest to Britain.

Geneva, Sept. 16.—At a meeting here the "Young Egyptian party" was organized on the same lines as the "Young Turks."

A despatch was sent to Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, protesting against the continued occupation of Egypt by Great Britain, and reminding him of the British Government's oft-repeated promise to withdraw the troops.

Two Years For Wife-Beater.

London, Sept. 16.—George Crowe of Dorchester, who on Sept. 2 pleaded guilty before Judge Elliott in the Criminal Court, to assaulting his wife, who afterwards died, was sentenced yesterday to two years less one day in the Central Prison, Toronto.

MRS. BEERS

CHRONIC ULCERS COVERED HER BODY & CRIPPLED HER.

HOW CURE CAME

How Zam-Buk cures chronic ulcers and sores is seen by the following experience of Mrs. Beers, of L'Original (Ont.) She says: "Some years ago ulcers and sores broke out on my legs and different parts of my body, and spread to an alarming extent, causing me great agony. I began to try salves, oils and medicines of various kinds, but the sores refused to heal. I then consulted a medical man, who treated me for some time, but the ulceration continued just as bad as ever. Another medical man was consulted, then another, and one after another until I had tried five different Doctors. All gave me up in despair. The ulceration and the skin disease were getting worse all the time, so I then went into the Hospital. I was there five months and came away very little better. I next went to another Hospital, and stayed there three months—again with no success. By this time my legs were covered with sores, my bones seemed all picked out with ulcers, and I could not walk without the use of a cane and a crutch. I was in such a shocking condition that I was longing for death.

"I saw a report of the value of Zam-Buk and I obtained a small supply. This did me so much good I bought a further supply. A few weeks steady use of this wonderful balm healed the ulcers, removed the sores and I am to-day completely cured. For many years I was obliged to use a cane and crutch to walk. Now I have thrown both cane and crutch away, and feel as well and vigorous as at the age of 30."

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES!

Zam-Buk heals all skin diseases—eczema, scaly sores, ulcers, ringworms, poisoned wounds, barber's rash, pustules, face blemishes due to blood poison, rheumatism and neuralgia. It heals cuts and lacerations, stops bleeding, cures piles, cures fistula, reduces enlarged veins, fissures, burns and scalds, and it is an excellent "first aid" remedy. It is highly antiseptic. Archibald Likely Here After All; Fifty Athletes Have Entered

E. B. Archibald, the crack pole vaulter, will likely be in Peterborough after all and will give his exhibition to-morrow night. Last night "Dick" Baker of the "Y" Harriers, received a telegram from W. Tait, of the West End Y.M.C.A., as follows:

"Archibald leaving Cobalt to-morrow, will likely be in Peterborough Thursday."

This will be glad news to local people who have been anxious to get a line on the famous vaulter and were disappointed when they learned yesterday that he would not be able to come.

So far no less than forty-six athletes have signified their intention of taking part and the entries total up to 68, by far the biggest meet ever held in Peterborough. There will be plenty of competition in every event as the best athletes in Canada will be here including seven or eight members of the Canadian Olympic team to England. The entries are divided up among the clubs as follows:—

Y.M.C.A. Harriers, 12.
T.A.S. Athletic Club, 11.
Otonabee Athletic Club, 5.
I.C.A.C, Toronto, 4.
Central Y.M.C.A, Toronto, 4.
West End Y.M.C.A., Toronto, 2.
Hamilton Y.M.C.A, 1.
All Saints' Boys' Club, 1.
Collegiate Institute, A.C., 1.
Unattached 5.

The handicaps will be arranged to-night and no entries will be accepted after 7 o'clock this evening.

Every race to-morrow night should be a ding dong contest, judging by the entries. Every event will bring out a big field and they will be fought out to the bitter end. With 15 entries in the 3 mile event Tom Longboat will have his work cut out for him and the famous Indian will have no chance to do any loafing on the way, with his own club mates, Sellen, Black and Skene, pushing him on and with Jack Neary, the Central Y.M.C.A.; Fred Simpson, Chas. Thorpe, and other local Y.M.C.A. entries nagging at him. Tom will have to open up a fine brand of speed.

Great interest is being taken in the appearance here of Bobby Kerr, the only Canadian track athlete to score a win in England, and the flaxen-haired sprinter will be given a great reception to-morrow night.

The 57th Band will be present and will render a choice programme during the meet.

The following entries were received last night.

50 Yards Handicap

Geo. Evans, Y.M.C.A. Harriers.
Masterson, T.A.S. Athletic Club.
O E Lapp, T.A.S. Athletic Club.

NAYLOR IS ANXIOUS TO BET ON CHANCES OF HIS SYRIAN

Chris. Graham received word from Mr. Naylor, the manager of Hassan Abdallah the Assyrian wrestler, that he would like to make a side bet on the result of the match with Gene here on Wednesday Sept. 23rd, but Chris. preferred to have a look at the foreigner first. The Peterborough grapplers' manager has every confidence in his man, but knows that Abdallah must be a live one when Naylor is anxious to bet.

Burtubise has been working out every night with several of the boys here and is in great shape. He is a lot cleverer and stronger than he was last year and has twice as much confidence in himself. Gene says he will make the Turk move faster than he ever had to since landing in America and will be ready for the bout of his life.

There will be a couple of good preliminary bouts between local boys and some outsiders so a good night's sport is in store for the fans of the wrestling game.

The Brock street rink is an ideal place for the bouts as every person can see the men when they are on the mat.

Turfmen Confident That Fast Races Will Be Seen At The Fair

"We're just going to have two days of the best racing ever seen in Peterborough," remarked a prominent turfman this morning, speaking about the Fair, and added, "that is, provided the track is good and the rain keeps away."

The entry list has been swelling during the last few days and will be closed to-night. Mr. Chas. Nixon of the Grand Hotel received a telephone message from Kinmount entering four horses and ordering four stalls. Mr. Sid. Passmore of Orillia has Walter G working out at the track. Millbrook horseflesh is well represented, and altogether the races promise some exciting sport.

"Which do you expect to be the best race, doctor?" an Examiner man inquired of Dr. Johnston this morning.

"Well," he replied, "that 2.17 should be a hummer, but you will likely see a great fight in the 2.50 class."

Peterboro Club Are Wanted In The Interprovincial Union

Mr. M. M. Robinson, sporting editor of the Hamilton Spectator, who has recently been appointed western secretary of the Inter-Provincial Rugby Union, writes to the president of the Peterborough Rugby Club as follows:

"Dear Sir,—I have been instructed by Vice-President Seymour of the Inter-Provincial Rugby Union to call a meeting of the intermediate and junior teams for Saturday afternoon, September 19, at the Royal Hotel, and as I understand the Peterborough club intends entering a team in the intermediate section, we would be pleased to have you send one or two representatives to this meeting at which the schedule will be drawn up, the grouping done, the board of referees appointed, and general business in connection with the launching of the intermediate and junior series of the Big Four transacted.

Prospects for the intermediate and junior series are excellent and already we have such clubs as London, Hamilton Tigers, Hamilton West End Pleasure Club, T.A.A.C. of Toronto, Argonauts, and perhaps Kingston, to say nothing of Dundas, the winners to play off with the eastern winners for the intermediate championship of Canada. This insures plenty of competition and games, something Peterborough has not had in some years, and I am sure you will find it to your advantage to join the Inter-Provincial, backed as it is by the four strongest clubs in the country. The intermediate fee has been fixed at ten dollars.

Trusting you will have your club represented at the meeting on Saturday and that the Peterborough club will enjoy a prosperous season.

Sincerely,
M. M. ROBINSON,
Sec. Western District,
I. R. U.

RUGBY ENTHUSIASTISTS SHOULD REMEMBER MEETING TO-NIGHT

Rugby enthusiasts are again reminded of the meeting in the Y.M.C.A. to-night for the purpose of forming a City League and deciding upon what union he Peterborough club will play in this season. All interested in the sport are given a cordial invitation to be present as it is desired to have as large a gathering as possible. Something must be done as early as possible to give the game a good start in this city.

LADIES' FIELD DAY AT THE GOLF LINKS

To-morrow will be ladies' field day at the golf links and a picnic luncheon will be served at the club house. All the lady members are invited to be present.

Sporting Comment

Mr. N. H. Crowe of Toronto, secretary of the C.A.A.U., will be here to-morrow night for the meet. Tom Flanagan of the I.C.A.C., W. Tait of the West End Y.M.C.A., and Mr. J. H. Crocker, manager of the Canadian Olympic team, will also be on hand.

WALKING GAME MAY DIE OUT IN PORT HOPE

Reynolds Out $200 Financially—Newcastle the Jonah Town

Jimmy Reynolds the man with the walking craze, again failed in his undertaking to walk to Toronto and return. He left here yesterday morning at six o'clock in an effort to walk to Toronto and return, but as usual the trip proved too much for the 67 year old barber, and he was obliged to give up. He reached Bowmanville at 10.30 o'clock, having 15 1-2 hours to complete the journey of 22 miles. He stuck to the tramp bravely, but when a mile west of the Jonah town of Newcastle he was forced to give up. Physically Jimmy has suffered considerably by the trip, and financially he is out $200. This is likely to put an end to the walking game here, and it will be better for all concerned.—Port Hope Guide.

ACTORS' BALL TEAM AT THE PARK

"Mr. Pipp's" Company Cavorted Around the Diamond Yesterday

Charlie Grapewin, the comedian who appeared last night in the "Awakening of Mr. Pipp," showed local people yesterday afternoon that he is not only some actor but also some ball player. He turned his team out at Riverside Park yesterday and hurled a challenge at the local players, with the result that an interesting game was pulled off. "Mr. Pipps" played centre field for his team, who were clad in all kinds of big league uniforms including those of the New York Giants, Jersey City, Brooklyn and Providence. The actors proved to be lively ball players, and they won out by 8 to 3, after an enjoyable game.

Mahony, of the Lakeviews, was on the slab for the actors, and Janson played first. Harry Burridge and Jerry Edmunds took turns at catching for both teams. Shea, Connors, Burns and Pilling were with the Petes. Archie Seymour umpired. Enough said. The ladies of the company were on hand and rooted in lively fashion for their team. Earl Schwartz, the musical director of the show, put up a splendid game at third base.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. TOWN TOPICS

PROBS—Moderate easterly winds, fair to-day and on Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Rumour Untrue

—The report that some cottages had been burned in Chemong Park yesterday is untrue.

Choir Practice Recalled

—The choir practice of St. Paul's Church choir, called for Thursday night is withdrawn.

Goes to Kirkfield

Piano Tuning

—Piano tuning promptly attended to. Satisfaction guaranteed. A. F. Hoover, 222 McDonel street. 'Phones —Bell 1991, Machine 199.

—Chimney Sweeping and carpet cleaning done on short notice in a satisfactory manner. Orders left at Adam Hall's store. John Wilkins. 12d-27

Painting Hotel

—Some improvement, including decorating, are being made to the front of Mr. Head's Hotel, the Peterborough House.

Piano and Organ Tuning

—Leave orders for Piano and Organ Tuning at McDermid & Jury's drug store, or 'phone 413b, J Reyner, representing the Nordheimer Piano Co. dt125

Water Rising

—It is stated that the water in the river between Auburn and the waterworks pumping station rose almost a foot yesterday.

On Yard Shunter

—Mr. F Tolman, Havelock, is engineer on the C.P.R. shunter, relieving Mr. Richard Chase, who has gone to the Old Country.

Decorating

—Painting and decorating. All work quickly, neatly and cheaply executed. Estimates free. A Guppy, 1 Hunter street east, late with Brown & Co., Toronto. 6d55

A Big Apple

—Mr. John Jayes, of the Munro House, has an apple displayed in the bar measuring in circumference almost thirteen inches.

Bulbs for Planting

—Messrs. Jordon Bros. have received a direct shipment of 10,000 Holland bulbs. They are of all kinds for autumn planting and winter growth and flowering.

Teamsters Busy

—From a teamster's viewpoint, conditions in the city are improving very much as all the local teams are employed and many are being brought in from the country to rush work while good weather lasts.

Forester's Excursion

—Court Bridgenorth, C. O. F., No. 315, intend holding an excursion to Lindsay on September 25th, the middle day of the fair. The steamer leaves Bridgenorth at 7.30 a. m.

Normal School Grounds

—Messrs. Hayes and Wade, contractors for filling the grounds around the Normal School, are pushing the work vigorously and hope to have the required 5,000 yards delivered before freezing weather sets in.

Is Your Piano in Tune?

—The change of season affects pianos as well as everything else. Mr. Geo. Gumpricht, practical piano-maker and tuner, with 28 years experience, attends to all orders left at Mr. Hess Macdonald's drug store.

High Finance

—Yesterday a north end lady went into a corner grocery to buy a dozen peaches. The clerk tapped a 60-cent basket and counted out the desired dozen at 20 cents. Then he counted the remainder and found he had just "sweet sixteen" specimens of the luscious fruit.

Unveiling Notice

—Members of Sherwood Forest Camp No. 50 are requested to attend the unveiling ceremony of the late Dr. Bradd's monument on Sunday, Sept. 20. The camp will meet at the S.O.E. Hall at 2 p.m., where the members will form in procession to the Little Lake Cemetery. By order. 3d38

Were They Reserved

—On a George street car last night two ladies attempted to hold a vacant seat for two friends who were coming in the rear but were not in sight when two other ladies also wished to occupy the "reserved" seats. The second party secured the seat, but some unpleasant remarks were made. Just the same. Which side was right?

Attractions at the Peterboro Bookstore

—Ladies attending the millinery openings this week are invited to visit the Peterborough Bookstore in their rounds and inspect the beautiful new goods on view. We won't describe them—we want you particularly to see the many beautiful styles of notepapers and envelopes for correspondence and invitations. They are handsomely arranged in fancy boxes or put up in attractive packages. A. H. Stratton & Co.

McGRATH--POWERS NUPTIALS

A beautiful nuptial ceremony was celebrated in the Church of St. Gregory the Great, Picton, on Tuesday at 9.30 a.m., when Miss Mary A. Powers, daughter of the late Wm. Powers, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred J. McGrath, son of Mr. Thos. B. McGrath, Aylmer street. The event was of great interest, not only to the many friends of the groom, who has always lived in Peterborough, but also to the host of young people to whom the bride had become endeared during her residence of several years in this city.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Keline during a high mass sung with full choir. Lohengrin's wedding march was played as the bride entered the church and proceeded to the sanctuary front leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Frank Powers of Picton, who gave her away. During the mass Mr. McClelland sang "Ave Maria" in splendid voice and the "Agnus Dei" was well rendered by Mr. A. Sullivan.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Powers, and Mr. Fred Leplante of Peterborough was best man. Little Miss Grace Keenan of Owen Sound was a very pretty flower girl. The ushers were Mr. Archie Sullivan of Picton and Mr. T. McGrath, Jr., Peterborough.

The bride looked charming in a Princess gown of white crepe mateore and fine lace studded with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Her sister attending her was dressed in white silk mulle trimmed with French valenciennes and touches of white satin. She wore a white picture hat to match and carried pink roses.

After the mass the nuptial party drove to the bride's home, a mile and a half out of Picton where the post-hymeneal rites were held. The reception was held in the spacious drawings rooms under an arch of smilax, from which was suspended a bell of white asters.

A dainty recherche luncheon was served to the fifty or more friends who were present. The dining room was decorated with festoons of smilax and white asters. The colour scheme of the tables was pink and white. Five of the intimate friends of the bride served the luncheon. Their favours were pretty pins, while those the guests received were hand painted place cards, the bride's own work.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace and pendant, and to the bridesmaid a pearl ring.

Rev. Father Keline, in proposing the toast of the bride, paid her a graceful tribute in a splendid speech. His felicitous remarks to the happy couple were responded to by the whole assembly.

Mr. and Mrs. McGrath left on the 3.30 p. m. train for Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago, and will return to Peterborough, residing at 203 Rubidge street. Mrs. McGrath will be at home to her friends after November 1st. She looked charming in a travelling gown of Linden green cloth and butterfly taffeta with large bbuttons.

Among the guests present, the following were from Peterborough:—Mrs. T B McGrath, who was attired in gray embroidered voile with lavender and baby Irish lace; Miss Kate McGrath, in pink ochienne panne velvet and lace; Miss Margaret McGrath in pale blue Paris voile, liberty satin and lace; Miss Olive Huttman, wearing Myrtle velvet with touches of gold and blue; Miss Louie Martin, in blue and all over lace; Miss Gertrude McFadden who wore gray organdie and Valenciennes lace; Miss Nora Coughlin was dressed in champagne muslin; Miss Armene LePlante, in pink mulle and touches of liberty satin, and Miss Clara Cahill in white voile and lace. Mr. T B McGrath, father of the groom and Mr. Godfrey Coughlin were also present.

Mrs. Wm. Powers, the bride's mother wore a handsome gown of black peau de soie with touches of point lace. Others noticed were Mrs. Frank Mannion, of Saginaw, in black silk, relieved with touches of lavender; Mrs. Will Powers, of Chicago, wearing a smart suit of champagne lady's cloth with black hat and plumes of cherry, and Mrs. Jack Keenan, of Owen Sound, in grey voile over pink taffeta and black picture hat.

You can go out to wear it,
But you cannot wear it out.

Last night at the regular meeting of the Tent speeches of a congratulatory nature were also made by Sir Knights J. Dodds and F. Darling, to which Mr. Matchett replied, thanking the members of K. O. T. M., No 69, for their kind remembrance and for their expressions of good will.

BRIDGENORTH MAN IN A PECULIAR ACCIDENT

Window Falls on His Head—Indian Excursion to Lake Simcoe

Examiner Special

Bridgenorth, Sept. 16—The steamer Water Lily left the Chemong wharf sharp on time for Lake Simcoe. It is a splendid outing for the Indians, as it gives them an opportunity to see their friends in the other reserve. Mr. Dan Whetung and the majority of the Indians were on board.

The post master, Mr. A. Jobe, met with a rather peculiar accident the other day. He was taking a window out from above the door which came rather suddenly, the result being that Mr. Jobe's head went through the pane. The sash got around his head and it was quite a job for him to get released without getting his neck cut by the glass, but he managed it safely.

BRONCHO PONY HANGS ON A FENCE

Mr. C. Scriver, Hastings, The Loser—Strays Away From Home

Mr. Con. Scriver, of Hastings, is mourning the loss of his grey broncho pony. The pony strayed away with his halter on and in jumping a fence became tangled up in the shank by putting his forefoot through, and choked himself to death.

FOREST FIRES BURNING IN HASTINGS VICINITY

Black Flies Driven From Swamps into the Village

Hastings, Sept. 17.—Forest fires in this section have made things very disagreeable for the past week. John McFadden's woods have been burning for several days and at Indian River the bush has suffered, as well as the timber north of here. The black flies seem to have been driven into this locality by the smoke and almost everyone is suffering from their bites.

TURNBULL'S INCREASED PLATE GLASS WINDOWS

They Now Possess Six Fine Exhibition Windows for Displaying Goods

One of the big advantages which the Turnbull Co's stores on George and Simcoe streets enjoy is the number of large and effective show windows on both streets. Now they have six plate glass fronts. Recently the two fine show windows on Simcoe street which have heretofore been frosted over, have now been handsomely fitted up for the exhibition of goods to be offered at special bargain prices. Panelled sliding openings have been put in and the inside of the windows lined with mirrors at the back. These windows are at present dressed with rich rugs and drapery materials. Ladies should keep an eye on these windows, if they would share in the special values from time to time.

MOHAWK INDIAN MURDERED ON THE TYENDINAGA RESERVE BY SOME HIDDEN FOEMAN

Belleville Sept. 17—Special—James Sero a Mohawk Indian of the Tyendinaga reserve nine miles east of Belleville while returning to his house last night after feeding his horses at his own barn was struck in the right groin by a bullet fired from a rifle. He managed to reach his house but before the doctor could arrive he had bled to death. He was fifty years of age and leaves a wife but no family. Who did the shooting is as yet a mystery. The police have no doubt that the case is one of murder.

WAS THREE YEARS HERE

After concluding three years of hard, continuous labour as pastor in charge of the local mission of Free Methodists, Rev. H. Bertram Luck left to-day for Kingston, where he will take up the work in accordance with the orders from those in charge of these districts.

At the C. P. R. station to-day at noon there was a large representation of the people with whom he has been connected during his stay in Peterborough. They were, in fact, the majority of his congregation and the farewell he received was not in the least lacking deep feeling and regret. It was, in fact, a rather unusual leave taking from the fact that just previous to the arrival of the train, the party sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." That Mr. Luck's departure was a source of regret to his people was shown by the unbidden tears, which could not be kept back, by almost every woman and man in the gathering.

When Mr. Luck took charge of the work in this city he had no followers, he stated to an Examiner reporter this morning. In leaving there are now over thirty, and these have gathered together in small numbers from time to time during the last three years.

Rev. Mr. Luck is being succeeded by Miss Babcock and Miss Clarke, recently of Huntsville. They will take charge a week from Sunday.

HASTINGS WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE BY TAKING DOSE OF PARIS GREEN

Hastings, Sept. 17.—Special.—Mrs. Ellen Crozier in a fit of despondency on Saturday afternoon last ended her life by drinking a quantity of Paris green.

She had been out and across the bridge in the morning and also after dinner and gave no signs of premeditating making away with herself, but evidently about two o'clock she returned home and took the fatal dose. She was discovered some time afterwards by her son Harry who went for medical help.

Dr. Nicholls who was called, did all that was possible under the circumstances but the poison had already taken effect and she passed away at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Crozier had been a resident of the village for many years and those who were her immediate neighbours speak of her as a most kind and generous hearted woman.

She leaves four grown sons Thomas, Henry, James and Ernest, all of Hastings.

GRAND JURY'S PRESENTMENT; PLACE FOR CONTAGIOUS DISEASES IS ADVOCATED IN THE REPORT

The case of Dr. T W H Young v. the Dominion Engineering and Construction Co., Limited, was commenced before Mr. Justice Magee at the Fall Assizes last night and is being continued to-day. The plaintiff claims $301 for giving medical attention to David J. Moore, who was injured on May 9, 1907, while engaged in the work of building at the C. G. E. establishment, which work was being done by defendants.

The defence's statement of the claim is that the Dominion Engineering and Construction Co. had entered into a contract with the C. G. E. Co., Limited, for the construction of the building, and that while engaged in these operations injuries were sustained by David J. Moore, an employee of the C. G. E. Co. They claim plaintiff was regularly employed by the C. G. E. Co., and that if he rendered medical aid he did so in pursuance of his duties as doctor for the company. R. F. McWilliams is appearing for plaintiff; Denistoun, Peck and Kerr for Dominion Engineering and Construction Co., and Kerr, Davidson, Patterson and McFarland, Toronto, for the third party, the C. G. E. Co.

Grand Jury

This morning the Grand Jury presented the following presentment and were then dismissed by His Lordship:

The Grand Jury of the county of Peterborough beg to report as follows:

1. We have visited the county jail; St. Joseph's Hospital, the House of Providence, the Children's Shelter, the Nicholls Hospital, the Protestant Home, and the County House of Refuge, and find all these buildings cleanly and suitably kept, due regard being made to all proper sanitary conditions, and the officers in charge appear to be considerate and alert in the proper discharge of their duties.

2. While expressing our appreciation of the good work done by the two hospitals we visited, we feel bound to express our regret that there is not in connection with either hospital an isolated building or ward, and that there is no provision for the taking in of consumptive patients or others suffering from contagious diseases. We trust that some steps will be taken at an early date to provide such a building or buildings at the public expense.

3. In regard to your Lordship's reference to the comparatively large number of persons in the jail for theft, we find on investigation that several of these persons are not and never were residents of this county, but owing to the efficiency of the local police force were arrested here for pocket-picking and housebreaking and committed to jail.

4. We also find in the jail two boys of seventeen years of age, who are undergoing sentence. These boys are allowed and compelled to associate with all the other criminals, and we think it desirable that if possible some other provision should be made for their confinement, so that they may be removed from association with older and more hardened criminals, and thus afforded a better opportunity of reformation.

5. We also find in the jail, six old men, each over sixty years of age, who are confined on charges of vagrancy. We cannot emphasize too strongly our regret that persons who have committed really no crime, but are merely, on account of old age, unable to support themselves, should be confined in the jail, and compelled to associate with persons of evil character, who are undergoing sentence for crime. These old men have all been sent to the jail from the City of Peterborough, and we believe the City is wanting in proper regard for the care of its old people, in not following the example of the County, in erecting a House of Refuge for the care and maintenance.

We trust Your Lordship will see fit to lay our recommendation before the proper authorities, so that action may be taken at an early date, to remedy this serious condition of affairs.

Dated the 17th day of September, 1908.

J. FIFE,
Foreman.

It is not likely that the perjury charge against Jos. Levasseur, Jr., will be commenced until late this afternoon. Levasseur was arraigned last evening at 6 o'clock and pleaded not guilty. Mr. McWilliams, his counsel, made objection to the form of the indictment and this morning the bill was amended and given to the Grand Jury who again returned a true bill.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

A BLANK BOMBSHELL.

The Review does not seriously attempt, in the present campaign, to discuss political issues on their merits—in relation to their bearing upon the question of the excellence or otherwise of the record of the Liberal Government, which is practically appealing for a renewal of confidence on the part of the electorate of Canada. The Review knows that the record of the Liberal Government is a record of achievement unparallelled in the history of Canada. Contemporaneous with its tenure of office the progress of the country has been simply wonderful; with a lessened tariff rate the revenue has mounted by millions, prosperity has thrilled every nerve of national activity, trade has increased by leaps, industrial development has been marked, and all the conditions of national advance and growth have been in conspicuous evidence and operation.

All of these things are foreign to our excellent contemporary, the Review. It seems desirous of making baseless insinuations out of the Home Life mare's nest with which it attempts to discreditably connect Mr. Stratton. Now, it is declared without fear or possibility of successful contradiction that in spite of all the Review's insinuations, Mr. Stratton's connection with the matter of which the Review seeks to make so much, involved only a purely business proceeding, absolutely free from anything improper or questionable.

What was there wrong in Mr. Stratton raising, as he did do, on his personal cheque the sum of $90,000 to purchase stock and commute Mr. Paterson's claim under his salary contract with the Home Life?

What was wrong, when the figure of $90,000 originally suggested, was reduced to $80,000—what was wrong in Mr. Stratton retaining the $10,000 of his own money not needed to complete the transaction? These are the simple facts that cannot be successfully contradicted. These facts were not brought out before the commission, which was there simply to investigate. The witnesses representing the companies investigated were not cross-examined; there was no legal defence and consequently only one side was brought out.

Besides, if there was anything in the insinuations of the Review, would Mr. Stratton's co-officials in the Company rest under the alleged wrong? Mr. Stratton was elected first president of the re-organized company, has been re-elected every one of the three years following, enjoys the confidence of all the directors, and is to-day the president of the company. To show that the favour in which Mr. Stratton is held is not due to political preference, it is to be stated as a fact, that the managing director of the company is a Conservative, the two vice-presidents are Conservatives, the members of the Executive Committee are Conservatives, with one exception, and two-thirds of the board of directors are Conservatives. The officials know all the details of Mr. Stratton's connection with the re-organization of the Home Life. One and all have endorsed and ratified Mr. Stratton's course, which they would hardly, do if, at their expense, he had been guilty of what the Review, or Mr. Burnham, insinuates under shelter of a privileged report.

If Mr. Burnham is acting, as he pretends to be doing, from lofty motives of morality, why does he confine his strictures to a Peterborough citizen who has not been a fly on the wheel all his life, but has been all his life one of the most active and successful promoters of all the interests of Peterborough, material and others, ever known to the town or city or county? Mr. Burnham not only defends, but lauds and encourages Geo. E. Foster, who came under suspicion before the Commission, of improper use of trust funds. Why does Mr. Burnham spare him? And more, why does he hold him up as a capable and reliable trustee of the immense financial interests of the Dominion?

Mr. Burnham cannot justify his candidature, nor justify his claim to be entrusted with the duty of promoting the interests of Peterborough by any past record of service, or possession of the energy and business quality, the public spirit and aggressiveness, essential in a live and working representative. Mr. Burnham claims that "all his life he has devoted himself to the STUDY of industrial questions." Mr. Stratton has spent all his life in the PRACTICE of the promotion of industrial interests. He has used his energy and embarked his means in the promotion of industrial establishments, giving large employment to labour, and among the most important of the many of which Peterborough is proud, Mr. Burnham has never got beyond the "study" stage of industrial promotion. Mr Stratton has been all his life in the active stage. What Peterborough wants as a representative is not the man that dreams things, but the man who does things, who has done much, and possesses the will and the energy to do more.

AN OPINION OF THE TIME.

Speaking of Mr. Stratton's retirement from the office of Provincial Secretary, the Toronto Globe said:

It cannot be said of the late Provincial Secretary that nothing in his tenure of office became him like his leaving it, for Mr. Stratton's administrative work has been exceptionally unobjectionable and efficient. The terms in which he has called attention to his aims and methods in his departmental work are frank but dignified, and all who have had to do with him as the head of his department will bear cordial and unreserved testimony to the fact that his account of his administration is fair and moderate.

It would be a great mistake to assume that because the Provincial Secretary has for many years been regarded as the junior member of the Executive Council his department is the one most easily administered. On the contrary, it is the most complicated, and in some ways the most difficult of all. The duties of the Provincial Secretary, as such, are by no means onerous, but when to these are added the management of the public institutions and the enforcement of the liquor license law, not to speak of other sub-departments of less importance and difficulty, one may easily see that the whole department demands for its administration a good business training, great decision of character, and strong personal courage.

It is not always the case that an administrative official, while securing the respect and approbation of the general public, is personally popular with his subordinates. In Mr. Stratton's case the feeling of the members of his departmental staff has become one of admiration rather than mere satisfaction. His thoroughgoing business methods and habits won their respect, while they impressed those who had to do with him on matters of public business. Mr. Stratton's outstanding personal characteristic was his promptitude in giving his decisions. He was able to see at once whether an application was one that should be entertained at all, and whether it was properly a matter for the Minister to settle. If it were necessary to reserve a case for consultation with other members of Council he never allowed long time to elapse before his decision was given. By pursuing this course he has set a standard of administration so high that his successor will find it no easy task to live up to it. If all public administrators had the same peculiarity there would be less fault-finding with heads of departments for their masterly inactivity.

CANADA'S RECOGNITION.

Not many years ago, about a dozen, the name of Canada was seldom penned by British newspaper writers. When the "neat of traitors" incident took place heralding what the Conservatives considered a national calamity, the downfall of British power on this continent, that is to say the exit of the Conservative Government, the London Times devoted only a few lines to it and other papers vouchsafed it bare mention. The British press and public had not discovered Canada; it was not a factor—it "cut no ice"—in the consideration of Imperial politics. But, thanks to the visit of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the Jubilee rejoicings in London, the outstanding figure he presented, the attention his eloquence and magnetic personality attracted, and the preference freely and dutifully offered brought this country to the front and discovered Canada to the home land. From that day Canada has advanced not only in the knowledge Britain possesses of it, but to a position of prominence as a factor in the determination and discussion of Imperial interests. Now, where, in the good, dull, quiet days of Conservative rule the British journals gave lines of space to Canada, they now give leaders. Now, British statesmen, who then, did not seem to know the geographical distinction between Nova Scotia and Massachusetts, make ponderous speeches with the intimate and one may say, the political and industrial, family life of Canada as the topic. Now Canada is a diplomatic quantity, an international asset. All this has been brought about by the great material growth, and national advance made since the Liberal Government came into power. Prior to 1897 the files of British journals could be searched in vain for an article like the following from the London Daily Mail, which betrays a large familiarity with agricultural conditions in Canada:

In Canada the Government is bending all its energies to help the farmers, giving railway facilities and storing facilities, grading the produce, issuing information grades from the model farms, in some cases advancing money. The whole country is agog with the business of harvest. All along the railways, growing more and more congested with their riches, are miles upon miles of grain-bearing tracts, to the progress and clearing of which the chief efforts of the great railways are directed. For months hard Manitoba wheat and oats will pour down these avenues of transit almost like grain down a mill shoot. The country, as the whole of its community is aware, stands or falls by its harvest.

THE CONTRAST.

The Toronto News has a long article contrasting 1896 and 1906. There is indeed a contrast—all the difference between stagnation and prosperity, between national standstill and national advance, between Canada prosperous and hopeful and Canada depressed and despairing. In 1896 we had a revenue of $39,000,000, preceded by annual deficits. Since 1896 we have had an ever-flowing revenue — last year $90,000,000,—surpluses have been the rule in the face of immense expenditures devoted to the development of the country, to the improvement of transportation and the development of the Great West. In 1896 Montreal Harbour was simply a port of call, and the St. Lawrence channel to the sea couldn't carry a saw-log safely. Now Montreal Harbour, outbids New York for the grain-carrying trade. Now, the St. Lawrence channel is as safe as mid-ocean for the largest ocean steamers, and as well lighted as the Strand in London. In 1896 the Post-office Department provided high postage rates, inefficient and limited service, and was run at a loss, the deficit in the last year of Conservative rule being $750,000. In 1908 the surplus was $1,100,000, and this in the face of vastly improved and greatly extended mail service and reduction of postage of one-third and even more on all classes of mail matter. City delivery has been extended to Peterborough, among other places, and now after due deliberation rural mail delivery is announced as a thing of the immediate future. In 1896 the trade of Canada was only 239 millions; in 1908 it is 659 millions. In a word, the conditions of Canada, regarded in any light, were vastly inferior in 1896 to what they are to-day, and the Liberal Government does not fear, but is proud of, any comparison that can be made. Good government has brought Canada forward; good representation has brought many advantages to Peterborough city and county. Canada, in order to keep the pace of progress, calls for the continuation in power of the Liberal Government; Peterborough, to keep moving ahead, needs a continuation of good representation. Mr. Stratton, with a grand record of achievement in good service to Peterborough, still possesses, in a matured and greater degree, all the energy, all the business qualifications, and the influence and ability to continue the excellent representation this riding has had for the past four years. A dreamer has no place in the life, stir and activity that represents the kind of member the best interests of Peterborough demand.

BOYS' WORK AT THE Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Ritchie of Canadian Section of International Committee in City—Work Has Begun

GAMES ON SECOND FLOOR

Mr. J E Ritchie, who is giving his time, under the direction of the Canadian Section of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North America, to the Boys' Work in Canada, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Peterborough conferring with the General and Boys' Secretaries and meeting the Board of Directors and Committees in regard to an advance movement in connection with the Boys' Work of Peterborough.

As a result of Mr. Ritchie's visit a strong committee of prominent business and professional men is being formed who will give time and thought to formulating and directing a work that will, in time, include one thousand boys between the ages of twelve and eighteen and have such an influence on their lives as will make them better individuals and better citizens.

To work out the policy of this committee there will be a Cabinet of older boys, each member of which will be chairman of a committee and responsible for the work of that committee.

It is proposed to provide better accommodation for the junior members of the Association by removing their games and social rooms from the basement to the second floor where they will have more room and proper light and ventilation. This proposal on the part of the Committee of Management of the Boys' Department will be acted upon as soon as it receives the formal approval of the Board of Directors.

THE SMOKE GETS INTO THE HOME

Here and There Housewives Vent Their Indignation at the Evil

One does not need to leave the portals of his own domicile these days to become aware of the fact that the atmosphere is laden with smoke. According to some householders their front parlour resembles a club lounging room the smoke having found its way in through open doors, windows, yes, and even key holes

It is not dust from the clothes or mud from the shoes of the men of the home that rouses the too zealously clean housewife. No, it is whispered that she is mad at herself now because there is no one to blame for the ever present veil of smoke. Tales of woe are heard over the backyard fence about the cream paper in the front room beginning to wear the appearance of having been purchased at a fire sale. The baby is unusually cross and it must be the smoke smarting its eyes. It clouds the cellar, it has made an easy entrance into the attic and opening the windows merely makes matters worse. It will be a source of pleasure to more than one individual to hear the chirrfied air rustling the fading leaves of the maple once again carrying off the smoke to some other world than this.

Teas may come, and teas may go, but "Salada" goes on—slowly, but surely winning its way into the homes of millions of satisfied users. 73

FIRE IS OUTSIDE CITY LIMITS

Brigade Couldn't Act Without an Order From Committee

A call was telephoned to the fire station yesterday afternoon a little after four o'clock from Sherbrooke street west, and the brigade responded promptly. When they arrived on the scene it was found that it was outside the corporation and therefore the brigade could not act without an order from the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee or mayor. The fire was a small bush one. No particular damage was done by the blaze.

PERSPIRATION AND FAT—A WAY OUT

This year fat folks who want to move about a bit is comfort and dry undergarments are going to reduce. This does not mean, however, lots of exercise and rivers of perspiration. Nowadays the well-informed fat person gets rid of his or her fat with an almost mathematical certainty — not through muscular exertion or punishing fasts—but by means of a teaspoonful only, after meals and at bedtime, of a harmless inexpensive mixture, to wit, 1-2 ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 1 3-4 ounces Syrup Simplex, which any druggist can and will put up for a small sum.

This pleasant home receipt takes the fat off at the rate of 12 to 16 ounces a day without causing wrinkles or interfering with one's pleasure or even one's meals, and it has proved a nugget of knowledge of incalculable comfort value to thousands.

THE FIREMEN WATERING CENTRAL PARK

Grass and Trees Dying for Lack of Sufficient Moisture

The fire department acting under orders from the chairman of the Fire, Water, and Light Committee, were out early this morning sprinkling Central Park. The grass could not get sufficient water from the park pipes to maintain its freshness. From the appearance of some of the trees which have died from the lack of moisture, the big hose should have been used long ago.

HARRY REID KNOWS

Wm. Madill the druggist, does not guarantee Parisian Sage to grow hair on every bald head, but if there is any life left in the roots of your hair, Parisian Sage will stimulate the hair bulbs and cause your hair to grow again. Here is one case: "I am now using the second bottle of your Parisian Sage, and can notice a new crop of hair appearing. I am glad to say it is a darker colour than my hair was before I became bald." Harry Reid, 10 Manhattan street, Rochester, N.Y.

Don't wait till you're bald before using Parisian Sage, use it now. Kill the dandruff germ and prevent baldness. Wm. Madill, the druggist, sells Parisian Sage at 50 cents a large bottle, and he guarantees it to cure dandruff, stop falling hair, and cure all diseases of the scalp, or money back. Parisian Sage is a delightful, invigorating hair dressing; it makes the hair soft, fluffy and beautiful.

ST. MARTIN'S T.A.S. TO ORGANIZE

Will Have Another Social Season This Winter

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick stated that St. Martin's T. A. S., Ennismore, would be as strong as ever this winter in their social and literary organization. The enjoyable evenings that were spent last winter were so popular that it naturally follows that they should be continued.

MAKES BLIND MAN SEE WITH A RABBIT'S EYE

Operation of New York Physician Proves Successful

New York, Sept. 17.—A blind man has been made to see through a rabbit's eye, as the result of an operation performed by Dr. Henry R. Lesser of West 93rd street. The operation consisted in grafting the cornea from the eye of a rabbit upon the eye of the patient, who had been blind for fifteen years. He is now able to count fingers at a distance of twelve inches, distinguish colour and go about unattended. The operation, though not unknown to optical surgery, has seldom proved as successful as in the present case.

Dr. Lesser declined to discuss the case for the identity of his patient, except to declare that he had performed the operation with unusually good results.

His patient, Dr. Lesser said, was twenty-four years old, and when nine years old developed leucoma, a disease of the cornea. He became totally blind. The operation was performed last May and now the graft is in perfect position and the sight appears to be improving day by day.

C.P.R. INSTALLS TANK OUTSIDE OF HAVELOCK

Water Supply Runs Out—Creek Goes Dry.

Havelock, Sept. 17.—Special.—The C. P. R. have run out of water at this point on account of the great dry spell. The creek where the supply of water for the engines has always been got is nearly dried up. As a result, the company have found it necessary to dam back a creek three miles east of here, install a water tank and engine, and the engines run down there for water.

FOR BETTERMENT OF MORALS

Mr. George Wright Sends Letter to the Examiner—Rowdyism of Harvest Hands

PUNISHMENT IS NEEDED

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—Of late we have seen many accounts published, giving details of the barbarous actions perpetrated by some of the people who left Nova Scotia and other parts of Canada, to go to the harvest fields in our Northwest. Such conduct, if true, reflects the greatest discredit upon our country, and appeals for redress to any self respecting and manly Canadian. Can this be looked upon as evidence of the signs of the times, and is it a proof that we are fast falling into a state of low civilisation, and that our beloved Canada is being filled with people who are no better than fiends and brigands? It is very noticeable that this state of affairs does not only exist among those in the lower walks of life, but our society is permeated all through with conduct that surprises those who expect and look for better things. What seems to become a form of amusement to them are nothing but acts of rowdyism, destruction of property and other disreputable conduct. Vile conduct has been carried to such an extent that even human lives have been endangered. This spirit of rowdyism seems to be growing among all classes of people, and especially amongst the young, and exists throughout the whole American continent. We have had examples of this in our own town, amongst young men who are supposed to be amongst our superior classes, even college students, who have been invited to attend social functions given by ladies, commit actions being much on the same line as those who went to the harvest fields. Now, the rowdies who left on the excursion, do not rid the country of that class, every city and town is infested with them yet, and for the welfare of our country in the future, and in consideration of those coming after us, some drastic step should be taken. If such conduct cannot be checked amongst the older ones, who should set an example to others, or your laws that exist for such purpose, then we should resort to the ones that Governor Fraser called attention to the other day in his address at the celebration of the establishment of our government, where people were punished by being put into stocks and branded with hot irons for crimes less serious than these. By the accounts we read in our papers day by day of the unruly state of the people, we can but say that the above form of punishment is as much needed now as ever. As to people who will wilfully commit such crimes, there is no punishment that can be too severe for them. There is no doubt it is the laxity of the law at the present time that is the cause of the increase in crimes. It seems that people are losing self-respect. Their rowdyism might be compared to their profanity in its vastness—they seem to go together, and the man who will participate in one will practice the other. We notice there are a number of these men who went on the harvest excursion unable to get employment and that the farmers are doing their own work. Could anything else be expected, if what we have read is true, would a farmer employ and take such a class of men into his home? What is the best course to take to check this is hard to determine, but the schools and colleges should be looked to to accomplish something in this direction among the better class of youth.

Yours truly,
GEORGE WRIGHT

ABOUT THE SECRET OF LONGEVITY

Not Due to Special Method of Living —Centenarians Among Irish and Jewish Race.

LIVE ACCORDING TO NATURE

The secret of longevity is to be found in the inherited cells of the individual and not in any special method of life. The Irish and Jewish races, according to New York's Board of Health reports, have furnished us with most of our centenarians. These are two races most persecuted in the past. The weaker ones having died out, the stronger survived to breed succeeding generations. Thus increasing vitality of mind and body was generated in the families, and these have handed down resistance to circumstance of life and climate. The fittest always are prone to live.

The sane man lives and will adapt himself to changing environments, an insane one will destroy himself. Thus it is with the body, too. With these cells to begin with a man may live long in spite of inimical circumstances. Tobacco and alcohol are both good for the one who is born with the cells of long life.

I belong to a specially long-lived family, whose members have always lived to the nineties and hundreds, some even to 107. Yet these grandfathers and grandmothers never set the world on fire, never strained themselves beyond their natural and limited capacities of mind and body. They were satisfied with life's sunshine or shadow as God sent it to them. They kept out of the limelight, took their back seat in the world's affairs willingly, ate plainly what was found to be good for them, and as old age crept over them they relinquished one by one for their own salvation the good things of life and patiently took nature's whipping without murmuring.

Mental discipline and activity were with all of them until the end came. They tortured not their soul with yearnings for what their capacity or capability did not entitle them to receive. And they died, some of burst apoplectic decrepit arteries, the result of too much meat or too much starch, as the atheroma or turning into bone of old blood vessels would imply, but they lived out their days according to the life of the cells and their demands made upon them through natural appetites entitled them to do.

What is born in the flesh cannot so easily be put aside. Live naturally and not by rote and rule, and strictly according to what your own mental and bodily inclinations show your nature to be, and you will live long and be happy. Do nothing to cause yourself uneasiness; be moderate and fair in your dealings with your fellowmen. Be just, be conscientious, do your duty.—New York Sun.

DOUBLE LIABILITIES FOR BANK SHAREHOLDERS

Statement Shows Deficit of $2,281,926

Toronto, Sept. 17.—At a meeting of the Ontario Bank shareholders yesterday morning a statement was presented showing that the deficit is $2,281,926, which wipes out the capital of $1,500,000 and creates a double liability of $781,926.

The shareholders appointed the Royal Trust Company as liquidators.

The question of prosecuting the former directors was discussed, but was finally laid over for further report.

Among the heaviest stockholders in the Ontario Bank—those holding fifty shares and upwards—according to the latest Government bluebook, are a number of local persons.

The Autumn Opening At Turnbull's Millinery Rooms

Charming Styles That Win the Admiration of Crowds of Visitors---Stunning Hats, Broad Dashing Shapes, High Crowns With Graceful Tilted Sides or Drooping Backs

It was to be expected that the ladies would come out in large numbers for the formal opening displays of new fall millinery, at the store of Messrs. Turnbull Company, Limited, George and Simcoe streets, which began on Tuesday. This firm scored a good point in holding their millinery opening this season two days ahead of other stores. And yet this did not appear to affect the attendance today, when the other openings took place, as the regular stream of admiring visitors was as great, if not greater, than on the two previous days.

The great store — "the store that value built"—was ready in splendid trim, and the displays were worth seeing. The millinery never looked better, and this is saying a great deal —for the Turnbull displays are always an authoritative style exposition. The preparations must have been going forward on a larger scale than ever before. The varied styles were far more beautiful, and the prices were generally characterized as unusually moderate.

The Show Rooms

The show rooms looked bright with palms and floral decorations; the floor was richly carpeted and rugged, and the windows draped with elegant curtains and drapings. Miss Bell, the intelligent head milliner, and her assistants were kept busy demonstrating the new headgear effects. This is Miss Bell's first season with the Turnbull Company. She is an expert designer, having had a thorough training in the American designing schools, and, previous to her present engagement, held the leading position in the second largest millinery store in the United States.

In a large showcase, gracefully decorated with ferns, were shown the Fifth Avenue Gainsboro hat made of royal blue Bengaline silk lined in broad bands of fancy gold, with three large blue feathers to match. Another is the Paris Mushroom hat of black velvet trimmed with white ribbon, immense ornaments of silver and brilliants, with soft white tips dropping from rim. The "Society Girl" is a lovely hat coming in beautiful shades of felt, simply but artistically trimmed with handsomely blended ribbon and large flowers.

It is stated that Directoire hats were evolved by clever French women out of their own pretty heads. They needed hats to complete the picture of the classic Directoire gowns, and they designed them accordingly. Nothing was impossible one hundred and odd years ago in France.

Great Variety of Styles

This season's rule of fashion is to wear any kind of a hat you like—and who would wear one they didn't like? Probably large hats will be the most fashionable, although plenty of small shapes are in evidence. There is a great diversity of beautiful styles. There is also a great variety of trimmings employed, including all kinds of feather effects and plumes, together with large flowers and ribbons.

With the many diversified colour effects, a visit to Turnbull's will prove wonderfully appealing to the lover of beautiful millinery.

Miss Bell is meeting with splendid success in pleasing the ladies with becoming headgear. She employs first-class trimmers and assistants, who appear to possess the happy knack of anticipating just the effect desired. This is the time to select an exclusive hat. It matters not what price one purposes paying for it, from $3.50 to $40.00, the style will be unique as well as correct. The Parisian and New York models, combined with the bright adaptations and creations of their own workshops will provide an eye feast for lovers of high class millinery never before equalled by the Turnbull Company.

Big Fair Ready For To-morrow's Crowd And The Directors Are Decidedly Optimistic At Outlook

Exhibition Park as It Looks To-day —Midway Will be a Feature— Many Tasteful Exhibits

ENTRIES ARE NUMEROUS

Everything is ready for the opening to the public to-morrow of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, and if the weather in vogue to-day continues for the next two days all records in point of attendance and success will be left far behind. This is the opinion of the directors, and certainly all indications point to it being the correct view to take of the situation. On no previous occasion has there been such interest taken in the Fair as they view the way the entries are rectors cannot help feeling optimistic as they view the way the entries are coming in and see other signs that indicate a grand success.

An Examiner reporter visited Exhibition Park this morning and found a busy scene. Directors and exhibitors swarmed over the grounds, tents were springing up here, there and everywhere. Midway attractions were hanging out their lurid signs and local firms were arranging their attractive exhibits. Over on the splendid half-mile track a number of fast harness horses were being worked out in preparation for the big races of to-morrow and Saturday, and a few small boys with handsome dogs but some dilapidated vehicles were breezing their canine-propelled outfits along the stretch. It was a spectacle that must have rejoiced the hearts of the directors as the busy scene indicated the interest that is being taken in the event. Every few minutes a farmer arrived with a live stock exhibit, while his wife had a contribution for the fancy work department or the bread contest.

With the many white tents scattered over the grounds, flags and banners unrolled to the breeze everywhere and gay advertising designs lavishly use did all directions, Exhibition Park has put on a very gala appearance, and when the crowds arrive to-morrow they will be greeted with a spectacle that they will not soon forget.

As one enters the grounds by the entrance at the northeast corner, which will as usual be the public entrance, the first thing that will catch his eye will be the big poultry tent which is situated just inside the gate and which is large enough to make a splendid place in which to show birds at an advantage.

A little further on near the main building is found a large tent containing an excellent exhibit of farm vehicles and implements shown by Messrs. Storey and Simpson, the Water street firm, which is well worth looking over.

Coming to the main building itself, the Fair visitor will find some unusually attractive and interesting exhibits housed within. In the southeast corner downstairs the Roy Studio and Mr. Louis Mendel have some splendid samples of photographic skill which all visitors are advised not to miss. They include portraits, sporting groups, etc. In this corner also the samples of fine arts work are displayed.

In the centre of the main building Mr. J. M. Greene of the Greene Music Company has two large booths, in one of which he displays the New Scale Williams Pianos and in the other the Davis sewing machine, two articles the housewife is interested in and will no doubt make a point of seeing.

On the ground floor the "haus frau" will find two other exhibits of interest. One of these is the exhibit of the Quaker Oats Company who have a very attractive booth in which "Quaker Oats, "Quaker Flour," "Pettijohn's Breakfast Food" and other well-known cereal products turned out by the big concern are displayed to advantage.

The Peterborough Bookstore is also recognizing the Fair as a good advertising medium and makes a splendid showing of wall papers, tapestries, etc. The booth is most artistically arranged and cannot fail to attract attention.

The west side of the building is as usual devoted to the display of grains, roots, etc., while upstairs there will be found the fancy work department, and it is safe to say that every woman visitor to the Fair will devote part of her time to visiting this exhibit which will this year surpass all other high marks of excellence.

The Midway commences at the west of the main building. A street has been laid out and the Pike people are found on either side of this, running as far west as the grandstand. The Midway gives promise of fulfilling the prediction of the superintendent that it would be the biggest on record, judging by its appearance this morning.

Already there is a big snake show with a lively painted front; a merry-go-round, a six-legged pig and other similar nature freaks, an ice cream cone man and at least a dozen other refreshment booths, a dining tent and other exhibits. A house of nonsense and similar shows are expected to arrive this afternoon, and Fair visitors will find plenty of amusement along the Pike.

All that is needed is good weather for two more days. The directors have no fear of the outcome if that is forthcoming. It is up to the citizens of Peterborough to turn out. There will be a good car service, the Fair is the best yet, there is more to see and you have more time to see it, amusement will be the keynote of everything, and you cannot afford to miss it.

Following is the programme for to-morrow afternoon and evening:

10 a.m., judging of exhibits inside main building, and poultry in large tent provided.

1.30 p.m., official opening of the Fair.

1.30 p.m., judging cattle, sheep and swine.

2 p.m. band concert.

2.30 p.m., ring speeding events commence, including some of the best contests seen here for some time. Good purses ensure a big entry and close races.

Trot or pace, 2.50 class, purse $100. One mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance, 5 per cent., and 5 per cent. additional for winners.

Trot or pace, 2.20 class, purse $200. One mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance, 5 per cent., and 5 per cent. additional for winners.

The dog race.

3 p.m., newest attractions, consisting of Herculean feats of strength and astonishing acrobatic novelties by the original Les Aribos and the Kennedy Brothers and Mack in novel and unique comedy sensation with their trick horse.

Friday Evening

Grounds and buildings brilliantly illuminated.

All attractions in full swing in front of the grandstand.

Full 57th Band in attendance.

Notes of the Fair

Mr. R. Smith, caterer for 22 years at the Toronto Exhibition, is supplying meals at the grounds during Friday and Saturday.

The directors report that the exhibit in horses was never so large. The horse stalls have all been taken up and if any more entries are made cattle stalls will have to be used.

There is a splendid exhibit in ladies' fancy work which will undoubtedly attract the feminine folk.

Judging on the exhibits in the building began this afternoon.

Entries, except in the speeding in the ring events, close this evening.

The Examiner has a tent on the grounds, and its representative, Mr. L. Mitchell will be glad to welcome all visitors to the Fair. Subscriptions for the Weekly Examiner may be handed in to him.

Messrs. Lang & Maher will have an attractive display of clothing to the west of the main building.

NAVIGATION DIFFICULT AT PRESENT

The Smoke Causes Trouble in the Upper Trent Canal Waters

Mr. J. H. McClellan, Superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal, states that the smoke from the bush fires is proving very troublesome in the upper waters, and that navigation is a very difficult matter just now. The government steamers have been experiencing trouble and may have to tie up altogether.

A HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ST. JOHN'S

Church Decorated Beautifully—The Services To-day

The first service of the St. John's Harvest Thanksgiving Festival at 10 a.m. this morning, viz., a celebration of the Holy Communion, was attended by a good number of communicants. The church is beautifully decorated, and amply repays the band of workers who spent yesterday in tastefully arranging the large quantity of corn, fruit and vegetables sent in by many of the congregation.

To-night at 8 p.m. the evening service will be choral. Hymns 341, 382, 383, 305. Psalms 65, 150, sung to Cathedral Psalter chants, 180, 2. Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis to Winchester. The anthem will be "Fear Not, O Land," by Cooke.

The sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Foster, of Steubanville, Ohio, who has asked the congregation for their thank-offering to make up the amount of the synod assessment which amounts to $662.

The Rev. Canon Davidson sails today from Liverpool on the R. M. S. Kensington, for home, after four months' vacation. A congregational reception will be held in the school on his return.

Second Day of Our

FORMAL FALL OPENING

Offers Splendid Buying Opportunities

TO-DAY witnessed the inauguration of the New Season at this store. With conspicuous splendour the authentic style ideas for fall and winter were ushered in and presented to an admiring host of our patrons and their friends. Never were the excellent tastes and shrewd ability of our buying organization more ably demonstrated than in the collection of smart wearing apparel and dress requisites which made their appearance to-day. It was another distinct triumph, glowingly testifying to the superior advantages offered by the HALL STORE.

Prices As Unusual As the Showing Itself

IT'S one thing to view a beautiful assemblage of ultra exclusive fashionable models in Cloaks and Suits or Skirts and Waists or exclusive Millinery Creations, and quite another thing to find their prices within the reach of everyone. And yet that is just the condition which prevails at this opening. Come to-night or to-morrow and see for yourself. Come.

Store Open To-night 7:30 to 9:30

To Three Pretty Hats

In the exquisite display of New Autumn Hats for mi lady in our Millinery parlours there is so much variation in style, so many different effects that it is difficult to choose any three, even one, as the prettiest. There are ideas for every taste, some most extreme, many moderate styles and yet the modest dresser will find enough variety to suit her taste--the prices too are just as varied. We have chosen three offhand to give a meagre description of. To-morrow will be an excellent day to view the scores of styles—come before the rush commences in the morning.

No 1 is the new Pocohontas Hat. In style and size it is not extreme except that the elaborate feather band of shaded old rose lends a most striking contrast to the ordinary hats seen on display—The shape is of brown velvet faced with shirred satin of the same color, the crown is high and the brim is moderate—altogether the creation makes a beautiful dress hat.

No 2—another dress hat of medium proportions. The style is the Taupe, one of the seasons latest variaties; Chamois top, brim and crown with Taupe velvet facing and a large cream plume, finished with brown velvet ribbon and a large Directoire buckle.

No 3—gives the true effect of the Directoire Hat—An ideal style for the ready to wear costume, strictly tailored in the new and much talked of Directoire style. The shades are in tan and the trimmings are panne velvet with two rows of pleated silk and immense wings at side, finished with touches of Soutache braid.

BOYS "WALKING BARS" CARRY "TORY" LIQUOR TO VOTERS

Halifax, Sept. 17.—Special. — William Roche, M.P., has a four-column letter in the press to-day replying to the attacks made on him in connection with last Dominion election. He concludes with a partial list of Conservative methods which he says he can substantiate. He claims the Conservative party established a room on Buckingham street, where the committee arranged to provide petitioners and send them to the polls. A code of signals was used so that Conservative agents in the booths knew who was coming. Warrants were provided and lawyers sent to the booths who were to arrest Liberal voters, and during the excitement the Conservative fraudulent voters were to be run in.

As many as 287 fraudulent voters were claimed to be polled for R. L. Borden and Mr. O Mullin.

Two barristers were to visit various city polling booths in a carriage on election day to address the electors and proclaim that the Liberals were everywhere defeated and provoke the riot if necessary.

Open houses and dens where voters were drugged and stupefied with liquor were, he says, provided by the Conservatives in the vicinity of most of the polling booths. Where fixed places were not available walking bars were provided in the shape of boys carrying flasks of liquor.

Twenty-three thousand dollars were disbursed, besides private monies.

He claims a legal gentleman kept voters two or three days in a half-conscious state and from thence drugged them to the poll in Mason Hall and voted them in this condition on the 3rd November, 1904.

Goods Taken From "Castlenock" Were Unearthed In A Backyard

W. Fallen, a youth of 17 years, pleaded guilty this morning to having broken into "Castlenock" the home of Mrs. J F. Dennistoun, Water street and stolen therefrom a miscellaneous collection of household articles.

The boy signified his willingness to be tried by Magistrate Dumble, who reserved judgment until Friday, Sept. 25th.

Fallen was arrested on Wednesday morning about two o'clock when he was asleep in his bed at home.

P. C. Meharry disturbed his slumbers and the rest of the night and all day yesterday he remained in custody. The police found that entrance to "Castlenock" had been gained through the front door and the interior, after being ransacked was left in a state of disorder.

Fallen is said to have had an associate who made good his disappearance having probably got scent of the proximity of the police. P. C Newhall recovered the articles from the Fallen residence where he found them hidden in the ground. There was a small clock, watch and chain, lockets, set of fish forks and many other articles of more or less intrinsic value.

Dr. A. W. MacPherson To Coach The Collegiate Institute Boys

"Get after the boys when they are approaching full growth" is Dr. A W MacPherson's first principle in Rugby, and this will likely be acted on in the near future for the benefit of the boys of the Collegiate Institute at least, for those who want to get into the game.

"If the boys are anxious to learn to play Rugby I would not mind giving them a little assistance," he said, and it is very likely that the game of the grid will take a new life among the Collegiate boys. It is generally conceded that the game is one of the best developers for our youth that can be taken up. Particularly is this true in the case of the more developed boys of whom there are quite a number at the Collegiate.

"They will at least be able to put a team in the junior City League," the doctor said, "and with practise they will give a good account of themselves. The boys will likely turn out in suits—you cannot get them into the game in their street clothes, they will not let themselves out—and practise on Riverside Park. Running and tackling and accurate handling of the ball are fundamental requisites of a good Rugby player and these are the first principles to instill in the beginner. There is not much to be expected from the player who gets into the game after he is full grown. He is awkward and is not sure of himself."

One of the things which Dr. MacPherson will insist on from the boys when they come under his care is to learn to tackle perfectly. The team that can tackle as a team is bound to make good. Tackling is used to advantage in almost every stage of a game, but the players must be sure of themselves and will therefore be sure of their man. "Tackle a man on the run every time, the faster he is going the harder he will go down and if the player knows how to make a perfect tackle he seldom meets with an injury." It will be a pleasure to the Collegiate boys to learn that they will have the services of a Rugbyist of Dr. MacPherson's experience and ability and a large number of them together with the Normal School's young men should take advantage of this opportunity of getting into the game right.

Preparations For Harvest Festival At The Salvation Army Barracks

There is an unusual amount of interest manifested in the Salvation Army's Harvest Festival this year, It is to last four days, commencing Saturday, September 19th and closing Thursday, September 24th. For the week end meetings the corps have secured Brigadier Scott-Porter, of Toronto, who is quite popular locally, he having visited the city once before. Harvest music will be rendered by the band, also songs by the Songster Brigade. The hall is being tastefully decorated, and on Monday evening will be open for exhibit and disposal of good things gathered together.

On Thursday, the 24th, the young people will present a new service, entitled, "The King and Queen of the Harvest."

Gifts of goods or money will be thankfully received and should be left at the local headquarters, 223 Simcoe street.

Major and Mrs. Plant

Major and Mrs. Tom Plant,, from International Headquarters, London, England, musical wonders, world-wide travellers, songsters and instrumentalists, will pay a visit to the local Salvation Army corps on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 25th, 26th and 27th. Readers should not fail to hear these wonder instrumentalists, who will play on the farland, banjo, fairy bells, concertina, solophone, the lute, (which is a ten stringed Bible instrument), Canadian sleigh bells, twenty-one silver toned hand bells, duoitone, and several novelty instruments from many landa, including the aluminum chimes, the most wonderful instrument in the world.

The Major has visited the following countries: Canada, the Transvaal, Germany, Denmark, South Seas, Sweden, New Zealand, Australia, Zululand, Tasmania, Orange River Colony, United States, Newfoundland, Finland, Norway, Holland, Cape Colony, Natal, France, Switzerland, etc.

The Major will give a stirring account of his shipwreck on the west coast of Norway. There is a rich treat in store for those who avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the Major and his musical wife.

The British Bandsman's Gazette says: "Major Plant is without doubt a genius."

The Action Was Dismissed; Verdict Given For Defendant

The case of Mrs. Harriet Bell and Mrs. Perthusia McIlmoyle against their brother, Wm. J. Baker, to set aside the payment of $1,500 made to the defendant by his and their mother, was finished yesterday afternoon at six o'clock, after occupying the attention of the court all day, and for several hours on Tuesday. Judgment was given in favour of the defendant, with costs.

A large amount of evidence was heard yesterday, and the case dragged on throughout the whole day.

Mr. Justice Magee at the conclusion of the evidence commented upon the conduct of the principals in the case, saying that apparently more had been thought of dollars and cents than of the ties of family affection.

His Lordship, in a concise but comprehensive summing up of the case, remarked that he considered the plaintiffs had failed to establish a case. It had to rest on one of two branches, either that the late Mrs. Baker was not of a fit mind to transact business or else that undue influence had been used to make her give $1,500 to her son. His Lordship remarked that he could find nothing in the evidence to show that the late Mrs. Baker was not in sound mind when she gave her son the cheque. On the other hand, he thought that the evidence showed that she possessed an alert mind, capable of transacting business. Neither could he find any evidences of any undue influence having been exerted upon Mrs. Baker. He therefore dismissed the case in favour of the defendant.

ROLLER RINK ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

Block Contest Held—Skidoo Night on Sept. 23rd

The block contest at the roller rink last night was a decided success. It was an entirely new thing in the city, and attracted over three hundred skaters and a big crowd of spectators. The contest provided much amusement for both skaters and spectators.

The prizes were won as follows:

Prize for couple—Miss Porter and Mr. Edmison.

Prize for gentleman—Mr. Clithero.

Skidoo Night will be the next big attraction. It will be on the 23rd of this month (next Wednesday night.) There will be 23 prizes and 23 bands. Everything will be 23.

On the last day of September a grand carnival will be held, of which particulars will appear later.

Prof. Genno has made an improvement to the rink by building a gallery over the offices and skating rooms. It will seat about 200 people and provides good accommodation for the spectators.

Children's EYES

Need the most careful and persistent attention. Early headaches and other troubles frequently emanate from defective eye-sight, which in itself, may have originated in early neglect of the eyes. The trouble is, parents seldom know their children's eyes are weak until it is too late.

School will be opened shortly, you had better bring your children to us, as we make a specialty of examining the eyes of the young and fitting them with the proper lenses.

From there they will proceed to Trenton to inspect the work and progress made.

INDIANS ARE HAVING A SPLENDID EXCURSION

Go From Their Reserve at Chemong to The Upper Waters

Mr. Dan Whetung, Sr., is in the city to-day, and will remain for the athletic meet to-night. He left the Chemong Indian village on the excursion to the upper waters the other day, and with a number of others got off the steamer at Beaverton and returned home to attend to business. Mr. Whetung states that the excursion this year was a complete success, so far as a splendid time was concerned. Many went from Smith and Ennismore and all enjoyed the sail and the scenery. Smoke from surrounding bush fires at times gave the steamer's captain some trouble.

At Rama Indial Reserve the Indians gave a concert to help pay for the steamer and succeeded in securing $15. A concert was also held at Georgina Island, where the sum of $16 was realized. The steamer brought about fifty-five from Jackson's Point, so that an extra sum was secured in that way. The boat is expected to arrive back at Chemong village about six o'clock to-night.

Girlhood Vigor Regained.

The difficulty with most women lies in the fact that while they are anxious about the health and welfare of their family and loved ones, they rarely ever pay attention to themselves until Nature says Stop. To prevent this every woman should take Psychine regularly. It creates an appetite and is the greatest of digestants. Psychine is a boon to run-down, tired and overworked women, for there is LIFE IN EVERY DOSE. Mrs. J. T. Miller of 63 Notre Dame St., Winnipeg, proved this, for she says: "I am thankful for what Psychine has done for me. I was laid up with weakness. Oh, how I suffered. My appetite was very poor and my stomach was greatly disordered. To-day I am strong and well, for Psychine has brought me permanent relief. I feel like a new woman now to what I did before taking Psychine. I feel the vigor of girlhood in my veins once more."

TRY PSYCHINE FREE.

We want every family to know the merits of Psychine and will send every householder a trial bottle free. Cut out coupon and mail to Dr. T. A. Slocum, Ltd., Toronto.

DOMINION ELECTIONS ON OCTOBER 26TH

Cabinet Upsets Custom and Chooses a Monday.

PARLIAMENT IS DISSOLVED

Date Selected For Polling Will Allow Commercial Travelers to Vote and Will Give Ample Time to Call November Session of House—The Weather Is Also Better For Campaign Work.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Monday, Oct. 26, has been definitely decided on as the date for the general elections, with nominations a week earlier, on Oct. 19.

The decision was reached at a meeting of the Cabinet Council yesterday afternoon at which the Ministers in attendance were: Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. R. W. Scott, Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Hon. George P. Graham.

Curiously enough it was probably the last meeting which will be attended by Hon. R. W. Scott, who, ere the Ministers gather together again, will be succeeded, as Secretary of State, by Charles Murphy, K.C.

The proclamation dissolving the present Parliament was signed by His Excellency Earl Grey last night, on the eve of his departure for Regina, and will appear in an extra issue of The Canada Gazette to-day.

Apparently the Ministers were pretty well decided as to the date, for they were only in session for a couple of hours, and disposed of other important business. In all the predictions made as to the date of the elections, the date chosen has not been mentioned for the reason probably that no one supposed that a Monday would be chosen.

In choosing the first working day of the week the Government has been guided by the consideration that it will give commercial men and others whose business keeps them away from home, a chance to put in their vote on Monday, election day being in business circles practically a holiday.

Another consideration is that November weather is ill suited for campaign purposes, and still another, that it will leave ample time for the calling of a November session of Parliament if it is decided to abide by the practice of the past two years.

Evangelists Offended Them.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 17.—A mob of about thirty men descended at an early hour yesterday morning upon the camping ground of the "Irvinites" a religious sect which is holding a convention at Brooklyn. Anne Arundel county, and set fire to two large tents used by the denomination for meeting purposes.

The principal cause of the trouble it is thought was the vigorous preaching of the Irvinites in which they denounced the people of the town generally. Founder Irvine, it is alleged, used some offensive language towards the women at Brooklyn.

Summer Residence Burns.

Barrie, Ont., Sept. 17.—The Raikes residence on the Oro Bridge road, about three miles from Barrie, occupied by Mr. I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., of Toronto, as a summer home, was yesterday totally destroyed by fire. Mr. and Mrs. Hellmuth were down the lake at the time with a party of guests, all of whom lost practically everything, including their personal jewelry.

Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 9.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—In all probability, Monday, Nov. 9, will be Thanksgiving Day.

This also happens to be the King's birthday.

The matter was discussed at yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet, and while no decision was arrived at it is understood that No. 9 was agreed upon as a most suitable date.

Guilty of Assault.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—In the sessions yesterday the jury returned verdicts of guilty against Albert Bell, a 15-year-old youth charged with assault on three-year-old Marjory Mitchell, and against William G. Williams for the abduction of Greta Mabel Kemp, under 16 years, of this city.

Prominent Physician Arrested.

It is alleged he secured $100,000 by means of fraudulent notes.

Strike-Breaker Killed.

North Bay, Sept. 17.—Missil Kushinik, a Russian strike-breaker, killed in the C.P.R. shops from a car falling on him through being unaccustomed to the use of a jack, was buried here. Strikers sent a bouquet of flowers with a sympathetic note.

Diarrhea

There is no need of anyone suffering long with this disease, for to effect a quick cure it is only necessary to take a few doses of

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy

In fact, in most cases one dose is sufficient. It never fails and can be relied upon in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is equally valuable for children and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year.

In the world's history no medicine has ever met with greater success.

PRICE THIRTY-FIVE CENTS.

THE ONTARIO BANK HAS DEFICIT

Shortage of $781,926 92 in Ontario's Assets.

SHAREHOLDERS MUST PAY

Double Liability Call of Fifty Cents on the Dollar Will Be Necessary to Make Up Deficiency—Royal Trust Co. Is Named as Liquidator—Investments Were Unwise—Criticisms Freely Made.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—A shortage of $781,926.92 in the assets of the Ontario Bank will involve a double liability call of at least 50 cents in the dollar on the shareholders. The assets in the balance sheet include bonds and stocks, real estate, past due bills and overdue debts and current bills rediscounted, on all of which estimated allowances for loss are made. Any further loss on the $1,500,000 assets included under these heads would involve a still further call.

Three meetings were held yesterday, one of the shareholders to receive the statement; another of the shareholders to appoint a liquidator, at which the Royal Trust Co. was chosen, and one of the creditors (the Bank of Montreal), at which the appointment of the Royal Trust Co. was confirmed, and will be sent on to the court.

E. R. Wood, in the absence of H.C. Hammond through illness, presided at the meeting of the shareholders. The balance sheet was gone over in detail and weak spots criticized. The 6,600 shares in Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway were regarded by Mr. Wood as the most doubtful on the list. Humbugged and fleeced were the terms applied to Mr. McGill, who bought the stock.

Electrical Development preferred stock counted $50,000. Wild lands at Fort William taken over for debt had been partly sold for $24,000.

Mr. Livingston, Kingston, took exception to the sale of some property at the Limestone City and animadverted on Barlow Cumberland's skill as a valuator. The meeting was satisfied with the explanation of mortgage entanglements given in this connection by Curator Staveri.

The assets of the bank, according to the total realizable value, amount to $162,400.34. The deficit is $3,281,926.92. The deficit absorbs the $1,500,000 capital and leaves a shortage of $781,926.92.

NO USE FOR GRAND JURY.

Judge McMahon and Jurors Agree In Condemning It.

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 17.—There was only one case at the fall Assizes held here before Justice McMahon, and as it was a criminal case it required the presence of a full grand jury for two days, besides a score or so of petit jurors.

Justice McMahon at the opening of the trial spoke strongly in favor of abolishing the grand jury as an obsolete, expensive system.

The grand jury in their report concurred with his lordship on this point.

Try to Burn Family.

New York, Sept. 17.—Failing to receive the sum of $2,000 they had demanded of Santa Reda, a well-to-do real estate dealer, blackmailers for the fourth time in a month sought early yesterday to kill him and his family by setting fire to his home in the upper part of the city. Extraordinary measures were taken to prevent their escape, including the wiring of all the outside doors of the home.

All the family must have perished if a neighbor had not discovered the fire and summoned the firemen.

Bombs For Kaiser.

Paris, Sept. 17.—A despatch from Mulhausen, Alsace-Lorraine, says that the real reason for the German Emperor's sudden abandonment of his excursion into French territory a few days ago was, according to the police, the presence of French anarchists in the district which the Emperor proposed to visit. At the last moment the police learned that two French anarchists had gone to the frontier with bombs.

A Hereditary Job.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Alexander Moffat, postmaster of Pembroke for upwards of 40 years, has retired. His son William has been appointed.

Alexander Moffat, grandfather of the new official, was Pembroke's first postmaster.

Village Was In Danger.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—A fierce bush fire is raging at Edwards, about 14 miles south of Ottawa on the New York & Ottawa Railway.

For a time the village was in danger but a sudden change of the wind saved it.

Struck by Bursting Wheel.

St. Catharines, Sept. 17.—Orman Snider, the 20-year-old son of Ephraim Snider, was probably fatally hurt by the bursting of an emery wheel at the McKinnon dash works.

Smoke Bad at the Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 17.—Smoke, due to forest fires, is becoming very thick in the river.

ASK PROTECTION FROM GOVERNMENT

Canada's Textile Industries Will Die Say Manufacturers.

PRESENT TARIFF TOO LOW

Reading of Report on Import Duties Results In Motion to Have Deputation Wait on Government to Present Needs of Woollen and Cotton Industries—Would Put the I. C. R. Under Commission.

Montreal, Sept. 17.—Chief interest at the resumed meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the Windsor Hotel yesterday centered around the question of how far trade protection is a factor in building up Canadian industries.

The matter was brought up on a report from the tariff committee, which made very special reference to the present condition of the woollen industry in the country, and insisted that, if the factories are not to close their doors forever, it must have immediate attention at the hands of the Government.

The discussion which this report provoked was adjourned until to-day, when the convention will be called upon to decide whether Messrs. Murray, McKay, Simpson and Ellis shall be appointed as a special committee to make representations to the Government in the sense of a demand stronger than has hitherto ever been offered for the protection that it is said the woollen industry absolutely needs if it is not to become a dead interest in the Dominion.

J. Simpson of Valleyfield advocated the sending out of a commission of experts by the Government to enquire into and report upon the differences in costs of manufacture in England and Germany, as compared with Canada. Politicians of both parties and also the farmers, ought to thoroughly understand the manufacturers' position.

The report of the transportation committee, read by Mr. R. Dunn, was accepted with a recommendation that the association place itself on record as being favorable to bringing the Intercolonial Railway under the jurisdiction of the board of Railway Commissioners.

Must Walk Home.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—Harry Kelly will start some time to-day to tramp back to his home in Chicago.

He was engaged in Chicago to operate a moving picture apparatus, and his salary was not forthcoming. The court only awarded him $7. So to-day, leaving his goods and chattels as security for his hotel bill, he will start to walk home to his wife. He expects to reach Chicago in about eight days.

They Worked on Sunday.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—On the Sunday before Labor Day, Simon Day, Simon Shaver and four other workers in L. Shaver's Imperial Suspender Factory at 14 Dalhousie street, were cleaning up the place so as to have the holiday. While busily engaged P. C. Chapman dropped in on the crowd and took their names. In afternoon Police Court yesterday Alexander Patterson fined them each $1 without costs.

May Be No Inquiry.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—Magistrate Denison announced at the conclusion of the preliminary investigation yesterday morning that he would to-day give judgment as to whether Col. J. K. Leslie should stand trial before a judge and jury on the charge of misappropriation of exhibition funds. The proceedings were brief, and at the close Col. Leslie's bail of $20,000 was renewed.

It's a Sign of Wisdom

When a man stops to think seriously on the subject of Life Insurance. It shows that he has a thought for those dependent upon him. The younger you insure the smaller the premiums you pay. We can give you Fifteen and Twenty-Year Endowment Policies, payable to yourself at the end of the period. This is better than banking your money, because your life is insured all the time, and the results at maturity are, in most cases better than bank interest Our results on matured policies are excellent and speak volumes for the management of Canada's

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING PAGE

HARRIERS' BIG MEET TO-NIGHT; HANDICAPS ARE ARRANGED; CROWD WILL BE ENORMOUS

An enormous crowd is promised for the Brock street rink to-night, when the Y. M. C. A. Harriers will put on the biggest programme of athletic sports ever given in Peterborough. With Tom Longboat, Bobby Kerr and Archibald as top liners, and with an entry list of fifty athletes, there should be a grand evening's sport. The 57th Band will see that there are no dull moments, and have prepared a good programme for the event. The sports will start sharp at 8.15 o'clock, and there will in all be twelve events on the programme.

The executive of the Harriers met last night, arranged the handicaps and made final preparations for to-night. It is thought that the handicaps will prove satisfactory and will be such as to provide plenty of sport for the handicap events. The tentries in the mile and three mile would indicate two grand races, and the fact that there are four Indians in the three mile event will add to the interest. Two new "finds" will be uncorked—Irons and Johnston, of Chemong—and Smoke, the other Chemong runner, will also be on hand.

The following officials will have have charge of the events.

Referee, J. H. Crocker.

Inspectors, J. H. Adams and S. W. Collins.

Judges, Dr. A. W. McPherson, R. Hicks and C. G. Graham.

Time-keepers, A. Gibson, W. E. Wasson and E. W. Clarke.

Judge of Walking, Robt. Kerr, of Hamilton.

Starter, Tom Flanagan, manager of I.C.A.C., Toronto.

Clerk of Course, Dick Baker.

Dave Hartley May Try The Port Hope-Toronto Walk Again

Mr. Dave Hartley is anxious to have another try at the walk from Toronto to Port Hope and return. He states that he is now beginning to feel something like his former self, particularly regaining that condition in which he left for Kansas City. He states that he has not felt in the best of shape since the completion of last Thanksgiving Day walk, but he now believes that he can do himself justice. He states that he is willing to try the long walk again, and to undertake to do it in thirty-two hours, which is considerably lower than the record he established for that walk. He also says that he has backing for $500 that he can give Jimmy Reynolds an hour and beat him in that distance.

It is very likely that Dave will see the road before the snow falls, as he is very anxious to prove to the people of his own city that in the last events in which he participated he was not doing himself justice, as he was not in the condition to do so. However, it is not likely that the Port Hope barber will feel like again negotiating the course on which he has twice succumbed in trying to cover.

CITY RUGBY LEAGUE FORMED AND THE OFFICERS ELECTED

At an enthusiastic meeting held last evening in the Y.M.C.A., it was decided to form a city Rugby League and the new organization starts out under most encouraging prospects. There was a large attendance at the meeting and the gathering seemed unanimously of the opinion that a City League would be most beneficial for the game in this city.

The question of entering the intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. and the Inter-Provincial Union was discussed for some time and it was decided that it would be better to drop out of "big league" Rugby for this year at least and to form instead a strong City League which it is expected will do more to develop new material and to create more interest in the game in Peterborough.

The following officers were elected:
Hon. President—R A Morrow.
Hon. Vice-President—V Eastwood.
President—H R H Kenner.
1st Vice-President—J Sullivan.
2nd Vice-President—C A Barber.
Secretary-Treasurer—Jas D Clarke

An executive will be formed consisting of one man from each team, and the constitution and rules of the League will be drawn up as soon as possible. There will be a practise at 3.30 o'clock at Riverside Park on Saturday and a full attendance of all Rugby players is requested.

Sporting Comment

Mr. Garnet Galley, Physical Director of the Port Hope Y. M. C. A., is in the city to attend the Harriers' meet to-night. He is accompanied by a number of Y. M. C. A. boys from Port Hope.

* * * *

"Port Hope will be holding a Harriers' meet in November," states Mr. Garnet Galley, physical director of the Y.M.C.A. at Port Hope, who is in the city to-day to attend the big meet. The athletes in the lakeshore town are anxious to break into track athletics and big preparations will be made.

There is also being agitated the formation of an athletic circuit including Kingston, Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Lindsay and Peterborough, in which meets will be arranged to be held so that athletes in all places may attend all events.

Mr. W. Thompson, physical director of the Kingston Y.M.C.A., is also in the city, and to-morrow, with Mr. Galley and Mr. Colling, will hold a conference relative to this project.

Mr. Galley also states that there is a proposition on foot to organize athletic meets at the above-mentioned places on the same night and have a competition, the results of each event to be telegraphed around the circuit the moment they have been concluded. The Y.M.C.A. winning the greater numbe rof points will win the competition.

FIRST PRACTICE OF THE ROUGH RIDERS

Have Decided to Enter The City Rugby League This Year

The Rough Riders have decided to enter a team in the City Rugby League, and will hold their first practice on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 at the Nicholls Oval. All members of the Rough Rider Hockey Club are requested to attend practice on Saturday.

ABOUT THE RIVERDALE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Explanations Made by Chairman of the Trustee Board and Sec-Treasurer

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir. — There has been quite a controversy and disagreement over the sale of Riverdale Union Sunday School to St. James Methodist Church and I wish to make an explanation and pass a few personal remarks on the subbject, which was considered by the Ministerial Association to-day. In the first place Riverdale Union Sunday School was built and paid for by residents and friends from the surrounding country. The deed of the land was given to the Trustees by Alfred Crawford, deceased, but the trustees afterwards found out that the church was only partly on the Crawford property.

The Sunday School services in the building were discontinued on the 6th of December, 1907, and since that date there has not been any service held. The reason for closing the Sunday school was a lack of attendance and the few going got disheartened and gave up the Sunday School. The majority of the people in the neighbourhood attend church in the city, the city churches being within easy reach.

Recently the St. James Methodist Church wanted to buy the building, and it not being of any use where it is, apparently, a meeting of the trustees and neighbours was called to discuss the proposition.

The result of the meeting was that St. James Methodist Church could have the building for $50.00 on conditions contained in the original deed.

The money was paid into the treasurer's hands and all arrangements made, and, in fact, operations were started to move the building, when a certain party living in the city aroused and started to make trouble by going to a lawyer who got the ministers of the town together, with the result that they did not approve of moving the building to town. They thought it should stay where it is, as far as we are able to learn. At least, they seem to want to make it as awkward as possible for the Methodist people, who have now decided not to bother with it (we presume) on account of the jealousy. It seems to the neighbourhood like the fable of the dog in the manger.

Now, Mr. Editor, several of the religious denominations have tried and been welcomed to the neighbourhood to hold religious services, but all have failed to draw crowds large enough to continue services and each has discontinued. Now the grand opening comes to those who have such faith, but have not tried to come along and take hold of the Riverdale and make a grand success where others have tried and failed, and each and all connected with the school heartily welcome them.

A. SANDERSON,
Chairman Trustee Board.
BRUCE JOHNSTON,
Sec'y-Treasurer of S. S.
Peterborough, Sept. 17, 1908.

WEDDING BELLS

ELLIOTT—EDWARDS

An enjoyable evening was spent at the residence of J. Edwards, 96 South Pearl street, the event being the marriage of Mr. Louis H. Elliott to Miss Irene Edwards of Peterborough by Rev. I. Couch. Miss Edna Hackbush attended the bride, who was attired in a navy blue travelling suit with hat to match. Mr. F. A. Edwards ably supported the groom. After a sumptuous repast the evening was spent in singing and dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will reside in the city.—Hamilton Spectator.

QUIGLEY—MARSHALL

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Rev. H J Keith, 264 Rubidge street, last evening at 7 o'clock, when Mr. Jas. Quigley, Jr., was united in marriage to Miss Myrtle Marshall, both of Salem, Mich. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Keith, and the young people were unattended.

MARTIN—SORBY

St. John's Church this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding, the contracting parties being Miss Lucy Herald, eldest daughter of Mrs. Chas. Sorby, of Gore's Landing, Ont., and Mr. Frank H. Martin, of the Electrical Development Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., formerly of Pearl River, N.Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. Major, rector of All Saints' Church, Meity. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Donald Herald, of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, and wore a gown of embroidered voile over taffeta caught with pearls, wearing the conventional veil and orange blossoms and carrying a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Herald, and her cousin, Miss Nina Borradale, both wearing delicate pink silk mulle gowns with black picture hats and carrying bouquets of pink asters. The duties of best man were performed by Mr. Geo. Martin, Pearl River, N.Y., brother of the groom. The ushers were Mr. J. Martin, Pearl River, and Mr. R. House, of the Electrical Development Co, Niagara Falls.

While the register was being signed Miss Hazel Bell, Toronto, sang very sweetly "On Fair, Oh Sweet, Oh Holy."

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch; to the bridesmaids rings, to the ushers and best man matrix stick pins. The young couple received many handsome gifts, among which were a cabinet of silver and carving set from the Electrical Development and Niagara Power Co., and an electrical brass clock from the Ontario Power Co.

Th eyoung couple left on the 4.38 train for Montreal and Quebec, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue broadcloth and hat to match.

After the honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Martin will take up residence at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Delicatessen

A Choice and Complete Stock is what people want nowadays. We have it. We are always particular what we buy in the country. We don't buy all the farmer has on his farm to get it a little cheaper, but we take good care and select the best and pay the farmer a little more, than we give our customers the choicest at a reasonable price and will not be undersold by anyone. Our feeders and buyers are experienced men and our meat is slaughtered in one of the best abattoirs in the County of Peterborough. You will always get what you ask for from us. Choice stock of Beef, Mutton, Lamb, Pork, Veal, Sausage and Bologna always on hand. Our Grocery in connection is stocked up with first-class goods. A trial order will convince you. Special attention given to children. Our motto—Goods delivered to all parts of the city without any disappointment.

KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM

Or Your Hair Will Fall Out Till You Become Bald

Modern science has discovered that dandruff is caused by a germ that digs up the scalp in scales, as it burrows down to the roots of the hair, where it destroys the hair's vitality, causing falling hair, and ultimately baldness. After Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, discovered the dandruff germ, all efforts to find a remedy failed until the great laboratory discovered was made which resulted in Newbro's Herpicide. It alone of all other hair preparations kills the germ. Without dnadruff, hair grows luxuriantly. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. McDermid & Jury and the Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

Opening Song.
Prayer.
Shield's March.
Southall March.
Song, with full chorus, "Tell Mother I'll be There," by Bandsman Brown.
Selection—Jerusalem.
Bible Reading—Bandsman Gandy.
Melbourne March.
Instrumental Quartette—"To Thee O Lord."
March—Plymouth.
Hymnal Selection—Adeste Fidelis, God Save the King.

Bandmaster Greene will lead the band. All the members are requested to be present, wearing their red tunics and white caps. The programme will last about an hour.

ARRANGING A BARN DANCE

The return of the Barn Dance into favour among the young people suggests the idea of describing, for the benefit of the uninitiated, a few of the details which make the old time Barn Dance so popular when carried out on the usual plan. The following is taken from a leading journal and may help a little in enlightening the young folk in the matter:

For invitations use Manila paper cut in squares and printed by hand in red or green ink. If there is an artist in the family, a few barn swallows would look seasonable in one corner of the card, as the barn dance and mayhap a barn refectory will be the leading features. The orthography for these notes should be pronouncedly "reformed" in character, the following being a hasty specimen:

"Dere Sue,—Al the folks hereabouts air goin' to convene and jine in a farmers' festival up to my house on the afternoon of Thursday, Aug. 6. I hope you kin cum. If so, plainly ware your sunbunnit, oakker dress and apern. We don't want any city fixin's at we kin help it. It's goin' to be a genny-wine country frolic. Your affectionate,

"TILDY."

As the invitations suggest, only country costumes are worn. The girls look bewitching in their gayly tinted sunbonnets and Dutch necked dresses of ankle length, made gay with ruffles or little tea aprons.

The men will, of course, wear blue jeans, coarse shirts and broad-brimmed hat of rough straw, with boots for the courageous.

To give colour to the scene there should be several couples dressed as milkmaids and dairymen, with buckets of rosy apples or cider "to piece on."

If given late enough in the summer a hay rack, half-filled, should be sent for such of the guests as do not object to being seen thus en route.

The amusement is dancing and games, with a specially erected platform for those who cannot manage it on the lawn. Polkas, reels and country dances are preferred to waltzes. A portion of the programme at least should be made up of these.

The supper is a real rural "spread." Candles in candlesticks made from large carrots form part of the table trimmings. For side dishes to hold the relishes hollow out large cucumbers and line with tinfoil.

Fried chicken and waffles makes a delicious main course for a rural menu. When, however, it is impracticable to serve hot dishes, out-of-doors, substitute cold sliced chicken, bread and butter, milk biscuit, cottage cheese, honey, jam and jelly doughnuts, home-made cake, cookies, milk, buttermilk or cider.

AN INDIAN IS FINED FOR BEING DRUNK

George Taylor Pleads Guilty Before Magistrate Edmison

The trial of George Taylor, the Indian accused of being drunk on the Chemong Reserve, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Taylor pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs by His Worship Magistrate Edmison.

OBITUARY

MR STEPHEN HOLLAND

The death occurred this morning at 10.30 o'clock of Mr. Stephen Holland, 228 Carlisle avenue, a well known citizen of Peterborough. Mr. Holland was for many years proprietor of the Southern Hotel, and since that time has been proprietor of the American and Royal Hotels. He recently disposed of the latter to Mr. Eastwood.

Surviving are his wife and three children, Charles, Leo and Pearl. His brothers are, Frederick, of the Steamer Majestic, and Charles, of Peterborough, and his sisters are Mrs. P. Hickey, city, and Mrs. Jno. Walsh, of North Dakota. He was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters, under the auspices of which society he will be buried. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

TRACKLESS TROLLEY NOT A DREAM

Fourteen Being Installed in Europe—Electric Coin Counter Invention for Banks

ELECTRICITY IN APPLES

Electric News Service

Schenectady, N.Y., Sept, 17 — The trackless trolley is not an idle dream, as fourteen of them are being very successfully operated in Europe.

In general outline and construction the trackless trolley looks not unlike its prototype which needs must keep on a track. The same electric motors drive the new trolley but the electricity is gathered from the overhead trolley wire by a flexible connection. The trolley wheel runs on top of the trolley wire and is connected to the car by a wire cable. The vehicle is steered with a wheel like an automobile. The cars carry thirty passengers.

A number of Pennsylvania capitalists are planning to operate a trackless trolley line from Chattanooga to the top of Waldens Ridge, Tenn., a distance of fifteen miles.

So far the trackless trolley has seen its greatest development in France.

TO GIVE A CONCERT AT EXHIBITION

Salvation Army Band to be There Tonight Instead of on Market Square

The Salvation Army band will give their concert to-night in front of the main building at the Fair grounds instead of on the Market Square. The programme published in yesterday's issue will be presented, and those who are present are assured of a splendid musical treat.

TRAINS BRING VISITORS TO THE FAIR

A Large Crowd Arrived on Early Trains

The Fair visitors began arriving this morning on the early trains, and the two lines brought in large numbers. Havelock and Norwood and those eastern parts were well represented by the crowd the C.P.R. local left in the city. Other large contingents came in from both the Port Hope and Belleville lines. The G.T.R. station wore the appearance of unusual business as the visitors, side-show people, hawkers and special acrobats arrived with their paraphernalia. It augured well for the success of the Fair.

Do not expect your chicks to thrive if they are annoyed with lice. Empire Poultry Duster exterminates all vermin. No trouble to use, simply put in poultry dust bath. 25 cents per box.

THRESHING GOING ON IN DOURO

Crops Up to the Average—Horses Sell at Good Prices.

Examiner Special.

Douro, Sept. 14.—Harvest is over now and crops are quite up to the mark. All early sowing is turning out well with those that have threshed.

A large number took advantage of the holiday last week and went to the different picnics, or the Toronto Exhibition.

Mr. Frank Moher has been appointed commissioner to expend $200 on the fourth line leading to St. Joseph picnic grounds and has a number of teams and men straightening the curves and cutting down a hill known as Casey's Hill.

The water tank between the church and Warsaw road is a great advantage to the travelling public, and the villagers say if it was not for the tank, stock in the vicinity would suffer for the want of water just now as the wells are very low.

The potato crop is rather poor owing to the long dry spell. Apples are an excellent crop and are very low in price.

Horses are selling at a very high figure. Some farmers have got handsome prices for their horses lately.

Expert To Advise Board Of Works Re Outfall Sewer

Proposal To Construct One on Park Street—Romaine Street Sewer Trouble

THE PARK STREET DRAIN

A meeting of the Board of Works Committee of the City Council was held last night and among other things discussed were the Romaine street sewer and the proposed new outfall sewer on Park street. In connection with the latter Mr. Chipman, a Toronto expert will be brought to Peterborough to determine the advisability of constructing it.

The following members were present, Chairman H Phelan, Aldermen Elliott, Buller, McIntyre, Morgan, Bradburn and Mayor Rush.

Mr. Brooks, Sophia street, was present in connection with a sewer which passes his place. He has been paying taxes on it for the past two or three years. It is no use to him as he has no water and he did not think it fair that he should be taxed. He said he had applied two years ago for water and had not got it yet.

The engineer said that the Sophia street sewer was an outfall for the Rogers street sewer.

Ald. Buller moved that the Water Commissioners be requested to put the water down Sophia street. This was seconded by Ald. Morgan.—Carried.

Mr. Brooks also wanted to be reimbursed for the taxes he had paid during the past two years. This, however, the Board could not do.

Street Watering

Mr. Melaney in connection with his contract on the water waggon, said that he was only getting $2 per day for watering the south division and that was not enough to feed his horses and keep himself. He said he had done his work faithfully and by so doing he had not been able to earn a cent any other way. His contract was $400 for the season, but owing to the very dry weather, he was called upon to do much more work, than anyone had anticipated last spring. Last year Mr. Melaney's section cost $450 and was several blocks smaller. There was no other tenderer for the southern division last spring and he was entitled to some consideration.

The aldermen thought that if one man was given an increase they all would want it. The matter was left over for the time being.

It was moved by Ald. Buller and Ald. Elliott, that the city expropriate 14 feet of the Chamberlen Estate on Louis street, and that a sidewalk be built and that the chairman be authorized to engage an engineer to make a plan, the chairman, Ald. Buller and Elliott to be a committee to wait on the Chamberlen Estate in reference to the matter.

Proposed Sewer

The Board of Works has been taking up the question of a new outfall sewer down Park street, and the chairman has been in communication with Engineer Chipman of Toronto, in connection with plans and the cost of the sewer. Mr. Chipman wrote that he would prefer to come to Peterborough, and go over the ground with the Board of Works. The cost of the plans depends largely upon the magnitude of the work. The Board considered the matter and finally decided to have the engineer come up.

Moved by Ald. Buller and Ald. Bradburn that the chairman be authorized to communicate with Mr. Chipman and arrange with him to meet the Board of Works and go over the ground with them to consider the advisability of preparing plans and a report and to give an idea of the cost, Mr. Chipman to come to Peterborough, on the evening of the 24th.—Carried.

Park Street Drain

Complaints are still made about the Park street drain not being satisfactory. The trouble appears to be in the G. T. R. culvert.

Ald. Bradburn and Ald. Buller moved that the city clerk write to the G. T. R. authorities, and see if something cannot be done to overcome the difficulty.

Ald. Buller and Ald. Bradburn moved that the city clerk be instructed to write the reeve of Monaghan, re the cleaning of the township's end of the Park street drain.

Romaine Street Sewer

The Romaine street sewer was brought up again for discussion, and it appears that all the aldermen are in favour of taking the old sewer up and relaying it. This sewer has been a bone of contention ever since it was started and it is very unsatisfactory. There seems nothing for it now but a new sewer. If this is done a twelve-inch pipe will be put down instead of a nine inch pipe.

In the meantime the board will get Mr Chipman's advice when he comes

LOCATION OF OMEMEE STATION

Soldier Boys Home From Camp—Some Church Notes.

Examiner Special

Omemee, Sept. 15.—Never was there a more anxious time with citizens and farmers. They are praying for rain The root crops are wilting down and animals are suffering for want of pasture.

There is not much sickness around Omemee. It is a pleasure to report Mr. J D Thornton is able to resume his duties again after being ill for a few days.

The Peterborough Show will attract large crowds this week, several having gone to the city this year.

Holiday visitors have all returned to resume their duties, excepting those who are so attracted and attached to our navigable and beautiful river.

Every available house in Omemee is filled and most people employed, who are willing to accept work.

The G.T.R. station is being located at Sturgeon street. A cement platform is being laid and trains will stop there about the middle of the month.

The soldier boys have returned from Kingston camp with no casualties and they all speak in terms of highest praise of the rations and treatment. One of the most pleasing and attractive pastimes was the beautiful military appearance of the 57th Regiment marching into quarters early in the morning, accompanied by their magnificent band.

The pulpit of the Presbyterian church was occupied by the Rev. Mr. Peckover on Sunday. He gave one of his excellent and impressive sermons and will occupy one of the pulpits in Peterborough next Sunday. All who have the pleasure of hearing him preach will doubtless be pleased.

The harvest thanksgiving services conducted by Rev. Mr. Allen, Millbrook, in the Anglican church here were highly profitable. There were beautiful decorations of flowers, plants and vegetables. The music was delightful.

THRESHING IN APSLEY DISTRICT

Too Much Dry Weather There—Churches Hold Successful Social.

Examiner Special:

Apsley, Sept. 12.—Threshing is now the order of the day, the hum of the machines being heard everywhere.

Rain is needed very badly as the pastures are very badly burnt with the heat and frost.

The United Church of Apsley held a basket social and entertainment at Apsley last Friday evening which proved very successful. The proceeds for the evening were $37.00.

Mr. Alex. McIlvena has purchased at least 50 chickens and intends supplying the village with fowl in the future.

Miss Dovie Mann is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Enau Tucker.

Mr Zack Tucker, Jr., was very ill for a couple of days last week, having a slight attack of pleurisy, but was able to attend the social on Friday evening.

Mr. Ross Hales left on Tuesday for Lindsay to visit his aunt, Mrs. J Mills, for a few weeks.

Mr. T Tanner died on Saturday morning after a long illness.

Rev B C Garbutt left this week to visit his relatives at Madoc.

Mr M Kennedy has closed his cottage on Loon Lake for this season.

APSLEY MAN CAUGHT A PARROT

Roads Being Repaired in Anstruther and Chandos.

Examiner Special.

Apsley, Sept. 15.—Miss D Mann is the guest of her mother, Mrs. S Tucker.

Mr. Thomas Gallagher, of this vicinity, while on his way home from Coe Hill last week succeeded in catching a fine parrot which must have escaped from its cage. It is of a beautiful green colour and a splendid talker.

Miss McGraw of Toronto, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Staples, for a few days.

The many friends of Mr. B Lean will be pleased to hear of his recovery. Mr. Lean, who is a barber by trade spent the summer at Mount Julian, but on account of a severe attack of heart failure, he returned home a short time ago and since then he has been very ill, but the doctor visited him last week and reports him on the road to recovery.

Mr. Wm Scott was the guest of Mr. A McIlvena last Sunday.

The men are busy repairing the roads in Anstruther and Chandos, Mr. Wm. Hales having charge of the east road, Mr. T Stephens the north Anstruther road, and Mr. J Hales the Loon Lake Road.

Rev. Mr. McKenzie preached his farewell sermon here last Sunday. Wherever he goes he takes with him the good wishes of the Apsley people. All join in wishing him every success in life.

Zam-Buk Cures a Case Which for Two Years Has Defied Every Remedy Tried—A Farmer's Grateful Testimony

No case of eczema, skin disease or ulceration should be despaired of until Zam-Buk has been applied. The case of Mr. Francis Renoit, St. Anne's, Man., is a powerful illustration of Zam-Buk's efficacy. He says: "I suffered from eczema for two years and tried a great number of remedies. None of them, however, seemed to do me any good.

"The ailment was mostly in my legs and both these were actually raw from the knees down. A small sample box of Zam-Buk was given to me, and even so small a quantity as that did me a little good. I then obtained a proper supply, and by the time I had used a few boxes I was completely cured."

Zam-Buk differs from ordinary salves and embrocation in containing no animal oil or fat. It is compounded from rich, healing, herbal essences, and is an ideal, natural combination of power and purity. It is highly antiseptic and instantly kills bad ill and disease germs which, settling into wounds and skin diseases, eat up festering, blood poison, etc.

For cuts, burns, bruises, ulcers, abscesses, pimples, boils, skin eruptions, scalp sores, spreading sores, children's skin troubles, chafing sores, etc., Zam-Buk is unequalled. It also cures piles. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price; 3 boxes for $1.25.

By CECILY ALLEN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Daniel Werner had decreed that his daughters should be man haters. Marriage should represent to them slavery. To this end he selected for each of his daughters a career which, in the estimation of Mr. Werner, was the infallible antidote for romance.

To all of this his daughters openly subscribed—and inwardly rebelled. For Margaret, who had a commanding figure even at seventeen and a full, mellow voice, he selected the profession of the law. Had Margaret been allowed to choose for herself, she would have studied sociology and gone down into the slums to save the souls of little children.

For Janet, who looked like his Uncle Ezra, a noted upstate physician, he chose medicine. Janet crawled under the bed on Fourth of July and turned white and sick at the sight of blood, but if there was anything in physical resemblance she would outgrow these foolish ideas and surely she was her great Uncle Ezra in petticoats.

For Lucille, because of her dreamy nature and studious air, he chose music. She looked the musician—and therefore she could become one. He did not know that her dreams were all woven around baby faces and the one music for which she would ever care was a lullaby.

Having thus arrogated the privileges and responsibilities of fate, he proceeded to earn the money necessary to provide the careers—and Cupid sat back and laughed. This is the sort of task that appeals to Dan Cupid.

Margaret studied law by day and by night read Janet's medical books. Just before she graduated she had a "call." Oddly enough, the same call reached one James Borden—and together they went as missionaries to the poor whites of the south, where Margaret's medical knowledge, gained vicariously through Janet, proved ten times as valuable as her training in the law, which had come high.

Janet graduated and obediently joined her great-uncle Ezra, for her father decreed that she should step into the family practice. In a short time Great-uncle Ezra wrote that Janet's pies were the only ones that could touch the standard set by his dear mother, and he was glad to say that young Bernard

"I AM GOING TO HIM AND TELL HIM THAT I LOVE HIM."

Kelly, the newly elected member of congress from the Steenth district, recognized a good pie and a pretty girl when he saw them.

For all this treason of her sisters did Lucille pay dearly. She was sent to the severest professors, who snapped her knuckles and pinched her tired arms when her interest in music flagged.

These professors all agreed that she had the musical temperament, the soul, but she lacked technique. They did not appreciate that it was simply the womanly soul of the girl seeking expression in chords and runs.

Patiently she made the rounds of studios, concerts, lectures and recitals. Obediently she read the masses of musical literature which her father provided for her delectation and advancement.

But when Harry Wall happened to meet her on the avenue—and this happened more and more frequently as the season advanced—she smiled and forgot the miseries of acquiring a career.

Harry Wall was nothing if not sincere, and in time he refused to confine himself to chance meetings on the avenue. He demanded the right to call upon Lucille under her father's roof and was repulsed by the supreme maker of careers.

Lucille went to Europe to finish her studies. She sailed on the first boat scheduled for Hamburg after young Wall's interview with her father. And she carried to Germany not the memory of a father's blessing, but the recollection of a paternal frown.

Her mother went with her and settled her with a dependable "frau" in an immaculately kept home under the shadow of the professor's roof. The professor ranked first in the musical world as a maker of piano virtuosos.

And the world which had known Lucille Werner, the world which had held struggling American musicians, fretful American teachers and callous American critics, thought of her only as a pawn on the artistic chessboard, which the great professor in the obscure German town was moving at his will.

But all the while another great chess player, Dan Cupid, was pitting his skill against that of the maker of virtuosos. For Lucille Werner was not the sort of girl who forgets. In her one letter to Harry Wall from Germany she wrote:

"You must never write to me again. So long as my father is paying for my education and supporting me, I shall obey him. I will become a great musician. By my artistic success I will repay him for all the money he has spent on me and the disappointment he has suffered through my sisters. But when I am my own mistress, when I am a great player, I shall marry you. You will be my manager. I will have the career to please my father and a husband to please myself. If you do not hear from me do not fret. I will be simply waiting."

Over in the obscure little German town Lucille was regarded as a prodigy. Never had the great professor seen such a capacity for work. He sent glowing reports to the maker of careers, who showed the letters to his wife and remarked with swelling chest that they had one daughter who took after her father.

"I knew a career and such opportunities as I am giving her would knock young Wall's asinine romance into a cocked hat."

And what of young Wall?

He was making some talk in his own world too. The great electrical trust for which he was working out inventions and improvements realized that it had found a prize worth holding.

Here was a man who would work eighteen or nineteen hours a day for their interests. He must not slip into the clutches of any rival concern.

For, you see, it was only Dan Cupid who knew that every time Harry Wall scored a fresh triumph, every time his employers advanced him in position and salary, he would set his lips a trifle more firmly and mutter under his sharply drawn breath: "And she thought I'd be the managerial husband of a musical star. I'll show that father of hers!"

Margaret had just pulled her missionary husband through a dangerous attack of mountain fever, and Janet had just given a most brilliant dinner at her husband's Washington home, when the maker of careers received his third and most conclusive jolt. It came in the form of an anonymous letter, mailed in the obscure town where Lucille was performing such prodigies of labor.

"I presume you understand that to marry a German officer your daughter must have a dot of at least $20,000. I write this in the most friendly spirit. It is well she should not build air castles—as American girls will."

Mr. Werner cabled to Lucille without wasting time on investigation:

"Return by S. S. Franz Gustave. Passage prepaid."

She sat with hands folded, facing the maker of careers.

When he had finished speaking she arose, and the woman who stood before him was a new Lucille.

"Now I have something to say. I meant to be a great artist to please you, to repay you, but you by your insane distrust have ruined my career. Six months more and I would have been ready to face the critics. Six months more and your dream would have been realized, but you have shamed me before my master. By now his little world knows it all, and I refuse to go back. I never saw Lieutenant Heuser but twice. What he may have said in the drawing room of the American consul was no fault of mine—and on such a rumor you built your mountain of distrust. I did not love, I did not even admire the lieutenant—because I did love, I do love, some one else, and now—because by your own hand, by saying that you will never raise your finger again for this ungrateful daughter—you have cast me off without a hearing, I am going to him and tell him that I love him."

And, leaving the maker of careers filled with the humiliation of self wrought defeat, she went to her room and wrote to Harry Wall:

"Come. The door of my father's house is open to you. My career is ended. I ask only to share yours!"

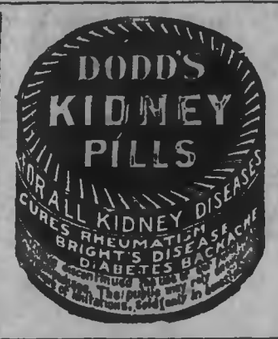
PRICE THIRTY-FIVE CENTS.



COVERING BIBLES.

Skins of 100,000 Animals Are Used Every Year By One Press.

Probably the most ancient Bible printing works in the world is the Oxford (Eng.) University Press, which dates back to the fifteenth century. At the present time this press is turning out Bibles at the rate of over 1,000,000 a year, in 150 different languages, ranking from Eskimo to Indian. Moreover, Bibles of all sizes are produced, from the large folio Bible for the reading desk down to the smallest Bible which weighs only 8 ounces.

There are two departments to this famous Press—the Learned Press and the Bible Press. The Learned Press employs about 300 persons, chiefly compositors and proof-readers, and sets up in type the numerous classical, English, and Oriental works for which the Press is famous. The average production of the Learned Press is now about one book for every working day—that is to say, about 320 a year. At the Bible Press 400 persons, with sixty modern printing machines, produce on an average 3,000 copies of the Bible, not to mention Prayer-Books, every day. The wholesale binding work is done in London, and the skins of 100,000 animals are used every year for the covers of Oxford Bibles alone.

One of the feats of the Clarendon Press was performed in connection with the Caxton Exhibition in 1877, which was opened by Mr. Gladstone. The list of Bibles was headed by the first Bible printed (1450-3?), and ended with one printed and bound within the twelve hours which preceded Mr. Gladstone's speech. The printing at Oxford actually began at two in the morning from movable type. Exactly one hundred copies, each containing 1,052 pages, were printed and numbered consecutively; the sheets were artificially dried and sent up to London by the nine o'clock morning express.

They were at once bound at the Oxford University Press Bindery in London, in Turkey morocco, with gold lettering and the arms of the university on the side, and a parcel containing ten copies was taken to the exhibition by two o'clock in the afternoon. No wonder Mr. Gladstone said this feat might be called "the climax and consummation of printing."

FINDS OLD MASTER.

London Barber Picks Up Treasure In Job Lot at Auction Rooms.

Nobody would accuse barbers as a class of being art connoisseurs, but Soho possesses the exception in Charles Crivelli, of 23 Batemen street, W.

Mr. Crivelli had a slice of luck the other day. He was at Debenham's auction rooms, in King street, Covent Garden, buying some odd lots of furniture, when a "job line" of four ordinary-looking dirty and unframed paintings were put up. They were knocked down to Mr. Crivelli for a few shillings. When he got home the barber connoisseur casually examined his purchases. Three of the paintings obviously were of no artistic value, and, from the outsider's point of view, it might have been thought from the fourth, the dirtiest of all, was worth the least of all.

But Mr. Crivelli did not jump to that conclusion. He asked his wife to carefully clean the back of the painting. This she did, and, first of all, a well-known pawnbroker's label appeared. After this had been washed off, the letter "L," in white paint, faintly showed. With renewed cleansing gradually was traced the name of L. Giordano.

The lucky discoverer of the painting has no doubt whatever, after consulting with experts, that it is the work of Luca Giordano, the last great painter of the Neopolitan school. Giordano, who was known as "Fa-Presto," or "Make Haste," from the rapidity with which he worked, was born in Naples in 1632, the son of a poor painter, and died in 1705. He studied under Spagnoletto and Pietro de Cortona, and afterward acquired a considerable reputation. In his later years he was invited to Spain by Charles II., who bestowed upon him titles and wealth.

The picture now in the possession of Mr. Crivelli is 51 1-2 inches by 17 inches, and is entitled "Pan and the Sleeping Nymphs." It represents Pan, a huge, masculine figure with pointed ears, drawing the veil from the form of the nymph, who lies in repose on a grassy bank—a particularly lovely and graceful study.

A Soldier-Legislator.

Captain Sinclair, the Secretary of Scotland, is one of the warriors of the House. He saw active service in the Soudan and won a medal with clasps. In times of peace he acted as A. D. C. to the Earl of Aberdeen in Dublin, and afterwards in Ottawa served the same nobleman, his future father-in-law, in the capacity of private secretary. In Canada, his wife, the Lady Marjorie Gordon, enjoyed the distinction of being the youngest editress in the world. She brought out a juvenile magazine under the title of Wee Willie Winkie.

Province Seeks More Power.

The Deputy Attorney-General of British Columbia has gone to London to argue several important cases before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. One of them involves the right of the British Columbia courts to try divorce cases, and another the right of a provincial Legislature to pass legislation imposing an educational test for immigrants similar to the Natal Act. The Attorney-General intended to have gone, but was detained by public business.

Prizes For Large Families.

At the Lincolnshire Agricultural Society's show, which was held at Sleaford, prizes were awarded to the agricultural laborers who had brought up the largest number of children without receiving parish relief. The best record was shown by George Farmery, who has brought up seventeen children out of twenty-three that were born.

AFRICAN MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.

Brides' Parents Are Sole Arbiters of Future Husband.

The marriage customs of West and Southwest Africa are in many cases peculiar. They differ, of course, in different tribes, but have broad lines in common. A coastal tribe always considers itself superior to an inland tribe, and even its meanest member claims to rank higher than the most powerful man of an up-country tribe. A man may marry any woman he likes, of any tribe, it being held that he gives her his own status, whatever that may be; but it is almost unheard of for a woman to marry "beneath" her. As a result, some of the women of the most superior coast tribes, like the Mpongwe, look to marriage with white men, and frequently attain to it. The parents on both sides rule absolutely in the matter of marriage between natives. First the would-be bridegroom goes empty-handed to obtain the consent of the bride's father. Then he goes again with gifts, and the father calls in other members of the family to view the gifts. On the third visit he carries trade gins (a sufficiently poisonous compound, generally from Hamburg). In the old days it was palm toddy or wine. On this occasion he pays over an instalment of the dowry. On the fourth visit he takes his parents with him, and is permitted to see the girl herself. When next he calls his prospective mother-in-law provides a feast for himself and his relatives, the host and hostess eating nothing, but taking a hand in the drinking. Finally, the man goes with gifts and the balance of the dowry, and takes the woman away. On arrival at his village she is welcomed with singing and a strenuous dance called "nkanja." For three months the bride is not required to do any hard work, but after that she buckles to with his other wives at gardening and carrying burdens. Polygamy is general, and the number of a man's wives limited only by his resources in the matter of paying dowries. The man may divorce his wife whenever he chooses, and for almost any reason. But it is rare for a woman to be able to obtain divorce at her own wish. Divorce entails the return of the dowry.

PORTMANTEAUX FOR HIRE.

Secret of Many-Labelled Trunks Is Very Simple After All.

When you see a man at a railway station with a portmanteau like a patchwork quilt, it does not necessarily follow that he has traveled to all the places suggested by the labels thereon, although he may like you to think so. Portmanteaux profusely decorated in this manner can be hired; and there is a maker near Buckingham Palace who lends out hundreds during the season for from 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. for a fortnight.

"It is a curious fact," he says, "that the older the bag the better the price paid for the loan of it. Covered with the labels of the stations and hotels of continental and seaside and country health resorts, these traveling accessories are in great demand.

"Some portmanteaux I have with labels from Constantinople to Kingussie in Scotland, and from Barnstaple to Berlin. These are the ones sought after most by the holiday-maker, who can really become a full-fledged globe-trotter, or at least continental tourist, for half a crown.

"People living in flats patronise the second-hand trunk and kit-bag dealer more than any other class of householder. They have, of course, so little space to spare for these articles, which only come into use, in the average London household, once or twice a year."

Queen Opposes "Sheath."

The Queen has set her face strongly against the more extravagant forms of the Directoire craze. Her Majesty has caused it to be known that any woman offending against good taste in this direction will not be received at court functions. The Queen was very emphatic in her denunciation of the mode to her Ladies in Waiting, describing the style as immodest. A certain titled lady distinguished for her beautiful figure who displayed it at Ascot in a Directoire sheath, was made to feel the Queen's displeasure sharply. The Ladies in Waiting have been also commanded to notify other titled women of Her Majesty's displeasure with costumes which outline too boldly the figures of the wearers. At a big ball three ladies wearing such gowns could scarcely make their courtesies to the Queen, and at supper they found much difficulty in sitting down. So displeased was the Queen at this unpleasant exhibition, that she expressed her indignation openly.

SLEEP
Is More Important Than FOOD

No one can live without sleep for a whole week, while Dr. Tanner and others have fasted forty days. Restful sleep is necessary to do good work—you can't rest in a hammock, or on a spring bed that sags to the centre—your body should be supported throughout, and yet be on a level surface, which yields to every move.

A "Star" Felt Mattress and a "Banner" Spring fill this bill exactly—will give you comfort and rest—will prevent that tired feeling next morning.

The two cost less than a cheap hair mattress, and are good for an ordinary lifetime—no cleaning—no repairs.

LIGHTHOUSE FOR HOME.

Mary Williams to Have Leasowe For Rest of Her Days.

The Mersey docks and harbor board recognized the work of a British heroine of whom little has hitherto been known.

Mrs. Mary Williams has for ten years been the keeper of the historic lighthouse at Leasowe, in the estuary of the Mersey. She is said to be the only woman lighthouse keeper in the world.

It has been decided to abandon the lighthouse, but the dock board has agreed to allow Mrs. Williams to tenant it for the remainder of her life, to give her a small pension and to allow her to earn a livelihood by showing visitors over the structure and making tea for them.

Leasowe lighthouse was built in 1763, having for its foundation a cargo of cotton from a wrecked ship.

Mrs. Williams took over the care of it with her husband twenty years ago, but her husband died ten years later. Since then the brave widow has been in charge alone, and on several occasions, notably last year in the case of a schooner stranding in the daytime, Mrs. Williams has "manned" an open boat and sailed it to the wreck, bringing the crew ashore.

She can sail a boat in the roughest weather better than most men.

"Alec."

So he is known to his intimate friends. Other people refer to him as Mr. George Alexander, one of the best dressed, handsomest, and cleverest actors on the British stage. And yet when he made his debut many years ago, a sister of Mrs. Kendal described him as "a raw, awkward lad, with long red wrists and rather a foolish smile." Mr. Alexander made his first appearance in a piece called "Snowball," and in order to do so he ran away from home. Many a week did he spend, at the cost of the work which brought him a livelihood, in perfecting himself for the small part, but when he set foot on the stage fright gripped him, and he found himself unable to say a word. By the second night, however, his courage returned, and all went well.

One of Bryon's Schoolfellows.

Sir John Tollemache Sinclair, who has just made an offer to the French Government of one of Murillo's masterpieces, has an interesting family association with Byron. His father was a schoolfellow of the poet, and not very long ago the present baronet, who is now in his eighty-third year, erected a beautiful memorial of Byron on the outer wall of No. 8 St. James's street, London, where for a time the poet had lodgings. It consists of a marble portrait in high relief, surrounded by a wreath of laurels, and is the work of an Italian sculptor.

MEDICINE MAN'S SECRET.

Burmese Cure Cobra Bits But Will Not Tell How.

Every one knows, of course, that the bite of the Indian cobra is fatal. But what Europeans do not actually know is whether or not the natives of India really possess the cures they claim to have, both for cobra bite and for hydrophobia caused by the bite of a mad dog. A few years ago an Indian civilian in Burma strolled out with his gun in the evening. When scarcely a hundred yards from the zayat (or shelter) in which he was camping, S— was bitten in the leg by a cobra, which he promptly shot.

He at once returned to the zayat and scrawled a pencil note to be carried by his orderly to his chief, the Deputy Commissioner, and then resigned himself to the attentions of a couple of Burmese medicine men who happened to be passing the night there, and to the death which he accepted as absolutely inevitable. Meantime, his superior officer proceeded direct to headquarters on receipt of the news to seal up the unfortunate man's effects, after which he set out for the zayat to see to the burial of his subordinate. On the road he met the "dead man" comfortably jogging along towards headquarters, quite recovered. The Burmese medicine men had scarified the wound and rubbed a certain paste into it. They had also given the patient certain infusions to drink, and had cured him. Nothing, however, would induce them to give away the secret of their treatment.

Beyond Reason.

A Scottish singer named Wilson, who was being trained for professional work, sang a love song with exquisite quality of voice, but with insufficient passion and expression. His teacher told him he must put more feeling into it and sing as if he were really in love.

"Eh, man," he replied, "hoo can I do that and me a marriet man?"—Tit-Bits.

Henrik Ibsen.

Henrik Ibsen, the Norwegian dramatist, was intended at first for a doctor, and at the age of sixteen he had to don a druggist's apron. His ambition carried him a little beyond that, and he decided to become a doctor and read up for examination at Christiania. In the course of his study he was reading Sallust, and the character of Catiline so took his fancy that he wrote a little play introducing him. This was Ibsen's first dramatic work.

New York the American Venice.

It is a surprising thing to know that New York city, although not known as the American Venice, contains more islands than any city but Venice, for within its boundaries are thirty-one separate and distinct islands, most of which, encircled by deep water, will afford unlimited shipping accommodations and dockage for the commerce of future years to reach undreamed of proportions, judging from past and present growth.

Ancient River Found.

The bed of a river more than 150 yards wide and a dried-up lake of considerable size have been found 340 yards underground in the workings of the Arley colliery, Warwickshire. It is supposed that the river was diverted by some great upheaval.

Twain's Emancipation.

An honorary degree was once conferred on Mark Twain by a humble institution in a Missouri town that had known him when he was playing Tom Sawyer there in real life.

It happened that the degree conferring ceremonies took place one lazy day in June when newspapers generally were suffering from a total collapse of everything in the way of news.

One New York news editor raked the land with a figurative fine tooth comb and got a dry haul for his pains. Then, recalling that Mark Twain was getting his honorary degree that very day, it occurred to him that a message direct from the famous author might relieve the situation in the news. After much scratching of the editorial idea factory he evolved this query, which was transmitted to Mark Twain by wire:

How does it feel to be a doctor of laws? Please wire answer at our expense.

After a wait of several hours this characteristic response came hot over the wire from Missouri:

It feels like emancipation from ignorance and vice. MARK TWAIN.

Riding a Camel in the Desert.

Dr. Nachtigal, the celebrated African explorer, was the guest of a rich Hamburg merchant. The merchant's son, a young man of a somewhat sentimental temperament, said among other things that his dearest wish was to ride across the desert on the back of a camel. He thought such a ride must be very poetical indeed.

"My dear young friend," replied the explorer, "I can tell you how you can get a partial idea of what riding a camel on the deserts of Africa is like. Take an office stool, screw it up as high as possible and put it in a wagon without any springs. Then seat yourself on the stool and have it driven over rocky and uneven ground during the hottest weather of July or August and after you have not had anything to eat or drink for twenty-four hours, and then you will get a faint idea of how delightfully poetic it is to ride on a camel in the wilds of Africa."

He Gave Her a Present.

When I was a young man Lady Jersey was one of the leaders of fashion, and her house was the resort of politicians and others. With her lived her daughter, Lady Clementine Villiers, a handsome and clever girl. The custom had been established that all friends should give the latter a present on her birthday, and these presents were set out in an antechamber. Among these friends was Lord Brougham, then an old man. He called on a birthday, but had forgotten what the occasion was, and had brought no present. Seeing a mass of presents laid out, he seized one of them and took it in as his present, rightly counting that the young lady would not remember that it was one that already had been given to her. And very proud he was of his presence of mind. But, then, he was an ex-lord chancellor.—London Truth.

Many Languages of Mexico.

During the fiesta of Christmas or the week of All Souls and All Saints, when the Indians swarm down from the mountains with their holiday wares for sale, visitors in the City of Mexico may notice the strange language that the venders use in addressing each other. Even when they turn to serve the purchaser their Spanish is neither Castilian nor Mexican, but is frequently broken by peculiar syllables and accents. This is merely an illustration of the fact that the Indian languages of old Mexico have not been entirely submerged by the conquering Spanish, and in some of the most remote districts of the republic various and distinct languages handed down from the pre-Columbian era are still spoken in their pristine purity by many tribe members.—Mexican Herald.

Easy House Moving.

House-moving is an easy task among the Lakas, a tribe living near the Lagone river, in the French Kongo, Africa. This tribe, which is one of the most superb examples of the savage black race, lives in conical shaped huts constructed of plaits of tough straw. When a change in location is desired, both the women and the men put their shoulders to the task and carry the roofs of their homes to the new site, sometimes many miles distant. The circular walls of the huts are rebuilt.

The millennium will be a time when people carry out their good intentions.—Puck.

Beating Women.

"If it is true that national adages give an insight into the ideas of a people," says the Berlin Radical, "women must occupy a strange position in Russia. One of these old saws runs, 'Love your wife as much as your mule,' and another tells the good man, 'Shake your wife as you would a fruit tree.' That woman is not considered frail is shown by the adage, 'You may safely beat your wife with a broom handle, for she is not made of porcelain.' Beating must be considered a wholesome pastime, to judge from the saying, 'If your wife deserves a beating in the morning, remind her of her faults by giving her another at noon.' In justification of this kind of attention the Russian says, 'The more a man beats his wife the better his meals will be.'"

Quite Fortunate.

New Girl (timidly)—I s'pose you are a fine cook, mum? Young Mistress—Bless me, no! I don't know anything about it. New Girl (relieved)—Then we'll get along famously, mum. I don't either.—New York Journal.

The Pearl of Great Price.

"Put disposition above beauty," is the advice of a modern sage to the young man who thinks of taking to himself a wife. But it requires such a long time to discover disposition.—Providence Journal.

SOME BLIND WONDERS.

Remarkable Feats Have Been Performed by Sightless Men.

Manchester has just been the scene of the Second Triennial International Conference on the Blind and Exhibition. In the latter is exhibited work done by the sightless — for which prizes are offered—and apparatus and machines for the education and use of the blind.

Perhaps it is the very magnitude of his affliction which has made the blind man fight so fiercely against the darkness which encompasses him. At any rate, in all ages of the world —from the blind poet Homer, down through Milton, and the great blind Postmaster Fawcett—one finds sightless persons who have climbed to the top of the ladder of human achievement.

One of the subjects for discussion at the conference was, "Recreations for the Blind," the lecturer being Dr. Campbell, himself blind. Yet Dr. Campbell can ride and row and cycle. Incredible as it may appear, he has actually climbed to the summit of Mont Blanc—a feat that many a sighted person is proud of.

Four years ago, a blind man—Mr. Jacob Snape—walked across England from Blackpool to Margate—a distance of about four hundred and sixty miles.

There has been more than one blind barrister. Of these, the most wonderful was Mr. George Summers Griffiths. Called in 1852, he had become known as the champion verdict-getter, when, in the early eighties, he lost his sight.

Yet he refused to give up his profession, and, being gifted with an extraordinary memory, he very soon became almost as successful as ever.

We have a blind magistrate, in the person of Mr. George Smith, who acts in that capacity for the Holland Division of Lincolnshire; and also a blind Parliamentary candidate. Early in the present year, Mr. Walker King, of Exeter, a blind man, was selected as Liberal candidate for West Somerset to oppose Sir Aeland-Hood at the next election. Mr. King unsuccessfully contested Taunton in 1900.

A blind marvel whom many Londoners have watched with incredulous astonishment is the colored stage-dancer Walker who early in the present year, was appearing at several London music-halls.

Walker was suddenly blinded by atrophy of the optic nerve. What to do he knew not. He nearly went mad with misery. Then it suddenly struck him that he might still dance. His eyes looked right enough. Perhaps the managers need not know of his affliction.

Will it be believed that for eighteen months he earned his living in the old way, without anyone but his wife knowing that he was blind. In his simplicity, he never imagined that a blind comedian could be worth his pay. Now, however, he appears frankly as blind.

Walker's feats call to mind those of the celebrated "Blind Jack" of Alderney. Jack lost his eyesight in America, through a tree falling on him. He came home to Alderney, and made a living by running messages, chiefly for the soldiers at Fort Albert.

One dark night two Tommies, coming up the cliff-path from the beach below the fort, lost their way, fell, and lay badly bruised on a little ledge half-way between cliff-top and sea.

In the blackness they could not be seen, and none dared go to their rescue. Up came Blind Jack. He listened a moment, then cooly swung over the edge, and the terrified watchers heard his nailed boots clinking from ledge to ledge. In a very short time he reached the men, and guided them back to the path. Thence they reached the beach, and came up safely by another way.

No longer ago than April last, a blind man performed an equally heroic feat. One night the Hotel Victoria, at Richmond, Yorkshire, took fire. The proprietor, Mr. John Jackson, who is blind, rushed through the flames, rescued his son, and, carrying the boy, managed to climb down the back of the building to safety.

Awards to Spinsters.

A quaint custom has been observed in connection with Holsworthy fair, which closed recently, in the awarding of a money prize to a young woman "generally esteemed as the most deserving, most handsome and most noted for her quietness and attendance at church."

Miss Rosa Basset was selected for the honor of fulfilling all these requirements, and became the possessor of £2 10, in accordance with a singular bequest of a former rector.

Under the same will the sum of five shillings is annually given to the spinster over 60 years of age who "is noted for the like virtues, and is not in receipt of parish pay." This gift was presented to Miss Ching.

It is three years since any award was made of this money, spinsters being very scarce at Holsworthy.

Sacred Geese of Rome.

The tradition of the "sacred geese of old Rome" is that when the Gauls invaded Rome a detachment, in single file, climbed up the hill of the capital so silently that the foremost man reached the top without being challenged. But while he was striding over the rampart some sacred geese, disturbed by the noise, began to cackle and thus awoke the garrison. Marcus Manlius rushed to the wall and hurled the fellow over the precipice. To commemorate the event the Romans carried a golden goose in procession to the capitol every year.

An Improvement.

Phisty—I suppose you think that if you had the regulating of the universe you could make some improvements on the present job, don't you?

Kupha—I don't know about that, but I think I could suggest one change. I should like to have things so arranged that when a man is having a good time the days would seem to pass slowly instead of quickly, as they do now.

Avoided by Russians.

Russians never eat rabbits, as they say they nest with rats, nor will they touch snails or turtles, which are found in great quantities all over the country.

The Prig and His Cane.

In the number of the Tatler for Oct. 6, 1709, it is observed that "a cane is part of the dress of a prig" (this, by the way, shows the erroneous notion prevalent that "priggishness" is a modern word) "and always worn upon a button, for fear he should be thought to have an occasion for it or be esteemed really and not genteelly a cripple."

In the number of Nov. 18 a rural squire in town is sketched who is the prototype of one of the pavement nuisances: "His arms naturally swung at an unreasonable distance from his sides, which, with the advantage of a cane that he brandished in a great variety of irregular motions, made it unsafe for any one to walk within several yards of him."

And under date of Dec. 5 there is an amusing sketch of "a lively, fresh colored young man" who was among the applicants to Isaac Bickerstaff's court of censorship for license to use "canes, perspective glasses, snuffboxes, orange flower waters and the like ornaments of life." This young man had his cane hanging on his fifth button and was "an Oxford scholar who was just entered at the temple."

A Wedding Superstition.

It has been considered unlucky to be married in May ever since the days of Ovid, and those people who have spent their time in looking up roots and reasons have given what they consider to be the origin of the superstition as follows:

In ancient Rome there was held in May a festival called the Lemuria, or feast of the Lemures, which was a ceremony in honor of the speeches of departed souls. It became with the Romans what we should call "bad form" to have matrimonial feasts at the season of a solemn ritual, being no doubt thought to be an insult to the dead to marry at such a time. From this a number of stories grew of the revenge made by the outraged ghosts upon those who dared to disregard them, and if anything unfortunate happened to a couple who had been married in May it would, of course, have been put down to retribution. So the tradition of ill luck arose, and its influence has lasted ever since, even to our time.

Towed by a Halibut.

About the mouths of the streams on which salmon camps are situated the Indian dogs and children amuse themselves catching the fish. Some of the youngsters are so small that after they have succeeded in cornering a fish the combined efforts of the party are often required to dispatch it and carry it to camp. I have watched dogs running about in a rift snapping at the salmon and apparently having the time of their lives.

One of the most amusing sights that I saw during my stay in Alaska was two Indian boys being towed about the harbor at Kadiak by a huge halibut they had just hooked. Utterly unable to land the fish, they had fastened the line to the stern of the boat, and while they pulled with all their might, each one at an oar, they rallied each other for not exerting more strength and shouted loudly for help. Finally an Indian put out in a boat, and the fish was landed.—Forest and Stream.

Bewildering France.

There are in France two Bordeaux, the one in the Gironde and a tiny place in the Loiret. There are two Toulouses, the old town in the Haute-Garonne and Toulouse du Jura, a village with 600 inhabitants, near Lons-le-Saunier. There is Tours in Touraine, Balzac's Tours in the Indre-et-Loire and Tours, a village in Savoy, near Albertville. There are seven St. Cyrs, simple St. Cyrs, that is, and twenty-four with something tacked on to them; seven St. Denises and forty-seven with some addition, fourteen St. Germains and 114 with something tacked on.

Great Lovers of Water.

The Siamese are more devoted to the water than any other nation in the world. They are nearly always bathing, generally with their clothes on, and they never go anywhere by land if they can possibly go by water. The streets of Bangkok are like those of Venice, and the inhabitants say that their idea of paradise would be a town with canals where there were currents in both directions, so that they might be spared the effort of rowing.

The Sorrow of It.

"It's too bad," observed the man who seemed to be thinking aloud.

"What's too bad?" queried the party who had overheard the observation.

"That our neighbors always know when we have fried onions for supper, but never get next when we have strawberries and ice cream," explained the noisy thinker.—Chicago News.

The Weather.

"Do you think there is any reliable way of foretelling the weather?"

"Yep," answered Farmer Corntossel. "Jes' think of the kind you don't want and then prophesy it."—Washington Star.

A new occupation for women is that of the "grateful patient." Well dressed women are hired by unscrupulous men in Paris to sit in their waiting rooms, enter into conversation with genuine patients and hold forth in glowing terms on the benefits derived from the doctor's treatment.

Weak mothers and heedless fathers allow their children to accustom themselves to regard life not as a mission and a duty, but as a search after happiness and a study of their own well being.

The man who sits down to wait for a golden opportunity never has a comfortable seat.

It is better to be wise and not seem so than to seem wise and not be so.

HEROISM OF SAILORS

BRITISH BLUE JACKETS SHOW UP UNDER STRESS.

Gladiator's Crew Lined Up and Sang "Sons of the Brave"—One of Rodney's Men Thrusts Amputated Leg Into Cannon's Mouth For Bullet—Chief Gunner Extinguishes Live Shell In Tub.

It is when the most appalling strain is placed upon human endurance that the noblest attributes of mankind are manifested. And one naturally turns to the navy for stirring examples of splendid heroism in face of death.

Nothing could exceed the magnificent behaviour of the British bluejackets in the recent naval disaster to the Gladiator, when the men ranged themselves up and sang "Sons of the Brave," a song that will find an echo in the hearts of all true Britishers.

To the British royal navy belongs the proud distinction of the first Victoria Cross ever won, and recent happenings have served to show that the spirit of the old-time heroes burns as brightly as of yore in the breasts of those who man our iron walls.

When Rodney and his men fought the French to save the British West Indies, one brave fellow on board the Resolution was standing by his gun as the ship steered abreast of De Grasse's flagship.

The gun was about to be fired when a shot came in at the port and took his leg off at the knee. Quick as thought the man pulled off his neckcloth and tied his leg above the stump. The next instant he seized the dismembered limb and thrust it into the muzzle of the gun, which went off two seconds later.

"My foot," shouted the man exultantly, "is the first to board the Ville de Paris!"

It was on board the Inflexible, during the bombardment of Alexandria, that the late Commander Younghusband performed an exploit of great daring. In the midst of the fighting the vent of the Inflexible's 80-ton gun had become choked, with the result that for the time the gun was put completely out of action. Lieutenant (as he then was) Younghusband at once volunteered to go inside the muzzle-loader. He was pushed by the hyraulic rammer right up the bore of the gun (a tube sixteen inches in diameter) until he reached the powder chamber, and at imminent risk of suffocation from the powder gases managed to remedy the defect.

It was during the same bombardment that Israel Harding, chief gunner of the Alexandra, won the V.C. About three hours before the action began a 10-inch spherical shell crashed through "Old Alex," as the navy used to call the favorite flagship of the fleet, at a part where the ship was unarmored, and with its fuse burning, rolled along the main deck as if seeking a convenient corner in which to expend its pent-up energy.

Hearing a shout, "There's a live shell just above the hatchway!" Harding rushed up the ladder, and, taking some water from a tub near by, dashed it upon the burning fuse. Then he coolly lifted the shell and plunged it into the tub of water, thus saving many lives. That shell, by the way, was presented to His Majesty the King, then Prince of Wales.

For some seconds before the actual ramming of the Victoria by the Camperdown in the Mediterranean, on July 22, 1893, disaster was inevitable. Apprehending the calamity, the crew were fallen in on deck, but no order was given to the men below to save themselves.

In those last moments of the doomed ship the captain looked into the engine rooms, and could see that the men were standing there at their posts, their grim faces and tightly compressed lips showing that they were prepared to meet their deaths like men.

On deck the crew remained fallen in without flinching until the inclination of the ship rendered it untenable, and the order was given to jump.

Ten minutes after the collision the end came. The bows of the Victoria dived, the stern, with screws still revolving, rose out of the water, there was a mighty inrush of air, a great disturbance of the surface, and the hungry waters closed over 321 "Sons of the Brave" and the finest battleship of the navy.

When the torpedo-boat destroyer Cobra foundered in the North Sea on September 12, 1901, a pathetic incident of self-sacrifice, worthy of the best traditions of our Jack Tars, was brought under notice. Eight sailors who had been fighting for life against the fury of a mountainous sea, managed to get into a dinghy. Another poor fellow caught hold of the side of the boat, but seeing that it was already full, and that by attempting to save himself he would be endangering the lives of others, he cried, "Good-bye, mates; never mind me!" Then he dropped back, and although every effort was made to save him, he went to a watery grave crowned with the halo of a hero.

The death of Captain Burgoyne was as gallant and as self-sacrificing as his life. When the Captain, a turret ship, went down in the Bay of Biscay, 464 souls were plunged into eternity within a few minutes after it had foundered.

"Save yourselves, men!" In the middle of the night the order rang out clear, but the captain who gave it remained at his post, and went down in the darkness, leaving eighteen survivors to tell the tale.

Stories of splendid heroism were related by the survivors. After being rescued, one brave [illegible] hearing a comrade's cries for help mingling with the roar of the tempest fiend, immediately plunged into that devouring sea, his shirt being torn off his back by those who tried to dissuade him from his purpose. He was soon lost to sight in the inky darkness, and when the bodies were recovered this hero and the comrade he tried to save were found locked together in the grip of death.

Off and On.

DOLLIE AND THE MANEATER.

By Colin S. Collins.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"I can't help it because I am rich, can I?"

Paul Vinton spoke of his wealth as though it were a thing accursed. Dollie Darcy shook her head with judicial solemnity.

"I don't suppose that you can," she admitted. "At the same time, Paul, you cannot blame me for taking an interest in people who do things."

"Such as waiting on table?" retorted Vinton. "I don't see anything to command respectful admiration in a job like that."

"But he is a college man," reminded Dollie. "Just fancy a student so anxious to learn that he will wait on table in a hotel to gain the funds for his tuition!"

"He would do well to go to a grammar school first," growled Vinton. "He waited on me this morning and when I asked for eggs he told me that 'the eggs isn't very fresh.' That's good grammar for a college student, and then his slang is something weird."

"George Ade uses slang," cited Dollie defensively. "I'm sure that no one ever accused Mr. Ade of being common."

"Because he keeps his slang for his books and plays," reminded Vinton.

Dollie checked the sharp speech that sprang to her lips and hurried down the piazza steps to join a bespectacled youth who appeared around the corner of the hotel.

He was not an inviting sort of person. One ear was considerably larger than the other and an aggressive chin belied a mildness of appearance due to the large lensed spectacles he wore. His hands and feet were large and unmanageable and his clothes fitted him as though they had been made for a man of more generous build.

The Hotel Breeze had solved the servant problem by employing college students as waiters. It had become fashionable to take an interest in these struggling aspirants for learning, and Dollie Darcy was nothing if not fashionable. Even though it threatened a break with Paul Vinton—whom she expected to marry some day—she insisted on having her student to be interested in.

Dollie had picked out Brady as the favored one for the reason that he seemed the most forlorn and desolate one in the lot. There was something almost pathetic to her in the idea of this man who maltreated the English language so brutally seeking a higher education, and she found his personality interesting and at times amusing.

There were other times when the man bored her sadly, but she would not confess that she found him tiresome lest Paul should think the victory lay with him.

Every evening when the tables had been cleared and the dining room put in order Brady would slip down to the beach and walk or sit with Dollie, while Vinton sat on the piazza and vowed that he would leave the place for some better resort where the waiters were not the fad of the moment.

He never went, for on second thoughts he told himself it would be better to stay on and look after Dollie. She must tire of her fad presently, and perhaps on the rebound he might induce her to say the coveted "Yes."

Dismally Vinton realized that the waiting game was bound to be a long one, and chancing upon Dollie waiting on the sands for her waiter protege Paul was moved to reopen his argument.

Following an unusually hot day the humidity of an approaching storm deprived the sufferers of the relief of the night breezes. Dollie was tired and irritable and in no frame of mind for an argument. Both raised their voices slightly above the pitch of good breeding, and Brady, coming upon them suddenly, gathered that there had been a dispute.

"Has this guy been unbuttonin' his lip?" he demanded of Dollie.

Perhaps it was the heat, perhaps it was the memory of some of the things that Vinton had said. At any rate, there was a barely perceptible pause before Dollie languidly responded:

"He has been very annoying. I am glad you have come," she said.

Brady picked up a pebble and tossed it down the beach.

"Go after it," he urged. "You ain't wanted here, Bo. Notify your feet to get busy with your shoes and pedal hard."

"I presume you are trying to urge me to go away," suggested Vinton coldly.

"You've got a fine presumer," conceded Brady. "Gear it up a little higher. It's runnin' too slow."

"I am grateful for your advice," said Vinton with sarcasm that appeared to be lost upon the other, "but it is not my intention to take myself off until Miss Darcy signifies to me that my presence here is unwelcome."

"You heard her say that you made her tired," reminded Brady. "Be a nice little boy, Bo, and go play in the next yard. There's a fine cellar door there. Go slide down it."

Vinton looked inquiringly at Dollie, but she made no sign. Brady was displaying a new phase of his many sided character and she found it rather interesting. Vinton, too, puzzled her, and she wanted to see what he would do.

She had not long to wait, for, with a final appeal to take a walk before his feet hurt him and he couldn't, Brady advanced toward his antagonist.

Short and sharp was the encounter. Brady struck first, and Vinton, nothing loath, responded. In both men the primal instinct was aroused, and they fought for the favor of a woman as men in the stone age fought.

For the moment Vinton forgot Dollie's presence, forgot everything except his desire to avenge the blow.

Brady had slipped off his glasses at the first sign of trouble and he was somewhat at a disadvantage, but for all of that he had the best of the fight, though Vinton had taken boxing lessons from an old champion and was accounted more than ordinarily skillful at the game.

They were on a strip of the beach little frequented in the evening and the encounter attracted no attention. In five minutes Vinton was down and out and Dollie was kneeling beside him in the sand seeking to restore him to consciousness. He opened his eyes presently and smiled into Dollie's anxious face.

"It's all right," he said weakly. "That little college student of yours has the skill of a professional prize fighter."

"Sure!" assented Brady. "You was goin' some, Bo, but your company was too fast. I used to be the Cherry hill maneater until me eyes went on the blink and I had to look for somethin' easier. I been teachin' the rah-rah boys to handle their hams lately. It's a puddin' alongside the other game. The doc told me to get some salt air for the summer an' I'm pickin' a piece of the coin while I'm doin' it. I fought Terry five rounds to a draw once," he added with pride.

"And now you are studying for college?" asked Dollie wonderingly.

"I was teachin'," explained the maneater. "I was professor of boxin'. What's all this row about college anyway? When the boss cook hired me he says, 'I s'pose you come from college?' And I told him I just come from there. Now you're harpin' on the same string."

"The waiters this season are all students working their way through college," explained Dollie. "That was why I"—

She paused in confusion and Brady completed the sentence for her.

"That was why you mashed me?" he asked good naturedly. "I'm sorry for you, sis, but I ain't the real goods. Better stick to his job lots over there. He's in your class. I ain't no heavyweight."

Dollie regarded Paul, nursing a rapidly blackening optic, and smiled. At the moment Vinton seemed anything but romantic.

"That's all right," interposed the maneater understandingly. "A bit of raw steak will fix that up. He's the man to tie to, all right. There ain't many chaps like him that could give me the run he did. You hook up."

"Thank you. I will take your advice," declared Dollie as she sank down on the sand beside Vinton, and seeing that he was no longer wanted the maneater slipped away rubbing his cauliflower ear reflectively.

"I hope he won't beat the little dame," he said musingly. "He sure can hit, even if he can't lick me." And the maneater never realized that with Cupid as referee Paul was the winner after all.

A Vivid Description.

A shortsighted and deaf old gentleman who was at a [illegible] entertainment where a professor performed on a big bass viol thus described the scene: "The professor carried on to the platform a gigantic beetle attached to the end of a sort of lamppost. He leaned over and fondly embraced it, tickling its back violently with a long comb.

"The spectators seemed much delighted at this display of scientific affection. The beetle was apparently quite unmoved. Then the professor gave a capital imitation of the drunken man and the lamppost. He swayed rapidly up and down, clutching quickly at all points.

"Sometimes his fingers quivered passionately upon one spot, like an ill tempered man struggling with an obstinate pair of braces. Sometimes he rested momentarily, as one rests after a contest with a stiff white tie.

"Finally he gave a last convulsive tickle to the huge beetle, picked himself up from the lamppost and carried off the unresisting insect. The audience applauded vigorously."

A Fluctuating Fortune.

"About how much do you figure that you are worth?" asked the old time friend.

"How do I know?" replied Mr. Cumrox. "Mother and the girls have joined a bridge whist club."—Washington Star.

GIRL GYMNASTS.

Work of Danish Athletes Arouses Enthusiasm At Olympiad.

Great interest has been taken in the fine gymnastic display given by the Danish girl gymnasts at the Stadium. They gave a practical demonstration of the excellent results of the system, initiated by M. Paul Petersen and included in the curriculum of every school in Denmark.

The objects which the authorities have in view are the improvement of the health and strength of the nation, the complete emancipation of the woman from their more or less enfeebled state of past generations and the attainment of flexibility of body, beauty of figure and grace of deportment.

Three hours of gymnastic exercise a week is required to be taken by children between the ages of 7 and 14. Thereafter the practice of gymnastics is left to their own individual inclinations, but so great a love for this form of exercise has generally been inculcated that wherever possible it is usually kept up, and a great many private and state gymnasia are in existence.

The youngest children in the schools are granted a great amount of freedom, which they pass in playing gymnastic games, in running, jumping and skipping, the object being to obtain flexibility for the body in the early days. Then follow gentle exercises for the arms and legs; they are taught proper respiration and how to hold themselves correctly.

At the age of 9 or 10 the bar exercises are undertaken, and gradually the more difficult and complicated movements are participated in. Great stress is laid upon deportment. Those who witnessed the manner in which the twenty-two Danish girls in the Stadium carried themselves, their fine physique and the precision with which they went through their complicated movements could not fail to be impressed.

That a system which can produce such physical equipment is one fraught with lasting good to a nation admits of no doubt. Medical testimony shows that Danish children of to-day are stronger both physically and mentally than were the children of a former generation.

BRUMBY HUNTING.

New South Wales Has An Exciting Pastime All Its Own.

Whether "brumby" is a survival of the aboriginal name for a wild horse or a corruption of "unbranded" appears to be a question which philologists have left undecided; but brumby hunting is still a favorite sport in New South Wales. Districts like the Clarence and Stephens and Manning River watershed are still the home of numerous droves of brumbies, and hunting them is declared to be a very exhilarating pastime. The first step taken is to stake out a corrall, and make all secure, except a narrow entrance, which can subsequently be gated. On either side of the entrance and projecting from it funnel-wise, a "booby-fence" is prepared. To the simple-minded brumby it presumably looks like a stockade, and pieces of fluttering cotton make it look impregnable. When this is ready, the young bloods, well mounted, gallop out, and "round up" the wild horses, driving them with shouts and much loud snapping of stock-whips towards the mouth of the funnel.

In a group of brumbies there is always a leader, and when once the hunters have got the leader heading for the corrall they are pretty certain of the rest of the drove. The fluttering cotton rags of the sham fence are sufficient to deter the brumbies from breaking through the flimsy barriers, and in less time than it takes to tell the wild horses are safely corralled and the big gate shut on them. Then they are left for four-and-twenty hours without food and water to reflect on the situation, and after that they can be broken in without much difficulty.

King's Hobby.

Among the King's hobbies, says "Vanity Fair," is the very artistic one of collecting miniature gold and silver ships, or "nefs," as they are called. His Majesty's pigmy navy of precious metal includes many models of great historical value, dating from the fourteenth to the seventeenth century, when the manufacture of these costly toys practically ceased. One of the treasures of the King's collection is a perfect model of a Spanish galleon. The King is not the only member of the Royal Family to indulge in this expensive taste, as the Prince of Wales also possesses a small number of these miniature vessels, and the late Duke of Saxe-Coburg had got together such a fine collection of "nefs," that it presented quite a unique spectacle when the exquisite little gold and silver vessels were all spread out on the dinner table at Clarence House on the occasion of a banquet.

Boy Gets Million.

Another romantic accession to unexpected fortune is reported in Great Britain. A little Lincolnshire boy, Jack Nowell, the eight-year-old son of Mr. G. H. Nowell, solicitor, of Barton-on-Humber, and clerk to the local urban council, has been informed that he is heir to $1,000,000. The money comes to him from Mr. John Waddingham, who died at the age of sixty-nine at Gmting Grange, Cheltenham.

The estate is valued at £205,000, and with the exception of four legacies of £1,000 each, three of which go to cousins of the fortunate boy, Jack Nowell unexpectedly becomes entitled to the whole estate on the death of Mrs. Waddingham. A condition of the will is that the heir takes the name of Waddingham

World's Tonnage.

The tonnage of the world's merchant shipping fleet, according to the latest returns, is 37,554,917 tons. Of this total go less than 31,741,904 tons represents steam shipping and 17,611,006 tons of the whole is under the British flag.

A Choice.

"Excuse me," sputtered the victim to the barber, "but if you intend to put so much lather in my mouth I wish you'd shave me with whipped cream or maybe [illegible]."

SUMMER SOUVENIRS.

For children privileged to spend the vacation at the seashore, sound, bay and ocean hold so many opportunities for sport and pastime that mother is seldom called upon for suggestion and advice. But even in this "happy hunting ground" there are occasions—rainy days and heated spells—when the frantic appeal, "What can we do now, mother?" is heard, and here again do green waters, brown rocks and gray sands provide occupation for active brains and nimble fingers.

A collection of seaweeds mounted on cardboard slips, of shells intelligently classified with the aid of a book from the library, of delicately tinted pebbles, which are very pretty when kept in a box and lovely when put into a clear glass bottle filled with water, of the fantastically shaped "moonstones" found in profusion in many places, is interesting. And the pretty souvenirs and Christmas presents that may be fashioned for relatives and friends are various.

Pincushions and needlebooks from faintly tinted, well matched halves of fluted scallop shells, pin trays and ash receivers from moonstones, some deeply hollowed out, others as shallow as a dish; boxes and picture frames covered with tiny periwinkles, the shells neatly glued on and varnished, and necklaces, bracelets, curtains and portieres made of the glistening, tinkling gold and silver jingle shells.

When washed in sweet water and sun dried they shade from lightest amber to golden tortoise shell. They should be strung flat in and out through a hole at the top and another at the bottom. They are easily perforated with a wire nail and hammer and strung on strong linen or carpet thread.

Some small girls and boys last year made for themselves elaborate parures—necklace, belt, bracelets, diadem, fobs and medals—and for their respective mothers, aunts and grandmothers all sorts of ornamental articles from these semitransparent, brightly colored little shells. One small seashore bungalow is furnished with sash curtains, shelf lambrequins and cupboard portieres, all manufactured by the small folk of the family and their chum summer visitors from jingle shells.

Hand Sewing Machine.

The sewing awl, which forms the subject of a recent patent grant, is practically a hand sewing machine for the use of sailmakers and others handling fabric which is too heavy or too bulky to be readily put through the sewing machine in the usual manner. The sewing awl is mounted on a substantial handle, and it is passed along over the parts to be joined and as it progresses along the length of the material the stitch is formed by pushing the handle. This operation drives the needle through the material, and the thread is secured in such a way as to make the stitch in the same manner as is done on the sewing machine.

Hemstitched Tucking For Linen.

Lingerie waists of handkerchief linen are most attractive when hemstitched tucks are made in groups of three, with bands of dainty insertion between. The tucks help to keep the sheer blouse from tearing too easily, and the hemstitching gives it a slightly openwork effect, at once beautiful and appropriate to the fine material.

Mr. Chas. Patterson Returns—The Board of Education Meeting

IN SAN FRANCISCO 'QUAKE

Examiner Special

Norwood, Sept. 16.—The Board of Education met on Monday evening, those present being Messrs. J. L. Squire, D. Campbell, F. Anderson, W. Webster, H. Drain, E. P. Cuffe, A. S. Harrison, J. F. Elliott and J. Doherty.

The minutes of the last regular meeting and also those of the special meeting were read and adopted.

The chairman reported that costs incurred on account of Mr. Teasby's resignation had been paid by him to the Board and deposited in the bank.

The chairman also reported re repairs done during the holidays.

Moved by Mr. Cuffe, seconded by Mr. Webster, that the chairman of the Property Committee, together with the chairman of the Board, be handed the inspector's report, and that they comply with same re blackboards.—Carried.

Mr. MacLean's resignation had been dealt with by the executive committee, as his resignation was not in harmony with his agreement. The cost of procuring a new principal had been borne by Mr. MacLean.

Mr. Squire reported that on account of the unsettled state of affairs in the school, caused by recent changes in the staff, he with other members of the Board decided to insert advertisements in the Hastings Star and Havelock Standard, announcing the opening of the school.

Moved and seconded by Mr. Cuffe and Mr. Doherty, that the action of the executive committee and chairman be approved, and that Mr. Squire's bill for advertising be paid.—Carried

The chairman reported that Mr. Barron had been put to some expense on account of a visit to Hastings in the interest of the school. Mr. Barron wished that the Board take no action in regard to his expense. It was moved and seconded by Mr. Anderson and Mr. Campbell, that Mr. Barron be paid his expenses, and that Mr. Killoran be paid his bill for horse hire to bring Father Conway to the opening of the school.—Carried.

The High School principal reported that there were 118 pupils enrolled. He also expressed his determination to do his best to have the school classed as an approved school. He thought the staff were doing their utmost in the interests of the school. He said he would communicate with the inspector re same.

Mr. Cuffe laid before the Board a list of supplies and appliances for the science room so as to make individual work practicable.

Moved and seconded by Messrs. Harrison and Elliott, that the supplies asked for by Miss Trout be referred to the principal and Mr. Cuffe with power to act.—Carried.

Moved and seconded by Mr. Campbell and Mr. Doherty, that the matter of renewing the boiler insurance be laid over for consideration at the next meeting of the Board. — Carried.

Moved and seconded by Mr. Cuffe and Mr. Doherty, that the action of the chairman in recognition of Miss Archer's services be confirmed. —Carried.

The following accounts were presented:

John Lillie, insurance, P. S., $9 90. Moved by Mr. Cuffet that the above account be paid and an order also be drawn in favour of the chairman for money expended re Miss Archer's presentation.

Harold Elliott, 617 feet of cement and other work, $71.70.

Jos. Paget, repairs on schools, $21.50.

Moved and seconded by Messrs. Harrison and Elliott, that the accounts be referred to the Property Committee.—Carried.

AN INVESTIGATION WILL TAKE PLACE

Premier Declares Woollen Troubles Will Be Inquired Into.

SAYS SOMETHING IS LACKING

"If Canadians Want Cheap, Showy Goods Why Not Manufacture It?" Asks Laurier at C. M. A. Banquet — Government Will Take Action on Report of Expert Now at Work in England.

Montreal, Sept. 18.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, addressing the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the annual banquet last evening, as good as promised that a commission would look into the grievances of the woollen manufacturers.

The new president, R. Hobson, showed how the woollen industry had declined for want of adequate protection. He contended that the association owed no allegiance to any party, but strove for the good of the country as a whole.

Turning to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the chairman said: "I am authorised to state to you that this association will welcome a tariff commission to look into this question of the woollen industry and report to Parliament."

With reference to the woollen duties Sir Wilfrid replied, as Prime Minister of the Dominion, he was not a member of the last tariff commission, but he believed that the tariff of 1907 had been considered a fairly good one. A few months later, however, the woollen business had become embarrassed and the Government had been asked to increase the duties.

He was not a business man, but he thought he could look at matters and weigh arguments in a common-sense manner. There seemed to him that something was lacking. The woollen people said that British manufacturers sent to this country goods of inferior quality and that the Canadian goods were superior.

"I say," he continued, "if the consumers prefer the showy goods and if consumers take goods because they are cheaper, why don't you Canadian manufacturers give them showy goods also? Why don't you produce showy products, for if in this case Canadians will give only pure woollen goods, that is not business. Give what the consumers want."

The Premier was under the impression that an expert had already gone to England and was doing the work. When that expert returned and made his report the Government would only be too glad to act, and the manufacturers would also be consulted, and even if they wanted another commission, and their body represented thereon, the Government would be glad to comply.

The Premier said that a permanent tariff commission had been asked for and he did not exactly understand what a permanent commission meant.

However, there was no objection to such a commission being appointed. He must, however, be careful. The elections were at hand, and while he could make no promises, he believed he could say that the matter could be looked into. In conclusion, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he would continue his remarks next year.

Mr. Monk also addressed the gathering, representing Mr. Borden.

The election of officers yesterday resulted as follows: President, R. Hobson, Hamilton; first vice-president, J. Hendrie, Vancouver; provincials: Ontario, Wm. Gartshore, London; Quebec, W. H. Rowley, Hull; Nova Scotia, W. Levis, Halifax; New Brunswick, C. McDonald, St. John; Manitoba, R. McKenzie, Winnipeg; Alberta and Saskatchewan, P. Burns, Calgary; British Columbia, W. J. G. Woods, Vancouver; Prince Edward Island, F. L. Hassard, Charlottetown.

Danger Around Cornwall.

Cornwall, Sept. 18.—Reports received in Cornwall from many of the villages in the County of Stormont are to the effect that bush fires are raging in almost every section, north, east and west of here, and the people are living in hourly dread.

AEROPLANE UPSET WITH FATAL RESULT

Orville Wright Injured and Military Man Killed.

LOAD PROVED TOO HEAVY

Inventor Who Established World's Records For Heavier-Than-Air Flights Tries to Make Record Carrying Lieut. Selfridge—Officer Fractures Skull and Dies Shortly After the Accident.

Washington, Sept. 18.—After having drawn the attention of the world to his aeroplane flights at Fort Meyer and having established new world's records for heavier-than-air flying machines, Orville Wright yesterday met with a tragical mishap while making a two-man flight. The aeroplanist was accompanied by Lieut. Thos. E. Selfridge of the Signal Corps of the army. Lieut. Selfridge was fatally injured and died at 8.10 last night. Wright was seriously injured, but is expected to recover.

While the machine was encircling the drill grounds a propeller blade snapped off and hitting some other part of the intricate mechanism caused it to overturn in the air and fall to the ground, enveloping the two occupants in the debris.

Soldiers and spectators ran across the field to where the aeroplane had fallen and assisted in lifting Wright and Selfridge from under the tangled mass of machinery, rods and shreds of muslin. Wright was conscious and said: "Oh, hurry and lift the motor."

Lieut. Selfridge was unconscious and had apparently struck the ground with great force. His head was covered with blood and he was choking when the soldiers extricated him.

Dr. Watters, a New York physician, rendered first aid. Wright lapsed into a state of semi-consciousness by the time he reached the hospital, while Lieut. Selfridge did not regain consciousness at all. He had a fracture at the base of the skull.

Wright is suffering from a fracture of his left thigh and several ribs on the right side are fractured. Both men received deep cuts about the head.

Wright regained consciousness in the hospital and dictated a cablegram to his brother at Le Mans, France, and telegrams to his sister and father at Dayton, Ohio, assuring them that he was all right.

Dickson Comes Back.

St. John, N.B., Sept. 18.—W. B. Dickson, M.P.P. for Albert County, who disappeared suddenly two weeks ago, leaving, it was reported, a shortage of $150,000 in his accounts, and against whom an absconding debtor's warrant was issued, returned yesterday.

He says he disappeared on the advice of a few friends who believed his absence would be beneficial. Now he comes back with the intention of endeavoring to straighten out his accounts.

Indian Murdered.

Belleville, Sept. 18.—James Sero, an Indian, aged 50, and his wife had been to the fair in this city, and went home, to the Mohawk reserve, Wednesday night, arriving there about 10 o'clock. Mrs. Sero went into the house and Sero went into the barn to put up his horses. He was returning to the house when he was fired on by some unknown party, armed with a rifle. The bullet passed through Sero's body, just above the hips. He bled to death.

Textile Report Delayed.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—It is understood that the report to be made by W. Mackenzie King, who enquired into the conditions of the textile trade, will not be made public until after the general elections.

The report, it is said, comments severely on the conditions of the employment of women and young children and also deals with questions of over-capitalization.

Hacked to Pieces.

Montreal, Sept. 18.—Antonio Granito, aged 25, a well-to-do brickwork contractor, was mysteriously murdered near his home in the north end of the city Wednesday night.

His body was found early yesterday morning lying near the C.P.R. tracks. It was literally hacked to pieces.

Robbery was evidently the motive, as the man's pockets were turned inside out.

Bad Fire at Strathroy.

Strathroy, Sept. 18.—About 12.30 yesterday morning a fire broke out in the second storey of the Albert block, occupied by Geddes Bros., large dealers in dry goods, millinery, etc., and George Lamotte, groceries, china, etc., and completely gutted the whole building.

Highwayman on Bike.

It is alleged that, mounted on a bicycle, he stopped a rig, and at the point of a revolver, robbed a couple in Rockliffe Park.

Helped Build the Monitor.

New York, Sept. 18.—Lyman M. Starrett, who helped to build Ericsson's famous Monitor which defeated the Confederate ram Merrimac, is dead. He was the inventor of the first street sweeper drawn by horses.

Peace Conference.

The Hague, Sept. 18.—The next peace conference, just requested, is for the conclusion of a treaty looking to the establishment of an international law regulating exchange.

Six Delayed.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—There are six Dominion constituencies in which polling will not take place till after general elections.

These are Chicoutimi, Saguenay and Gaspe in Quebec; Comoxatlin, Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo in British Columbia, and Yukon.

PINNED UNDER A TREE AND KILLED

Woman and Babe Die in Burning Wood at Parry Sound.

WERE ON WAY TO FUNERAL

Miss Colarine Guisler and 18-Months-Old Child Were Driving Through Bush When Half Destroyed Tree Falls Across Buggy — Bodies Consumed Almost Beyond Recognition Before Found.

Parry Sound, Sept. 18.—Two lives were lost on Wednesday in the bush fires which are now raging in the vicinity of Parry Sound. Miss Colarine Guisler and the 18-months-old child of her niece were the victims. Miss Guisler and the infant were on their way to attend the funeral of a Mrs. Cudmore, and as she drove along a road by a forest a big tree which had been burned through near the roots fell over on the buggy, killing both of the occupants instantly. When found both bodies were pinned down by the burning tree, and were so badly burned as to be almost unrecognizable.

Dr. G. F. R. Richardson of Sprucedale made an examination of the remains, and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Miss Guisler was the only daughter of her aged father, who is about 90 years of age. The horse, frightened by the falling timber, broke away from the buggy and escaped. Great fears are entertained around Sprucedale as to the further spread of the fires in the Parry Sound district.

PIANO FIRM GOES UNDER.

Palmer Company of Uxbridge Succumbs to Stringency.

Toronto, Sept. 18.—An assignment has been made by the Palmer Piano Co. of Uxbridge to Osler Wade for the benefit of the firm's creditors. The assets run to $90,000 or $100,000, and the liabilities total $75,000. It is believed that 100 cents on the dollar can easily be realized on the estate, which is temporarily embarrassed by the money stringency. The firm has a big surplus and a large stock of pianos made up on hand, orders for most of which are held.

Under the circumstances Mr. Wade has ordered the continuation of work in the factory, and a meeting of the creditors will be held in about three weeks.

The creditors are chiefly United States firms, and it is stated that two banks are interested.

Murder is Charged.

New Liskeard, Sept. 18.—Edward Eaton, who is charged with the murder of Frank Eller in the Temagami region, was committed for trial on Wednesday.

Pleads Guilty to One.

St. Catharines, Sept. 18.—Geo. Raybould, held on suspicion of having burned the barns of Byron Beamer at Silverdale, and of having stolen a horse and carriage, was before County Judge Carman on charges of arson and theft yesterday. He pleaded guilty to theft, but not guilty to arson and was remanded till the 25th.

CHARGE OF PERJURY AGAINST JOS. LEVASSEUR JR. QUASHED BY A LEGAL TECHNICALITY

Deposition of Defendant's Testimony in Police Court Failed to Sustain the Charges

THE ASSIZES CONCLUDED

The hearing of the charge of perjury against Mr. Joseph Levasseur, Jr., was brought to a sudden and unexpected termination this morning. His lawyer, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, took advantage of a technicality which arose during the examination of Mr. D. W. Dumble.

The Crown was unable to show that there was anything in the deposition of the defendant as taken by the magistrate in the police court hearing upon which to found the charge of perjury. The court, therefore, directed the jury to enter a verdict of not guilty and the prisoner was thereupon acquitted.

Mr. Dumble was first examined by Mr. L. M. Hayes, who appeared for the prosecution. The statement of the defendant as received in police court and signed by him was submitted and Mr. Hayes asked witness to state anything additional that he recollected. Counsel for the defence took exception and was sustained by the court, as nothing other than that contained in the deposition could be used. Application for the quashing of the charge was made on the grounds that there was nothing in the evidence taken down in police court upon which the charge of perjury could possibly be founded.

The Fall Assizes were thus terminated by the conclusion of this case.

CANDIDATE FOR EAST RIDING IN THE CITY TO-DAY

Mr. E. A. Tanner, Lakefield, Liberal candidate for East Peterborough, is in the city to-day, attending the exhibition. Mr. Tanner is meeting with encouragement in the East Riding, and expects that within a few days he will be out among the country districts. After having visited the northern portion of the riding he expects to go to Otonabee.

Mr. Tanner is making arrangements for a series of meetings and he will have some prominent speakers to give addresses.

MR. D. CUSHING IS INJURED IN FALL FROM HORSE'S BACK

The friends of Mr. Daniel Cushing will regret to learn that he is confined to his home, at the corner of Reid and Sherbrooke streets, as a result of bruises received in a fall from a horse a few days ago. He was going down town from Mount St. Joseph, where he is employed as caretaker, and decided to drive the horse to the blacksmith shop. The animal is inclined to be frisky, and when it was turning at the corner of Weller street, it shied and slipped on the pavement. Mr. Cushing was riding bareback at the time and as the horse's feet slipped it went down hard, throwing its rider.

THE RETURNING OFFICERS FOR THE ELECTIONS

The Returning Officers for the coming Dominion Elections have been appointed, Mr. Sheriff Hall is the Returning Officer for West Peterborough, and Mr. Bernard Morrow, Registrar for East Peterborough.

HALF HOLIDAY FOR PUPILS OF LOCAL SCHOOLS

The pupils of the local schools had their first holiday, this afternoon for the present term. They were given a chance to see the big pumpkins, the tempting apples, the freak pig, etc. The majority of them went to the grounds with the price of admission in their pockets, but it is safe betting that few of them parted with it in that way. To jump the fence and have the watchman give chase is something to "crow" about when they get back to school again, and half the pleasure of seeing the Fair would be missing if they had any other but a fence ticket. "Boys will be boys" is as appropriate a quotation to-day as it was thirty years ago.

RASPBERRY BUSHES PRODUCE SECOND CROP

The weather of the past few weeks has apparently been favourable for the growth of the raspberry fruit. This, at any rate has been the case on the farm of Mr. William Steinkrauss, of the Second Line off Smith Township. Early in the year the raspberry bushes produced a handsome crop for Mr. Steinkrauss, and just recently he has had the pleasure, common to few of again plucking a fairly good crop of the ruddy fruit from the vines.

DEMISE OF MR. DENCH

One of Lakefield's Best Known Citizens—Loss to Agricultural Interests

HE PASSED AWAY TO-DAY

News was received in the city this morning of the death of Mr. R. Q. Dench, one of the oldest residents of Douro Township. Mr. Dench had been ailing for some time with a complication of diseases but his death whilst not altogether unexpected, will cause the deepest regret amongst his acquaintances and friends, whose name was legion. The deceased gentleman was the last survivor of the band of Englishman who came out to this country under the sheltering aegis of the late Col. Strickland. Mr. Dench was a familiar figure at the Agricultural shows in this county, and was for years and, in fact, up to the time of his death the president of the Smith and Ennismore Agricultural Society.

Mr. Dench leaves surviving him, his widow, Mrs. Dench, one son, Mr. Bernard Dench of Douro, and four daughters, Mrs. Pattrick of Smith, Mrs Blackwell of Fowlers' Corners, Mrs Robt Jory of Douro and Miss Fanny Dench.

PRESENTED WITH TRAVELLING BAG BY HIS FRIENDS

An interesting function took place at Hooper's Palm Parlours last night when a number of friends of Mr. E. M. Best gathered at an informal little banquet to say farewell on the eve eof his departure from the city. Mr. Best was presented with a handsome traveling bag as a slight mark of the esteem in which he is held, the presentation being made by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Mr. Best made a suitable reply.

Mr. Best left this morning for Springfield, Mass., where he will enter the Y.M.C.A. training school. He intends to devote himself to Y.M.C.A. work.

SIGNALMAN AT REID ST GETS A HOUSE TO-DAY

Mr. D. McPhail, foreman of the department of bridges and buildings of the G.T.R. at Lindsay, was in the city to-day supervising the work of placing a house at Reid street crossing for the watchman at that point. It came down to Peterborough on a flat car and was unloaded and set up for habitation and use.

MAPLE GROVE BURNED IN EMILY

Belonged to Mr. Joseph Meehan—Berry Patch Destroyed

The destruction by fire of Mr. Jos. Meehan's grove, together with about ten acres of berry patch on his farm, lot 18, con. 13, King's Wharf, Emily, has been reported.

Mr. Meehan at present resides near Lindsay and his many friends will regret to learn of the damage wrought by the fire.

THE TORONTO WORLD of Sept. 18th, 1908 has the following:---

Those Conservatives who are minimizing Mr. Stratton's candidature in West Peterborough or his influence in the midland district, do not know their man. When J. R. Stratton was provincial secretary it was admitted by friends and foes alike that he was a model administrator. His career in business in Peterborough and Toronto gives ample evidence of his capacity. In the industrial and financial life of the province Mr. Stratton is playing no small role, and it is a game that requires ability. It is common talk that since the defeat of the Ross government Mr. Stratton is the only ex-member of that organization who has taken his place in private life, and wrought out a commanding position for himself, absolutely without aid or favour from those who carry political positions in their pockets. Ontario's new lieutenant-governor has fallen a victim to the placeman habit. Premier Ross is in the senate, Mr. Latchford on the bench, and so you may go on, but Mr. Stratton has chosen to disregard the offer of a senatorship, and now takes his place in the firing line to win West Peterborough. Mr. Stratton is a man of capacity with an administrative reputation worthy of note, and altogether a candidate that measures up to the best that there is in Liberalism in Ontario.

FOUR LOCAL MEN PURCHASE BUILDING AND MACHINERY OF WILLIAM HAMILTON FOUNDRY AND WILL BEGIN OPERATIONS BY NOVEMBER 1st

Buy From A. R. Williams Company---In Strong Financial Hands---Fifty Men to be Employed at First---Have Orders Already For $60,000 Worth of Machinery---City Council to Be Asked For Loan

THE DEAL WAS CONCLUDED ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The announcement that the William Hamilton foundry will be in operation, employing at least fifty men, by the first of November is possibly the most welcome news for Peterborough in many a day. The fact, too, that operations will be in strong financial hands lends an additional effect to the resuscitation of teh Hamilton works.

It will be remembered that some time ago the property, buildings and all their equipment were purchased by the A. R. Williams Company of Toronto. That company had intended dismantling the machinery to remove it to Toronto, and, in fact, had begun the work.

In the meantime negotiations were entered into between the A. R. Williams Company and Mr. H. B. Collier of the Collier-Cunningham Company and Messrs. G. Walter Green, Andrew MacFarlane and J. C. Smith, with the result that the land, building, machinery, stock and patents were purchased by Mr. Collier. The deal was concluded at 12 o'clock on Wednesday night.

Some Big Orders

The terms upon which the purchase was made were most favourable to the purchaser. The new company will be known as the William Hamilton Company, Limited. Already it has orders for $60,000 worth of machinery, and these have to be delivered within the next eighteen months.

The City Council, of course, is interested in the matter and will be urged to go ahead with the bylaw ratified last year by the Legislature, granting a loan of $30,000 under specified conditions. It is necessary to the company that this portion of what is considered the City Council's duties is carried out.

The actual cost of the real estate, machinery, etc., to the old company was $340,000. The boiler shop and the foundry are practically new buildings, having been erected within the past six years. The machinery in these is also almost new, the whole being valued at about $40,000. Expert valuators have valued the plant as it now stands at $210,000, which is a minimum valuation.

Organizing Company

The company will be organized at once, and operations will begin as soon as $60,000 stock has been subscribed. This will undoubtedly be prior to November 1. At first about fifty hands will be required, and this number will be gradually increased.

High Court Sat One And A Half Hours After Midnight

When the members of the bar and the attendants at the court gathered this morning for the continuation of the hearing of the case of Young vs. the Dominion Engineering and Construction Co., there were evident signs of their long vigil last night. Mr. F. D. Kerr was heard to remark that it seemed as if he had slept in the court room through the night. When the hearing was resumed after luncheon last night the evidence continued to be taken until the hour of midnight was reached. At about half past one the work was concluded and Mr Justice Magee reserved judgment until 9.30 a. m. the interim being afforded for a snatch of sleep.

Bird Stolen From Veranda Cage In South Part Of City

A bold bird theft was committed in the south part of the city yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. Pogue, 280 William street, had her pet canery a year old green bird, which she reared herself and highly prized on this account and also because he was a beautiful warbler. During the afternoon a boy about twelve years old pushed a chair under the cage and stole the bird, leaving the cage closed showing that the bird had not escaped of itself. The tracks of the boy's feet in the dust on the chair indicated that he was about 12 years old. If any body is asked to purchase a canery of this kind, green plumage, it is likely to be Mrs. Pogue's pet bird.

PICTONITES TO THE NUMBER OF 1200 HERE TO-DAY

One of the largest excursions that has visited Peterboro this year was that of the Canadian Order of Foresters of Picton, which arrived at 12:15 o'clock to-day over the C. P. R.

The train was composed of 11 coaches and one of the party estimated that there were nearly 1,200 excursionists on board. They came over the C. O. R. to the junction east of Havelock and from there they completed the journey on the C. P. R. They were a fine looking representative crowd, orderly and well behaved. Many intended to see Peterboro's show places before going to the exhibition.

THE P. C. I. ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Officers Elected at a Meeting Held Last Night

At the close of school yesterday at the Collegiate Institute, a meeting was held in one of the forms and a Peterborough Collegiate Institute Athletic Association formed. Mr. Adams, the physical director, who is an athlete himself, is interested in the association and with his energetic assistance it will no doubt be successful. The officers elected are:—

Hon. Pres., H. R. H. Kenner.
Pres., Harry Hall.
Vice-Pres., M. Dobbin.
Sec.-Treas., M. O'Brien.

A representative from each form will constitute an executive committee. Mr. A. W. MacPherson will train the boys in Rugby.

The association will have charge of all branches of sport in connection with the institute. Rugby practices will soon be announced and a hockey team this winter will be organized.

THE HIBERNIAN COUNTY CONVENTION

Officers Elected Last Night for Coming Year

At the County Convention of the A. O. H., held last night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:—

County President, James Hickey.
County Vice-Pres., William Lynch.
County Rec.-Sec., John Hanrahan.
County Fin.-Sec., Chas. P. Murty.
County Treasurer, Joseph Kelly.

ENORMOUS CROWD ATTENDS OPENING OF PETERBORO'S BIG INDUSTRIAL FAIR THIS AFTERNOON

Best Fair Yet is the Verdict—More Entries and More Display Than Ever Before

THE CITIZENS SHOULD ATTEND FAIR TO-NIGHT

Thanks to the citizens of Peterborough as well as those from the surrounding country, the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has to-day been a complete success. There probably was never such a crowd on the exhibition grounds on the occasion of the annual Exhibition as there was this afternoon. And after all it's the crowd that makes the success. Visitors expect to see their friends from other parts of the county, and when they meet they have a "big" time and say the Fair was a success. If all those who possibly can, attend the Fair to-night and to-morrow, Peterborough will be raised to a higher standard among the smaller cities of Eastern Ontario.

IS AWARDED CLAIM

Dr. Young Wins His Case Against The Dominion Engineering And Construction Co.

WAS CONCLUDED TO-DAY

Judgment reserved from yesterday's session of the Autumn assizes of the High Court of Justice in the case of Young vs. the Dominion Engineering and Construction Co., Ltd., was delivered this morning by Mr. Justice Magee, the plaintiff, Dr. T. W. H. Young, being allowed the full extent of his claim,—$301.00 and costs.

No liability was connected with the C. G. E. Co.

The evidence was all in at an early hour this morning after sitting all day yesterday. In fact it was just half past one when the whole city was wrapped in slumber that the court was adjourned until 9:30 a.m.

His Lordship Justice Magee in opening to-day's session considered the evidence which he had received. The case was peculiarly complex in many respects. The Dominion Engineering and Construction Co. contracted with the C. G. E. Co. to superintend the construction of the Transformer building. His Lordship stated that they were more than mere foremen, they were the actual contractors. On the 9th of May, 1907, David J. Moore was injured in this work and Dr. Young was called to attend him. He was not fully recovered until March, 1908. In October Dr. Young sent in his first claim to the Construction Co. for $277.00 because there had been some delay in collecting in two other cases that he had attended and given his attention. The company replied that they had no knowledge of his service to Moore and forwarded the account to the C. G. E. Co. This was the first intimation that the account would be disputed.

His Lordship was satisfied that the officers in charge of the Construction Co. were aware of the fact that Dr. Young was attending Moore. It appears to have been decided that he would be called in when needed. He did not receive a notice in Moore's case that the company provided only for first aid cases. Mr. Beattie and Mr. Nesbitt had been at the hospital to visit the injured man and knew that the doctor was attending the man under the idea that he would be paid by them. They did not intimate otherwise. Moreover in letter sent in August, they gave the plaintiff no notice to cease attending Mr. Moore.

His Lordship dealt fully with the relations between the Construction Co. and the C. G. E. Co. He stated that there was no liability on the part of the latter company to pay Moore and the Construction Co. could not call upon the C. G. E. Co. as there was nothing in the contract to that effect.

The decision as given above was then rendered and a stay of thirty days was allowed the defendants.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor, Post Card Column.

Dear Sir:—I notice in your paper a cordial invitation to attend "The Peterborough Exposition," and street cars will be running every five minutes. What a great accommodation for one part of the City! The East City residents would willingly patronize this fine exposition had they any convenience in the shape of street cars even, to rest their weary limbs. This part of the City, consequently, may have to remain at home.

Yours truly,
EAST CITY RESIDENT

Peterborough, Sept. 17, 1908.

PROGRAMME FOR TO-NIGHT

It is estimated that one of the biggest, if not the the biggest crowd that ever attended an exhibition in this city, was on the grounds this afternoon for the first big day of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. The early morning trains brought large contingents and more arrived at noon, while an excursion from Lindsay by special train carried 1200 visitors to the city and most of them took in the fair. The country for many miles around must be deserted to-day judging by the way the farmers have been pouring in since early morning, and most of them have brought something in the way of an exhibition too. Millbrook, Hastings, Campbellford, Norwood, Havelock and Lakefield, in fact, all the towns and villages in the vicinity are well represented on the fair grounds this afternoon.

A special car service was put on by the Radial Railway Company and the crowd was handled well considering its vast proportions and the number of cars at the convenience of the company. Every body was going to the fair and the cars running in other directions were deserted.

"The best fair yet" was the verdict of every one on the grounds at Exhibition Park this morning and this opinion will no doubt be echoed by the enormous crowd which has congregated there this afternoon. There are more exhibits, better displays, and a bigger Midway than ever and there is plenty for the crowd to look at around the grounds which present a most attractive appearance. Beginning at the eastern entrance there is a tented street running nearly all the way to the grand stand, and here is the Midway with many attractive special displays. Among those who have displays there are J. J. Turner and Sons, G. Walter Green, the Laval Separator Company, The Oshawa Metallic Roofing Company, Tinnie Bros., Cavanville, vehicle manufacturers, Messrs. Storey & Simpson Agricultural Implements, The Canadian Dairyman, The Weekly Examiner, Lang & Maher, and many other similar exhibits.

President Leary and other directors when seen on the grounds this morning by the Examiner were more than delighted with the outlook. They expressed delight at the weather conditions and at the fact that the entries promise to exceed all records. The clerical staff in the secretary's tent have been working overtime this morning and they will have a sigh of relief when the rush is over. In the live stock classes there were never more or better entries, while the ladies say that the fancy work department, in excellence surpasses anything yet shown here.

The main building is worth something more than a brief visit. The fair visitor should take his time and grid iron this building throughout, as there is much here that should not be overlooked. Upstairs the ladies will find much to interest them and no doubt they will take advantage of the opportunity. The building will be lighted to-night so that those who have not a chance to see the display this afternoon can do so to-night.

The programme to-night will include moving pictures, a band concert, the grand stand attractions and other amusements. The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated for the occasion.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

There were many exhibits at the Fair specially worthy of mention. One of the most encouraging features this year was the increased number of prominent exhibits throughout the grounds and in the main building. Quite a number of our local manufacturers and merchants took a lively interest in exhibiting their goods, with the result that some of the most effective displays of the kind were made, increasing the general interest to visitors, and at the same time proving advantageous to the exhibitors themselves by the extra publicity given their wares.

American Cereal Co. Fine Display

Prominent in the main building is the exhibit of the American Cereal Company, which consists of a pyramid design of Quaker Flour, Quaker Oats, Rolled White Oats, Banner Oats, Saxony Oats, Puffed Rice, Corn Flakes, Yellow Corn Meal and other cereals. There were also shown samples of the company's dairy and horse food, in which the farmers evince special interest. These were the Schumber Stock Food, a kiln-dried preparation, and Dairy Molasses Food, for both horses and cattle—a sweetened preparation. It is said of the latter food that a Yankee farmer, in relating his experiences of its intrinsic value, remarked that he got a quart more milk from each of the cows he fed it

THE RETURNING OFFICERS FOR THE ELECTIONS

The Returning Officers for the coming Dominion Elections have been appointed. Mr. Sheriff Hall is the Returning Officer for West Peterborough, and Mr. Bernard Morrow, Registrar for East Peterborough.

HALF HOLIDAY FOR PUPILS OF LOCAL SCHOOLS

The pupils of the local schools had their first holiday this afternoon for the present term. They were given a chance to see the big pumpkins, the tempting apples, the freak pig, etc. The majority of them went to the grounds with the price of admission in their pockets, but it is safe betting that few of them parted with it in that way. To jump the fence and have the watchman give chase is something to "crow" about when they get back to school again, and half the pleasure of seeing the Fair would be missing if they had any other but a fence ticket. "Boys will be boys" is as appropriate a quotation to-day as it was thirty years ago.

Empire Poultry Duster, the great lice exterminator, is endorsed by leading poultry fanciers as "best yet," 25 cents, at all dealers.

RASPBERRY BUSHES PRODUCE SECOND CROP

The weather of the past few weeks has apparently been favourable for the growth of the raspberry fruit. This, at any rate has been the case on the farm of Mr. William Steinkrauss, of the Second Line of Smith Township. Early in the year the raspberry bushes produced a handsome crop for Mr. Steinkrauss, and just recently he has had the pleasure, common to few of again plucking a fairly good crop of the ruddy fruit from the vines.

DEMISE OF MR. DENCH

One of Lakefield's Best Known Citizens—Loss to Agricultural Interests

HE PASSED AWAY TO-DAY

News was received in the city this morning of the death of Mr. R. Q. Dench, one of the oldest residents of Douro Township. Mr. Dench had been ailing for some time with a complication of diseases but his death whilst not altogether unexpected, will cause the deepest regret amoung his acquaintances and friends, whose name was legion. The deceased gentleman was the last survivor of the band of Englishman who came out to this country under the sheltering aegis of the late Col. Strickland. Mr. Dench was a familiar figure at the Agricultural shows in this county, and was for years and, in fact, up to the time of his death the president of the Smith and Ennismore Agricultural Society.

Mr. Dench leaves surviving him, his widow, Mrs. Dench, one son, Mr. Bernard Dench of Douro, and four daughters, Mrs. Patrick of Smith, Mrs Blackwell of Fowlers' Corners, Mrs Robt Jory of Douro and Miss Fanny Dench.

PRESENTED WITH TRAVELLING BAG BY HIS FRIENDS

An interesting function took place at Hooper's Palm Parlours last night when a number of friends of Mr. E. M. Best gathered at an informal little banquet to say farewell on the eve eof his departure from the city. Mr. Best was presented with a handsome travelling bag as a slight mark of the esteem in which he is held, the presentation being made by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Mr. Best made a suitable reply.

Mr. Best left this morning for Springfield, Mass., where he will enter the Y.M.C.A. training school. He intends to devote himself to Y.M.C.A. work.

SIGNALMAN AT REID ST GETS A HOUSE TO-DAY

Mr. D. McPhail, foreman of the department of bridges and buildings of the G.T.R. at Lindsay, was in the city to-day supervising the work of placing a house at Reid street crossing for the watchman at that point. It came down to Peterborough on a flat car and was unloaded and set up for habitation and use.

MAPLE GROVE BURNED IN EMILY

Belonged to Mr. Joseph Meehan—Berry Patch Destroyed

The destruction by fire of Mr. Jos. Meehan's grove, together with about ten acres of berry patch on his farm, lot 18, con. 13, King's Wharf, Emily, has been reported.

Mr. Meehan at present resides near Lindsay and his many friends will regret to learn of the damage wrought by the fire.

THE TORONTO WORLD of Sept. 18th, 1908 has the following:---

Those Conservatives who are minimizing Mr. Stratton's candidature in West Peterborough or his influence in the midland district, do not know their man. When J. R. Stratton was provincial secretary it was admitted by friends and foes alike that he was a model administrator. His career in business in Peterborough and Toronto gives ample evidence of his capacity. In the industrial and financial life of the province Mr. Stratton is playing no small role, and it is a game that requires ability. It is common talk that since the defeat of the Ross government Mr. Stratton is the only ex-member of that organization who has taken his place in private life, and wrought out a commanding position for himself, absolutely without aid or favour from those who carry political positions in their pockets. Ontario's new lieutenant-governor has fallen a victim to the placeman habit. Premier Ross is in the senate, Mr: Latchford on the bench, and so you may go on, but Mr. Stratton has chosen to disregard the offer of a senatorship, and now takes his place in the firing line to win West Peterborough. Mr. Stratton is a man of capacity with an administrative reputation worthy of note, and altogether a candidate that measures up to the best that there is in Liberalism in Ontario.

FOUR LOCAL MEN PURCHASE BUILDING AND MACHINERY OF WILLIAM HAMILTON FOUNDRY AND WILL BEGIN OPERATIONS BY NOVEMBER 1st

Buy From A. R. Williams Company---In Strong Financial Hands---Fifty Men to be Employed at First---Have Orders Already For $60,000 Worth of Machinery---City Council to Be Asked For Loan

THE DEAL WAS CONCLUDED ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The announcement that the William Hamilton foundry will be in operation, employing at least fifty men, by the first of November is possibly the most welcome news for Peterborough in many a day. The fact, too, that operations will be in strong financial hands lends an additional effect to the resuscitation of teh Hamilton works.

It will be remembered that some time ago the property, buildings and all their equipment were purchased by the A. R. Williams Company of Toronto. That company had intended dismantling the machinery to remove it to Toronto, and, in fact, had begun the work.

In the meantime negotiations were entered into between the A. R. Williams Company and Mr. H. B. Collier of the Collier-Cunningham Company and Messrs. G. Walter Green, Andrew MacFarlane and J. C. Smith, with the result that the land, building, machinery, stock and patents were purchased by Mr. Collier. The deal was concluded at 12 o'clock on Wednesday night.

Some Big Orders

The terms upon which the purchase was made were most favourable to the purchaser. The new company will be known as the William Hamilton Company, Limited. Already it has orders for $60,000 worth of machinery, and these have to be delivered within the next eighteen months.

The City Council, of course, is interested in the matter and will be urged to go ahead with the bylaw ratified last year by the Legislature, granting a loan of $30,000 under specified conditions. It is necessary to the company that this portion of what is considered the City Council's duties is carried out.

The actual cost of the real estate, machinery, etc., to the old company was $340,000. The boiler shop and the foundry are practically new buildings, having been erected within the past six years. The machinery in these is also almost new, the whole being valued at about $40,000. Expert valuators have valued the plant as it now stands at $210,000, which is a minimum valuation.

Organizing Company

The company will be organized at once, and operations will begin as soon as $60,000 stock has been subscribed. This will undoubtedly be prior to November 1. At first about fifty hands will be required, and this number will be gradually increased.

High Court Sat One And A Half Hours After Midnight

When the members of the bar and the attendants at the court gathered this morning for the continuation of the hearing of the case of Young vs. the Dominion Engineering and Construction Co., there were evident signs of their long vigil last night.

Mr. F. D. Kerr was heard to remark that it seemed as if he had slept in the court room through the night. When the hearing was resumed after luncheon last night the evidence continued to be taken until the hour of midnight was reached. At about half past one the work was concluded and Mr Justice Magee reserved judgment until 9.30 a. m. the interim being afforded for a snatch of sleep.

Bird Stolen From Veranda Cage In South Part Of City

A bold bird theft was committed in the south part of the city yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. Pogue, 280 William street, had her pet canery a year old green bird, which she reared herself and highly prized on this account and also because he was a beautiful warbler. During the afternoon a boy about twelve years old pushed a chair under the cage and stole the bird, leaving the cage closed showing that the bird had not escaped of itself. The tracks of the boy's feet in the dust on the chair indicated that he was about 12 years old. If any body is asked to purchase a canery of this kind, green plumage, it is likely to be Mrs. Pogue's pet bird.

PICTONITES TO THE NUMBER OF 1200 HERE TO-DAY

One of the largest excursions that has visited Peterboro this year was that of the Canadian Order of Foresters of Picton, which arrived at 12:15 o'clock to-day over the C. P. R.

The train was composed of 11 coaches and one of the party estimated that there were nearly 1,200 excursionists on board. They came over the C. O. R. to the junction east of Havelock and from there they completed the journey on the C. P. R. They were a fine looking representative crowd, orderly and well behaved Many intended to see Peterboro's show places before going to the exhibition.

THE P. C. I. ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Officers Elected at a Meeting Held Last Night

At the close of school yesterday at the Collegiate Institute, a meeting was held in one of the forms and a Peterborough Collegiate Institute Athletic Association formed. Mr. Adams, the physical director, who is an athlete himself, is interested in the association and with his energetic assistance it will no doubt be successful. The officers elected are:—

Hon. Pres., H. R. H. Kenner,
Pres., Harry Hall.
Vice-Pres., M. Dobbin.
Sec.-Treas., M. O'Brien.

A representative from each form will constitute an executive commitee. Dr. A. W. MacPherson will train the boys in Rugby.

The association will have charge of all branches of sport in connection with the Institute. Rugby practices will soon be announced and a hockey team this winter will be organized.

THE HIBERNIAN COUNTY CONVENTION

Officers Elected Last Night for Coming Year

At the County Convention of the A. O. H., held last night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:—

County President, James Hickey.
County Vice-Pres., William Lynch.
County Rec.-Sec., John Hanrahan.
County Fin.-Sec., Chas. P. Murty.
County Treasurer, Joseph Kelly.

ENORMOUS CROWD ATTENDS OPENING OF PETERBORO'S BIG INDUSTRIAL FAIR THIS AFTERNOON

Best Fair Yet is the Verdict—More Entries and More Display Than Ever Before

THE CITIZENS SHOULD ATTEND FAIR TO-NIGHT

Thanks to the citizens of Peterborough as well as those from the surrounding country, the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has to-day been a complete success. There probably was never such a crowd on the exhibition grounds on the occasion of the annual Exhibition as there was this afternoon. And after all it's the crowd that makes the success. Visitors expect to see their friends from other parts of the county, and when they meet they have a "big" time and say the Fair was a success. If all those who possibly can, attend the Fair to-night and to-morrow, Peterborough will be raised to a higher standard among the smaller cities of Eastern Ontario.

IS AWARDED CLAIM

WAS CONCLUDED TO-DAY

Judgment reserved from yesterday's session of the Autumn assizes of the High Court of Justice in the case of Young vs. the Dominion Engineering and Construction Co., Ltd., was delivered this morning by Mr. Justice Magee, the plaintiff, Dr. T. W. H. Young, being allowed the full extent of his claim,—$301.00 and costs.

No liability was connected with the C. G. E. Co.

The evidence was all in at an early hour this morning after sitting all day yesterday. In fact it was just half past one when the whole city was wrapped in slumber that the court was adjourned until 9:30 a.m.

His Lordship Justice Magee in opening to-day's session considered the evidence which he had received. The case was peculiarly complex in many respects. The Dominion Engineering and Construction Co. contracted with the C. G. E. Co. to superintend the construction of the Transformer building. His Lordship stated that they were more than mere foremen, they were the actual contractors. On the 9th of May, 1907, David J. Moore was injured in this work and Dr. Young was called to attend him. He was not fully recovered until March, 1908. In October Dr. Young sent in his first claim to the Construction Co. for $277.00 because there had been some delay in collecting in two other cases that he had attended and given his attention. The company replied that they had no knowledge of his service to Moore and forwarded the account to the C. G. E. Co. This was the first intimation that the account would be disputed.

His Lordship was satisfied that the officers in charge of the Construction Co. were aware of the fact that Dr. Young was attending Moore. It appears to have been decided that he would be called in when needed. He did not receive a notice in Moore's case that the company provided ogly for first aid cases. Mr. Beattie and Mr. Nesbitt had been at the hospital to visit the injured man and knew that the doctor was attending the man under the idea that he would be paid by them. They did not intimate otherwise. Moreover in letter sent in August, they gave the plaintiff no notice to cease attending Mr. Moore.

His Lordship dealt fully with the relations between the Construction Co. and the C. G. E. Co. He stated that there was no liability on the part of the latter company to pay Moore and the Construction Co. could not call upon the C. G. E. Co. as there was nothing in the contract to that effect.

The decision as given above was then rendered and a stay of thirty days was allowed the defendants.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor, Post Card Column.

Dear Sir:—I notice in your paper a cordial invitation to attend "The Peterborough Exposition," and street cars will be running every five minutes. What a great accommodation for one part of the City! The East City residents would willingly patronize this fine exposition had they any conveyance in the shape of street cars even, to rest their weary limbs. This part of the City, consequently, may have to remain at home.

Yours truly,
EAST CITY RESIDENT

Peterborough, Sept. 17, 1908.

PROGRAMME FOR TO-NIGHT

It is estimated that one of the biggest, if not the the biggest crowd that ever attended an exhibition in this city, was on the grounds this afternoon for the first big day of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. The early morning trains brought large contingents and more arrived at noon, while an excursion from Picton by special train carried 1200 visitors to the city and most of them took in the fair. The country for many miles around must be deserted to-day judging by the way the farmers have been pouring in since early morning, and most of them have brought something in the way of an exhibition too. Milbrook, Hastings, Campbellford, Norwood, Havelock and Lakefield, in fact, all the towns and villages in the vicinity are well represented on the fair grounds this afternoon.

A special car service was put on by the Radial Railway Company and the crowd was handled well considering its vast proportions and the number of cars at the convenience of the company. Every body was going to the fair and the cars running in other directions were deserted.

"The best fair yet" was the verdict of every one on the grounds at Exhibition Park this morning and this opinion will no doubt be echoed by the enormous crowd which has congregated there this afternoon. There are more exhibits, better displays, and a bigger Midway than ever and there is plenty for the crowd to look at around the grounds which present a most attractive appearance. Beginning at the eastern entrance there is a tented street running nearly all the way to the grand stand, and here is the Midway and many attractive special displays. Among those who have displays here are J. J. Turner and Sons, G. Walter Green, the Laval Separator Company, The Oshawa Metallic Roofing Company, Tinnis Bros., Cavanville, vehicle manufacturers, Messrs. Storey & Simpson Agricultural Implements, The Canadian Dairyman, The Weekly Examiner, Lang & Maher, and many other similar exhibits.

President Leary and other directors when seen on the grounds this morning by the Examiner were more than delighted with the outlook. They expressed delight at the weather conditions and at the fact that the entries promise to exceed all records. The clerical staff in the secretary's tent have been working over time this morning and they will have a sigh of relief when the rush is over. In the live stock classes there were never more or better entries, while the ladies say that the fancy work department, in excellence surpasses anything yet shown here.

The main building is worth something more than a brief visit. The fair visitor should take his time and grid iron this building throughout, as there is much here that should not be overlooked. Upstairs the ladies will find much to interest them and no doubt they will take advantage of the opportunity. The building will be lighted to-night so that those who have not a chance to see the display this afternoon can do so to-night.

The programme to-night will include moving pictures, a band concert, the grand stand attractions and other amusements. The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated for the occasion.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

There were many exhibits at the Fair specially worthy of mention. One of the most encouraging features this year was the increased number of prominent exhibits throughout the grounds and in the main building. Quite a number of our local manufacturers and merchants took actively interest in exhibiting their goods, with the result that some of the most effective displays of the kind were made, increasing the general interest to visitors, and at the same time proving advantageous to the exhibitors themselves by the extra publicity given their wares.

American Cereal Co. Fine Display

Prominent in the main building is the exhibit of the American Cereal Company, which consists of a pyramid design of Quaker Flour, Quaker Oats, Rolled White Oats, Banner Oats, Saxony Oats, Puffed Rice, Corn Flakes, Yellow Corn Meal and other cereals. There were also shown samples of the company's dairy and horse food, in which the farmers evince special interest. These were the Schumber Stock Food, a kiln-dried preparation, and Dairy Molasses Food, for both horses and cattle—a sweetened preparation. It is said of the latter food that a Yankee farmer, in relating his experiences of its intrinsic value, remarked that he got a quart more milk from each of the cows he fed it

CHOICE NOT DIFFICULT.

The Review, in instituting a comparison of representative benefits conferred in West Peterborough, modestly asserts that Mr. Bradburn, in his short term of three years, has done more for Peterborough and West Peterborough than Mr. Stratton did in twenty years. Mr. Bradburn's representative benefactions consist, according to the Review, in his bringing the Normal School to Peterborough. It may not be gracious to look the gift-horse in the mouth, but it is to be remembered that it is not exactly a gift-horse, but something that Peterborough paid for pretty roundly. The city furnished the site free to the Government, a secluded site that so completely hides the building that it is not even an architectural ornament nor a visible credit to our public buildings. Then the city had to spend from $25,000 to $30,000 to provide auxiliary school buildings for Normal School purposes. Besides, the Government, having had four or five Normal School buildings to distribute at proper points, Peterborough was found to be a point that could not be overlooked, and the school would have been placed here, anyway. Mr. Bradburn's services are not disparaged, because he is not a factor in the present fight. The question before the people is as to the selection of a representative in the Dominion Parliament and as to the choice of the man best qualified by record, experience and practical qualifications, to do the best for West Peterborough. Judged by record and representative ability, the people will have little difficulty in deciding between the Conservative and Liberal candidates. Dreaming and doing are the qualities that respectively distinguish the two men.

The record of the two parties, supported by the respective candidates in the arena of government shows a wide divergence. Under the one we have had twelve years of abounding prosperity in every department of national activity and interest. Under the other, eighteen years, barren in accomplishment, save for considerable work on canal enlargement and the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway; trade stagnation, business depression, falling revenue, the regime winding up with a beautiful family fight over the spoils of office and preferment.

There should be as little trouble in deciding between the representative equipment of the candidates as between the administrative equipment of the present Liberal and the past and aspiring Conservative Government.

A TALE FROM HISTORY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's oratory is of a two-fold quality, it sounds well and reads well. He shews the bare bones of dry facts with fair flesh making them attractive. His illustrations are always happy and here is one of them. After referring to the suspicious affection of the Conservative leaders for the "old Liberals" Sir Wiltrid told this story:

"It would be well perhaps to tell a tale from the history of England, which perhaps has some reason for its application to this case. Charles II. was King of England, and he was not a very good man in some things, like myself, (Laughter,) because, gentlemen, I read the daily press of the Conservative party, and I have read the Daily Mail every day, and I will be candid, and I suppose that it will be accounted to me for my sins some time or other. (Laughter.) When I read the Tory Mail and some other newspapers I may say in all candour that I am shocked and horrified at my wickedness. (Laughter.) I cannot believe myself to be as bad as that, and I apply the story of Charles II. in this way: Charles II. had some good points, and I may say that perhaps I have some good points also. Charles II. had no children and that perhaps is another point of comparison, and his brother was heir, who became James II. and who had not the good points that Charles had. One day he told his brother that bad news had come to him, that he had received notice that there was a plot to assassinate the King. Charles simply tapped his brother on the shoulder and said: "They will never kill me to make you king. (Laughter.) I have this to say: That there is not an old Liberal who will take power away from me and my friends, George P Graham and Rodolphe Lemieux, to give it into the hands of Mr. Borden or Mr. Foster. (Laughter.)

Better five years more of Fielding and surpluses than eighteen more dreary years of Foster and deficits.

A WONDERFUL RECORD.

Do the business men of Canada quite appreciate the wonderful record of the Canadian Postoffice under Liberal administration? Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the Postmaster-General, put the facts in most concise form at the great Niagara Falls meeting on Tuesday. The last year of Conservative administration produced a deficit of $700,997. There has been no deficit since 1903, and last year the surplus was $1,100,000. How has this been secured? By so reducing the rates of postage as to popularize the service in every branch. Here are the rates of postage on various classes of mail matter under Conservative and Liberal rule:

Letters to Great Britain and the Empire generally—
Conservative 5 cents,
Liberal 2 cents.
Letters to Canadian points—
Conservative, 3 cents,
Liberal 2 cents.
Letters to United States—
Conservative, 3 cents.
Liberal 2 cents.
Drop-letters for city delivery—
Conservative, 2 cents.
Liberal, 1 cent.
Papers sent to Great Britain by the public—
Conservative, 5 cents per lb.
Liberal, 4 cents.
Papers sent to Great Britain by publishers—
Conservative, 5 cents per lb.
Liberal, 1-4 of 1 cent.

Behind all this comes the introduction of free rural mail delivery. That is the wonderful story of the Canadian Postoffice under Liberal rule.

IT IS GOOD BUSINESS.

Here is another compliment for the work of the Dominion Government in improving transportation facilities as represented by Montreal Harbour. President Stephens, of the Harbour Commission, has just returned from a trip to Chicago, Duluth, Minneapolis, Winnipeg and other western points. In an interview he uses the following significant language:

"That Montreal is growing in favour as a grain port was everywhere in evidence. One shipper stated that last year he sent 2,000,000 bushels by Montreal, 300,000 by Portland and 164,000 by Buffalo, giving as his reason that it is handier to ship through Montreal than any other North Atlantic port, the trade is not hampered by petty charges, better despatch is given, identity of grain shipped is preserved and shortages are less. Out of a million bushels of grain shipped through Montreal the shortage was only ten pounds, while the shortages at other North Atlantic ports average as high as one-quarter of one per cent. Another large shipper declared that he had not received a single complaint out of 26,000,000 bushels shipped through the port of Montreal.

"One of the most gratifying facts, admitted by every grain man interviewed, was the superior integrity of the grain inspection carried out under the Canadian grain inspection department by Chief Inspector Horn. A Canadian grain certificate to which is attached the name of David Horn ranks in Liverpool on London higher than any other inspection."

The accomplishment of these great results, the conversion of Montreal into an ocean port, the successful rival of New York as a grain shipping centre, is due to the foresight enterprise and liberality of the Liberal Government. "Large sums have been spent in improving the harbour and the St. Lawrence route. These are included in the large expenditure, which the Conservatives are condemning. But it is money well spent—an investment whose dividends appear in the form of wide spread national benefits. This is a type of the Liberal expenditure made by the Liberal Government. We had an overflowing revenue, the country needed improvements that cost money. We had the money. The Liberal Government made the improvements and the people got the benefit. Isn't that good administration? Isn't that good business?—to spend the people's money to supply the people's needs, to improve their condition and increase their prosperity.

WELL-DESERVED TRIBUTE.

Referring to Mr. Stratton's administration as Provincial Secretary, the Stratford Beacon said:

The tribute paid by Premier Ross to the Hon. J. R. Stratton, as administrator of the public institutions of the Province, was well deserved. One has only to converse with the heads of the various asylums in the Province to learn that they are unanimous in the opinion that Mr. Stratton is the best administrator of the Department the Province has ever had. He has been bitterly assailed by the Opposition, but not a single charge of wrong-doing in connection with the institutions he has in his charge has ever been made, much less proved. A capable and honourable business man, he has brought intelligence, skill and industry to his duties, with the result that the Province has greatly benefited by his administrative work. Time will yet vindicate Mr. Stratton in the opinion of his opponents, and we are confident the future has in store for him further fields of public usefulness and honour.

AN OVERWORKED MISREPRESENTATION.

The Mail and Empire in its report of Mr. R L Borden's speech at Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, says:—

"Another phase of his attack was his stating the fact that the cost of the Transcontinental, which Liberals in 1904 asserted would be only $13,000,000, it is now admitted will be nearly $200,000,000."

It is quite possible that the leader of the Opposition was so reported by The Mail and Empire, but if he was so it is open to him to make the necessary explanation of what he did say. The statement he is credited with making is so utterly erroneous and inexcusable that under ordinary circumstances it might safely be ignored; purporting to come from Mr. Borden at the opening of an election campaign, it acquires a factitious importance that makes necessary an exposure of its ridiculous character. That is clearly shown by the fact that, as the eastern division is eighteen hundred miles long, any Liberal making the assertion that it would cost only thirteen million dollars would be allowing only a little over five thousand dollars a mile for the cost of construction, and this through a rough uninhabited country. No Liberal speaker or writer ever made such a statement and Mr. Borden knows that very well. He knows only too well that his political opponents are not stupid.

The sum of "thirteen million dollars"—to be more accurate, thirteen million dollars and nearly three-quarters—first came into the discussion of the Transcontinental railway project in the House of Commons in 1903. The person responsible for its introduction there was Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance, and he explained very fully how he arrived at it. He summed up all the cash payments to be made under the contract to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company and stated that the sum above mentioned, handed over to a company accustomed to dealing with annuities, to invest at three per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly, would "pay every cent of the obligation we assume under the contract." These cash payments are seven years' interest on the mountain section of the western division up to thirty thousand dollars a mile, seven years' interest on the cost of construction of the eastern division, and seven years' interest on the two million dollars properly chargeable to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company as its share of the cost of construction of the Quebec bridge. The present values of these sums are, respectively, as follows:

Eastern division	$ 8,853,509
Mountain section	2,334,575
Quebec bridge	324,248
Total	$11,512,323

To this Mr. Fielding added twenty-five per cent. of the amount charged against the eastern division, to cover a possible increased interest charge due to the cost of construction exceeding the estimate, namely, $2,213,383—a total of $13,725,706. To make it perfectly clear that the cost of construction of the eastern division was not included in this summation. Mr. Fielding, in answer to a question from one of the members, remarked that if the Government, at the end of the company's lease of the completed line, should resolve to pay the debt incurred for its construction it would take over the road from Winnipeg to Moncton. In fact the cost of construction of the eastern division is an investment of capital at three per cent. per annum, and is not a cash payment to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company. As the work of construction has progressed its cost has been greater than Mr. Fielding's estimate of five years ago. It follows that the thirteen millions and three-quarters should now be increased, but the increase would not be material, and it could not affect the correctness otherwise of Mr. Fielding's contention.—Toronto Globe.

A REMINDER.

The following printed in the Montreal Star, of July 21st, 1907, will pretty well apply to the present conditions and the electors of 1900 and 1904:

"Never did a political party so much deserve, never did a political party so much need, a beating as the Conservative party deserved and needed one at the last Federal elections. The Conservatives were distrustful of each other, disloyal to their leaders, and among them were men who were quite right to distrust each other. Before long there must be a great re-construction of the Conservative party, and the exigencies of the situation may as well be recognized at once. Some of the old leaders can never be leaders again, and now is the time to get rid of them. If the Conservative party is to command the respect and confidence of the country it must have leaders worthy of respect and confidence. The reconstruction will involve not only the getting rid of some of the old leaders, but the selection of new ones."

Since the beginning of the year, 1,031 persons have been sent back to the country of their origin and 486 have been refused admission to Canada. This may be taken to show that the immigration authorities are at least actively endeavouring to keep out the obviously unfit. It is rough on the unfortunates, but after long study such measures have been found necessary.

EDITORIAL NOTES

While Mr. Fielding is being reproached as the worst possible Finance Minister, and suddenly accused of ruining Canada's credit, a Toronto financial man figures out that over a hundred and forty millions of British capital have been invested in Canada in the last year, which wasn't a very good year, either. Canada's credit will probably survive the attacks on Mr. Fielding. So will Mr. Fielding.

The Montreal Gazette wants to know why, if Laurier is responsible for the prosperity, he did not maintain it last year. Easy, easy, explains the Herald. Sir Wilfrid was across the Atlantic last spring and summer, and Mr. Borden claimed 1907 as his year. He went on a tour; the bridge fell when he got to Quebec, and the crop froze when he went West. Either he will have to promise to be good in future, or we shall have to keep Laurier at home.

Mr. Borden and his friends claim credit for that gentleman for the Civil Service Reform bill passed by the Liberal Government last session. This is a small matter, but if Mr. Borden had so much influence as to compel a hostile government to accept his policy, how does it come that he was not able to convince Sir James Whitney and the friendly Provincial premiers now starring with him, to drop their spoils policy, and adopt his Civil Service Reform policy? The first party leader to advocate civil service reform was Hon. G. P. Graham when he was Ontario Opposition leader.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, the Finance Minister past of the Conservative Government and the Finance Minister designate of the dim and distant future, declaims with Fosterian ferocity against the extravagant expenditure of the Grits, and at the same time promises ten millions to Prince Edward Island for a railway, tunnel to the mainland. In this Mr. Foster is consistent. He, as an Oppositionist, is bound to condemn Grit expenditure and extravagant, and incurs not the slightest responsibility in promising the ten-million-dollar tunnel; no more than he would in promising the Islanders a million-dollar tunnel to China. He has, and promises to have, no chance in his generation to give either at the expense of the Dominion exchequer.

MR. GRANT INSPECTS LINDSAY BRIDGE

New Structure Likely to be Erected on Wellington Street

Lindsay, Sept. 18. — Tuesday morning Mr. Alex. J. Grant, superintending engineer of the Trent Canal, during his brief stay in Lindsay, visited Wellington street bridge. The structure was examined and the information was given that the Government would build an up-to-date bridge to replace the present one, with a foot-bridge on the north side.

Proceeding to the locks and dam the engineer remarked that by the middle of September, 1909, new structures would replace the ones at present in use, which, he stated, were fast going to decay.

HIDING MONEY.

Queer Places in Which the Cubans Secrete Their Spare Cash.

Although there are now excellent savings banks in Cuba, for generations the people have been accustomed to secrete their cash. A traveler tells of one hiding place in a bird house in a tree. The Cuban's residence had been looted a number of times during various revolutions, but the raiders had never suspected the bird house in the tree. After the death of the head of the family the valuables were removed by the children and placed in the Havana bank. In another case the wall of a building was chosen. A man with considerable patience hollowed out one of the stones in this wall. Five days were consumed in chipping out the hollow. Within this hollow the little casket containing jewels and money was placed. Then a stone slab had to be cut to replace the front without showing any break. This required two days more. The piece of stone was slipped into place and sealed with cement. In order to remove the stone front tools were required each time. But this hiding place served for years and exists now.

One man thought he had found a most effective hiding place when he put a shelf up under the eaves of his house for holding the cash box. This place was chosen partly because of the existence of a small hornets' nest there. Robbers, as a rule, will not take much interest in searching a place in the vicinity of a nest of wasps or hornets. But the home of the insects grew, and after a few months the nest expanded to the box, and the owner could not get the box without danger of being stung. He was obliged to hire two bee experts to come with nets and ladders and remove the box. A wasp stung through one man's mitt just as he grasped the box, and the receptacle fell to the pavement below, and some small pearls were scattered about the place. Several hours were consumed in finding the lost valuables. The owner vowed that he would place his valuables in a depository in Havana thereafter.

Another odd place for hiding a bag of cash was in a hollowed table leg. Cuba is noted for its ponderous articles of furniture. There are tables with ample surface for hollowing a secret chamber. Usually a tightly fitting door is made, and when this is closed the bag is well concealed. The hall light stands are not overlooked in some of the homes of the Spaniards and the Cubans. The natives of the country love to have plenty of hall light. These hall lights are often fixed to elaborate stands. One such stand proved to be a very effective hiding place for years until one night the house burned down and the money went with it.

Every Day May Be a Sunday.

Welland, Sept. 18.—Hon. George E. ster and J. P. Downey, M.P.P., w a big crowd to the rink last ht.

Mr. Foster replied to Sir Wilfrid urier's Niagara Falls speech at et length, attacking the Prime nister's statement of the financial dition of the country.

Mr. Foster alluded to the thirtieth iversary of the national policy H observed that to-day there was party or leader, or remnant of a rty, that would venture to propose t the national policy should be posed of, and that we should re- n to the policy that was in force evious to 1878. That was the great- tribute that could be rendered to t policy.

For years Mr. Borden and his co- utors had been endeavoring to mulate a policy for the upbuilding Canada.

Dealing further with the Laurier hres of finance, which Mr. Foster imed were wrong, he asked where re the $113,000,000 of the Fielding rplus? These were a myth. Every ar he had added to the debt, and ore the year was out he would have deficit of from 20 to 40 millions.

Our trade had fallen off about $45,- ,000, and for the year the revenue uld not be more than $80,000,000. t year Parliament voted 121 mil- n dollars and spent 116 millions. a year Parliament voted 140 mil- ns and it was fair to assume that Government would spend 125 mil- ns of it. There was the 40 mil- ns of deficit. For the Grand Trunk cific we would be called upon to od 166 millions.

Five Dead, Four Fatally Injured and Forty Hurt In U. S. Wrecks.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Five persons are dead, four fatally injured and two score more or less dangerously hurt as the result of a series of railroad accidents throughout the United States yesterday.

Fog and forest fires were largely responsible for the casualties.

In Chicago two laborers were run down by a train in a fog and two collisions in other parts of the city brought serious injury to a dozen persons.

At Mount Pleasant, Mich., a fireman was killed and four men hurt in a wreck due to smoke from forest fires.

Other wrecks at Erie, Belle Vernon and Corry, Pa., and a collision between an automobile and a trolley car at Newark, N.J., swell the total dead and injured to fifty.

BORDEN VISITS QUEBEC.

Blames Government For Bridge Disaster—Lavergne on Platform.

Quebec, Sept. 18.—Fully 3,000 heard Mr. Borden and those who accompanied him at the skating rink last night, and there was considerable enthusiasm.

Amongst those on the platform were Armand Lavergne, Charles Smith, president of the Conservative Club of Quebec, who presided; Premier Hasen, Premier Roblin, Hon. Mr. Hanna and Hon. Obese Casgrain.

Mr. Borden spoke in both languages. Referring to the Quebec bridge he held the Laurier Government was responsible through its lack of proper supervision.

He admitted the importance of the fast Atlantic steamers, and claimed that the fast service had first been proposed by Sir Charles Tupper.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—London cables for cattle are steady at 11½c to 12¼c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9¼c to 10¼c per pound.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market on Thursday, as reported by the railways, were 70 carloads, composed of 867 cattle, 1563 hogs, 1716 sheep and lambs, with 73 calves.

Exporters.

Not many export steers were on sale, and any that were offered were not first class and sold from $4.80 to $5. Bulls are quoted at $3.50 to $4.25.

Butchers.

McDonald & Halligan sold 5 cattle, 1175 lbs. each, at $5; and Maybee, Wilson & Hall, 6 cattle, 1200 lbs. each, at $4.80; after these the bulk of the best butchers' sold from $4.25 to $4.60; medium, $3.90 to $4.15; common, $3.50 to $3.90; cows, $2.50 to $3.60; canners, $1 to $2.40; bologna bulls are counted in the last class.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report trade slow and draggy this week in all lines except the good 1000 lb. class, of which there were very few offered. The class of stockers offered this week was below the average in quality, which helped considerably in discouraging buyers. The continued dry weather is also taking the edge off the trade, and if it continues light cattle will sell lower next week, especially common and medium kind. Messrs. Murby bought about 250 head this week at following prices: Best feeders, 950 to 1050 lbs. each, at $3.50 to $3.90 per cwt.; best feeders, 800 to 950 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.50; best stockers, 650 to 800 lbs. each, at $2.50 to $3; medium stockers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $2.35 to $2.60; common stockers, 500 to 700 lbs. each, at $2 to $2.25.

Milkers and Springers.

Montreal buyers being on the market caused a strong market for good to choice milkers and springers. The best sold from $40 to $60 each; common light cows, at $25 to $35 each.

Veal Calves.

Market fairly good at $2.50 to $6, with a few picked at $6.25 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were large, with prices about steady, as follows: Export ewes, $3.75 to $4 per cwt.; rams, $2.50 to $3 per cwt.; lambs, $4.25 to $4.75.

Hogs.

About 1568 hogs were reported as coming on the market. Mr. Harris reports the market steady at $7 for selects fed and watered, and $6.75 for lights.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Sept. 17.—Calves—Steady; prime steers, $6 to $6.50.

Cheese Markets.

Ruling prices on the Ontario cheese boards yesterday were: 13 8-16c to 13⅝c per pound.

Leslie Committed.

Toronto, Sept. 18.—Col. J. K. Leslie was yesterday committed for trial by Magistrate Denison for the theft of $18,496.53 from the Exhibition Association, of which he was treasurer.

Judge O'Leary Chosen.

Toronto, Sept. 18.—Judge O'Leary was appointed the fifth commissioner for the Port Arthur & Fort William Railway and Municipal Board yesterday at the request of the mayors of both municipalities.

PLACING UNEMPLOYED.

Germany Has Bureaus and Also Home Shelters.

An army of unemployed is nothing new in Europe, and Great Britain, France and Germany have furnished valuable experience in the management of temporary relief. In their treatment of the problem European countries recognize three classes of the unemployed—the unemployable, the hopeless vagrant and incorrigible and the employable. For the employable employment bureaus have been established, Germany maintaining over 400 of these offices. Over 500,000 persons are placed in situations every year by the German bureaus. In France all towns of 10,000 inhabitants or over are compelled to maintain public employment bureaus.

In addition to the bureaus for finding employment to persons who are capable of work, there are in the German countries homes or hotels, called "home shelters," where traveling workingmen in search of employment may have lodging and food for a night or two by the payment of a small sum or, if unable to pay, by doing a little work. These home shelters are private institutions, supported by trades unions and also by religious societies. In Germany the Government is establishing a system of relief stations connected by telephone, and traveling workmen are directed by Government agents as they go from shelter to shelter where they are most likely to find employment. For the unemployable there are "labor colonies" where unfortunates out of work can have food and shelter so long as they conform to the rules of the colony. An advantage of the European system worth noting over here is that it prevents the massing of the unemployed in the great centres. They are kept moving and kept scattered while in search of work.

REPUBLICS INCREASE.

London News Finds That They Are Growing In Number.

The London News recently featured the republics of the world, printing on a two-page sheet the portraits of twenty-four presidents. Judging from the number of republics, The News is correct in assuming that republicanism is spreading. Only two of the number are in Europe—France and Switzerland. Switzerland probably comes nearer to the ideal of a republic than any nation under the sun. France is a republic in form only, for the cabinet rules, and the president is elected by the Senate. Mexico is a great country and is often referred to as an example of the benefits accruing from republican rule. But the fact is that Mexico is under a dictatorship, and probably there is more individual freedom today in monarchical England than in the republic of Mexico.

England is, probably the best representative in the world of the liberal monarchy idea. It is more democratic than the majority of so-called republics, and for more than a generation the drift of English political thought has been toward increased power for the people, with the throne only a symbol. France in reaction from the extremes of republicanism inclines toward a strong head and centralized power in actual ruling. Cuba is among the newest republics. Panama will have less opportunity for years to come for independent development than Cuba, provided the Cubans behave themselves halfway. But about all experience in the states of South America shows that the democratic title is a cover for dictatorship and seldom a guarantee of prosperity or of stability, which is the strong right arm of prosperity.

"Drummed Out."

The old regimental custom of "drumming out" a refractory or disgraced soldier has been revived in a Scottish Yeomanry regiment. Private James Rennie, of the A Squadron of the Fife and Forfar Imperial Yeomanry, is stated to have been put under arrest when in camp near Cupar for refusing to do work in connection with the horses which he considered excessive. According to a report, which was repeated in the House of Commons in the form of a question to the War Secretary, Rennie was marched under escort into the middle of the regiment formed up in hollow square, where he was told that he had been sentenced to be drummed out. The buttons were then cut from his tunic, and he was marched out of the square to the sound of the regimental drums. Mr. Haldane, who said that the War Office had no information, promised to make an inquiry into the matter.

Taking a Walk.

Justice—What have you to say in answer to the charge of stealing this man's plank walk?

The Accused—I took it by advice of my physician, yer honor. He told me to take a long walk every day. This was the first long walk I saw to-day, and of course I took it. A man can't afford to employ a doctor unless he takes his advice.

Justice—The court, however, will give you advice for nothing—three months' rest. You will take it in the house of correction.

Saved Himself.

Shepherd (concluding tale of bereavement)—Sae a gied her some o' that wee bottle that ye left yest'reen, an' she just slippit awa' at fower o'clock the morn.

Doctor—Dear, dear! I'm very sorry to hear that.

Shepherd (thoughtfully)—Eh, man doctor, iana it a mairey a didna tak' any o' the wee bottle masel'?

Wheat Fields Follow Civilization.

From the Atlantic coast the progress of grain production has advanced westward with settlement until it now has reached the banks of the North Saskatchewan river and the foothills of the Rocky mountains. In the days of our fathers the Richelieu valley was the great wheat field. It bore forty crops in succession.

Too Mature.

REFUSED COMMUNION.

Anglican Clergyman Goes on Carpet For High-Handed Act.

A clergyman of the Church of England has no right to "repel from Holy Communion" persons who have been legally married under the Deceased Wife's Sister Act, merely because they have been so married.

An important decision to this effect, which settles one of the most disputed points raised by the passing of the act, was delivered by the Dean of Arches in the Church House, at Westminster, England, in the case of Mr. Alan Neville Bannister and his wife, who were refused communion by Rev. Henry Thompson, vicar of Eaton, in the Norwich diocese.

The decision has been eagerly awaited by many of the clergy, who were opposed to the act, and believed themselves bound by the law of the Church to refuse communion to a man and woman who, being so related, became legally married.

In August, 1907—only sixteen days before the Deceased Wife's Sister Act came into force — Mr. Bannister, who was then a widower, came to Montreal, and there married his deceased wife's sister. On his return home to England, the vicar of Eaton, acting on the advice of the Bishop of Norwich, informed him that if he and his wife, who attended the parish church, presented themselves for Holy Communion, he would refuse to allow them to take part in the service.

By a law passed in the reign of King Edward VI., it is laid down that a clergyman "shall not, without lawful cause, deny the sacrament to any person that will devoutly and humbly desire it." The vicar's answer was that he had a lawful cause in that as Mr. Bannister married his deceased wife's sister, he and his wife, although legally married, were "open and notorious evil livers," to the offence of the congregation.

It was to test this extraordinary proposition that Mr. and Mrs. Bannister promoted the suit in the Court of Arches.

The dean stated that an "evil liver" is intended to mean a person whose course of life is "in conflict with the moral code of Christendom." "Thus, a Mormon marriage, although performed in Utah, is refused recognition in England because polygamy is inconsistent with marriage as understood in England," he said; "but a marriage between a man and his deceased wife's sister in Italy, after a dispensation had been obtained, would be recognized in England, because such marriages, although unlawful here, are not universally condemned by the general consent of Christendom.

"I find it impossible to say that these persons, who were lawfully married according to the law of England, can by any reasonable use of language be described as evil livers merely because they are living together as man and wife."

In finding in favor of Mr. and Mrs. Banister the dean said the vicar of Eaton must be "admonished" for repelling them from communion.

Made a Hash of Things.

The youngest successful novelist of the day—for that is really what Mr. Guy Thorne is, being only just over thirty years of age—was intended for the ministry, his father being a vicar in the North of England. In Mr. Thorne's own words, however, "At Oxford I made rather a hash of things, so far as work was concerned. I learnt really nothing," which was partly the fault of the system and partly the fault of Mr. Thorne's love of athletics. Anyway, he came to London with ten pounds in his pocket and two introductions to editors, and took an attic. "At that time," he once informed the writer, "I was prepared to undergo every hardship. I longed, in fact, to pawn my watch for food and pen-nibs, panted to emulate Chatterton and the early days of Dr. Johnson." But these longings were his only unrealised hopes, for almost from the first Mr. Thorne gained success as a journalist, and after travelling extensively upon the continent, visiting all kinds of places and meeting all sorts of people, he decided to turn his knowledge to account and become a novelist. How he earned name and fame in the realms of fiction is well known; and the record made by "When It Was Dark" has not yet been equalled.

Expert Testimony.

A mountaineer intimated that he knew a great deal about a moonshiner on trial in a Kentucky court and thereby got free transportation to Louisville to testify for the state.

"What can you tell us about this man?" asked the district attorney.

"Waal," he answered, swelling with importance, "I seen this feller riding along the road in the net of a hot day on a pacing roan nag and a-waving of a flag and a blowing of a horn, and I ax him if that war a blue grass horse or a Chitterling breed, and he said it war."

Sulphur as a Lubricant.

Mr. E. A. Dixie of New York writes in the American Machinist: I have seen sulphur used many times in many ships and have mentioned it as a lubricant to several people on shore who have trouble with hot bearings, only to be sneered at. Where sulphur was available I have never had to stop at sea because of a hot guide or bearing. We used it in the powdered form, mixed with oil."

Birds Scented Bath.

Flowers having been removed from graves in Haywards Heath parish churchyard, the vicar, the Rev. T. G. Wyatt, caused a watch to be kept, and it was discovered that blackbirds came and plucked the flowers from the zinc vessels and scattered them about. Then the birds had a dip in the flower-scented water, enjoying the bath immensely.

Her Last Chance, Maybe.

"That leap year wedding was a very interesting affair, I hear. Who gave the bridegroom away?"

"I think about everybody who knew him, but the bride took him all the same."

This Transitory World.

"She has a small waist, hasn't she?"

"Too small. Why, the pleasure of getting around it only lasts about a second."

BRITAIN'S SUPREMACY.

Outbuild Germany, Says Spectator, and Put Her Out of Running.

The London Spectator, in an interesting article on the subject of the present naval competition between Germany and Great Britain, says: "The capital evil of the present situation is that we are engaged in a competition with Germany for the command of the sea which is not only ruinous from the economic point of view, but is fraught with very great temptations and provocations to an outbreak of hostilities.

"While that competition lasts there is always the danger that the German Government may hold that a point has been reached where they are so nearly equal to us in maritime force in the North Sea that it is worth their while to run the risk of putting the matter to the test, and of proving to the German people and taxpayers that the vast sums they have spent on their navy have not been, as a considerable sections of Germans are already inclined to believe, spent in vain. In other words, the competition must not be allowed to reach the point where the German Government, pressed from many quarters, will be tempted to say: 'Now or never!' That point has not yet been reached; but it may be reached if we hold, or even appear to hold, too closely to the maxim that we will not spend a penny more than can be shown to be absolutely necessary to give us the command of the sea. German naval experts may make a different calculation from that made by our experts as to what force will obtain the command of the sea, and may in the end prove to be wrong; but no one who cares for the peace of the world will want to tempt them to put their erroneous theories to the proof. A struggle with Germany in which we were successful would be a very great evil, even though infinitely less an evil than one in which we were unsuccessful.

"The power which comes to be denied in a battle for the supremacy of the sea with Britain comes too near. Therefore, as we have said, our objects should be to make it perfectly clear to the Germans that it is useless for them to compete with us for the command of the sea, and that if they engage in that competition it will be at their economic peril. But the way to make the Germans retire from the competition is to prove to them, not only by precept but by example, that we are outbuilding them so thoroughly and so rapidly that it is hopeless for them to try to catch up in the race. We want to make it impossible for any German statesman, however optimistic, to say to his fellow-Germans: 'Just one more sharp struggle, one more supreme effort, one more act of self-sacrifice, and you will have accomplished your great aim, and will pass the winning-post before your potent competitor.' Rather we want to give a good ease to the prudent Germans who will say: 'We must look at facts. Our competitor is too far ahead of us already, and is going too strong, to make it possible for us to pass him. The effort to do so is sure to be unsuccessful, and will exhaust us and leave us less fit than we should otherwise be for competitions in other directions. Therefore let us give up struggle in which we cannot be successful, and devote ourselves to those where we know we can be supreme.'"

Kitchener Is Shy.

Many rumors are rife at the moment concerning the Commander-in-Chief of India. It is said that King Edward proposes to advance Lord Kitchener to the rank of an earl; and that he will probably marry a very wealthy American widow, for some years resident in London. The famous soldier has just celebrated his 58th birthday, so if the rumored marriage takes place he will not be amongst the youngest of bridegrooms. Lord Kitchener has been described as a woman-hater. This may not be quite correct, but he is certainly not very popular with the ladies. His taciturnity is against this. In Cairo, for instance, after the Atbara campaign, he met an English countess who expected folks to pay her court. Introduced to her, Kitchener sat awkwardly a moment, tugging at his moustache. Then he asked, "Do you like Cairo?" Lady ——, wishing to please her hero, rattled on about her enjoyments. Another dreary pause, and then he said, "I am glad of that." That was all. "I never met a man so stupid," his companion afterwards complained.

German Colony In West.

An important sale has been made by the Canadian Pacific Railway of 20,000 acres of land within the irrigation block to German farmers from North Dakota. The area is situated northeast of the city of Calgary. A majority of the colonists go into occupation immediately, and the remainder next spring. This, with the German farmers already settled in the locality, makes the nucleus of one of the largest German colonies in the west. It is expected that a large number of Germans now settled in the Dakotas will join this colony shortly.

Oaks From Acorns.

It was a little girl who inspired the organization of the British Bible Society; it was a Methodist young woman who gave to Robert Raikes the idea of the Sunday school; it was another young woman whose writings resulted in the establishment of the Fresh Air Funds of all the large cities; and one of our religious leaders declines the honor of originating the call for the "Twenty Millions Twentieth Century Thank Offering," and says that it was the product of the faith of a devoted Methodist girl.

The Ship's Pump.

A British lord of the admiralty, whose knowledge of nautical detail was limited, was taking his first trip in a rather leaky vessel when he observed the men working the pumps. "Dear me," he said, "I did not know you had a well on board, captain. But I'm really glad you have, for I detest sea water."

DIFFER, BUT DON'T ARGUE.

Much Friction Avoided by Keeping to This Statement.

It is only Anglo-Saxons who feel that it is not necessary to fight merely because they widely differ. This truism was started by a man of vast experience in countries of the world.

If it is true in a political and moral sense, why couldn't it be a maxim to be studied by all of us?

Much of the friction of life, much of the bitterness and unjust criticism, could be avoided by keeping to the truth of this statement.

Why argue with any one who differs from us? What good does it do? What court of high appeal is there to prove that we are in the right and that others are in the wrong?

That woman is to be dreaded as a friend, a relative or a companion who goes through life trying to convince and convert every one who thinks differently from her on any question, from cookery to calculus.

This is an utterly different frame of mind from the one that makes us feel we are right in what we think and in what we do. The world would be a mighty feeble place to live in and rapidly disintegrate if every one of us born into it didn't have an opinion and could be relied upon to stick to it.

It is all right to have a conviction, right or wrong, and to believe that it is right because it is yours, but there is no excuse or palliation for the fault of tilting a lance at every one who thinks another way.

If two women see different sides of an affair, there is no reason why they should come to bitter words about it, drop into personalities and each go off and call for help.

It is always in the power of one woman to keep a difference of opinion from becoming a fight of words. She can always state her side of the case, listen, more or less amiably, to a different opinion and then desist from anything further.

There is no use trying to convince any one in a heated argument. This never worked out in political debate or in friendly conversation.

If you would be happy in your own mind, you should make it a maxim for your guidance not to argue with whom you differ.

Refuse to do it. This isn't weakness. This is strength.

THE CARE OF FRUITS.

Bag of Netted White String to Hold Lemons.

Fruits should be kept in a cool, dark place and separate as much as possible. Berries should be poured on large plates or platters and spread out. If the watermelon is too large for the ice chest, cover with a wet piece of sacking and place where the wind will blow over it. The evaporation will make it delightfully cold. Lemons are kept best by wrapping in tissue paper and hanging in an openwork bag in a cool place. A bag made of netted ordinary white string is admirable for this purpose and can be washed when necessary. Many good cooks advise keeping lemons in cold water, changing it every day, but the dry method is best. When a lemon has been halved or quartered and left unused it may be kept from drying or molding for several days by simply turning a tumbler over it to exclude the air. If lemons begin to spoil wipe the skins with a wet cloth, then with a dry one, and grate off the essential oil with lumps of sugar. Put these in an air tight glass jar and keep for flavoring. Then grate off the yellow rind, taking care to get none of the white pith, and dry, also for flavoring, or shave off the yellow rind and cover with pure spirits of alcohol until a lemon extract results, better than you can possibly buy. Squeeze out the juice, straining free from seeds, put with it as much sugar as it will take up and keep in a close sealed glass jar ready for any form of lemonade or fruit punch where the acid of lemons is desired.

Lemons may also be kept for some time by wrapping each in tissue paper and putting in a tightly covered jar or pail.

Oranges should be kept in the same way as lemons or spread on a shelf in a cool, airy room, not allowing them to touch, and turning over every two or three days.

HOUSEWIFE SUGGESTIONS.

Newspapers may be used to pad the ironing board just as well as an old blanket or muslin.

Soap well applied to drawer slides will keep the drawers in furniture and closets from sticking.

If you will varnish your linoleums about every three months it will last much longer than without the coats of varnish.

When washing floors or cleaning windows always put a few drops of paraffin in the water, and this will keep away flies, moths and other insects.

The skin from a boiled ham will be more easily removed if as soon as being taken from the boiling liquor the ham be plunged into cold water for a moment.

To mend hemstitching cover the space of the worn hemstitching with insertion and stitch both edges on to tray cloth, and it will then be as good as new and even prettier.

Cheese may be kept from going moldy by wrapping it in a cloth dipped in vinegar and wrung nearly dry. Cover the cloth with a wrapper of paper and keep in a cool place.

Hairbrushes should be washed if possible every day. The best plan is to keep two in use at the same time. Unless a clean brush is used the hair loses the bright, glossy look that it should have.

Simpson Introduced His Wife To His Rival, Longboat

While one of the events were being run off last night at the rink, Tom Longboat, in street attire, made his way through the crowd to the west side seats. He climbed to the last row against the wall, where accommodation is provided only for standing. He started along looking down over the audience of ladies and their escorts presumably in search of some one. Finally about half way down the rink he stopped and slowly leaned forward over the railing. He had been looking for Fred Simpson, who with his wife were sitting on top row of seats. Longboat gave Fred's hat a little pull and succeeded in drawing his attention from the race in progress. Of course they had a warm shake hands and then Simpson introduced his wife to the famous Tom, who is now looked upon as Flanagan's shattered idol.. They chatted pleasantly for a short time being the cynosure of hundreds who noticed the little meeting.

Ladies' Golf Club Field Day Was An Enjoyable Affair

The field day under the auspices of the Ladies' Golf Club held yesterday on the oval links, was a most enjoyable affair, and the events were well contested. There was a large attendance aand considerable interest was displayed in the results. Mrs. Aylmar won the approaching and butting competition, the prize for which was a brooch donated by Mrs. W. H. Hill. Miss Pearl Lundy succeeded in winning the driving competition and also the medal round, her score in the latter being 44 and 49. The prize was six golf balls donated by the Hon. Mrs. Hamilton. A picnic luncheon was enjoyed on the grounds, and as the weather conditions were perfect, the affair was highly successful.

DICK BAKER RESPONSIBLE FOR SUCCESS OF HARRIERS' MEET

The man to whom the greatest credit is due for the grand success of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers' meet last night is Dick Baker, trainer of the Harriers. He, as everybody knows, accompanied the Olympic team to England, and while there became very popular with the members of the team, owing to the manner in which he looked after them. When it was decided to hold a meet here, Dick wrote to Kerr, Tait, Archibald, Goulding and other members of the Canadian Olympict eam and asked them to be present, and they one and all accepted the invitation. As Will Tait of the West End Y.M.C.A. put it, "The boys were all anxious to see Dick." "Let's go to Peterborough and run for Dick," they would say to each other, and the result was that when the night of the meet came they were all on hand. They apparently enjoyed the visit very much and pronounced teh handicapping excellent.

ENORMOUS CROWD ATTENDS OPENING OF THE BIG FAIR

to, and that he didn't have to sweeten his coffee.

The attractive cartons in which most of the cereals were put up produced quite a bright effect and were much admired by visitors. The Banner Oats and Saxony Oats packages each contain a pretty useful piece of china as a souvenir. The Quaker Oats and Fettijohn packages each contain a coupon which entitles the holder to receive a premium of silver.

The taste displayed in this exhibit reflects credit upon the constructor. The canopy and sides were brilliantly draped with British flags and other insignia. It was in charge of Mr. Ira D. Moore and Mr. W. Pratt, who obligingly gave any information required.

The export business of the Quaker Oats Company is assuming immense proportions and is expanding every year.

Gems from Roy Studio

In the Fine Arts section and in the quarter in which it has been shown for over ten years, visitors were again treated to another unique exhibit of fine art photography from the Roy Studio. Representative though it was, a much larger display was contemplated, but owing to an unfortunate misunderstanding about the space, many gems from the studio were not shown.

It would be a serious loss to the Peterborough Art Section of Peterborough Central Fair, if Mr. R. M. Roy's exquisite collection of photography were to be missed. His special exhibit this year is, as usual, a delight to art-loving visitors. The splendid work of his studio has won for him a place in the guild of artists and has brought praise to himself and the city.

A very hasty view of some of the choicest gems in Mr. Roy's collection showed excellent examples of the results achieved by untiring devotion to the art. Compliments were generously bestowed on a number of artistic group pictures. Among these are the Peterborough Business College for 1908, the directors and officers of the Y. M. C. A., the Peterborough Ministerial Association, etc. There were a number of spirited views of regatta day and its sporting events at Juniper Island. Two lifelike large photo of Bishop O'Connor, in two different poses, showed excellent lighting and an intelligent use of the camera. A series of bright children's heads were shown, conspicuous for their natural poses and happy expressions. Two large sized coloured photos attracted attention—of our veteran townsman Mr. James Stevenson, in a gilt frame, being the gem of the exhibit. Among the carbons and sepias shown, the finest processes in photography received splendid attention. The lighting of the pictures continues to bear evidence that the Roy Studio must still be acknowledged among the best lighted in the Dominion Mr. Roy's work shows marks of a striving to endow the art with a large influence. In the treatment of his photographs the aim is to render the natural, to infuse character, and insure those fine qualities that one loves to see in a true picture.

Mr. Roy's straight photographic work is conspicuous for delicate toning, soft effects, sharp artistic finish and admirable posing. Those shown were not specially finished for the fair, but were ordinary samples of his everyday work. It is most gratifying to know that at this well equipped studio one can have the assurance of having the finest work obtainable anywhere, and infinitely better than in many of the studios of the metropolis. For the tenth time Mr. Roy carried off the highest honours awarded by the directors.

The Roy Studio also made a large display of their interesting and meritorious series of illustrated postal cards, the sales of which have grown away beyond any other similar series.

EXHIBIT OF PIANOS AND SEWING MACHINES

The J. M. Greene Music Co. of the Grand Opera House building, George Street, monopolized two of the best sections in the main building of the Peterborough Industrial Fair.

In the one section to the north they made a Piano exhibit which was an object of much attraction by enthusiastic crowds of visitors.

They showed a handsome seven-octave New Scale Williams Piano and a beautiful sample of the New Scale Player Piano, both instruments being made from the very best grain of mahogany, coupled with the most modern mechanism which can be produced by the best skill in Piano manufacture.

In the section to the South, The Greene Company made an exhibit of the Davis Sewing Machines, which was the cynosure of feminine eyes. Three types of these high-class machines were in operation. The new vertical feed is one of the vital features of the Davis Machines which has made it such a favourite. The points of superiority,—in efficiency, durability and simplicity were strongly in evidence.

Mr. J. M. Greene was assisted by capable operators, who were successful in making a very instructive and interesting exhibit. See these machines without fail.

THREE LITTLE MAIDS

It has been many seasons since an English Musical Comedy importation of true value and merit has appeared on this side of the water, but the musical play, "Three Little Maids," from the pen of Paul Rubens, which appeared in New York for over 220 nights, and prior to that for two years in London, has been accredited by all American critics an instantaneous success.

It is called a musical comedy, but is more of a genuine comedy, enlivened by some unusually good singing and clever acting, and a chorus remarkable for its good looks; the outstanding figures are so strong and the general level of the company so high as altogether to form a really artistic and satisfying entertainment.

The plot is simple—the "Three Little Maids" are country girls, daughters of Rev. Theodore Branscombe, and are the life and soul of the village of Market Mallory; into the quiet of their lives come Lord Cheyne, Brian Molyneux and M. de L'Orme, of the French Embassy. The three men of the world succumb at once to the rustic charms of the three maids, and incontinently abandon the three society ladies whom Lady St. Mallory, an inveterate matchmaker, has provided for their special benefit. Unfortunately the vicar gets into a bad way financially, and Lady St. Mallory, who has started a Dutch tea shop in London, conceives the happy idea of removing the three maids to her establishment. But the three lovers get an inkling and find their way to the shop and pursue their love affairs with ardour and success. Finally by another trick the three little maids obtain an invitation to Lady St. Mallory's ball and complete their conquests.

The play is magnificently staged, the principal roles taken by artists known throughout American stagedom. The company is a very large one, and a car of scenery is carried. The "Three Little Maids" will appear at the Grand Opera House on Thursday, Sept. 24th.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE BARRACKS

Will be Made in Basement For Young People's Work

To afford larger and better quarters for the young people's work, the basement of the Salvation Army barracks will shortly undergo certain improvements for that purpose. This was practically decided upon at a recent meeting here, and application was made to the commissioner for his sanction. It is expected that his favourable reply will be received in a few days, after which the work will be commenced.

By the young people's work is meant the Sunday school, Bible class, etc. The band room will be removed from the basement, and, with several smaller rooms, will be made into one large assembly room. There will also be the usual smaller class rooms and the entire change will be made to accommodate the young people's work, which of late has made rapid advancement.

. . EPIGRAMS . .

Interesting things are never true, and the truth is only convincing when told by an experienced liar.

It's a wonderful world and anything may happen at any minute. That's what induces everybody to remain in it as long as they can.

Did you ever know anything feminine that was not fidgety when she could not get her own way?

Some folks live together 50 years thinking they know each other well, yet descend to their graves still strangers.

Discretion generally means having a good memory—for the lies one has told.

A lawyer takes it for granted that his client was in the right until he starts haggling about his bill; then it becomes plain to that lawyer that from the first the scoundrel was in the wrong.

Many men when they think a woman is running after them are apt to take it into their heads to bolt, but if they think she's running away from them, they'll bolt after her for all they're worth.

PETERBORO' FAIR VISITORS

A VERY HEARTY INVITATION TO VISIT OUR STORE AND THE OPENING OF NEW AUTUMN STYLES IN MILLINERY AND WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEARS. (SECOND FLOOR).

These are indeed days of openings. In every department from the smallest to the largest there are almost daily arrivals of New Fall Goods—goods that even the viewing will delight any woman with an eye for the beautiful. The Dress Goods tell tales of untold thought on the part of European Artist Wearers—the Silks too reflect the silk weavers' proficiency—and such a vast variety of exquisite Linens, plain and fancy, has never before been displayed in any city much larger than this, as we are showing this season. In the women's notions we are always in the lead and this season we are particularly proud of our beautiful range of Collars, Belts, Gloves, Frillings, etc.—Fancy Hosiery too claims attention as well as our fine stock of Underwear. Take the Safety Elevator to the 3rd floor and see the handsome stock of Art Rugs, Carpets, Curtains and Draperies. We are paying special attention to bed outfits, Iron Beds, Springs and Mattresses.

We have every accommodation for the use of out-of-town people. First-class delivery to all trains and boats as well as for the city—parcels may be left at parcel office—information regarding the city at the information office—Rest room on second floor with writing accommodation—Ladies' wash room on second floor.

BEWARE OF THE TEXAS FLY BITE

Seeks Its Existence From the Backs of Human Necks

Black flies, foreign to thickly populated spots, are common in Peterborough. Have you been bitten on the back of the neck by one of them yet? Several have and their bites are unpleasant too. A doctor describes them as the Texas flies and the theory is they have been driven out of the woods by the smoke.

The Texas fly is smaller than the ordinary house variety, but its bite is more severe, and several recollect its presence on the backs of their necks.

GRAND RALLY

—AT—

MR. STRATTON'S COMMITTEE ROOMS

TO-MORROW NIGHT

SPEECHES

ALL ARE INVITED

THE HICKORY TREE.

It Is Wholly North American and Belongs Here Alone.

Strictly speaking, there is only one North American tree—only one tree family, that is—no member of which has ever been found on any other continent. This is the hickory. It belongs to America alone, and its very name is a legacy from the former owners of the land. The "Historie of Travaile Into Virginia Britannia" says:

"Hickory is derived from the Indian name of the liquor obtained by pounding the kernels. These the Indians beat into pieces with stones and putting them, shells and all, into mortars, mingling water with them, with long wooden pestells pound them so long together until they make a kind of mylke, or oylie liquor, which they call Powcohicora."

There are nine varieties of this tree on the American continent, and, although the tree is a stranger to Europe, and so has not shared in the legacy of ancient legend and story with the oak, the ash and the other trees familiar to Greek and Teuton, it has made up for its poverty in this respect since the time of the early settlers in its own native country. Its qualities are celebrated in the proverb, "Tough as hickory."

Commercially it is valuable where a strong and close grained wood is needed, and no doubt the excellence of the American axe is due quite as much to its handle of hickory as to the quality of its steel.

Hickory nuts were highly appreciated by the Indians. Bertram in his "Travels In North America" states that he has seen over a hundred bushels of these nuts belonging to one family. The Indian name of the nut appears in English as kiskitomas, kisktyom and kiskythomas, all of which are probably corruptions of the word kwaskesdamenne, a word which we translate by the phrase, "A must be cracked by the teeth." The Indians certainly had the secret of creating what Humpty Dumpty called "portmanteau words."

In the hungry days of spring, before the earth was producing other food, the Indians are said to have kept off starvation by eating the young buds of the hickory. Having tried to follow in their footsteps, I found that the buds, while delicious in flavor, are rather like a mixture of shoe leather and wool in texture, so they cannot have been a very satisfactory diet.

TATTOOING FOR BATHERS.

Fad Adopted by Beach Maidens at Atlantic City.

Jim Squid, ex-sailorman and expert handler of india ink "points," has been hiding from the irate fathers and brothers of a score of fair bathing maids since the latter proudly appeared on the beach at Atlantic City the other day with tattoo marks on their fair arms and shoulders.

Spectators perched in beach chairs gasped when they saw the first girl swing up the beach bearing on her rounded upper arm an intwined anchor and cable, and the surprise became a shock when it was discovered that other beach maidens had adopted the fad of having their arms marked with various devices.

At first glance it was supposed that the marks, which ranged from the anchor to hearts pierced with arrows, were merely painted on, but when it was discovered that the marks were needled in and practically indelible there was a general stampede among parents to discover the artist.

Several doting fathers began at once a search for Jim Squid.

It is said that the old sailorman has a small shop in the Bowery section of the board walk and that he has taken in several hundred dollars in carrying out his "art."

Tired of the Even Thousand.

John Hollister was one of the most popular men in Washington. He was always doing favors for other people and never asking any for himself. An acquaintance, knowing his proverbial good nature, had abused his confidence.

One day Hollister was standing in the Arlington hotel lobby when this man came up to Hollister and said very effusively:

"I'm a thousand times obliged to you for what you said to Secretary Foster. I got the place."

"And you are a thousand times obliged?" queried Hollister in his most innocent manner.

"Yes, indeed, a thousand times."

"Say, can't you make it 1,200 just once? You've been a thousand times obliged on several occasions, if I am to believe you."

When Women Talk.

Behold the air! It groweth dense
With adjectives profound, intense;
The sun is dimmed by brilliant wit,
All nature's vanquished bit by bit,
And men in trembling silence sit
When women talk.

Often So.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ST. JOHN'S

Large Congregation Present—Church is Appropriately Decorated

GREATNESS OF GOODNESS

The Harvest Festival of St. John's church was held last evening, when a large congregation was present. The sacred edifice was very tastefully adorned with fruits of the earth and tree, and presented an exceedingly harmonious appearance. The church has never before presented a more acceptable decorative appearance, which must be accredited to the fact that the work had not been overdone. Immediately within the portals of the building is a very attractive arch composed of asparagus, foliage, and mountain ash berries, while the entrance to each seat in the centre aisle is adorned with a sheath of wheat, or oats, bound with mountain ash foliage and berries. The window sills bear their quota of harvest, while the chancel and altar are resplendent in green and many colored blossoms. The decorations are the work of the following members: Mrs. J. C. Davidson, Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. Devey, Miss Stevenson, Misses Dean, Wilson and English, Mrs. Jas. Mills, Miss Calder, Miss L. Dean, and Messrs. H. Long, R. J. Devey, and Glover.

The work of the choir added considerably to the bright and cheerful service, and the sermon preached by Rev. D. Foster from the text, "O, How Great is Thy Goodness," was a masterly effort, and exceedingly appropriate to the occasion. The whole service was taken by Dr. Foster, and reflected considerable ability.

This festival service will be repeated on Sunday, when the beautiful decorations will be in evidence. The special offertories taken up last evening and to be continued on Sunday are in aid of the missions.

Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto—three seconds, one third. Total 10 points.
West End Y. M. C. A., Toronto—one first. Total—5 points.
T. A. S. Athletic Club—One second. Total—3 points.

Such were the results of the second annual indoor games of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers in the Brock street rink last night, which proved to be the greatest athletic meet ever held in Peterborough. About 1,200 people were in attendance, and to say that they were delighted is but putting it mildly. They had reason to be pleased, for never has there been such a gathering of notable athletes in Peterborough as assembled here last night. With half a dozen members of the Canadian Olympic team, its manager and three trainers, the secretary of the C. A. A. U., and other prominent figures in Canadian athletics present, it is no wonder that a grand programme was pulled off. The events were all keenly contested, and provided plenty of excitement for the crowd. The handicapping was excellent in the sprints, making matters lively all the way, and the spectators certainly got their money's worth. There were few delays, the programme being run through without a hitch, and this was a feature that was appreciated.

All the athletes advertised to appear were on hand, except Lou Sebert, who was unable to get away, and his place was taken by Len Kyle, the fast Irish-Canadian sprinter. This was most satisfactory and should be a set back to the wise ones who have been predicting that none of the good ones were coming.

Exhibitions by members of the Olympic team were interesting features of the programme. Bobby Kerr, of Hamilton, Canada's best sprinter, and champion of the world at 220 metres, gave two exhibitions of his speed, and was given an enthusiastic welcome by the crowd. In a fifty yards exhibition the light haired Hamilton speed merchant gave four yards to Geo. Evans, the new boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and beat him a yard and one-half in 5 2-5 seconds. Kerr shot away from the start like a flash, eating up the handicap by feet rather than by inches, and he was given the glad hand on the finish.

Later in the evening Kerr gave a 220 exhibition sprint. He ran alone and no time was taken, but the dash was enough to demonstrate to the crowd the marvellous speed of the boy from the Ambitious City. The corners bothered him, and he slackened up on the turns, but when he swung around in the straight he let loose with a burst of speed that caused a hum of astonishment, and as he finished he was enthusiastically cheered.

E. B. Archibald, who holds the title of British and Canadian pole vaulting champion, gave an exhibition pole vault that was one of the most enjoyable and interesting features of the bill. Pole vaulting is a new branch of sport in Peterborough and the crowd watched it with interest. The bar was placed at ten feet first and Archibald cleared it without trouble, amid loud cheers. It was raised to eleven feet and after failing twice "Archie" sailed over the bar like a bird, and received a great hand from the crowd. A vault of eleven feet under such conditions was a remarkable achievement. The light was not good and the take off decidedly uncertain, and the vaulter was, therefore, considerably handicapped under the circumstances.

Still another of Canada's contingent to England was seen in an exhibition — nobody less than Tom Longboat, who gave a two mile run for the benefit of the crowd, who gave him a great reception as he sped around the track. Longboat led off at a good clip and kept it up throughout, negotiating the two miles in eleven minutes, which is fast time indoors. There were many Indians in the audience, and they cheered Tom enthusiastically. One Hiawatha man climbed into the centre of the ring and greeted his brother red skin with a loud war whoop every time he came along. Longboat finished up his two miles with a lively sprint amid cheers.

Fred Simpson, who had run in from Hiawatha yesterday, went out for an exhibition half-mile immediately after Longboat, and gave a good account of himself. It gave the crowd an opportunity of judging the difference in the styles of the two well known Indian runners, and Fred was warmly received. He travelled the hGlf in 2.37 without exerting himself much.

Mr. N. H. Crowe, secretary of the C. A. A. U., was present and acted as starter, and Mr. J. H. Crocker, manager of the Canadian Olympic team, was referee. Other well known athletic men, who were present, were Tim O'Rourke, of the Irish-Canadians and W. Tait, of the West End Y. M. C. A.

JIMMY McMARTIN,

of the Otonabee A. C., who although handicapped with a broken arm made a creditable showing in the meet last night.

220 Yards Boys

Harry Munro of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers captured the first heat of the 220 yards boys' race after a ding-dong battle with George Rankin of the Collegiate Institute. He led all the way but weakened in the stretch when Rankin came strong, but the Y.M.C.A. boy's speed carried him through to a victory in 31 seconds.

C. Walsh, unattached, had a comparatively easy time in the second heat. His opponent was D. Morrow of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers. The latter led for the first quarter but Walsh sprinted and left his opponent easily. He won in 32 seconds.

Munro won the final without difficulty from Walsh and Rankin, who, as the second man in the fastest heat, qualified for the finals. Munro went away from the pistol and breezed around unchallenged, while Walsh was just as far ahead of Rankin. The heat was done in 30 seconds and Munro showed great speed for a youngster.

50 Yards Senior

Tarrell of the T.A.S. and Jack Bailey, unattached, were the starters in the first heat of the senior 50 yards handicap, and the former, who had a handicap of two yards, won from his rival, who was set ahead three yards, after a nice race. Tarrell showing a corner, when Skene took the lead, and from that time on the Irish-Canadian was never pressed and won the event by half a lap in eight minutes. Macdonald was third and Armstrong fourth. The latter, who is only 14 years of age, was given a hand by the crowd for his plucky efforts. He entered for the race a week ago and did not quit when he knew what he was up against. In fact, he hooked with the leaders in several sprints.

FRED SIMPSON,

Who ran a half mile exhibition last night at the Harriers meet.

DICK BAKER,

clerk of the course at last nights meeting to whom much of the credit for the success of the meet is due

Bailey won 220 Yards

A dark horse in the person of Jack Bailey of Peterborough won the 220 yards senior handicap which was run in three heats and a final.

Kyle of the Irish-Canadians at scratch, Neary of the T.A.S. with 15 yards, and Giroux of the same club with 12 yards, were the starters in the first heat. It looked like a victory for Neary, who led to the scratch but he fell within 20 feet of the tape when Kyle, who was closing in on him, won easily in 27 seconds.

The second heat brought together Terrill, of the T. A. S., with 10 yards; Milburn, of the Y. M. C. A., with 12 yards; and Bailey, unattached, with 15 yards. There was no change in the positions from the start, and although the Y.M.C.A. man pressed his opponent hard he was unable to make up the amount of the handicap and the Englishman won by 29 seconds.

The other entries in the third heat having been withdrawn, Price Adamson, unattached, ran the distance alone and qualified for the finals.

Kyle, Bailey and Adamson came together in the final, and Bailey succeeded in winning out by a comfortable margin. Kyle tried hard but the fifteen yard handicap was too much for him and he failed even to get second place.

Skene's Mile Run

The open mile was, as expected, a grand race and Chuck Skene, of the Irish succeeded in scoring another win. The other entries were Ernie Wilson and Chas. Thorpe, of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers; Hanrahan, of the T. A. S.; and J. McMartin, of the Otonabee A. C. Skene took the lead at the start, and Wilson followed his characteristic tactics by tucking in behind him, and Thorpe followed suit. For fourteen laps they went this way the three leaving the other pair behind. Wilson and Thorpe were showing little signs of distress, and from the manner in which they hung at Skene's heels it looked like a ding-dong finish. Suddenly, however, at the beginning of the second lap Skene spurted, and before the Y. M. C. A. boys could set sail in pursuit the Irish Canadian had a commanding lead, which he managed to maintain to the finish, winning out from Wilson by about ten yards, while Thorpe was third, only a little over a yard away. It was a race that the crowd enjoyed very much.

ERNIE WILSON,

of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers who was second to Chuck Skene in the mile event last night.

Fowler won Half Mile

The boys' half mile brought out a field of nine youthful runners—Hanwell, McWilliams, Fowler and Morrow, of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers; Sullivan and O'Brien, of the T. A. S.; Rankin, of the P. C. I.; Mahoney, of the Otonabee A. C.; and Walsh, unattached. When the pistol sounded O'Brien started off at a two twenty clip, but it soon died away and Fowler, the game little English lad, who wears the colours of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers, took the lead and kept it unchallenged to the finish. He was never in any difficulty, while Rankin had no trouble in securing second and Walsh was third. The half was negotiated in 2.32, a very creditable performance for the youngsters.

Tait Cleaned up

Jack Tait, the speedy West End Y. M. C. A., Toronto, runner made a great clean up of the three mile race. He ran a beautiful race and outclassed his field, the second man being nearly half a minute behind. Tait ran with judgment and his speed astonished the crowd, who looked to see him have more difficulty in carrying off the honours. The Y. M. C. A. boy is certainly some runner and if Tom Longboat had encountered him last night at that distance it looks very much as if his scalp would have been added to the bunch which Tait succeeded in capturing.

There were ten entries in addition to Tait, Smoke, Robinson and McMartin, of the Otonabee Athletic Club; Thorpe and Fowler, of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers; Knapp, of the T. A. S.; Johnston, a Chemong Indian; J. Brownlee, unattached, Peterborough; Jack Near and Arnold Knox, of the Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto. There was nothing to the race but Tait. He took the lead at the start, followed by Near, Knox, and Thorpe in that order, while the field began to string out behind. The first three or four laps were rattled off at a lively clip, and suddenly the West Ender spurted and set up a lead on his rivals that he kept increasing all the way. The others dropped steadily behind and gaps began to open up. Knox passed Near and drew away from him, but the latter managed to increase his lead on Thorpe. The others were not in the hunt. The crowd yelled for Smoke but he hadn't the speed, while Johnston, the other Chemong entry, who was touted as a phenom, failed to uncover much class. Tait, running magnificently, kept widening the gap between himself and his opponents, and in the last lap succeeded in tapping Knox. He had already lapped the rest of the field, so that it can be seen that it was an easy victory. The first mile was done in 5.05, the second in 10.45, and the three in 16.07 a grand performance considering the track. Knox was over a lap behind, while he had Near beaten by a good margin.

KNIGHT OF THE RAZOR FOR JIMMY

Reynolds Gives Up the Walking Game For All Time to Come

Port Hope, Sept. 18.—Spesial.—James Reynolds, the walking barber, who faile dos his walk to Toronto and return last Monday, arrived home yesterday on the 10.40 a.m. train. This I was Jimmy's foruth attempt to make Toronto and return and each time he failed to get bake within the time stipulated.

He has lost in all about $1000 but it is a pleasure to know he has at last been convinced that the trip is impossible. He has been a great sport all his life, and fort he first time in his history he cried "quit" yesterday morning. After the burdensome journey of Monday he feels fortunate at being alive, and states positively that he is done with the walking game for all time.

James says his experience on this trip was much worse than on any other. The dust was ankle deep and he was almost choked with it. His throat is very sore and his tongue is slightly swollen yet, otherwise he is feeling quite well and expects to be about as usual in a couple of days.

It is farewell to the walking game and in future James will turn his attention to the razor and shears. He is to enter into partnership with Mr. Arthur Adamson in his old stand on Monday next and it will be business all the time.

SAN FRANCISCO, THE CITY OF THE GOLDEN GATE ONCE AGAIN BEING RAISED SKYWARD BY THE WORK OF ITS INDUSTRIOUS CITIZENS

Effects of Disastrous Earthquake And Fire Rapidly Disappearing —Home Capital Being Used—A Remarkable Showing

HAS A GOOD GOVERNMENT

Special Correspondence

San Francisco Sept. 10.—San Francisco is arising from the ashes of her ruin with amazing rapidity, and though there has been practically but two years of actual construction work since the great earthquake and fire in April, 1906, about one-third of the burned-over area has been rebuilt already, and at the present rate of operation the devastated tract will be entirely covered with new, handsomer and sounder structures in the next three years, which will be about fifteen years sooner than was thought possible immediately after the fire.

Practically five square miles were burned over and 28,000 buildings destroyed, but by the first of the present year reconstruction was proceeding so rapidly that a new building was being finished on an average of every hour and forty-five minutes, and it is anticipated that with the return of easier conditions in the money market work will proceed even more rapidly.

But still more important than the rebuilding of the city is the fact that San Francisco is for the first time in many, many years decently governed, the boodling officials having all been turned out of office and an honest and efficient administration installed. Moreover, the city has some 7,300 fewer saloons than before the fire.

One of the remarkable features of the rebuilding is the fact that practically all of the work so far has been done without outside aid. Of the $175,000,000 that has been expended to date, all save about $4,000,000 has been home capital. Surely a most remarkable showing and one that shows the city to have been in a healthy financial condition when overwhelmed.

But it must be understood that most of the insurance companies having risks here dealt very generously with their clients. Practically all of them had the 'earthquake clause' inserted in their policies exempting them from making good loss from that source. And while undoubtedly there was a comparatively small amount of damage done by the tremblor, yet all have avoided payment by taking advantage of that technicality. Many of the companies paid dollar for dollar, and it is estimated that of the entire loss of $350,000,000 which was insured for 76 per cent. of its value, approximately $200,000,000 has been paid.

Population Increases

San Francisco to-day has a larger population than before the fire, according to recent estimates. From 1895 up to the time of the quake, the population increased from 325,000 to 475,000, but immediately after the big shake there was a slump to near 150,000. The recovery was rapid, however, and the present population is approximately a half million.

Millions for Improvements

With the rebuilding of the city there has arisen the necessity for vast improvements. These are to cost in the neighbourhood of $25,000,000, all of which, it is figured, will be expended within the next three or four years. Of this amount, some $15,000,000 is to go into a new city hall, a hall of records, jail, and other municipal buildings.

But by far the most important public work under way is the construction of a complete auxiliary water system for use in fighting fires. For this purpose there was recently voted $5,000,000 of bonds. It will be remembered that the earthquake burst the water mains, thus leaving the city at the mercy of the numerous fires which immediately broke out. But with the completion of the new system it will be practically impossible for the city to again get caught in such a predicament, for San Francisco will then have the most efficient and powerful engine of fire protection ever constructed.

The plan which is now being worked out is to network the business and a part of the residence section of the city with high water pipes of from eight to twenty-four inches diameter, this being an auxiliary to the regular water system. The unit method of construction is being employed, so that should a break occur at any point it will be possible to cut out that block without impairing the efficiency of other portions of the system. There will be two fresh water reservoirs on "Twin Peaks," within the city limits, holding 10,000,000 and 600,000 gallons, and at elevations of 755 and 520 feet. Still another reservoir with a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons will be located on the Clay street hill, at an elevation of 330 feet. All these will be connected by double lines of pipe so that the destruction of one will not deprive the others of feeding advantages. However, should this source of supply fail, there will be two huge pumping plants on the waterfront, each capable of forcing 16,000 gallons of water per minute against a pressure of 300 pounds to the square inch.

But even should these pumping plants as well as the reservoirs fail, there will still be another recourse in the shape of two modern fire boats which will patrol the waterfront, and twenty-three of the main pressure tubes of the auxiliary water system will be accessible for connection with these powerful machines. There will also be built in various parts of the city 160 re-inforced concrete cisterns with an individual capacity of 100,000 gallons. The various parts of the water system, as well as the fire department stations will be in instant communication by means of a private telephone exchange.

With all these precautions it seems well nigh impossible that San Francisco should ever again be overwhelmed by fire. But this place is more exposed to loss from conflagration than almost any other large American city, for the reasons that a greater proportion of the buildings are constructed of wood; that there are many hills within the city too steep to allow fire apparatus to be moved rapidly, and also because of the fact that for several months in each year there is very little rain with high winds prevailing for a part of that time, making it absolutely necessary to take extraordinary precautions.

New Buildings Substantial

As an indication of the character of the business section of the new San Francisco it is worthy of note that while there were but forty-five class A structures subsequent to the fire, there are now about twice that number of buildings of that character built or under construction. A class A building is either a steel frame or re-inforced structure. It was noticed that buildings of this nature did not succumb to the earthquake or even to the heavy charges of dynamite that were planted under them during the progress of the fire, in the hope that they might be razed and thus check the conflagration.

A large portion of the business section of San Francisco is built on filled-in ground, making it difficult to erect substantial structures thereon, but the architects and engineers of the city are solving the problem satisfactorily by providing concrete anchorages for the tall buildings.

City now Well Governed

Up to a couple of years ago, San Francisco was one of the worst governed cities in the country, a band of impudent boodlers having control of practically every branch of administration. But with the turning out of Ruef, Schmitz, and the boodling supervisors, and the installation of a non-partisan board there has begun an era of honest government. The present condition is the outgrowth of an alliance between the Good Government League and the democratic organization on the basis of a non-partisan ticket composed equally of Republicans and Democrats. It was pledged to eliminate politics and attend strictly to business, which promise has been faithfully kept.

WITH A SURVEY PARTY IN THE CANADIAN NORTHWEST

F. M. Dela Fosse

One day the duty devolved on me of riding to the Forks for the purpose of getting the camp mail. Under ordinary conditions the jaunt would have been an enjoyable one. A fifty mile ride in that region is a mere bagatelle, when one has a willing horse to ride and a comfortable saddle to sit on. But when it comes to having to bestride an erratic broncho, barebacked, the matter assumes a very different complexion. Blissfully unaware of the sufferings that were in store for me, I strapped my blanket on the pony's back for a saddle, and placing provisions enough for a two days' outing, in a knapsack, started off on my journey.

The Discomforts of Bare Back Riding

For a time all went well. The beast I had chosen was the least cantankerous in the outfit, and was cantering along merrily, the birds were singing, butterflies flitting from flower to flower, and everything seemed imbued with the ecstasy of summer. But when about ten miles or so had been traversed, things began to look different. Nature did not appear to be in so benignant a mood as when I had started. The sun shone as brightly, what birds there were sang lustily, but the joyaunce seemed to have departed from life. The fact was that I had found my limit of distance as a bare-backed rider and that the prospect of a further ride of forty miles odd on a steed so restless as mine was simply terrifying. The torments of body that I suffered were soon, however, to be forgotten in a tumult of circumstances of which, at the moment, I had no suspicion whatever.

The Prairie Fire

The first intimation I had of any possible trouble was the sight of vast clouds of smoke rising far off in the north, but as the wind at that time was blowing from the west I paid little attention to the matter and kept on cantering along the trail. Suddenly, however, the wind veered sharply to the north and before ten minutes had passed, all the elevations in that direction were lit with flames. Dense clouds of smoke began to pass over me, before which ducks and wild geese flew quacking and squawking in ever increasing flocks. Soon the sun was blotted completely out, and semi-darkness enshrouded the land. My course lay along the bank of the river and I knew that it shelter could be procured for myself and pony under one of its many escarpments we were assured of safety. But, how to find a haven of refuge in the limited time left at my disposal was the question. On I galloped, looking out eagerly for an easy descent to the water. Not one was to be seen. And all the time the fire kept getting closer and closer to the trail. The smoke was getting so unbearable that in desperation I turned my pony's head towards a sand dune to the left, hoping, by flinging myself on my face in so sterile a spot, to save myself at least from suffocation. No sooner had I reached it however, and jumped off my steed than I found I had landed in a large colony of snakes. There they were in hideous, writhing masses, coiling in and out and over each other and hissing and putting out their forked tongues in a manner most unpleasant to witness. It didn't take two seconds for me to decide that the smoke was preferable to the snakes, and with a bound I was on the pony's back again, galloping with might and main out of the hissing Inferno. But golden moments had been lost and before the trail was reached the fire was licking up the grass under the broncho's feet. Although the growth was in most places, not more than three to four inches in height, the heat and smoke were terrific and the way the pony travelled was ample evidence that the track was quite warm enough to awaken even his well-nigh deadened feelings.

Night on the Prairie

On we went flying along the trail time and again passing over comparatively long stretches of prairie, where the fire had already done its work, and at other times re-enacting our part experience, and travelling through fresh blazing areas where, what with flying sparks and suffocating smoke, we had an uncomfortable, not to say, perilous time of it. The fires, which at first had seemed to arise from a solitary part of the compass, now appeared to be encircling the prairie in one relentless zone of flames. Turn where I would nothing but flames and smoke met the eye. In some places flying patches of grass had been blown clear over the river, and it needed little divination to tell that these patches of flaring grass, which were to be seen in fifty different places, would start a work of devastation as wide or wider than that through which I was then passing.

The Red Deer River is in many places quite accessible by means of gullies, but whether it was that my attention was so distracted by the agonised antics of the pony that I had no time to look out for any means of descent, I certainly failed to discover any convenient avenue of escape, and nightfall found me, fifteen miles from my destination, wondering where on earth I was going to procure sustenance for my unfortunate steed. We had not had a bite to eat, nor water to drink since morning, but the plucky little broncho showed no signs of giving in. We should have been enabled to reach the Forks in daylight without any trouble, had it not been that a dozen times at least during the day long detours had been rendered necessary in order to escape from the sweeping flames.

Uneasy Slumber

With the arrival of nightfall there was a noticeable lull in the progress of the fire, and providentially I came upon a small area of grass that had so far escaped the visitation of the element. Anxious to give the pony a well deserved rest, and conscious also of a desire for rest myself, I slid off the beast's back and fell incontinently in a heap on the ground. For the next five minutes I sat where I dropped, till my bones by slow degrees gave signs of activity. The torture of returning vitality was really tremendous. When I had regained sufficient suppleness in my limbs I unstrapped my blanket, tethering line and knapsack, and giving the pony half my ration of bread, tied the tethering line round my wrist, curled myself up in my blanket and sought repose. It was a strange experience. An oasis often acres or so was all that was left to us. On three sides of me glowed the fires, creeping slowly but relentlessly towards the river, and what between the intermittent tugging of the pony as it sought fresh tit-bits of pasture, and anxiety regarding the fire, my sleep was of the fitfullest variety that I ever experienced. The grey of dawn found me on my feet, looking about anxiously for a passage to the river, with the fire not fifty yards away. Quickly strapping the blanket on the pony I crawled as best I could, on his back, and hurried away towards the Forks. The pony's feet were tender but he was game to the backbone, and as luck would have it, his sufferings and mine were materially mitigated by the discovery, a short distance on, of a slough. How that petty and I revelled in that brackish filthy water! It had no virtue beyond the one virtue of being wet, but it eased us of a load of anguish. After that the journey was comparatively easy. We had no further trouble in regard to the fire and arrived at the Forks in about an hour and a half.

Arrival at the Forks

On arrival I was most hospitably entertained by two N. W. M. P. men, who were kindness personified. They had been stationed at the Forks, in charge of the mail for the various surveying parties and finding life hang heavily on their hands amongst the Crees and halfbreeds, were glad to welcome anyone who gave the place a call.

"We can't offer you any whiskey, old man," they said to me that evening, "but we've found out the grandest drink going. Try some of it." With that they got out a bottle of pain killer and obtaining some milk from LaVallee, made up a lovely concoction for me. Two or three drinks of it made me feel as though I had a full sized volcano inside, but my two friends polished off three bottles of it (the Perry Davis brand) that night and seemed to enjoy themselves hugely.

YOUNG WOMEN

Young women are often great sufferers for want of proper advice at just the right time.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., has always issued to young girls a special invitation to write to her about their sickness. She is a mother, and fully understands.

In nine chances out of ten your case will be just the same as that of the young lady whose letter follows.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is what you need to restore health.

Miss M. R. Morin, 335 Ontario St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham.

"I was in very poor health and doctored for months, receiving very little benefit. I had lost all ambition, was nervous, and subject to dizzy spells and painful periods each month.

"A friend suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the proper medicine for me. I procured a bottle of this remedy and began taking, and before it was finished, I felt so much better that I continued its use and gave it a thorough test, with the result I am to-day well and a much healthier girl than I was three years ago. I have no more painful periods, dizziness or nervous troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

He hurried to Stillman's house and stormed into the presence of the judge. He told the story so artfully that the judge's astonished unbelief yielded to rage and cowardice, and he sent for his niece. She came down, white and silent, having heard the loud voices. The old man berated her with shrewish fury, while McNamara stood silent. The girl listened with entire self control until her uncle made a reference to Glenister that she found intolerable.

"Hush! I will not listen!" she cried passionately. "I warned him because you would have sacrificed him after he had saved our lives. That is all. He is an honest man, and I am grateful to him. That is the only foundation for your insult."

McNamara, with apparent candor, broke in:

"You thought you were doing right, of course, but your action will have terrible consequences. Now we'll have riot, bloodshed and heaven knows what. It was to save all this that I wanted to break up their organization. A week's imprisonment would have done it, but now they're armed and belligerent, and we'll have a battle tonight."

"No, no!" she cried. "There mustn't be any violence."

"There is no use trying to check them. They are rushing to their own destruction. I have learned that they plan to attack the Midas tonight, and I'll have fifty soldiers waiting for them there. It is a shame, for they are decent fellows blinded by ignorance and misled by that young miner. This will be the blackest night the north has ever seen."

With this McNamara left the house and went in search of Voorhees, remarking to himself: "Now, Miss Helen, send your warning—the sooner the better. If I know those vigilantes, it will set them crazy, and yet not crazy enough to attack the Midas. They will strike for me, and when they hit my poor unguarded office they'll think hell has moved north."

"Mr. Marshal," said he to his tool, "I want you to gather forty men quietly and to arm them with Winchesters. They must be fellows who won't faint at blood. You know the kind. Assemble them at my office after dark, one at a time, by the back way. It must be done with absolute secrecy. Now, see if you can do this one thing and not get balled up. If you fail, I'll make you answer to me."

"Why don't you get the troops?" ventured Voorhees.

"If there's one thing I want to avoid, it's soldiers, either here or at the mines. When they step in, we step out, and I'm not ready for that just yet." The receiver smiled sinisterly.

Helen meanwhile had fled to her room and there received Glenister's note through Cherry Malotte's messenger. It rekindled her worst fears and bore out McNamara's prophecy. The more she read of it the more certain she grew that the crisis was only a question of hours and that with darkness tragedy would walk the streets of Nome. The thought of the wrong already done was lost in the lonely girl's terror of the crime about to happen, for it seemed to her she had been the instrument to set these forces in motion, that she had loosed this swift speeding avalanche of greed, hatred and brutality. And when the crash should come—the girl shuddered. It must not be. She would shriek a warning from the housetops even at cost of her uncle, of McNamara and of herself. And yet she had no proof that a crime existed. Although it all lay clear in her own mind, the certainty of it arose only from her intuition. If only she were able to take a hand—if only she were not a woman. Then Cherry Malotte's words anent Struve recurred to her, "A bottle of wine and a woman's face." They brought back the lawyer's assurance that those documents she had safeguarded all through the long springtime journey really contained the proof. If they did, then they held the power to check this impending conflict. Her uncle and the boss would not dare continue if threatened with exposure and prosecution. The more she thought of it the more urgent seemed the necessity to prevent the battle of tonight. There was a chance here at least, and the only one.

Adding to her mental torment was the constant vision of that face in the curtains at the Northern. It was her brother, yet what mystery shrouded this affair also? What kept him from her? What caused him to slink away like a thief discovered? She grew dizzy and hysterical.

Struve turned in his chair as the door to his private office opened, then leaped to his feet at sight of the gray eyed girl standing there.

"I came for the papers," she said.

"I knew you would." The blood went out of his cheeks, then surged back up to his eyes. "It's a bargain then?"

She nodded. "Give them to me first."

He laughed unpleasantly. "What do you take me for? I'll keep my part of the bargain if you'll keep yours. But this is no place, nor time. There's riot in the air, and I'm busy preparing for tonight. Come back tomorrow when it's all over."

But it was the terror of tonight's doings that led her into his power.

"I'll never come back," she said. "It is my whim to know today—yes, at once."

He meditated for a time. "Then be it so. I'll shirk the fight, I'll sacrifice what shreds of duty have clung to me, because the fever for you is in my bones, and it seems to me I'd do murder for it. That's the kind of a man I am, and I have no pride in myself because of it. But I've always been that way. We'll ride to the Sign of the Sled. It's a romantic little roadhouse ten miles from here, perched high above the Snake river trail. We'll take dinner there together."

"But the papers?"

"I'll have them with me. We'll start in an hour."

"In an hour," she echoed lifelessly and left him.

He chuckled grimly and seized the telephone. "Central—call the Sled roadhouse—seven rings on the Snake river branch. Hello! That you, Shorty? This is Struve. Anybody at the house? Good. Turn them away if they come and say that you're closed. None of your business. I'll be out about dark, so have dinner for two. Spread yourself and keep the place clear. Goodby."

Strengthened by Glenister's note, Helen went straight to the other woman and this time was not kept waiting nor greeted with sneers, but found Cherry cloaked in a shy dignity, which she clasped tightly about herself. Under her visitor's incoherence she lost her diffidence, however, and, when Helen had finished, remarked, with decision: "Don't go with him. He's a bad man."

"But I must. The blood of those men will be on me if I don't stop this tragedy. If those papers tell the tale I think they do, I can call off my uncle and make McNamara give back the mines. You said Struve told you the whole scheme. Did you see the proof?"

"No, I have only his word, but he spoke of those documents repeatedly, saying they contained his instructions to tie up the mines in order to give a foothold for the lawsuits. He bragged that the rest of the gang were in his power and that he could land them in the penitentiary for conspiracy. That's all."

"It's the only chance," said Helen. "They are sending soldiers to the Midas to lie in ambush, and you must warn the vigilantes." Cherry paled at this and ejaculated:

"Good Lord! Roy said he'd lead an attack tonight." The two stared at each other.

"If I succeed with Struve I can stop it all—all of this injustice and crime—everything."

"Do you realize what you're risking?" Cherry demanded. "That man is an animal. You'll have to kill him to save yourself, and he'll never give up those proofs."

"Yes, he will," said Helen fiercely, "and I defy him to harm me. The Sign of the Sled is a public roadhouse with a landlord, a telephone and other guests. Will you warn Mr. Glenister about the troops?"

"I will, and bless you for a brave girl. Wait a moment." Cherry took from the dresser her tiny revolver. "Don't hesitate to use this. I want you to know also that I'm sorry for what I said yesterday."

As she hurried away Helen realized with a shock the change that the past few months had wrought in her. In truth, it was as Glenister had said, his northland worked strangely with its denizens. What of that shrinking girl who had stepped out of the sheltered life, strong only in her untried honesty, to become a hunted, harried thing, juggling with honor and reputation, in her heart a half formed fear that she might kill a man this night to gain her end? The elements were molding her with irresistible hands. Roy's contact with the primitive had not roughened him more quickly than had hers.

She met her appointment with Struve, and they rode away together, he talkative and elated, she silent and icy.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Late in the afternoon the cloud banks to the eastward assumed alarming proportions. They brought with them an early nightfall, and when they broke let forth a tempest which rivaled that of the previous night. During the first of it armed men came sifting into McNamara's office from the rear and were hidden throughout the building. Whenever he descried a peculiarly desperate ruffian the boss called him aside for private instruction and gave minute description of a wide shouldered, erect youth in white hat and half boots. Gradually he set his trap with the men Voorhees had raked from the slums, and when it was done smiled to himself. As he thought it over he ceased to regret the miscarriage of last night's plan, for it had served to goad his enemies to the point he desired, to the point where they would rush to their own undoing. He thought with satisfaction of the role he would play in the United States press when the sensational news of this night's adventure came out. A court official who dared to do his duty despite a lawless mob. A receiver who turned a midnight attack into a rout and shambles. That's what they would say. What if he did exceed his authority thereafter? What if there were a scandal? Who would question? As to soldiers—no, decidedly no. He wished no help of soldiers at this time.

The sight of a ship in the offing toward dark caused him some uneasiness, for, notwithstanding the assurance that the course of justice in the San Francisco courts had been clogged, he knew Bill Wheaton to be a resourceful lawyer and a determined man. Therefore it relieved him to note the rising gale, which precluded the possibility of interference from that source. Let them come tomorrow if they would. By that time some of the claims would be ownerless and his position strengthened a hundredfold.

He telephoned the mines to throw out guards, although he reasoned that none but madmen would think of striking there in the face of the warning which he knew must have been transmitted through Helen. Putting on his raincoat he sought Stillman.

"Bring your niece over to my place tonight. There's trouble in the air and I'm prepared for it."

"She hasn't returned from her ride yet. I'm afraid she's caught in the storm." The judge gazed anxiously into the darkness.

During all the long day the vigilantes lay in hiding, impatient at their idleness and wondering at the lack of effort made toward their discovery, not dreaming that McNamara had more cleverly hidden plans behind. When Cherry's note of warning came they gathered in the back room and gave voice to their opinions.

"There's only one way to clear the atmosphere," said the chairman.

"You bet," chorused the others. "They've garrisoned the mines, so let's go through the town and make a clean job of it. Let's hang the whole outfit to one post."

This met with general approval, Glenister alone demurring. Said he: "I have reasoned it out differently, and I want you to bear me through before deciding. Last night I got word from Wheaton that the California courts are against us. He attributes it to influence, but whatever the reason, we are cut off from all legal help either in this court or on appeal. Now, suppose we lynch these officials tonight, what do we gain? Martial law in two hours, our mines tied up for another year, and who knows what else? Maybe a corrupter court next season. Suppose, on the other hand, we fail, and somehow I feel that we will, for that boss is no fool. What then? Those of us who don't find the morgue will end in jail. You say we can't meet the soldiers. I say we can and must. We must carry this row to them. We must jump it past the courts of Alaska, past the courts of California, and up to the White House, where there's one honest man, at least. We must do something to wake up the men in Washington. We must get out of politics, for McNamara can beat us there. Although he's a strong man he can't corrupt the president. We have one shot left, and it must reach the Potomac. When Uncle Sam takes a hand we'll get a square deal, so I say let us strike at the Midas tonight and take her if we can. Some of us will go down, but what of it?"

Following this harangue, he outlined a plan which in its unique daring took away their breaths, and as he filled in detail after detail they brightened with excitement and that love of the long chance which makes gamblers of those who thread the silent valleys or tread the edge of things. His boldness stirred them and enthusiasm did the rest.

"All I want for myself," he said, "is the chance to run the big risk. It's mine by right."

Dextry spoke breathlessly to Slapjack in the pause which ensued:

"Ain't he a beller?"

"We'll go you," the miners chimed to a man. And the chairman added: "Let's have Glenister lead this forlorn hope. I am willing to stand or fall on his judgment." They acquiesced without a dissenting voice, and with the firm hands of a natural leader the young man took control.

"Let's hurry up," said one. "It's a long 'mush' and the mud is knee deep."

"No walking for us," said Roy. "We'll go by train."

"By train? How can we get a train?"

"Steal it," he answered, at which Dextry grinned delightedly at his loose jointed companion, and Slapjack showed his toothless gums in answer, saying:

"He sure is."

A few more words and Glenister, accompanied by these two, slipped out into the whirling storm, and a half hour later the rest followed. One by one the vigilantes left, the blackness blotting them up an arm's length from the door, till at last the big, bleak warehouse echoed hollowly to the voice of the wind and water.

Over in the eastern end of the town, behind dark windows upon which the sheeted rain beat furiously, other armed men lay patiently waiting—wafting some word from the bulky shadow which stood with folded arms close against a square of gray, while over their heads a wretched old man paced back and forth, wringing his hands, pausing at every turn to peer out into the night and to mumble the name of his sister's child.

CHAPTER XIX.

EARLY in the evening Cherry Malotte opened her door to find the Bronco Kid on her step. He entered and threw off his rubber coat. Knowing him well, she waited for his disclosure of his errand. His sallow skin was without a trace of color, his eyes were strangely tired, deep lines had gathered about his lips, while his hands kept up constant little nervous explorations as though for days and nights he had not slept and now hovered on the verge of some hysteria. He gave her the impression of a smoldering mine with the fire eating close up to the powder. She judged that his body had been racked by every passion till now it hung jaded and weary, yielding only to the spur of his restless, revengeful spirit.

After a few objectless remarks he began abruptly:

"Do you love Roy Glenister?" His voice, like his manner, was jealously eager, and he watched her carefully as she replied without quibble or deceit:

"Yes, Kid, and I always shall. He is the only true man I have ever known, and I'm not ashamed of my feelings."

For a long time he studied her and then broke into rapid speech, allowing her no time for interruption.

"I've held back and held back because I'm no talker. I can't be in my business. But this is my last chance, and I want to put myself right with you. I've loved you ever since the Dawson days, not in the way you'd expect from a man of my sort perhaps, but with the kind of love that a woman wants. I never showed my hand, for what was the use? That man outheld me. I'd have quit faro years back only I wouldn't leave this country as long as you were part of it, and up here I'm only a gambler, fit for nothing else. I'd made up my mind to let you have him till something happened a couple of months ago, but now it can't go through. I'll have to down him. It isn't concerning you. I'm not a welcher. No, it's a thing I can't talk about—a thing that's made me into a wolf, made me skulk and walk the alleys like a dago. It's put murder into my heart. I've tried to assassinate him. I tried it here last night—but—I was a gentleman once—till the cards came. He knows the answer now, though, and he's ready for me, so one of us will go out like a candle when we meet. I felt that I had to tell you before I cut him down or before he got me."

"You're talking like a madman, Kid," she replied, "and you mustn't turn against him now. He has troubles enough. I never knew you cared for me. What a tangle it is, to be sure. You love me, I love him, he loves that girl, and she loves a crook. Isn't that tragedy enough without your adding to it? You come at a bad time, too, for I'm half insane. There's something dreadful in the air tonight"—

"I'll have to kill him," the man muttered doggedly, and, plead or reason as she would, she could get nothing from him except those words till at last she turned upon him fiercely.

"You say you love me. Very well, let's see if you do. I know the kind of a man you are, and I know what this feud will mean to him, coming just at this time. Put it aside and I'll marry you."

The gambler rose slowly to his feet. "You do love him, don't you?" She bowed her face, and he winced, but continued: "I wouldn't make you my wife that way. I didn't mean it that way."

At this she laughed bitterly. "Oh, I see. Of course not. How foolish of me to expect it of a man like you. I understand what you mean now, and the bargain will stand just the same, if that is what you came for. I wanted to leave this life and be good, to go away and start over and play the game square, but I see it's no use. I'll pay. I know how relentless you are, and the price is low enough. You can have me—and that—marriage talk—I'll not speak of again. I'll stay what I am for his sake."

"Stop!" cried the Kid. "You're wrong. I'm not that kind of a sport." His voice broke suddenly, its vehemence shaking his slim body. "Oh, Cherry, I love you the way a man ought to love a woman. It's one of the two good things left in me, and I want to take you away from here where we can both hide from the past, where we can start new, as you say."

"You would marry me?" she asked.

"In an hour and give my heart's blood for the privilege, but I can't stop this thing, not even if your own dear life hung upon it. I must kill that man."

She approached him and laid her arms about his neck, every line of her body pleading, but he refused steadfastly, while the sweat stood out upon his brow.

She begged: "They're all against him, Kid. He's fighting a hopeless fight. He laid all he had at that girl's feet, and I'll do the same for you."

The man growled savagely. "He got his reward. He took all she had"—

"Don't be a fool. I guess I know. You're a faro dealer, but you haven't any right to talk like that about a good woman, even to a bad one like me."

Into his dark eyes slowly crept a hungry look, and she felt him begin to tremble the least bit. He undertook to speak, paused, wet his lips, then carefully chose these words:

"Do you mean—that he did not—that she is a—a good girl?"

"Absolutely."

He sat down weakly and passed a shaking hand over his face, which had begun to twitch and jerk again as it had on that night when his vengeance was thwarted.

BLOOD DISEASES

Guaranteed Cured or No Pay.

If you ever had any contracted or hereditary blood disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been removed from the system. You may have had some disease years ago, but now and then some symptom alarms you. Some poison still lurks in your system. Can you afford to run the risk of more serious symptoms appearing as the poison multiplies? Beware of mercury or mineral drugs used indiscriminately—they may ruin the system. Twenty years experience in the treatment of these diseases enables us to prescribe specific remedies that will positively cure all blood diseases of the worst character, leaving no bad effects on the system. Our New Method Treatment will purify and enrich the blood, heal up all ulcers, clear the skin, remove bone pains, fallen out hair will grow in, and swollen glands will return to a normal condition, and the patient will feel and look like a different person. All cases we accept for treatment are guaranteed a complete cure if instructions are followed.

ACTORS STARVING.

This Year Is Hard One For Unknown British Thespians.

Tragic stories of privation lie behind a short announcement in The London Stage, which states that the theatrical season cannot begin too early for actors, who have lately fallen on very anxious times.

The present year has been a terrible one for the unknown actor and actress. "I never remember such a bad season," Mr. Blackmore, secretary of the Actors' Union, said recently.

"It is always a difficult and trying time between the spring and autumn tours, but this summer has broken the record.

"It may be that the large exhibitions have made a difference in London and the suburbs.

"In the provinces, I think, the increased number of music halls have gone a long way toward emptying the theatres.

"A serious complication is to be found in the competition of unpaid or premium-paying amateurs on the stage, which makes it so hard for professionals. The profession is very overcrowded as it is.

"The cases of distress are heart-breaking. A girl came to me the other day—a clever girl—who is literally starving. She has been working with the Church Army to keep herself alive.

"Numerous cases come under my notice of actors and actresses who have signed contracts with managers, and cannot afford to pay their fares to the place where the company is playing.

"The bogus manager is another danger. He takes out a company of people, and if the theatre is not well filled at the first place, goes off and leaves them in the lurch. They have no money to seek legal advice and obtain redress. Salaries, too, have been greatly reduced of late years, and any money that has been saved during working hours dwindles away during the 'resting' period in the summer.

"We have organized a small benevolent fund—pennies are put into the box during our meetings—and with this fund we try to help the cases of acute distress which come under our notice."

HAMMER OF ARABS.

Austrian Clerk Rose to Be Inspector-General of Soudan.

The life-story of Sir Rudolph Slatin, Inspector-General of the Soudan, who is paying a visit to this country, reads like a romance of the Middle Ages. As a boy of seventeen Slatin left Vienna to become a clerk in a commercial house in Cairo. The keen eye of General Gordon singled him out, and at twenty-three the Austrian clerk became Governor of Darfur. He soon made a name for himself. "The Hammer of the Arabs" he was called, for he was one of the bravest of fighters. He had only been Governor of Darfur a few months when the Mahdi swept down upon his province. Twenty-seven times did Slatin drive the enemy back. But numbers told in the end, and he was overpowered. He was held prisoner by the Mahdi for twelve years, during which time he suffered terrible indignities. Then he escaped with a prisoner and two guns, and there was no happier man in all Egypt when the British forces swept away Mahdism. Some time ago it was rumoured that Sir Rudolph, who is a confirmed bachelor, was going to marry. He was asked if the report was true. "I marry?" asked Sir Rudolph, with a smile. "No, thank you. I have been a prisoner for twelve years—never again!"

Presidential Succession.

During the first session of the Forty-ninth congress (1885-7) the presidential succession was fixed as follows: In case of the death or removal of both president and vice president the secretary of state shall act as president until the disability of the president be removed or a president is elected. If there be no secretary of state, the secretary of the treasury shall act as president. And the succession passes in like manner to the secretary of war, the attorney general, the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the interior, in the order here given.

Cultivate Your Power.

Do not pray for easy lives. Pray to be stronger men. Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers. Pray for powers equal to your tasks. Then the doing of your work shall be no miracle. But you shall be a miracle. Every day you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of life which has come in you by the grace of God.—Phillips Brooks.

DO NOT BE HUMBUGGED.

More than ever, disreputable and disreputable pharmaceutical concerns are flooding the market with cheap and worthless preparations designed to be imitations of DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY.

Some of these are even labelled "Extract of Wild Strawberry," "Wild Strawberry Compound," etc., in the hope that the public may be deceived and led to purchase them, thinking they are getting the genuine DR. FOWLER'S.

Are you willing to risk your health—perhaps your life, to these no name, no reputation, likely dangerous, so called Strawberry Extracts.

For sixty-three years DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY has been used in thousands of families for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Summer Complaint, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum and all Bowel Complaints.

Do not let the dishonest or unscrupulous dealer humbug you into accepting one of these cheap substitutes, to the detriment of your health and gain to his pocket.

Ask for DR. FOWLER'S and insist on being supplied with it. See that the name The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont., is on the wrapper. Price 35 cents.

DO YOU EAT RIGHT?

Few People in Peterborough Really Know How.

Slow eating and regular meals are of great benefit to a wrong acting stomach. Those who suffer with indigestion and weak stomach can with care and the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets restore the digestion to a healthy condition, so that they can eat what they want at any time without fear of distress or suffering.

After a few days' use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, the headaches, dizzy feeling, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, flatulence, sleeplessness, distress after eating—all these symptoms of a weak stomach—will disappear, and perfect digestion and good health will be restored.

Wm. Madill has so much confidence in the power of Mi-o-na to cure indigestion that he guarantees satisfaction, or money back. Price, 50c.

Won Her a Diadem.

How did the French come into Sicily? A woman did it. At a festive entertainment held at a French court Beatrice, countess of Savoy and wife of Charles of Anjou, the brother of Louis IX. of France, was removed from the superior range of seats occupied by her two younger sisters, the queen of France and the queen of England. Mortified by the humiliation, she returned to her apartments and burst into tears. Upon learning the cause of her chagrin and her saying that she would be able to give up her life to confine her tresses for one hour beneath a diadem Charles embraced her affectionately and said, "Set your heart at rest, countess, for before long I will make you a greater queen than either of your sisters." So he promised her. He defeated Manfred, the last of the Norman kings, and caused Conradino, the great-grandson of the Emperor Frederick, to be mercilessly slain, he himself and Beatrice witnessing the scene. Upon the death of his brother Charles became king of Naples, thus fulfilling the cherished desire of his wife for a diadem.

The Wrist and the Arm.

The real wrist, as one might say, is the elbow joint. It is all hand, practically speaking, from that point to the tips of the fingers. When you turn your wrist it is the whole forearm that makes the twist, and every movement of the fingers is controlled by the muscles of the forearm. The power to turn the wrist to and fro at the elbow joint is possessed only by human beings and monkeys, and even the higher apes are not able to do the trick nearly as well as we can. In this movement the great biceps muscle in the upper arm is importantly concerned, its powerful action in turning the forearm outward being accountable for the fact that we are able to put so much more strength into a twist in that direction than the opposite way. Many of our most familiar tools indeed, such as the screwdriver, are made with reference to the anatomical peculiarity in question. It is for this reason and no other that all screws turn to the right.

New Zealand's Timber.

The kauri timber industry is one of the most important in North New Zealand. In the districts north of Auckland almost one-half of the population are in some way connected with the industry, and look to it as their mainstay of existence. First must be reckoned the vanguard of the army of workers—some 40,000 hardy bushmen, whose province it is to penetrate into the forests and the wild mountain regions where the kauri grows, and with axe and saw to "fall" and lop the great trees. Next come the hauliers, bullock-drivers, wagoners, sailors, sawmill hands, engine-drivers, clerks, cooks, "saw-doctors," and a host of others too numerous to mention.

Radium in Irish Waters.

Some experiments have been recently carried out which appear to show that the sea water round the coast of Ireland possesses a richness in radium not hitherto expected. This result has been extended by measurements made on samples of water collected between Madeira and England, and also on water from the Arabian Sea. In a paper recently delivered it is shown that the deep-lying sediments of the ocean are exceptionally rich in radium. The materials dealt with were partly from the Challenger, partly from the Albatross collections. Some globigerina ooze from the west coast of Ireland was also treated.

Panama Hats.

What panama hats are woven under water is denied by a man who has all his life been engaged in the panama hat trade and has himself made the hats. The hats are woven in the early morning hours, when the atmosphere is damp, as the heat of the sun makes the fiber brittle and unfit for manipulation. At night the hat is hung out in the open air, where it absorbs the dew and is in condition for work again the next morning. This accounts for the great length of time (from one to three months) required for the making of a panama hat.

Rainfall of the World.

The rainfall of the continents after long collecting of records has been estimated to average thirty inches a year. Ocean measurements are difficult, but after considering all known facts Fritsche has now concluded that the entire earth's surface has a mean annual rainfall of thirty-six inches. This means a total fall of 883,000,000 metric tons of water every minute.

Cost of Living in Germany.

A Blue-book recently issued by the British Board of Trade contains the report of an exhaustive inquiry into working-class rents, housing and costs of food, etc., in Germany, together with the rates of wages in the principal industrial towns. From the facts collected the conclusion is arrived at that the net rents of working-class dwellings in Germany, compared with the net rents in England, are as 133 to 100. On the basis of the ordinary English standard of consumption, the expenditure of the workman on food and fuel in Germany is, compared with his expenditure in England, as 110 to 100. An English workman in Germany, living as far as possible as in England, would find his expenditure on rent, food and fuel increased by 19 per cent. As regards wages and hours of labor, the weekly money wages of the working classes in German towns, as compared with the wages of the same classes in England, are as 83 to 109, whilst the working hours are as 111 to 100. Consequently, the hourly rates of money wages for the working classes in German towns are three-quarters of the English rates. The report adds:

"It may be as well to repeat here the two principal limitations of this estimate—viz. (1) the data as to wages and hours of labor are based on the building, engineering and printing trades alone; (2) the comparison of cost of living is based on the English standard of consumption, and covers only expenditure on food, fuel, and house room, or rather over three-quarters of the whole expenditure."

When Diamonds Burn.

The jeweler at closing time was putting his diamonds in a huge safe.

"But why do you bother to do that when two watchmen walk the shop all night long?"

"On account of fire," the jeweler replied. "Diamonds are nothing but coal—carbon—they burn beautifully. Their hardness makes us think them indestructible, but as a matter of fact a fire of diamonds would be the briskest, prettiest thing in the world. Put a handful of diamonds on a plate and set a light to them. They will burn with a hard, gemlike flame till nothing is left. There will be no smoke, no soot, and at the end the plate will be as clean as though just washed—not the slightest particle even of ash will remain."

Historic Bell Recast.

There was cast in London in 1774, by Pack & Chapman, Whitechapel, a bell for the Montreal Parish Church of Notre Dame. In 1841 it was transferred to St. Patrick's, the church home of the Irish Catholics of Montreal. After being in use for 129 years, a crack developed in it. It has been taken down, and will be sent to London to be recast. The bell bears the inscription: "At proper times my voice I raise in sounding my benefactor's praise." Its christened name is "Charlotte."

Tom-Tits In a Letter Box.

For the past fourteen years a brood of tom-tits has been reared each spring in the letter-box at Uttoxeter Workhouse. Since the parent birds first took possession of the box they have hatched 200 eggs.

High Finance.

The excursion train was crowded, and the man in the center of the car knew it would be impossible to get out through the jam to get something to eat without losing his seat and perhaps missing the train. He looked longingly at the restaurant across the tracks and, seeing an urchin sitting on the iron pipe near by, he called him over, saying: "Here, son, take this quarter and run over to that restaurant and get me a sandwich. And get yourself one," he called after the boy.

"You are crazy," said the excursionist beside the man. "You'll never see that kid or your quarter again."

And as the train whistled at the moment he feared it would be true. Just then, however, the boy came out of the restaurant with a large fat sandwich in his hand. The train was moving as he handed up the change and then, taking a huge mouthful of the sandwich, he called to the departing man with the hunger:

"They only had one left. Thanks!"

A Fortunate Man.

One day a young matron to the market place did go, where she bought an oyster plant, then set it out to grow. Said she, "Next winter we'll have oysters, fresh oysters every day, and what a saving it will be, with not a cent to pay. Oh, but hubby should be thankful it was his lot in life to get such a saving woman for his own little wife."

Prince "Eddie's" Yacht.

Prince Edward of Wales has received from his father a present of a beautiful yacht, the Corisande, a perfect sea-going vessel of 160 tons register, intended for sailing in the Solent in holiday times. It takes the place of the model craft the princes played with on the ornamental waters in the grounds of Buckingham Palace, and of the bigger steam launch which diverted them at Virginia Water during many happy days. This latter was a present from their august grandfather, who had the brig specially manned by trusted petty naval officers, charged with the agreeable task of giving the lively royal boys their earliest lessons in boat handling.

Avoiding Railway Accidents.

As an instance of the Great Eastern Railway's elaborate precautions for the safety of travelers on its system, The Railway News says that at Broxbourne, for the purpose of advising the station signalman when a train has passed his down or up advanced starting signal, a rail contact is placed about 300 yards ahead of the respective advanced starting signals, and on the engine reaching the rail contact a bell is rung in the signal-box, and this bell continues ringing until the signal is replaced to danger.

He Did.

"Whatever station in life you may be called to occupy, my boy," said the father in sending his son out into the great world, "always do your best."

"I will," replied the young man, with emotion.

He never forgot his premise. Years afterward, when a prosperous man of business, he did his best friend out of a large sum of money.

In spite of everything it turns out that way once in awhile.

INCURABLE HEART TROUBLE

LOOKED FOR DEATH IN A SHORT TIME.

Entirely Cured by "Fruit-a-tives."

"Gentlemen,—The days of miracles are not all past and I feel that my complete recovery, from what seemed inevitable death, is practically a miracle. I suffered from severe Indigestion and Dyspepsia for nearly two years. I could not take food without fearful distress and I became almost a skeleton as the result of the suffering. I could not do any work and became so run down and weak that I could hardly walk. I was attended by two experienced doctors. They both pronounced my case heart failure and incurable, and I looked forward for death in a short time. I not only had the doctors but after they gave me up I tried many remedies and treatments but got no better.

At this time my son asked me to try "Fruit-a-tives," and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets I was better and gradually this medicine completely cured me. I took a large number of boxes, perhaps a dozen, and now I am entirely cured and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight.

I am now so well that I have sold my farm and bought 200 acres more land. I make this statement voluntarily for the sake of humanity, and I am convinced that "Fruit-a-tives" is a wonderful remedy that will cure stomach trouble where doctors and everything else fail."

(Sgd) Henry Speers, J.P.

The doctors were all wrong. Mr. Speers had what we call "irritated heart." Indigestion and dyspepsia completely upset the stomach. Poisonous gases were formed which swelled the walls of the stomach and pressed against the heart.

"Fruit-a-tives" immediately strengthened the stomach, insured sound digestion and regulated the bowels. There were no poisons—no noxious gases remained in the system, and the heart was no longer irritated. Then the pain and fluttering stopped.

"Fruit-a-tives" is put up in two sizes 25c and 50c. If your dealer has not both, write Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Daisy's Demise.

By EPES W. SARGENT.

Copyrighted, 1903, by Associated Literary Press.

"Billy," announced Daisy solemnly, "I gotter die."

Billy Seaton's big blue eyes grew round with surprise.

"Don't," he urged. "Tommy Bindley's birthday party is next week, and they're goin' to have five kinds of cake and three kinds of ice cream. Billy was sick last year and this is last year's party too."

"I'm not going to be dead that long," explained Daisy. "This is only a little dead."

"I don't see no fun in dying just for a little while," scorned Billy, his fears allayed. "If I was to die I'd want to stay dead—but I don't want to die," he added hastily.

"I don't want to," admitted Daisy, "but I gotter. You know my lace shawl?"

Billy nodded. He had reason for remembering the shawl, for had he not been spanked for throwing a bit of jelly cake at Daisy when she was wearing it? It was old and yellow, but they had made a terrible fuss about it.

"I cut a teenty piece offen it," continued Daisy. "It was the littlest bit of a piece, but"—her voice hushed to an awed whisper—"I'm goin' to be spanked when ma gets home tonight."

Billy nodded understandingly. It was Mrs. Dunlop's principle to permit at least twelve hours to elapse between the detection and punishment of juvenile offenses, during which period the culprit was permitted to suffer those agonies of anticipation far more effective than the gentle spanking which constituted the nominal expiration.

Billy preferred his mother's plan, in which the sole of the maternal slipper followed hot upon the heels of discovery, and he regarded the tiny culprit compassionately.

"Ma won't be back until 4," said Daisy. "You'll help me, won't you, Billy?"

Billy nodded, and so it happened that when Mrs. Dunlop appeared on the piazza of the summer resort hotel to ask if any one had seen her small daughter not even Alice, Daisy's elder sister, could give any information.

At this opportune moment appeared Billy from the road leading from the small stream by courtesy called a river. In one hand he carried a pail of frogs and in the other a battered and dripping wreck that once had been a straw hat.

With a scream which startled the other guests Mrs. Dunlop hurried across the lawn toward the approaching boy, for her mother's eyes had recognized the headgear which to others was still a shapeless mass of wet straw.

"Where did you get Daisy's hat, Billy?" demanded the frantic mother.

"Found it," was the prompt response. "I was down below the dam huntin' frogs and this came over the dam."

"It is my Daisy's," sobbed the frantic mother, clasping the wet thing to her breast. "She cut up her lace shawl that had been my own grandmother's to make a dress for her doll, and I told her that she should have a whipping when I came back from the village. The poor, sensitive little thing has drowned herself."

In an instant all was confusion. Kindly hands led the mother back to the piazza and the men at once organized searching parties. Alice Dunlop numbered her conquests by the score, and each suitor was hopeful that by recovering her sister, dead or alive, he should win a gratitude that should later turn the scales in his favor.

Paul Findlay was one of these, though to do him justice he would have acted as quickly without the incentive. He was hurrying across the lawn when a pudgy hand tugged at his coat and drew him toward a clump of shrubbery.

"Cross your breast never to tell?" obligated Billy.

Paul gave the desired assurance.

"An' give me your big jackknife?" bartered Billy.

"And the knife," assented Paul.

"You know the old mill?" reminded Billy. "Not the new one by the dam, but the one where the dam used to be? Say coo-ee three times. Remember, you promised not to give us away."

Paul nodded and rushed on, while the self satisfied manager of the campaign went in search of the chef to coax him to cook the frog legs for supper.

It was not long before Paul returned, bearing his tiny burden and explaining to those who had dragged the pond that it had occurred to him to search the bank farther up stream.

"She was all tired out from her tramp," he concluded as he placed her in Mrs. Dunlop's arms. "She never was in the water. The wind blew her hat off."

Tears were turned to rejoicing. All of the summer girls hastened to offer Daisy candy out of their boxes, and as Daisy sleepily told her well planned story of how she had strayed into the woods and had become lost Billy stood beside and listened in open mouthed admiration to her Munchausen tale.

Then the child was carried upstairs to be washed and dressed for dinner, and the beaming Mrs. Dunlop cocked soft pleas for forgiveness.

Billy strolled away to one of the summer houses, there to encounter Paul and Alice in the first blissful stage of their sudden engagement. They did not see him for a moment. Paul, looking up, was the first to notice him.

"Come for thy pound of flesh, O Shylock?" he demanded.

Billy shook his head.

"I just was walkin' around," he explained. "I didn't know that you was here, honest."

"All the same," declared Paul, "prompt payments make good friends."

He slipped the knife and a shiny quarter to Billy and watched the boy race across the lawn.

"It was Billy who suggested that I look higher up the bank," he explained as he returned to the girl. "I told him that if his tip was any good I would give him my knife."

"What do you suppose gave him that idea?" cried Alice, with surprise.

"I don't know," said Paul loyally. "The workings of Billy's mind are not for the understanding of us grown-ups."

Billy, out by the stables, derived huge satisfaction from making long, white shavings with the new knife.

"I wish ma would give me time to die before she spanks me," he was telling himself mournfully. "I hope Daisy dies again soon."

Truly Billy's mind was unfathomable.

Lambs For Spanish Children.

Directly after Lent there is observed in Spain a custom that is particularly interesting to children. It is what may be termed the sale of the lambs, for on Monday morning after Easter the shepherds have their lambs and goats on sale in all the cities. The animals are kept in temporary pens, and it is the rule for parents to permit their children of from five to twelve years of age to purchase a pet lamb or goat. After the animal is selected it is taken to the home residence and given the freedom of the courtyard and quite often the greater part of the house. It is every child's ambition to train the pet so that it will at least follow its owner like a dog, and if a few simple tricks are added to the lamb's or kid's education the master or mistress is proud indeed. Girls especially delight in these pets, and often the animals are so bedecked with bows and ribbons as almost to hide their bodies. The sale of the lambs is a very old custom and is supposed to have originated through some form of the church.

The Dog's Tail.

A prominent citizen was on trial charged with harboring a vicious dog.

The attorney for the defense had been consulting a dog expert and had learned that if a dog holds his tail up over his back when he barks he is not angry, while if he holds it straight out behind him he is in a belligerent, bloodthirsty frame of mind. Anxious to air his newly acquired information, the lawyer began cross questioning the prosecuting witness thus:

"Now, did you notice the position in which this dog's tail was held when he came at you?"

"I did not," said the witness, "for that was not the end from which I anticipated injury. I had another end in view. Now, if the dog had been a hornet"—

"No levity, sir!" thundered the attorney. "Answer the question. In what position was the dog's tail when he came at you?"

"I believe, sir," faltered the terrified witness, "that it was behind him."—Chicago News.

Heart of the Stork.

The Arabs have a superstition that the stork has a human heart. When one of these birds builds its nest on a housetop they believe the happiness of that household is insured for that year.

RATTLESNAKES' TEETH.

If You Should Happen to Get Any, Handle Them With Care.

The zoo keeper carefully unfolded a small paper packet, which looked as if it might contain a headache powder.

"Want a rattlesnake's tooth?" he inquired.

"Tooth?"

"Well, call it a fang if you want to, but ain't these something in the good book about 'sharper than a serpent's tooth?' Look at this one and you'll think that the old fellow that wrote that must have known what he was talking about."

He opened the paper and showed what seemed like a miniature horn. It was shaped like a cow horn, which has only one curve. It was yellowish white, like a discolored tooth.

It was about three-quarters of an inch long and a sixteenth of an inch in diameter at the base, where it seemed as if it had been broken off. The point was as sharp as a needle. An eighth of an inch back of the point, on the outer curve of the tooth, was an opening, the end of a sort of tube, which ran the whole length of the tooth.

This little channel through the tooth seemed to be full of a dried substance, which the zoo keeper evidently regarded with proper suspicion, for he warned the recipient of the teeth to handle the same with care. He did not think that one would get a true case of snake bite from one of these discarded teeth, but if the skin should be scratched or pierced by it a bad sore would probably result.

According to him, the keepers at the zoo often pick up these loose teeth in the snake cages. They are apparently shed in the course of natural changes, something as the serpent sheds his skin. They are not merely the snake's baby teeth, for he sheds them more than once.

The Gaelic Language.

The old Gaelic language was spoken by all the branches of the great Celtic race, for, while a dialect of the Celtic language, it was so like the other Celtic dialects that no Celt would find difficulty in speaking it. Specifically, it was the speech of the Manxmen, Welsh, Scotch highlanders, Cornishmen, Bretons and many of the Irish. It is still spoken in some parts of Ireland, Wales, the highlands and the Isle of Man.

A Mere Pittance.

He came with a note from her, an' she said in the note, "I must find employment for my boy, even if he works for a mere pittance." The nerve of her callin' me "a mere pittance!"

A Dry Joke.

"Will you take something to-night?"

"With pleasure."

The photo was taken, and the sitter said:

"But what about that little formality?"

"Oh, sir, that is just a trade ruse of mine to give a natural and interested expression to the face."—Tit-Bits.

Pure Water.

Pure water will not rust iron. It is the presence of carbonic acid and other impurities which causes the surface of the iron to oxidize when exposed to moisture.

Cigarettes.

The cigarette did not reach England until after the Crimean war, in which the English officers adopted it from the Turks and Russians. Many people give Pellegrini, the Ape of "Vanity Fair," the credit of introducing the cigarette into England, and, at any rate, his example did much to popularize it.

Steel-Ribbed Fire Pots Are the Newest Patented Feature Of

"Hecla" Warm Air Furnaces

They were invented to increase the surface on the fire pot, the most effective radiating surface on Warm Air Furnaces. Instead of cast iron flanges, which take up so much room on a fire pot that only a small number of them can be used, we fuse STEEL ribs on the outer surface of HECLA Fire pots, and so get three times as much surface as you will find on any other style of furnace fire pot.

This large increase of surface greatly increases the speed of radiation. In fact, the Steel-Ribbed Fire Pot radiates the heat just as soon as it is generated within the fire pot. It radiates it so quickly that Steel-Ribbed Fire Pots never become red hot. It saves a lot of heat that would otherwise go up the chimney, and by saving it, saves fuel. In an actual three years' test, Steel-Ribbed Fire Pots demonstrated a saving in fuel of 13½%.

A fire pot that does not get red hot will never burn out. It ought to last forever. STEEL RIBBED POTS, therefore, insure durability, economy and comfort.

The "HECLA" Furnace contains other exclusive features. FUSED JOINTS that make the "HECLA" air-tight, and keep the house free of dust, smoke and gas.

TRIANGULAR BAR GRATE, by which each of the four grates may be shaken separately. EXTRA LARGE FURNACE DOOR, for wood, as well as coal.

Nitrobenzol.

Probably the most remarkable odorous substance is nitrobenzol. When placed under the nose it first smells like heliotrope, then like bitter almonds and finally like benzine.

Amber.

Amber is a hard, bitter, glossy and resinous substance, probably formed by a species of ant which inhabits pine forests. Some, however, have supposed it to be a vegetable product of the gum order, while others, again, consider it to belong to the fossils. In its composition there are frequently found the bodies of ants.

SCOTLAND

The British steamer Whitewood arrived recently at Bolness Dock on the Firth of Forth after an adventurous voyage from Bremen. Captain Rooson stated that when 300 miles off May Island they passed through what seemed to be a sharp and dangerous electrical disturbance. He was standing on the lower bridge, and without any warning a terrific thunderclap broke over the ship accompanied by a vivid flash of lightning. The steamer staggered, and the captain was flung to the deck, while the fore top mast was rent a distance of four feet. The compasses were also affected, causing the master considerable inconvenience. Had he trusted to them his destination would have been Norway instead of the Firth of Forth. He managed to get his bearing by the sun, and steered accordingly, battling all the while against a strong northerly wind and very heavy seas. The thunderstorm ceased as suddenly as it commenced, and was followed by a fall of large hailstones.

It is interesting to note that the Free Church is going to take an active and practical interest in the language of the Highlands. At the recent meeting of the commission of that church, Principal MacCulloch moved a resolution in the following terms: "This commission of the General Assembly of the Free Church, having under consideration the proposal of the Government, as set forth in their Education bill for Scotland, to give greater facilities for the teaching of Gaelic in schools, express the opinion that such tuition is highly desirable for the advancement of the education of Gaelic-speaking children; resolves to urge upon the Government the necessity of encouraging such tuition by giving, first, grants of not less than fifteen pounds to such teachers as give satisfactory instruction in Gaelic; and, second, increased allowances for junior Gaelic-speaking students." He contended that Gaelic was the reverse of hindrance to the education of children in the Highlands. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

THE RELATION OF THE ATHLETE TO DIET AND ENDURANCE

In discussing the matter of physique in relation to athletics, with particular respect to the recent Olympic contests in England, stress has been laid upon the superior strength and build of some representatives. References have been made to the various factors alleged to be more or less responsible for their success.

Chief of all the tests of physical endurance was the Marathon race, which was won by Hayes. In connection with that race an interesting point has been raised by an English newspaper on the subject of the relation of diet to physical capacities for endurance. That diet plays a large part in the storage and replenishment of physical energy, we, of course, all know, but it is interesting to note just how much the question of diet has to do with the conservation and utilisation of our physical forces.

It has been pointed out in connection with the Marathon race, that Hayes, the winner, took no food during the contest; Dorando took food and brought himself to the stadium and death's door at the same time, if we are to believe all accounts. With the exception of Hefferman, who was third, all the other competitors took food during the race. Partaking of refreshment during severe physical contests is, of course, nothing new. In every attempt made to swim the English Channel it has been the custom for each competitor to have an attendant at hand to supply refreshment during the course, not only liquid stimulant, but solid food, of some kind or other. It has been a theory in the athletic world for years past that that feeling of "gone-ness" (it cannot be better described) that overtakes the "inner man" during severe physical athletic feats, especially those requiring sustained rather than quick and brief effort, should be catered to by a supply of nourishing food. English athletic experts at the moment are wondering whether or not th theory is tenable, in view of recent tests. As a matter of fact, there seems very little doubt that the theory is bad and quite out-of-date.

Is it not a fact, ask the students of diet, that the energy we use today was stored up yesterday, or long previously, and that to take food during a severe endurance test is suicidal? Food has two functions, to repair waste and to supply heat. Before food can repair waste, and replace used-up energy, it has to be digested and assimilated, a process taking longer than the Marathon race: so the runner merely carries a useless load. But this is not all. Digestion uses up a great deal of vital and muscular energy, the churning process known as peristalsis would tire us terribly if we had to do it consciously. The expenditure of energy is the same, however, and is so much deducted from the task in hand.

The other function of food is to supply animal heat; two-thirds of ordinary food is used for this purpose; so to take food while running on a hot day is like donning a coat or "sweater". Is it any wonder that the man who knew enough to avoid these follies won the Marathon? Or that even Dorando's magnificent pluck should have enabled him to overcome them? It is a common declaration of medical men nowadays that we nearly all eat too much food, thus distending the stomach. When it empties, or, to be exact in illustrating the physical sensation during severe and protracted bodily strain, when it "feels", empty, there may be a sense of need, but this is as false an indication of the system's real needs as the smoker's craving for tobacco or the drunkard's craving for alcohol. Who, having ridden in a ten-mile bicycle race, has not experienced that feeling of "gone-ness" before reaching the last stretch? Or, to suggest a still more severe strain, who, having rowed in his first maiden-eight over a three-mile course, has not experienced it? The feeling that one possesses no body at all between the chest and knees! One wonders, at the moment, where the apparently missing part of the body can be and what it can be doing just then. But the fact that food should be desired and craved for during such time is a pretty sure indication of previous bad habits. Food may allay such false cravings, but it does so at the cost of much energy. It may also act as a stimulant for a time, but that, too, has to be paid for by loss of energy. Only those liquids which make no call on digestive powers should be taken in such a trial of endurance.

The remarkable discoveries of Horace Fletcher, which led to Prof. Chittenden's epoch-making experiments, showed that Voit and all the other authorities on the quantity of food needed to give the best mental and bodily results were sadly at sea, and that by Fletcher's system athletes trained to the best that the old system of training could do for them nearly doubled their powers by ceasing to tax their energy in digesting and getting rid of superfluous food. Athletes, like other mortals, have to breast the tape of scientific progress, and bring themselves up-to-date. It simply means that, to secure the very best results, they must discard what is bad in the old methods and hang on to what is good and beneficial. The question of diet is one that has not been clearly pronounced for us until lately—that is, in its direct relation to physical endurance.—New York World.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

The Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Bible Study Club for Sunday, September 20th, are as follows:

Review — Read Psalm 18.

Golden Text — And David perceived that the Lord had established him king over all Israel, and that he had exalted his kingdom for his people Israel's sake. II Sam. v.: 12.

All members of this Bible Study Club, and all students of these questions are urged to make this review thorough.

Read all the lessons and memorize each Golden Text. Following are the Titles, the Golden Texts and one question in connection with each lesson.

1. Israel asks for a King. I Sam., 8.

Golden Text — By me kings reign, and princes decree justice. Prov. viii: 15.

Verses 1-4 — Are parents necessarily to be blamed, either for ignorance, neglect or sin, when their children turn out bad?

2. Saul Chosen King. I Sam. x: 17-27.

Golden Text — He that ruleth over men must be just, ruling in the fear of God. II Sam. xxiii: 3.

What is the first essential in order to be a success in ruling over either children or men?

3. Samuel warns Saul and the People. I Sam. xii: 1-5, 12-15.

Golden Text — Only fear the Lord and serve him in truth with all your heart; for consider how great things he hath done for you. I Sam. xii: 24.

Verse 18 — If we can compare a life policy as good, better and best, what will be God's attitude toward us if we adopt that which is lower than the best?

4. Saul rejected by the Lord. I Sam. xv: 13 - 23.

Golden Text — The Lord our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey. Josh. xxiv: 24.

Verses 14-15 — May a person like Saul be very religious and practice sin without "the bleating of the sheep" being heard by his neighbours? Give your reason.

5. David Anointed at Bethlehem. I Sam. xvi: 1-13.

Golden Text — Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart. I Sam. xvi: 7.

Verse 1 — What method did God use in talking to Samuel, and what method does he use to-day in talking to the faithful?

6. David and Goliath. I Sam. xvii: 38 - 49.

Golden Text — In the Lord put I my trust. Ps. xi: 1.

What are the greatest giants which oppose our personal progress, and how are we to successfully fight them?

7. Saul Tries to Kill David. I Sam. xviii: 6-16.

Golden Text — The Lord God is a Sun and a Shield. Ps. 84: 11.

(Verse 6 — Are the sorrows of success generally greater or less than the sorrows of defeat, and why?

8. Friendship of David and Jonathan. I Sam. 20.

Golden Text — A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adversity. Prov. xvii: 17.

Do such friendships as existed between David and Jonathan exist between women, and may such Platonic and purely spiritual friendships honourably exist between men and women? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the Club.)

9. David Spares Saul's Life. I Sam. xxvi.

Golden Text — Love your enemies; do good to them which hate you. Luke vi: 27.

Is it really desirable in these days that we love our enemies, and why?

10. Saul and Jonathan slain in Battle. I Sam. xxxi.

Golden Text — Prepare to meet thy God. Amos iv: 12.

Verse 1 — May we ever expect to win in anything if God is against us, and if not, how do you account for the apparent success of some bad men?

11. David made King over Judah and Israel. II Sam. ii: 1-7; v: 1-5.

Golden Text — David went on and grew great, and the Lord God of Hosts was with him. II Sam. v: 10.

Verse 1 — Did David expect a definite answer from God, and may we expect similar answers to our questions?

WINNERS OF PRIZES

Farmers of East Peterborough Who Have Finest Standing Field Crops—Asphodel Heads the List

FIFTEEN ENTER CONTEST

The secretary of the Agricultural Society of East Peterborough has just received from the Department of Agriculture the names of the successful competitors in the standing field competition inaugurated last spring. There were fifteen entries in the competition and the cereal selected to be grown was Oats. About the 10th August the Department sent an expert to examine the fields and the awards are as follows:

L. Lonergan, Asphodel, 91 points.
B. C. Parker, South Dummer, 83 points.
F. Birdsall, Birdsall, 81 points.
And. Knox, Norwood, 79 points.
Alf. Robson, Norwood, 78 points.

The winners in this competition will be eligible to exhibit in the contest at the Winter Fair at Guelph, in December. Two bushels of the grain grown on a plot (which must be a fair sample of the whole) must be sent and at least 25 bushels held by the exhibitor for sale. The grain winning prizes will be kept by the Department to be used for experimental purposes. All other grain will be sold by auction and the proceeds remitted to the owners. Entry tags, etc., will be supplied by the Department. The prizes are as follows: 1st $25, 2nd $30, 3rd $20, 4th $10, 5th $5, 6th highly commended, 7th commended. Entries should be addressed to J. Lockie Wilson, Superintendent of Agricultural Societies, Toronto, not later than Nov. 21st.

LINDSAY MAN IS FINED $50 FOR RUNNING AN ALLEGED GAME OF CHANCE AT THE PETERBORO FAIR

John Goselin Arrested by P. C. Newhall and Meharry on the Midway Yesterday—Will Appeal Against the Decision

HOW MACHINE OPERATES

John Goselin of Lindsay, was arrested yesterday afternoon at the Exhibition Grounds by P. C Newhall and P. C. Meharry on a charge of running a game of chance. This morning he appeared before City Clerk Armstrong, who was on the bench in the absence of the Magistrate, and was fined $20 and $3.75 costs, with the alternative of spending 60 days in gaol. Goselin had a machine on which were six metal horses, "Looking Glass, "Gipsy Girl," "Harold H." "Hector" "Harry O," and "Darky Boy." In connection with the frame-up was selling small paddles on which were the names of the same horses. These were sold for ten cents each and the man who held the paddle which contained the name of the horse which stopped opposite a small post on the machine, after the latter was through spinning, received 50 cents. When the case came up in the police court this morning Goselin pleaded not guilty and his counsel Mr. G N Gordon, admitted that he was selling the paddles and that he was operating the machine which was on exhibition in the court room. The fine was paid and the apparatus was confiscated.

PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH THE RESULTS OF FIRST DAY OF FAIR

PICK POCKETS AT WORK

P. C. Newhall on the Trail of Several Suspicious Characters Who Are Frequenting The Fair

THE MEN WERE PUT WISE

A couple of pickpockets, it is said, were at work in the crowd at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition yesterday and P. C. Newhall was hot on their trail. He became suspicious of the actions of a pair of men and followed them around the grounds. Their actions were such as to warrant suspicion and the officer kept them in sight in order to secure some proof against them. It is said that some local people, however, gave the two supposed "dips" a tip and pointed out the officer to them as they disappeared suddenly. P. C. Newhall was in plain clothes and would have easily located his man had it not been that they were "put wise" to him.

It is stated that one man was relieved of twenty dollars while at the grounds yesterday. He believes his pocket was picked, but of course there is the probability that he may have dropped his wad somewhere else.

NEW SECRETARY OF THE Y.W.C.A. ARRIVES TO BEGIN HER DUTIES

Miss Metalla, of St. Catharines, the new secretary of the Y.W.C.A. here, has arrived in the city. She is in her office at the building, where she will be pleased to meet the young women of the city. She is a graduate of the Bible Training School, of Chicago, and comes here highly recommended. Next week the prospectus for the fall and winter term will be ready. It will explain the different classes to be held.

A number of library books are out and have been for some time. The secretary will be pleased to have them returned to the library as soon as possible.

LOCAL FIRM HAS THE CONTRACT OF ROOFING NEW NORMAL SCHOOL

The work of roofing the Normal School at North Bay is being done by a local firm, Messrs. Maitland and Moore. It is of tar and gravel, similar to the local Normal School, which was done by the same men. Mr. Moore remained in Peterborough as his left hand was burned by hot pitch, and for a few days he will be unable to use it. Mr. Maitland is in charge of the work at North Bay.

MANY CATTLE DYING IN MARSHES IN EASTERN ONTARIO WHILE IN SEARCH OF THE PRECIOUS LIQUID

Bush Fires Raging in Many Places, States Mr. John Glendenning—Caused by Sparks From Engines

RAIN IS BADLY NEEDED

Cattle losing their lives in bog-holes and swamps in search of water, is the remarkable state of affairs in some parts of Eastern Ontario, according to the statements of Mr. John Glendenning, of Valentine, a man well known among the dairy and live stock, and agricultural districts of the province. Mr. Glendenning came to Peterborough this morning to attend the Fair, from Merrickville, where he has been judging cattle, sheep and swine.

He stated to the Examiner at the market this morning that the want of rain in the east has produced very distressing circumstances. Forest fires are raging in many districts. A spark from a passing railway engine dropping in the grass beside the track is almost sure to start a fire. Swamps are being undermined and forests are being destroyed before the onward rush of the dreaded fire. This condition of affairs is particularly common between Ottawa and Renfrew and in the Almonte district.

Speaking about the lack of water for cattle, Mr. Glendenning stated that it was almost impossible in some places for them to secure enough to exist. At Merrickville one farmer was told that several of his cattle were stuck in a marsh while seeking water and were not able to extricate themselves.

"Scores are dying in the mire," remarked Mr. Glendenning, "and nothing can be done to save them."

Woman Killed in Parry Sound by Falling Timber—Belonged Sturdy Family in This District

THE WOMEN DID THE WORK

Readers of the Toronto papers of yesterday's date, must have read of the terrible fate of a woman and child, who were crushed to death by the fall of a burning tree near Parry Sound district. A Peterborough gentleman knew the unfortunate women and, in fact, the whole family well. There were no boys and the girls—three or four in number—and the old man, whose occupation in Germania had been laboring, actually cleared, burned and logged what is now as presentable a farm as any in the district around Spenceville.

The matter is worthy notice, as showing the fortitude and wild worth possessed by this particular family.

EXCURSIONISTS FROM PICTON WELCOMED BY CIVIC OFFICIALS

When the train arrived yesterday with the Picton excursionists, Ald. G. H. Elliott, chairman of the Reception Committee, and City Clerk Armstrong met them at the C.P.R. station and on behalf of the city extended them a warm welcome and invited them to visit the big Exhibition. Needless to say a large portion of the visitors accepted the invitation, and after dinner spent the afternoon at the grounds. All such excursions should be given a welcome to Peterborough either by the mayor or the chairman of the Reception Committee, as it pleases the visitors and makes them talk about Peterborough.

6,000 People Were Present At The Fair; The Attendance Breaks All Records

The weather man seems to have it in for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, and yesterday he did his best to bring disaster to the event. True the bad weather held off long enough to allow the biggest crowd on record to get on the grounds, but in the middle of the fun a terrific windstorm arose, followed by a shower of rain which scattered the crowd, and although the rain did not last long it was enough to spoil the afternoon for most of the crowd.

It was unfortunate, too, for there was a magnificent crowd present. There was a number of people on the grounds in the morning, but the real rush did not commence until 12.30 o'clock, when the crowd began to pour in in a manner that threatened to swamp the ticket sellers. The Radial Railway Company had put on special cars and trailers, and every south-bound car was loaded down to the water line with holiday-makers. A large part of the crowd was composed of visitors to the city, the number including 1200 from Picton who came to Peterborough on a special train.

Well into the afternoon the rush continued, and at 3 o'clock the north side of the grounds from east to west was almost a solid mass of people. The poultry building and main building were crowded, along the Midway there was a happy crowd of sight-seers, while the grandstand was packed, and many hundreds more lined the race track or crowded into the enclosure.

All records in point of attendance, it is thought, have been broken by yesterday afternoon's crowd. It is estimated conservatively by Secretary-Treasurer Hall that the total attendance was six thousand, and that there were over five thousand paid admissions, which is a splendid mark for the directors in years to follow to get after. It was a grand crowd and it is no wonder that President Leary and his directors went around with smiles on their faces radiant enough to crack the paint on the main building. "We got them at last," said one of the directors to the Examiner, and it was evident that he meant the crowd. It was certainly an inspiring sight to the management to see the crowds that came thronging into the grounds at every entrance.

Regina, The Queen City Of Saskatchewan Described By Former Peterborough Man

Mr. Duncan Campbell, who left Peterborough for the West in May last has written recently to one of his friends here giving some information about the country of which so many varied reports have been given. He writes as follows:

I arrived here in Regina with my two brothers about the 22nd of May and have been here sufficiently long to know something about the country. We do not regret coming and only wish that we had come sooner. This is certainly a young man's country, and about the first thing you notice is the large number of young men and boys. There is, however, a scarcity of the fair sex.

Regina, as you know, is the capital of Saskatchewan, and is destined to grow rapidly in the next few years. We have a population of over 10,000 and this is growing rapidly. Our public buildings are, I think, the best in the west and our city hall is easily the finest this side of Toronto. Its cost was $150,000.00. Our new post office and customs building in course of construction, will cost over $220,000.00 and will be completed this year. We have 10 chartered banks, quite a number of loan companies and our hotel accommodation cannot be beaten in Western Canada. We have six miles of granolithic sidewalks and best of all we have a tax rate of 15 mills on the dollar.

Regina to-day is much the same as Peterborough was a year ago, just beginning to erect a number of fine buildings. There are in course of erection a separate school, a public school (our fourth) and a fine new Collegiate Institute building. We also have some beautiful churches. One thing we sadly need is a stream of water. We have neither lake nor river, but the Government is building an artificial lake out where the new Parliament buildings are to be, so we may have some boating next summer. On the whole we have not what you would call a pretty city, for the people have been too busy tearing down and building up to devote much time to beauty. However, five or ten years will see a big change in that respect.

As you know we had an election a short time ago and Hon. Walter Scott, the Liberal representative, carried the province in splendid style. From the present outlook I believe that Saskatchewan will remain Liberal for some years to come. Well, this is a little information for the present. I will write you again in the near future.

Yours truly,
DUNCAN C. CAMPBELL.

FERNIE RISING FROM ITS ASHES SINCE DISASTROUS FOREST FIRE

Dr. Scott Returns From Ten Weeks' Visit Through Canadian West—People Living In Tents In Fernie

MICHEL'S NARROW ESCAPE

Dr. and Mrs. Scott, who have spent the past ten weeks touring the Canadian West, returned home last night. They had a pleasant time having visited in various towns and cities of the West. In speaking to the Examiner this morning Dr. Scott spoke of the ruins remaining as evidences of the disastrous Fernie fire a short time ago. The town is slowly rising from its ashes, and when the doctor passed through about three weeks ago the citizens were living chiefly in tents. The fire swept eastward along the valley from Fernie, destroying everything in its path. Strange to say the village of Michell escaped. It is only five or six miles from Fernie, but the fire seemed to have purposely spared it and swept on towards Hosmer, 28 miles distant.

Trees six inches in diameter, states Dr. Scott, that were lying in the course of the flames, are all facing the east by the force of the blaze.

Changes for the Rink

—Skidoo night at the Auditorium Roller Rink will be held on Sept. 23rd instead of the 22rd, on account of the wrestling match. Also the grand carnival will take place on the 30th instead of the 29th. Patrons of the rink will kindly bear these changes in mind.

CHIEF SAYS THE FAIR DIRECTORS WERE LIABLE

Chief Roussel stated to-day that the directors of the Fair were liable for the granting of a license to John Goselin, the Lindsay man who was fined for conducting a little gambling game at the Exhibition grounds. He had paid $5 for the privilege and received a receipt from the secretary. Chief Roussel stated that this was contrary to law, and if the directors allowed a repetition of it they would be placed in the same position as Goselin. The Government takes away the grant from any Fair directors who are found guilty of this offense. The Lindsay man departed after shaking hands with the Chief and P. C. Newhall, and he laughingly suggested that the police might try a little game themselves some time when there was nothing doing.

THE PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. Lady or gentleman fitter, Three fits.

Parched Pastures Result In Higher Price Of Cheese

The Prevailing Price is Now 12 5-8 Cents—May Even Go Higher—Smaller Output From Factories Now

WILL LIKELY REMAIN HIGH

A local cheese buyer stated to-day that the dry weather of the past month or six weeks is responsible, to a great extent, for the increased price of cheese. The latest board prices have been quoted at 12 5-8 cents. At Brockville, Belleville and other places this price has been received and it is quite likely that it will be paid at the meeting of the local board next week.

The reason for the advance is the fact that the factories have fallen off considerably in their outputs, owing to the pasture lands being dried up. This has been experienced all through the province and it is believed that 12 3-4 cents might yet be realized. This is not entirely to be expected but it is felt that the 5-8 mark will prevail during the rest of this season.

Magnificent Fish

—A splendid specimen of Chemong Lake lunge is that on display in a window of R. Neill's shoe store. It weighs 21 1-2 lbs. and was hooked by Mrs. Neill. It was mounted by Mr Edwin Elcome, the local taxidermist, who made an excellent piece of work of it.

Weather Interferes With Evening Show At Fair Last Night

In Spite of the Threatening Appearance of the Heavens, However, Six Hundred People Were On Hand

AN ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME

The threatening weather last evening interfered considerably with the attendance at the night performance at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, but in spite of that handicap, the affair was a success. Some 600 people braved the weather and took in the show, which was very enjoyable.

The northern parts of the grounds were illuminated, and those who had not been present in the afternoon had a good opportunity of seeing the displays. A fine programme of moving pictures was shown in front of the grandstand by Mr. Coon, of the Crystal, which pleased the crowd, and the band rendered a choice programme. The Les Arthos troupe gave their acrobatic juggling turn to the astonishment of the audience, and altogether the programme was a good one.

Car off Track

—Yesterday evening about 5.30 o'clock one of the trailer cars ran off the track at Spaulding's Bay, while returning from the Exhibition Grounds. Everybody got off and actually lifted it in place again.

SCOW LOAD OF HARDWOOD UPSETS IN RIVER ABOVE LAKEFIELD

SECOND DAY ASSURES SUCCESS OF FAIR

President Leary's smile broadened considerably this afternoon as the threatening weather vapourized and the sun gleamed at intervals, inviting the crowds to Exhibition Park. Everything was "rosy." The attendance reached a high figure, the race track was in good condition, and there was every prospect for fast heats. The hoodoo of other years did but little damage this time. It kept many away last night but failed to get in its work to-day. "The spell is broken," remarked one of the directors. "This year will put us on a solid footing and will give us a prestige that will be of incalculable benefit next year and those that follow."

The Examiner has all sorts of demands made on its capacity for serving the wants of the public, from finding a lost purse, a lost child, a stolen wife or strayed husband; but this morning "the limit" arrived in the form of a letter, enclosing the necessary stamps to pay for a pattern for a 13-gored plain-flare skirt, 21 inch waist measure and 37 inches long. The line was drawn at such a request and the order was turned over to the Peterborough Book Store. Some persons seem to think that a newspaper can do anything and it can—except do wrong—the only skirts kept are clear skirts.

Belongs to Mr. John Johnston of Peterborough — About Forty Cords Floating About

COMING FROM LOVESICK

Last night a scow load of wood being towed to Peterborough by the steamer Water Lily, upset just above Lakefield lock, and is scattered over the river. The wood belonged to Mr. Jno. Johnston, city, who was having it brought down from his property near Lovesick. Mr. Johnston and his scow went up to assist in loading the scow, which contained some 35 or 40 cords of hardwood. He drove to the city last night and this morning went to the Wolfe street wharf expecting to find his wood there. Later he received word of the upsetting of the scow.

The wood will, of course, float but considerable difficulty will be experienced in getting several thousand sticks from the river by hand.

ABILITY AND USEFULNESS APPRECIATED.

The Hamilton Times, in speaking of the retirement of Hon. Mr. Stratton, as Provincial Secretary, says:

The retirement of Hon. J. R. Stratton from the Ontario Cabinet, has been definitely announced in a letter to Hon. Mr. Rose under date of October 12. This is a distinct loss to the Province. Hon. Mr. Stratton has been an excellent administrator, and the affairs of his department have been handled in the most satisfactory manner. At no time has any reasonable complaint been made against his work as a Minister. Indeed, the Opposition has fully appreciated his ability and usefulness, and recognized his worth by avoiding any fair criticism of his acts and confining itself to an organized effort to befoul his reputation and damage him in the estimation of people who are open to be deceived by tales of corruption and improper election methods. Mr. Stratton's decision to retire is the more to be regretted, because it would in a way mean the triumph of men and methods which are a disgrace to Canada, an affront to morality, and to the decencies of public life. That persistent lying and mud-slinging should succeed in damaging a good and useful man to the extent of losing his services to this Province, would not be much of a compliment to the fairness and intelligence of its people.

A CONGENIAL ASSISTANT.

One circumstance which gives Premier Roblin who is to appear here with Mr. Borden next week, a greater importance than he intrinsically possesses, is the fact or supposition that in the extremely improbable event of Mr. Borden being successful in carrying the country at the present elections, he will be Minister of the Interior in Mr. Borden's problematical Cabinet. His local knowledge of the west and western conditions as held by our good Conservative friends to qualify him to remedy the "improvident" administration of western lands falsely charged against the Liberal Government.

Mr. Roblin might, from knowledge of western conditions be, in this way, well qualified to be Minister of the Interior in Mr. Borden's Cabinet, but, unfortunately he knows too much about western conditions; and the more the people know how he has acquired this knowledge in his capacity as Premier of Manitoba, the less they would welcome his advent to the Cabinet position suggested. It is not unreasonable to suppose that Mr. Roblin as Dominion Minister of the Interior, would apply the same policy he has, as head of the Conservative Government applied in Manitoba, a policy to be only described as "the land for the speculator." With Mr. Borden's success in the coming election we shall, therefore, have a return of the old-time reckless administration of public lands in the west; and we are further threatened with another dose of Foster flummery and Foster deficits. Mr. Roblin should be welcome to Peterborough. He comes here in support of the candidate of the Conservative party who can sympathise with the Roblin record of mal-administration of public lands; in support of a candidate who opposes railway construction and the settlement of the Northwest; a candidate who, therefore, necessarily attaches little importance to western lands—if they are to be left vacant and waste, no matter who grabs them. The Conservative candidate would not keep a very watchful eye over administration which would naturally strengthen the Conservative candidate's contention that western lands are not worth much anyway and little harm would result it Mr. Roblin, duplicating the Manitoba policy, disposed of them to speculators at half their value, in huge blocks, to be held, apart from settlement, for increase of value. No wonder Mr. Burnham greets Hon. Mr. Roblin's advent with a "hooray!"

Is this encouraging to the pessimist? The exportations of Canada increased last year about twelve millions over the buoyant year of 1907. The foreign sales of Canada were in 1907, the large figure of $249,211,351, and in 1908 the larger figure of $260,619,002. All departments of trade, except forest and animal products, shared in the increase, which in manufactured goods amounts to 12 per cent. The authority for this is the report of the Commercial Intelligence Committee adopted by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

The Toronto World quotes the improvements made in the postal service—reduction of rates, increased facilities and improved service—as a triumph for public ownership. It points out that the Postmaster-General, as the agent of the state, can do whatever he likes, and do it whenever he likes, in the way of improvement. The World points out as evidence that since 1896 there has been made a large reduction of rates in postage, and, as a result, an increased revenue, and, in spite of the expense of a vastly-improved and extended service, a surplus, or profit, this year, of one million dollars. This argument is good as to the illustration, but the World does not take into consideration the reverse of the medal. For eighteen years, under the Conservatives, and, in fact, since Canada had a government, state ownership has been applied to the postal service. Yet in all that time, while there were high postal rates, and less effective, and consequently less costly, service, there was no improvement or very gradual improvement, and the Postmasters-General from time to time had not freedom to do "whatever they liked," because they had not the money to do it without encroaching upon the resources of other departments or borrowing the means. The Conservative regime closed with a post-office deficit of $750,000. If we accept the World's contention as to the advantages of state ownership as exemplified in the results of Liberal administration, which it cites, we have reason to believe that the advantages of state ownership are relative, not absolute. Much, if not everything, depends upon effective administration and business management. In one case we find state ownership, in the matter of the post-office utility, riding for a fall—feeble administration accompanied by deficits and doubtfully effective and restricted service; in the other, with businesslike administration, we find it a conspicuous success. Public ownership of utilities would be a perfect success with perfect administration. The same might apply to private ownership of utilities. Unfortunately we cannot expect the ideal administration in either case. If we could do so, there would be less ground for controversy as to the respective merits of public and private ownership of utilities that serve, or are intended to serve, the public convenience.

Is there not, besides, something in the fact that circumstances differentiate the postal service and other public utilities? The postal service is a development of years. Governments have served a long apprenticeship to its management and acquired a skill and experience which would be lacking in assuming charge of utilities of more recent origin, of greater complexity of condition, or of private ownership conditions from the beginning.

The World is doubtless as sincere as it is energetic in its public ownership propaganda, and if it finds that converts come slowly, it has the consolation that it is not the first prophet that has forged ahead of his time.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Canada is growing rapidly—making the up-grade in splendid style. Is it a time to change drivers and trust the lever to a driver, who jammed on the brakes in the wheels of Canadian progress in the adverse ante-'96 days? "No interference with the man at the wheel," on the ship of state.

The Liberal Government demands the best in members of the Cabinet as in positions of important trust. The Kingston Whig points out that educated officials are in demand. The professors of political economy in Queen's and Toronto Universities have gone into the service of the Ottawa Government.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Review, breaks into an hysterical "hooray" over the announcement it makes that Leader Borden and Hon. R. P. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, will appear in the Opera House here on Sept. 25th. There is one redeeming feature about Hon. Mr. Roblin. He at one time had sense enough to be a Liberal in politics, and of such deep dye, that he gave his first-born son the name of Wilfrid Laurier Roblin. Hooray!

The great growth of trade in Canada cannot be realized without a little thinking. To realize the increase of Canada's export trade under the Liberal Government, it may be stated, as is the fact, that the increase of exports in each of the twelve years of the Liberal regime, ranging from 18 millions to 147 millions a year, makes a grand total of more than a thousand million dollars to the good in the matter of receipts from the sale of the exported products of farm and factory.

There is a pretty and piquant preponderance of prospective petticoated pedagogues in attendance at the Normal School here. There are 137 lady teachers in training as against 21 mere men.

The question as to Peterborough being the proper place in this district for the Normal School is settled by the record of the first term. The Toronto papers boast that the opening attendance at the Normal School in that city—established half a century—211—constructed a record. The opening attendances at our Normal School established yesterday, is 158 and when the enrolment is completed the roster will contain 160 names.

OBITUARY.

MR. ROBERT SHAW

By the death of Robert Shaw, which sad event took place on Saturday, Millbrook and Cavan lose one of their best known and most highly respected citizens.

Deceased had been ailing for some months past, but no one thought that the end was so near. He was a son of the late John Shaw, and a grandson of the late John Thorn, Esq., who was in the council of Cavan for 22 years, and helped to frame many of the by-laws before Millbrook was incorporated.

Robt. Shaw was born in the Township of Cavan on the 9th of March, 1850, and has resided here all his life. He was a good friend to all his acquaintances.

On the 29th of April, 1897, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Barker, daughter of the late Robt. Barker, of Cavan. To this happy union four children were born, all of whom survive their father, viz., John, Robert, May and Luella. Besides his wife and children, one brother, Wm. Shaw, of Otonabee; and seven sisters, Mrs. (Dr.) T. H. Hazzard, of Millbrook; Mrs. John Mulligan, of Clarke; Mrs. Syrian Cosmer and Mrs. Jos. Shaw, of Owen Sound; Mrs. Andy Dobbin, California; Mrs. Sam Gainer, of Long Beach, Mich.; Mrs. Joseph Fallis, Brandon, survive him; all of whom have the sincere and heartfelt sympathy of their host of friends.

In religion Mr. Shaw was an Anglican, and in politics a staunch Conservative. He was a member of Cavan Council for several terms.

The funeral on Tuesday, under the auspices of L. O. District of Cavan, was very largely attended, many of the brethren turning out to honour their deceased brother. He was also a member of the Masonic Order.

Rev. W. C. Allen conducted the church service at the house and grave and Bro. Wm. Earl conducted the Orange burial service. The remains were laid to rest in St. Paul's Cemetery.—Millbrook Mirror.

The Attractive Powers of Y.M.C.A. Building In The North

Have the Bowling Alleys and Pool Rooms—Meeting With Success

MEN ARE, NOT COERCED

"Association Men," the trade journal of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North America, a magazine which every live association member should read, says the following:

"A party of Canadian Pacific Railway officials left Montreal on July 8th, to attend the formal opening of two Railroad Associations at Chapleau and Schreiber on the Lake Superior Division. This division is one of the most difficult to operate on the system, as for five hundred miles the road runs through a rugged and uninhabited country. Chapleau and Schreiber, two of the most lonesome and forsaken terminals on the division, were chosen for Young Men's Christian Association experiment stations. The buildings are exactly alike in plan and furnishing, each having sleeping accommodation for forty-four men, three bowling alleys and two pool tables, in addition to the other usual features. The two buildings cost $46,000. Chapleau was first opened and Schreiber the following day. Mr. Vaughan, assistant to the first vice-president, in charge of the motive power, said: 'The company first proposed erecting boarding houses, but realizing their inadequacy to meet the need, added the social attractions of the bowling alleys and pool room. They intrusted the operation of the buildings to the Association, because of its unselfish purpose to serve men without financial gain.' General Superintendent Brady said: 'We do not say that our men must patronize the Association, but I tell you frankly that the man who prefers to hang around the saloons rather than come to these buildings will be looked upon with suspicion.' On the return journey this group of officials mentioned eight other terminals between Fort William and Halifax which they thought should have buildings similar to the ones at Chapleau and Schreiber. The success at these places means another system work, and one of the largest on the continent."

THE DAYLIGHT CLOTHIERS ARE IT

Messrs. Lang & Maher, "the Daylight Clothiers," were "monarch of all they surveyed," in the clothing line this year at our Industrial. This aspiring firm were out for business hot foot, and held the fort to the admiring gaze of record-breaking attendance of visitors in their own specially designed clothing building. Their exhibit represented a portable clothing store of unique design, with features that attracted everybody that passed that way. An inspection of the clothing displayed furnished a comprehensive knowledge of what is to be the correct thing in the new styles for men's, youths' and boys' wear this season.

Inside this picturesque marquee were to be seen men's new fall suits of special excellence, and with a distinctiveness that stamps them as different from the ordinary run of ready-mades. What The Daylight Clothiers pride themselves on is the "Fit-rite" individuality which characterizes their new clothing. The coming season will see no startling changes in the styles for men. The sacque coat, single or double-breasted, will rule, the only change being a somewhat lower cut than is usual in fall and winter garments. Stripe effects are largely shown and so is the cutaway coat. But the great advantage of Lang & Maher's clothing is that a prospective purchaser is able to see how a suit suits him before purchasing. Excellence in garment making is characteristic of their stock—always up to the required point in style, and in most cases just a little ahead of other brands. If you have not seen the new season's overcoats and suits, drop into their Peterborough store, Nos. 409-411 George street, and see the swell new comers, which they call the "Limit of Swaggerdom." You are always as welcome to look as to buy.

G. WALTER GREEN'S MACHINERY DISPLAY

Perhaps no other outdoor exhibit attracted so much general attention as the extensive machinery display from the iron works of Mr. G Walter Green, McDonel street, west. It was even a pleasant surprise to many of our own citizens to find the resources of Mr. Green's rapidly growing establishment represented on the Fair Grounds by eight brand new machines, direct from his machine shop and entirely built on his own premises. Each of these machines was of a sufficiently interesting and practical character to be easily understood and appreciated by the thousands of farmers, mill men and others who visited the exhibit. The machines shown were as follows:

One saw mill complete.
One lath mill and bolter.
One double edger.
One wood sawing machine.
One shingle machine.
One shingle jointer.
One shingle pasker.
One steel head-block for saw carriage.

Mechanically, every one of these machines have been admitted to be the best machines of their type that skill combined with experience can produce. Only the highest grades of material are allowed to enter into their construction, and expert workmen have been carefully selected to build them. Another point in their favour is that they are moderately priced machines, and are intended to suit the requirements of many jobbers, farmers and mill men who are looking for machines of this nature that require only a small investment. What made the exhibit more realistic and interesting was the fact that they were all in running operation, being driven by a powerful gasoline engine from the works. Mr. Mauds, the mechanical superintendent, was successful in running a splendid demonstration of the output from these shops, in which he was well assisted by a number of practical men from the works. But the most gratifying feature of all in connection with this substantial machinery exhibit was the fact that nearly every machine shown found a purchaser, cards showing the names of the respective buyers being placarded on the machine.

Besides the machinery shown Mr. Green had samples of his popular wood pumps, which may be said to have become the standard water suppliers for domestic, farm and stock use in this district. Also, Green's plough points, "with a backbone;" pulleys, hangers, belts and other supplies for transmission machinery, for which the works are equipped with first-class facilities.

ARE WAITING FOR HIS ADVICE

North Bay Strikers Will Ask Premier's Opinion.

TO PUT CASE BEFORE HIM

At His Coming Speech There Next Friday Sir Wilfrid Will Probably Talk at Some Length on the Strike Situation — New Secretary of State Will Go on Tour in Ontario With His Chieftain.

North Bay, Sept. 19.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is billed to address a public meeting here next Friday.

The Canadian Pacific strikers have notified the Premier that they will take advantage of the occasion to present their case to him, and it is expected that in his speech the Premier will deal with the strike situation at some length.

No one, of course, has any idea what Sir Wilfrid is likely to say on the subject, but a great many strikers at this and other points along the Canadian Pacific are said to be ready to be guided by his advice, whatever it may be.

It is expected that Sir Wilfrid's meeting here on the 25th will be attended by labor men from Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and other centres.

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—Chas. Murphy, Secretary of State-elect, will accompany Sir Wilfrid Laurier during his Ontario tour.

He will join Sir Wilfrid at North Bay on Friday next, and continue with him till Sept. 31, when they will address a meeting in Russell County, in which Mr. Murphy expects he will be a candidate.

ICE BARS ROUTE.

Report of Blockade In North May Stop Grain Line.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 19.—Should the report of the ice-blocked conditions in Hudson Bay last summer, brought to St. John's, Nfld., by the sealing steamer Adventure, prove to be true, of every year, the great project of the Canadian Government, providing for the expenditure of $30,000,000 in the opening of a line of grain-carrying steamers from Fort Churchill in Hudson Bay to Europe will undoubtedly fail through.

The Adventure reported that she was unable to enter Hudson Strait until the last week in July because of an ice blockade, and said that heavy ice was also encountered in August.

Does Electric Chair Kill?

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Mollie Frank, 12 years old, of 2,633 Emerald avenue, is alive and well after receiving into her body 2,300 volts of electricity, 500 volts more than is applied to condemned prisoners in penal institutions in New York and Ohio.

She, on a dare, touched a live wire and fell unconscious to the ground. The girl will recover, doctors say.

A physican who attended the child, said that the recovery of the girl added another argument to be used by the medical men who charge that persons who suffer the death penalty by means of electricity are not killed by the electric shock, but by the knife of the surgeons, who performs the official autopsy or by dissolution in the grave.

Pope Congratulated.

Rome, Sept. 19.—The Pope yesterday received thousands of telegrams and addresses of felicitation from Italy and abroad on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the celebration of his first mass. The holy father celebrated mass personally yesterday. About 3,000 persons attended, including eight cardinals and many archbishops.

Young Couple Suicide.

Alpena, Mich., Sept. 19.—The bodies of George Bradbury, aged 19, and Norah Priest, aged 18 years, were found yesterday beside the road, three miles from here, with bullets through their hearts. It is supposed they were married.

They lived in Alpena Township, near this city.

Footballers Killed.

Pittsburg, Sept. 19.—During a practice game of football on the old East Liberty Stock Yard grounds yesterday two players were killed. They ran in front of a switching engine and were crushed to death.

Accepts the Call.

Brantford, Sept. 19.—Rev. George Lowes, Toronto, has accepted the call recently extended him by Shenstone Memorial Baptist Church.

To All The Women Who Suffer Pe-ru-na Is Earnestly Commended.

Many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by taking Peruna. To be beautiful, the body must be kept clean internally as well as externally. Peruna produces clean mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry, and a clear, healthy complexion.

I Gained Strength and Flesh and am in Perfect Health.
I am so Thankful Your Medicine has Done Me so Much Good.
So says

—Miss Julia Butler, of Appleton, Wis.

Grateful for Relief.

Mme. Leo Gabourg, 215 Rue Aragon St. Sauveur, Quebec, Canada, writes:

"I thank you very much for the advice you have given me. I am very well indeed. It seems to me that I am no longer the same person.

"Some of my friends have been troubled with colds and have used Peruna with very satisfactory results. As for myself, I am happy to be so successfully cured, and so promptly."

Catarrh of Bowels.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1800 North 20th, Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me; I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well.

"If any one wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

Pains in the Side.

Mrs. Julia Braxton, Apollo, Pa., writes:

"Peruna has cured me of heart trouble and pains in the side.

"A year ago I was expected to die at any time, and the doctor was sometimes called at two o'clock in the morning. But I am thankful to say that I do not have to send for a doctor now.

"Since I have used your Peruna as you advised me, I am well and able to do all my housework.

"I have all the faith in the world in Peruna, as it cured me, and I know that it will cure others."

Catarrh Made Life Miserable.

Dlle. Marie L. Meunier, 913 Ontario street, Montreal, Can., writes:

"I take pleasure in stating that I have been cured of catarrh by Peruna.

"This disease made my life miserable, especially in the morning, when I had to cough and spit and make every effort to clear my throat and air passages.

"This remedy cured me promptly and I recommend it most highly to persons afflicted with this terrible disease."

London, Sept. 19.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Carrathers told Sydneyites that emigration to Australia would be greatly stimulated by the Australian pavilion at the Franco-British Exposition.

Babe Takes Lye.

Hamilton, Sept. 19.—The 14-months-old daughter of Oscar Johnson, 9 North Hess street, died yesterday as the result of taking a quantity of lye, yesterday by mistake.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restore a Despondent Sufferer to Health.

"Although it is now some years since I found it necessary to take medicine of any kind, I attribute my present good health entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." Thus writes Mr. W. M. Ferguson, St. John West, N.B. Mr. Ferguson continues: "For years I was a sufferer from chronic bronchitis and general debility. I had always been delicate, but as I grew older I seemed to grow weaker, and at the approach of autumn I commenced to cough and had to remain in the house all winter. With the coming of summer I always got a little better, only to be laid low again when the fine weather was over. During my last and most severe attack my cough became more distressing and I raised considerable phlegm, while at night I would be bathed in a cold, clammy sweat. The doctor's medicine relieved my cough a little during the day time, but there was no other improvement as I had no appetite, the night sweats continued and I was growing weaker. I changed doctors three different times but with no improvement. Then I began to take cod liver oil, but my stomach had grown so weak that it refused to retain it. It was at this time when I was trying to reconcile myself to my fate that a pamphlet relating cures wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was left at my door. Although my friends thought me in a decline, and although I was feeling hopeless myself, I decided to try the Pills. After using several boxes, though I still continue to cough, I felt better in other respects, and my appetite was gradually returning. I was not only surprised, but pleased to find this improvement, and I gladly continued their use. By the time I had taken ten boxes the night sweats and the cough had entirely disappeared, and I was feeling quite vigorous. I took two more boxes, and felt that there was no necessity to continue the treatment as I was in better health than I had ever been before. When I completed the twelfth box I weighed myself and found that I had gained 32 pounds. As I said before it is some years since my cure was effected, and I have not had a cough in any season since, and have always enjoyed the best of health. I believe, therefore, that it is entirely due to the agency of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I am alive and well to-day, and I trust that others will benefit by my personal experience."

You can get these pills from your medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Causes Of Unemployment As They Appear To The Working Man

There has been a good deal said from time to time about the drinking habits of British workmen, and the references to them in the press and on the platforms are often resented and sometimes provoke angry retorts. Mr. Hamar Greenwood, for example, spoke very frankly on the subject in the West the other day, and a cable despatch described how his remarks had been criticized, in Yorkshire by an organ which is opposed to him in politics. A highly illuminative article on the causes of unemployment as they appear in the eyes of a working man is contributed by Mr. James Hutchinson to the Nineteenth Century, and as Mr. Hutchinson is himself a working man, and not a teetotaller, and as he discusses the matter in a fair spirit, his observations can hardly be taken exception to by his class on the ground that he is not qualified to speak. He takes up the inquiry as to what can be done to ameliorate the unsatisfactory condition of British labour. He speaks as one of the older workmen who has in his time known what it is to be out of employment, and to have to turn out to seek for work, in a period of depression of trade, day after day and week after week.

Mr. Hutchinson declares that by far the most potent causes which affect continuity of employment are wastage of health and wealth on intemperance of all kinds, strikes and lockouts. These factors in the production of slackness in the call for labour, and dislocation in trade, he holds to be the most powerful of which he has any cognizance. He reasons that there are few people who can afford to waste capital in riotous living, and not be left poorer, and that to the great body it simply means disaster. Taking the drink bill, which, according to calculations that have been made by competent authorities, amounts to an average of 3s 10d per week over every working class family in the kingdom, he shows the effect that the diversion of a portion of it to the channels of ordinary trade would have upon employment. The estimate of the cost of liquor consumption has been examined in detail by Messrs. Rowntree and Sherwell, investigators of known worth, who say that after all deductions have been made it is doubtful if the average family expenditure can be reckoned at less than six shillings per week for the six million and a half working class families in the United Kingdom. This means an expenditure on intoxicating drinks alone in these families of £1,950,000 per week. Mr. Hutchinson limits his own consumption to a sober half pint of bottled beer per day, which means an expenditure of eightpence three farthings per week, but he would allow each family sixteen pints per week of good beer in cask, which would cost 2s 4d, and he calculates that the 3s 8d saved by each family would represent £1,191,666 per week, or an aggregate for the year of £61,966,632 stg. The necessities of the labouring classes would, he says, cause them to spend most of these savings on articles of dress. He estimates that £22,000,000 would go for woollen goods, £5,850,000 for dress goods, £4,333,000 for cotton, £14,625,000 for boots and shoes, which would leave a surplus for other purposes—say furniture and articles that would make the home cosy and beautiful, of nearly fourteen and a half millions. The £61,966,632 so expended would be sufficient to pay a living wage of thirty shillings per week, or £78 a year, to 794,000 workmen. This would mean constant work all the year round to a number in excess of the total average number of unemployed, taking both unionists and non-unionists throughout the conutry.

MEETING OF AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS

Called for Tuesday Evening—Exhibition May Be Arranged

To the Editor of the Examiner.

I Would you kindly allow me, through the columns of your paper, to write all those who are interested in the development of the photograph from an amateur standpoint, to attend a meeting on Tuesday evening next at 8 sharp at the Tate-Taylor Optical Co.'s office, George street. It is proposed to arrange for an amateur photographers' exhibition in the near future in aid of our city's most deserving charities. Dealers in amateurs' supplies are also invited to attend.

ANXIOUS YOUTH SECURES THE RING AND MINISTER

A good story is told of a young man who was very anxious to enter the state with the benedicts. On Thursday night, in company with a young lady, who later became his spouse, he drove up to the door of a dry goods store during the millinery opening and inquired from a bystander about a jewelry store. Jewelry stores were closed and his case seemed hopeless, but by the assistance of the party on the sidewalk a scheme was devised, and off he went with the bride to be and secured the ring.

The minister was next thought of and after several had been called, who were out, the services of one were at last secured. The youth had apparently been "mixing it up," as his face was cut and his eyes were blackened.

6,000 PEOPLE WERE PRESENT AT TRE FAIR; THE ATTENDANCE BREAKS ALL RECORDS

In entries, too, the Fair was fully up to the best standard set in the past, at least in certain lines, and from an agricultural standpoint the Exhibition left nothing to be desired. For some reason or other there was a falling off in the number of poultry exhibits, but the decrease in the quantity was more than made up for in the excellence of the birds shown. The cattle entries were also slightly smaller than last year, but there were more horses entered and a much better display of sheep, in fact one of the finest ever shown here.

The Midway

Over on the Midway there was a lively scene and the crowd found this feature decidedly interesting. More than the usual number of "frame-ups" were in evidence along the Pike, which was laid out in regular street fashion. A snake show, a merry-go-round, cane racks, refreshment booths of all kinds, shooting games, were all there. One of these was an unique affair in which the object was to start an auto horn blowing by hitting the picture of a big car painted on canvas. The attendants wore auto caps and coats which added to the illusion. There were several of the "knock-his-block-off-for-a-cigar" games in sight, and they apparently did a rushing business. Mr. Hetherington had his monster steer on exhibition in a tent and the animal was an object of attraction to the farmers. Another interesting exhibit was that shown by Mr. Mark Spencely of a sheep with its head turned upside down. The animal is alive and well and does not seem to mind the twisted headpiece.

There was plenty of amusement for the crowd in front of the grandstand. In addition to the horse races and the judging of carriage horses in the ring there was a splendid platform performance. The Les Aribos troupe in their feats of strength and astonishing acrobatic novelties, delighted the crowd. They have a turn consisting of bicycle and vehicle juggling that is new and decidedly interesting. The feature perhaps was the stunt in which one of the company held a long bar across his shoulders at either end of which a bicycle was suspended. The feat was warmly applauded.

Kennedy Bros. and Mack made a hit with their trick house act, a comedy feature which if not new is certainly amusing, and the crowd found the absurd antics of the company very enjoyable.

The 57th Regimental Band under the direction of Mr. Gliddon were stationed in the grandstand and rendered a most enjoyable programme which included several comic opera selections. The band made a very favourable impression upon the Fair visitors and their music was much appreciated.

The Horse Races

The programme of speeding events proved to be the best horse races that have been seen at the local way. The drivers were out to win, and every heat was a race with the excitement continuing until the money division was decided.

The 2.50 class brought together six horses., Lulu Chimes, owned by Thos. McIvor, of Smith; Lady Black, Eddie Jones, (Peterborough; Minnie G., Wm. Detman, Kinmount; Harry K., Dr. Cowan, Lindsay; Leo Keswick, Ashmore, Lindsay; and Teddy Keswick, Gardiner, Millbrook. It took four heats to decide this class, and it was exciting all the wway.

In the first heat Harry K upset his driver at the quarter pole and his owner and driver, Dr. Cowan, of Lindsay, was thrown out, with the result that both ankles were sprained. The horse continued pacing with the rest and finished in third position, with Teddy Keswick winning the heat, with Minnie G, second. The driverless horse was set back to six position.

In the next three heats, however, Harry K showed his metal by clearing up the field. He won the second in a driving finish, but in the others he led the procession all the way. Following is the summary:

Harry K., Dr. Cowan, Lindsay	6 1 1 1
Teddy Keswick, Gardiner, Millbrook	1 6 4 4
Minnie G, W. Detman, Kinmount	2 3 2 2
Leo Keswick, Ashmore, Lindsay	3 2 3 3
Lulu Chimes, Thos. McIvor, Smith	4 5 dr
Lady Black, E. Jones, Peterborough	4 5 dr

Time—2.34 1-4, 2.35 1-4, 2.34 1-4, 2.35 1-2.

Dr. Cowan, who was injured in the first heat, drove his horse to victory in spite of his sufferings. His sprained ankles were swollen so much that he could not wear his boots, and his win was very popular with the crowd.

The 2.20 class was some race as well, and the four fast ones put up a speedy, hard fought contest that kept the crowd on its feet all the time. The entries were Hazel Bell, owned by P. McCarthy, Toronto; Walter G, Hodgins, of Orillia; Holland Boy, Dr. Leach, Peterborough; and Adolpt, Ira Nattress, of Millbrook.

Walter GG, the big Orillia horse, won in straight heats. He had too much speed for his field, and although he got a bad start in the first heat he rapidly overtook the leaders and passed Holland Boy in the estretch. Hazel Bell, who has apparently returned to form, and Holland Boy had a great battle for second money.

The summary:

Walter G, Hodgins, Orillia	1 1 1
Hazel Bell, P. McCarthy, Toronto	3 2 2
Holland Boy, Dr. Leach, Peterborough	2 3 3
Adolph, Ira Nattress, Millbrook	4 4 4

Time—2.21 3-4, 2.22 1-4, 2.22 1-4.

Winners of Prizes

The major portion of the judging was done yesterday. Only a small number of the horses were judged, the remainder being concluded this afternoon. The exhibits in live stock and poultry were excellent, many complimentary remarks being made in reference to these.

In the poultry Mr. Harry Lush, assisted by Mr. Fred Dunnett, was successful in carrying off a great many prizes and more than any other exhibitor. Among those who had birds at the Fair and who met with success were several members of the Peterborough Poultry Association, showing that interest has been aroused in poultry by its formation. The poultry tent was one of the attractions of the exhibition.

The exhibits in agricultural and garden products, fine arts etc., were possibly the best ever seen at the fair and brought crowds into the building all yesterday afternoon.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

The continuation of our extended descriptions of the numerous special exhibits at the Fair will be found interesting reading:—

A. H. STRATTON'S FINE WALL PAPER

The beautiful exposition of artistic wall papers from the Peterborough Bookstore was a new revelation to visitors at the Fair this year. Nothing approximating it as an art display of high class wall paper decorations ever was seen before, either at the Industrial Exhibition or anywhere else in the city.

This exhibit exemplified the biggest type of parlour and drawing-room wall decorations in distinctly artistic colour treatments. They were also shown in moderate and rich colourings and excellent imitations of fabrics and other similar effects. The beautifully-panelled designs were thrown up from white backgrounds and produced a rich effect. It was an educative display, because it demonstrated that no matter what the room may be or seem at first, when papered in harmonious or exhilarating colours it will be transformed into a cheerful little nest or a palatial restful chamber.

Nothing pleased the women visitors at the Fair more than did this exhibit, and the new ideas gained in house decoration will no doubt be productive of improved surroundings. Included in the display were many new and leading designs of imported and Canadian papers taken from the new fall stock of the Peterborough Bookstore. Specially worthy of mention were the lovely new Oatmeal ingrains, or English velours; the Shadowy effects which give two tones to the paper; the high class art Friezes in artistic blendings of tint and tone; elaborate Applique, rich Crown hangings, and new suggestions for halls, libraries, etc.

The tasteful trim of this exhibit was also much admired. The ceiling was in white and was lit up with an arc lamp. Rich green garlands of ivy were strung across the ceiling, while along the top of the front and side openings hung silk Madras drapings in harmonious shades of pink and green.

A TENT DISPLAY WORTH SEEING

Turner's Peerless Tents were again very much in evidence all over the fair. There must have been 25 or 30 of their different designs of their tents doing exhibition work for special exhibitors, side attractions and other uses in different parts of the fair grounds.

The energy displayed by the members of this firm is always worthy of special mention in connection with our agricultural fair exhibition. Visitors were struck with the completeness of their own special exhibit, and the enterprise shown this year by this firm was significant of the hustle which they are putting into business.

Their Family Compartment Tent, in natty green stripe, shown on the grounds, was the same as was exhibited at the Toronto Industrial this year, and which carried off the highest awards of the directors, in the face of severe competition. This tent was completely fitted with kitchen attachment, bed and living rooms. It even had a wide front verandah under which, on the neat matting covered floor, were a number of unique verandah chairs of the firm's own make.

They also exhibited the new Walsh Window and Fresh Air Tent, designed for the treatment of patients suffering from tuberculosis. The arrangement of this tent permits the patient's head and shoulders being under an airy tent out doors, while the rest of the body is indoors. This novel contrivance was the subject of much flattering comment at the Toronto Fair, and was highly praised for its adaptability for sanitary purposes.

There was also shown a large dining tent and a fairy lawn tent. Among other samples of goods of which Turner & Sons make a specialty were: A display of camp furniture, waterproof clothing, horse blankets, cushions, rugs, fancy, verandah chairs, coal bags, etc.

The reputation which J. J. Turner & Sons have gained for originality, good workmanship and promptness in execution, have served to make them the largest tent, sail and awning manufacturers in Canada.

SIMPSON AND STOREY'S EXHIBIT

It took the largest tent on the grounds to hold the splendid exhibit of Messrs. Story & Simpson, who occupy agricultural and other warerooms on Water street. The exhibit was a centre of attraction to many visitors. Under the big stretch of canvas was shown the following:

Several handsome buggies and sleighs of the McLaughlin Carriage Company's manufacture, for which Storey & Simpson are the local agents. The display embraced types of deep seated, high backed sleighs originated by the McLaughlin Company years ago. A "King Edward" cutter, with red box and dark green upholstering, and a "Portland" cutter with silver-plated screen and rail showed up well. Several rubber-tired buggies showed the nice range of the workmanship of the vehicles. For 1908 the company have produced what they claim to be the finest specimens of buggies and cutters ever marketed. They are beautiful in outline and comfortable in proportion. The wood work, iron work, painting, nickel-plated rails and brass screens are all the very best skill and workmanship can devise.

Messrs. Simpson & Storey also made a fine exhibit of Ogilvie's high grade western flour, which has obtained such a Dominion reputation. The brands shown were displayed in sacks and were: Royal Household, a perfect household flour for bread and pastry; Glenora, a patent bakers flour; Mount Royal, a favourite pastry and bread flour. Simpson & Storey have the local agency for these flours and ship it right into Peterborough in car lots. Mr. O. C. Bissell, the resident representative of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, Limited, was on the spot, in the interests of his firm. He was kept busy answering questions from the interested visitors. Copies of "Ogilvie's Book for a Cook," was freely handed out to all. It contains a selection of receipts which have been thoroughly tested. Messrs. Storey & Simpson displayed samples of single and double harness, robes, horse blankets and other stable supplies which they keep in stock at their warerooms on Water street.

GRAFTON AND COMPANY

Although the "Household Words," as familiar as usual, Grafton Company's clothing display was missed from the special exhibits of this years' fair, they were strongly in evidence all over the show grounds, and in the immediate precincts of the fair. Almost every available spot was placarded with their artistic bulletins descriptive of the character and qualities of their hand-tailored high-grade clothing. Speaking to Mr. W. Conway, the local manager of the George street store, he explained that it was found impossible to find time to make a suitable exhibit at the fair this year. Mr. Conway was again one of the directors of the fair this year.

Since the Grafton store was established in Peterborough it has been a point of attraction for thousands of our citizens, both city and country, and their unique clothing displays at all our fairs has been made with regularity year after year that has given them a prominence that must have become most valuable. To the man who believes that "it pays to pay for quality," Grafton's clothing seldom disappoints. They tell you, "We make everything we sell, and guarantee everything we make."

The firm again offered three special prizes, as follows:

For the three best teams of agricultural or general purpose horses. The horses, waggons and harness to be considered in awarding the prize. Harness and waggon not necessarily

SEVERAL VILLAGES ARE IN PERIL

Quebec Towns in Danger of Destruction by Fires.

RIVER SHIPPING PARALYZED

Dense Pall of Smoke Overhangs St. Lawrence River, One Ship is Ashore Another Postponed Sailing and Others Cannot Be Located—Trains Are Late — Immense Timber Areas Destroyed.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—Montreal, and, in fact, the whole of the upper St. Lawrence, is under a thick pall of smoke. The smoke, which has been hanging over the city for days, became thicker Thursday, and is now a serious menace to shipping. One ship, the Marina, is ashore at Varennes; the Corsican, which should have sailed at dawn, is still at her berth; the Ottawa is lying in Quebec, waiting for a chance to move; several ships are somewhere in the river, but the agents have no trace of them; the ferry service is disorganized, and the trains are coming in hours late. Such in brief is the way Montreal is affected.

Fires are within a few miles of St. Remi, about six miles from Howick, and four or five miles from Huntingdon. Only a heavy rain fall will save the country from serious loss.

Reports from all parts of the eastern townships state that large areas are being burned over, and immense quantities of pulpwood and timber destroyed. Rain is badly needed, as the country is very dry and with high winds fires are spreading rapidly.

In villages in Laprairie, Napierville, Chateauguay and Huntingdon counties it is almost impossible to see a few yards ahead, while the sun, when seen at all, appears like a red disc. The smoke and smell of burning forests penetrate the houses and make everyone exceedingly uncomfortable.

BORDEN AT SHERBROOKE.

Casgrain Inveighs Against Political Race Cry.

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 19.—One of the largest successes of the present tour of R. L. Borden and his followers was scored here last night at a big mass meeting held in the stadium in the interests of Dr. A. N. Worthington, M.P. for Sherbrooke, and the other candidates in the eastern townships.

Six thousand people from the city and different parts of the eastern townships filled the hall.

Hon. T. Chase Casgrain of Montreal spoke in French. He took the stand that the cry of race and religion should not be brought into politics, and gave as example the English province of Ontario, which selected French-Canadians to Cabinet Ministers when worthy of the positions.

Mr. Borden was then presented with an address by Dr. A. N. Worthington, M.P. for the Sherbrooke Liberal-Conservative Association. After thanking the people of Sherbrooke and the association for their welcome, Mr. Borden went into the discussion of the issues of the day.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, the representative of the province of Ontario, felt sure that the province which had done so nobly for Sir James Whitney would do as well for Mr. Borden, and aided by the province of Quebec, would elect the Conservatives to power.

Merchant Arrested.

London, Sept. 19.—Percy Patten of Toronto, who registered as a merchant and dealer in bankrupt stocks, was arrested last evening on a charge of misappropriating $750, preferred against him by George Head, also of Toronto.

Head claims that they were partners in disposing of bankrupt stocks. At Ripley a stock realized $1,500, which should have been divided between the two. Head charges that Patten made away with the whole proceeds.

Four Hundred Soldiers Ill.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—The Asiatic cholera has taken a strong foothold in the garrisons of St. Petersburg and over 400 soldiers have been stricken.

The municipal statistics covering the civilian population of the city show that in the twenty hours ending at noon yesterday there were 395 new cases and 196 deaths from cholera in the capital.

The Burglar Got Drunk.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—Patrick O'Brien got drunk while robbing a store yesterday morning and now he is languishing in the cells at Court street police station, charged with breaking into the hardware store of E. A. James, 354 King street east, and stealing several dozen razors and knives.

In fact, in most cases one dose is sufficient. It never fails and can be relied upon in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is equally valuable for children and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year.

THE VETERANS ARE TO ORGANIZE

Form Association to Enhance Value of Land Grants.

TO PROTECT THEMSELVES

South African Soldiers Propose to Unite in Society Which Will Advise on Best Location of Lands and Make Proper Valuation of Holdings to Prevent Sale of Scrip at Speculators' Small Prices.

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—A movement has been inaugurated to organize the 9,000 Canadian veterans of the South African war into a big federation, with the object of advancing and protecting their interests in many directions.

Necessity for organization has, it is claimed, become imperative owing to the determined efforts of land speculators in every part of Canada to buy up veterans' scrip, at a price greatly below its market value.

The veterans realize that only by acting unitedly and refusing to sell their land below a reasonable figure, through a central board of their own appointment, can they succeed in defeating land speculators.

The proposal is to form a Dominion Veterans' Association, which will in a sense be a governing body for the veterans of the Dominion. Throughout Canada, in leading centres, a score of veterans' associations are in existence, membership of these associations practically embracing all veterans in these districts. Each of these local associations have been invited to send delegates to the meeting to be held in Winnipeg Oct. 12, for the purpose of forming a Dominion association.

This Dominion Association when formed will, it is proposed, form a location board of three thoroughly informed, trustworthy men, veterans themselves, to advise veterans where the most desirable lands are obtainable and to assist them in the selection of these lands if they desire to take up residence upon them. This board would also have power to fix a reasonable price for veterans' rights and be an official medium through which veterans would be encouraged to sell their scrip.

Calgary has been suggested as the headquarters of the board, that city being the centre for American settlers who are anxious to buy additional land and are willing to pay a good price for veterans' scrip.

It is believed that by veterans refusing to sell only through this board they will secure from $900 to $1,000 for their rights and save the profit which would otherwise go to land speculators.

It is estimated that not more than 3,000 veterans will become settlers upon western land and the remaining 5,000, for business and other reasons, will be obliged to sell their rights.

Drowned In Six Inches.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—Thomas Irwin, formerly of 366 West Adelaide street, aged 52, was found drowned in a creek on Davenport road yesterday morning. He was face downward in 6 inches of water under a culvert. His feet protruded and were noticed by two little girls.

An hour or so before the body was found, Irwin had accosted G. H. Lang, 134 Ossington avenue, who was leaving his home, and, thrusting a $2 bill and a bank book in his hand, said: "I am the mysterious Raffles. You will never hear from me again."

Irwin was a brewery worker. He had been drinking heavily.

Walkerville Site Is Secure.

Walkerville, Ont., Sept. 19.—The tangle that resulted when it became known that Luke Montreuil, by the will of his father, held only a life interest in valuable property which he sold years ago to provide sites for manufacturing concerns in Walkerville and Sandwich East, has been unravelled, and there is no danger of any of the titles being declared worthless.

Who'll Pay?

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 19.—The counsel for the board of school trustees yesterday served formal notice on the city of the commencement of a suit against the city to force the corporation to pay the salary of a special instructor for oriental children in the schools.

The aldermen take the position that a separate teacher is not needed.

May Continue.

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—Mayor D'Arcy Scott, assistant chief of the Railway Board, says he will not decide whether or not he will resign the mayoralty until Judge Mabee, chief commissioner, returns from the west.

In the event of the mayoralty vacancy arising, Controller Champagne will succeed for the rest of the year.

Three Sailors Killed.

Colon, Panama, Sept. 19.—The steamship Colon, half-masted and showing other evidences of distress, came limping into port early yesterday morning. Three members of her crew lost their lives while engaged in the hold in repairing a fresh water tank, which was being contaminated with salt water.

Critical In Persia.

Tabriz, Sept. 19.—The situation here is perilous.

The Sultan's force are on the point of bombarding the city.

The nationalists refuse to allow the foreign residents to depart.

Suicides In Cell.

New York, Sept. 19.—Facing a possibly long term of imprisonment for grand larceny, Charles Knappe put a tragic end to his cares and fears by hanging himself in a cell in the Tombs prison yesterday.

Britain Accepts.

Paris, Sept. 19.—The Foreign Office announced yesterday that Great Britain had accepted fully and without reserve the Franco-Spanish note on the Moroccan situation.

INSTRUCTIONS TO BURGLARS.

After Being Robbed Mark Twain Posts Notice For Marauders.

Reding, Conn., Sept. 19.— Two burglars, who broke into the residence of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), in Reding Thursday night, were captured yesterday morning on a New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad train after a desperate fight in which Deputy Sheriff Banks of Reding was shot in the leg, and one of the prisoners was severely wounded in the head.

The prisoners, who are believed to be professional crooks from New York, refused to talk.

Mr. Clemens yesterday posted this notice on the door of his house:

"Notice to the next burglar:

"There is nothing but plated ware in this house, now and henceforth. You will find it in that brass thing in the dining room over the corner by the basket of kittens. If you want the basket, put the kittens in the brass thing. Do not make a noise—it disturbs the family. You will find rubbers in the front hall by that thing which has the umbrellas in it, chiefonier I think they call it, or pergola, or something like that. Please close the door. Yours truly,

"S. Clemens."

PAYS THE PENALTY.

Slayer of Henri Schelling Is Executed at Kenora.

Kenora, Sept. 19.—William Paul, murderer of Henri Schelling at Pinewood, Nov. 30, 1906, was executed here yesterday morning at 8.16 o'clock. Paul met his end with exceptional calmness. From 6.30 to the time of his execution he was alone with his spiritual adviser, and he left for the scaffold fully repentant of his crime.

Yesterday he made a full confession of the murder of Henri Schelling, but said that he did it in the heat of passion, and not for the motive of getting any money. He said he took it as an afterthought. He was calm up to the end, and walked up the steps leading to the scaffold with unflinching footsteps. Owing to illness, Radcliff, the official hangman, was not able to be present. His place was taken by J. Thomson of Toronto.

Horse Thief Sentenced.

Regina, Sask., Sept. 19.—Peter Daniels, the half-breed, whose arrest two or three months ago by the R.N.W.M.P., was only effected after he had been seriously shot, was yesterday convicted before Chief Justice Wetmore of horse stealing in the vicinity of File Hills, and sentenced to two years in Alberta Penitentiary.

Want Divorces.

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Hope Drinkle of Winnipeg is suing her husband, John C. Drinkle of Saskatoon, for divorce on the usual grounds.

Frank Parsons of Westbourne, Man., is suing his wife, Mrs. Ellen Parsons, also known as Ellen Hetherington, lately of Stonewall, Man., for divorce.

Poisoned the Water.

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 19.—A nurse in the county hospital Thursday night confessed to District Attorney Kirby that she had accidentally furnished a number of the patients with drinking water containing a quantity of poison. Six were taken violently ill, one died, and the others are in a serious condition.

Canning Factory Destroyed.

Kingston, Sept. 19.—Fire was discovered in the store room of the South Bay Canning Factory yesterday, and soon the entire plant was wiped out, entailing a loss of $50,000, but with a good insurance.

Some $10,000 was added on Thursday, owing to heavy stock on hand.

C.P.R. Promotion.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—F. P. Brady is succeeded as general superintendent of the West Superior division of the C.P.R. by F. P. Gutelius, engineer-in-chief of the eastern lines.

J. G. Sullivan, the present manager of construction, with office in Toronto, succeeds Mr. Gutelius.

Terribly Scalded, Crawled Home.

Ingersoll, Sept. 19.—Eli Neaves, an engineer, was terribly scalded at the Ingersoll light plant at an early hour yesterday morning, but will recover.

Though terribly injured Neaves shut off the engines and raked the fires and then crawled to his home.

Fifteen Months For Assault.

Chatham, Sept. 19.—George Learat, charged with attempting criminal assault on a young English immigrant girl under 15 years of age, was found guilty by Judge Dowling yesterday, and sentenced to fifteen months in Central Prison.

Unlucky Days For Aeroplanists.

Angers, France, Sept. 19.—Rene Gasnier, the aeroplanist, met with a nasty accident while making tests with his machine. The connecting rod of the planes broke and the machine crashed down from a height of 25 feet. Gasnier was severely cut about the head, and the aeroplane was wrecked.

Boy Shot For a Deer.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 19.—Carl Coit, son of Rev. O. B. Coit, a Methodist clergyman of New York city, was shot in mistake for a deer while his brother and their father were hunting near Joe Indian Pond in the Adirondacks. He may recover.

Summoned For Lock-Out.

Edmonton, Sept. 19.—At the Mounted Police barracks to-day George S. Montgomery, manager of the Alberta Coal Co. Mine at Morinville, is being tried on a charge of "looking out" twenty miners on Sept. 5 employed at his colliery.

The action is being taken under the industrial disputes act.

The defence of the mine owners is that the men were not locked out, but that wages were reduced because they did not come up to the standard of efficiency required.

Killed In Self-Defence.

Haileybury, Sept. 19.—Edward Eaton has been exonerated. The jury, of the coroner's inquest, held over the remains of Frank C. Eller, who was shot and killed in a drunken row at Temagami shortly after midnight of Monday, Sept. 14, said in their verdict "that Frank C. Eller came to his death from bullet wounds from a revolver in the hands of Edward Eaton, who was acting in self-defence."

Strathcona's Hearing Injured.

London, Sept. 19.—(C. A. P.)—It transpires that the sudden concussion of a gun signal on his yacht, as it was entering Colonsay waters some days ago, brought distress of such serious extent on Lord Strathcona, Canada's high commissioner, that Sir S. Barlow has ordered his lordship to a complete rest, thus forbidding his trip to Canada. Lord Strathcona is at present

The "Big Four" To Be Shorn Of Many Entries Expected

Very Few in the Interprovincial Union—Peterborough Not In It

HAMILTON IS THE CENTRE

"The prospects for the intermediate and junior series are excellent, and already we have such clubs as London, Dundas, Hamilton Tigers, Hamilton West End Pleasure Club, Parkdale Canoe Club, Toronto A. A. C., Argonauts, and Peterborough, promised for the intermediate series while the junior series with Western University of London Woodstock College, Hamilton Tigers, Parkdale Canoe Club, Toronto West End Y. M. C. A., St. Michael's College, Brockville and Gananoque looks very strong, the winners playing off with the Eastern winners for the Canadian championship."

The above is quoted from a letter written in the interests of the Interprovincial Union, and is very cunningly worded, to lead a reader to believe that all the clubs mentioned had thrown in their lot with the I. P. U. You can take Parkdale Canoe Club, T. A. A.C., Peterboro, Western University of London, Toronto West End Y. M. C. A., and St. Michael's out of that list because they no more belong to the Big Four than to the Inter-Collegiate Union.

With these teams out it looks like Hamilton as the hot bed of the Interprovincial, and that is reasonable as everything. From now until November 14, in that burg will be black and orange streamers and chrysanthemums.

Parkdale Canoe Club have officially denied any connection with any league other than the O. R. F. U., and one of the officers of the "Federation" organization recently stated it "looked like three intermediate and four junior teams" in the Big Four.—Toronto News

NINETEEN YEAR OLD GIRL A WRESTLER

Is Going to Toronto and Will Meet All Comers

Say, girls, can you wrestle?

Perhaps you put that down for a foolish and irrelevant question. But it isn't.

There is a girl named Cora Livingston who can. And she is coming to Toronto.

Cora is just nineteen years old, five feet two inches tall, and weighs 135 pounds. She enjoys the happy distinction of being the champion woman wrestler of the world.

More than all this she is a lady. All the womanly instincts and attributes are possessed by her, with marvellous physical strength and an exceptionally charming personality.

The fates which have brought this tidy little woman to the footlights in such a strenuous capacity have weaved about her early life a story which is romantic enough to satisfy the most sentimental.

Miss Livingston's parents, descendants of the early French settlers—and they must have been robust stock—died while she was in her infancy. Beyond the fact that they provided for her education they were able to do little for their daughter.

The girl was sent to one of the leading convents in Canada in her teens, and there received an education which would have, presumably, better fitted her for the drawing room than the mat.

But, her rover's blood asserting itself, and her tastes ever inclined to the gypsy life, Miss Livingston, when sixteen years old, fled from the old convent one night, and her athletic pursuits while under the eyes of the faithful Sisters having fitted her for the work, she sucessfully requested admission to the ranks of a band of acrobats in one of the country's great circuses. Here she speedily became a warm favorite, and showing remarkable strength and agility, it was not long before it became apparent that her bent was the wrestler's canvas.

Miss Livingston has been trained by Dan McLeod and Frank Gotch. Already she has defeated all the wrestlers of her sex in sight, including: Haze Parker, American champion in 1906; Calla Pontos, Canadian champion in 1906; Bessie Ferrar, English champion; Olga Nelson, Swedish champion, and Clara Bennett, of Kansas City.

Miss Livingston is under the management of Will Roehm, under whose guidance she anticipates one of the most remarkable tours ever undertaken by a woman athlete. It is contemplated that she shall visit the leading cities of America, Canada and Europe on the same lines as adopted by the big wrestlers of the day, meeting all comers and offering big inducements to those of her sex who may be able to remain before her a fraction of the hour without accepting defeat.—Toronto News.

SCIENCE SETTLES IT

Dandruff is Caused by a Germ That Saps the Hair's Vitality

It is now a settled fact that dandruff is caused by a germ. Falling hair and baldness are the results of dandruff. Dr. E. J. Beardsley, Champaign, Ill., got hold of the new hair preparation, Newbro's Herpicide — the only one that kills the dandruff germ. He says: "I used Herpicide for my dandruff and falling hair, and I am well satisfied with the result." Dr. T. J. Fugate, Urbana, Ill., says: "I have used Herpicide for dandruff with excellent results. I shall prescribe it in my practice." Herpicide kills the dandruff germ. Physicians as well as the general public say so. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. THE CARE OF THE HEN HOUSE

Cleanliness Should Prevail at This Season

From The Canadian Dairyman.

There is no time in the year when the poultry yard looks less attractive than during moulting, and poultry-keepers are liable to lose interest in their fowls at this season, because of their unproductiveness, inactivity, and unsightly appearance. The birds look dull, ragged, and in many cases almost bare of feathers, and the runs are untidy and repulsive with cast feathers which have blown into the corners and lie strewn about the walks like autumn leaves which herald the approach of winter. But there is no time at which the poor birds require more care than when in moult, and everything which can be done ought to be done to improve their condition and promote the rapid growth of new feathers.

When hens are moulting, it is of considerable importance that they shall be well and comfortably housed. They do not need to be closely shut in nor is it advisable that they should be allowed less air in their houses than at other times; but hens which roost in comfortably warm houses generally moult earlier and better than those which moult in open sheds or in the branches of trees, and, as I have already said, early moulting is, of all things, most desirable. But it is still more important that suitable day shelters should be provided. The roosting house, of course, is rainproof, unless it is a very poor one indeed: but it is of little use to protect fowls at night if they are allowed to become thoroughly drenched with heavy showers in the daytime, and in the moulting season. The feathers which are dropping out have a tendency to accumulate in the corners of the houses, and to form a haven for insect vermin; but it does not take any great time to sweep them up and burn them or consign them to the manure pit every day. All ordinary precautions must also be taken to keep the houses free from vermin, and these may include lime washing of the walls and perches, frequent cleaning of the floors and the free use of air-slaked lime upon them, the renewal at regular intervals of the litter and nesting materials.

UNDERDRAINS ON THE FARM

Claim That They Will Pay for Themselves In From One to Three Years

From The Canadian Dairyman.

While calling at the office of The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World recently, Prof. W. H. Day, B. A., of the Ontario Agricultural College, who was on his way to Perth to give a demonstration in drainage work in the interests of the branch office of the Department of Agriculture, stated that his department was constantly turning down applications for drainage surveys. Many farmers had held off sending in their applications all summer and now at the last moment they were writing and wanting a man at once. Of course it was impossible to fulfill their requests as hundreds of applications had been received earlier in the season which demanded the first consideration. Professor Day stated that he had three men on the road practically all the time laying out drains.

This drainage work that has been undertaken by the Physics Department of the college is proving to be a great thing for farmers. The growth that has taken place over Ontario in the feeling towards drainage is wonderful. On the average farm there is probably no investment one can make that will return better interest for the money and labor invested than will underdrains. It is the often repeated opinion of all those who have installed underdrains that they pay for themselves in from one to three years in the extra production of crops. It is a great boon to our farmers that capable men, such as are sent out from the college, are available for this work of properly surveying and laying out drains. To be the most effective drains must be scientifically constructed. Farmers having underdraining to do should avail themselves of this service supplied by the Ontario Agricultural College.

YOUNG MEN LEAVE FOR INDIA

Gave an Address at Murray Street Baptist Church Last Night

Rev. Clark Timpany, B.A., and Rev. R. O. Beanen, B. A., graduates of McMaster University, were the speakers at an interesting meeting of Young Peoples' Societies in the Sunday School of the Murray Street Baptist Church last night. These two young men are about to leave for India on extended missionary work among the natives.

Rev. R. J. Webb occupied the chair for the evening's programme. Rev. W. Riddiford led in prayer after which Mr. Walter Garbutt welcomed the Young People of other missionary societies who had gathered through an interest in the work. Rev. J. R. Bonner replied for the Baptist Societies and Mr. Hazzard spoke for the others.

The young men who are undertaking the important task of missionary work then gave their addresses, referring to the conditions in which the religion of India is found at present. The evening was concluded by refreshments being served in the school-room

Mr. Bruce Quinn, of the Matthews firm, who has been laid up at his home on the Boundary Line, Dourc, with inflammatory rheumatism, under the care of Dr. Neal, is recovering.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Libetal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a great advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative capacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, and the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,891,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as a harvey, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion.

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

Mgr. Meunier Performs Ceremony of Blessing Bells at Walkerville.

Windsor, Sept. 21.—A unique ceremony took place at Walkerville yesterday afternoon when the new set of bells for Our Lady of the Lake Church was blessed and dedicated by Mgr. Meunier, acting bishop of the diocese, assisted by a score of priests from other parts of the diocese. There are three of the chimes, and the aggregate weight is about 4,500 pounds. The largest bell weighs 2,000 pounds, and was presented by Mrs. E. Chandler Walker. After the ceremony the bells were hoisted to the tower of the church, where they will remain silent until the church, which is now being rebuilt after the fire, is formally rededicated on Oct. 11.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

New Brunswick Lad Aims at Crow and Shoots Companion.

Sackville, N.B., Sept. 21.—Thirteen-year-old Edward Cook, son of Mr. Rufus Cook, was accidentally killed by a charge from a double-barrelled shotgun in the hands of Edward Wood, aged 15, at Wood Point on Saturday. Young Cook was instantly killed. The accident took place when the boys were bringing the cows from pasture. When almost a quarter of a mile from their homes they noticed a crow flying over their heads. Wood turned toward Cook to take a shot at the bird, and as he did so the gun was discharged. The full charge of the shot struck Cook in the face and he fell to the road dead.

$5,000,000 FIRE.

Big Conflagration in Paris Destroys Central Telephone Station.

Paris, France, Sept. 21.—Fire broke out last night in the Central Telephone building and spread with such rapidity that the telephone employes were forced to fly hastily to the streets. The entire building was soon in flames, and this, together with the postoffice, which is located close to the Place Des Victoires, was totally destroyed. The loss is estimated at $5,000,000. It will take a month to re-establish the service. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it is believed to have been due to a short circuit.

Incendiary Fire.

Brockville, Sept. 21.—The provincial detective force will be asked through the local crown attorney to investigate incendiary fires, two of which have occurred within the past 48 hours on the farm of Peter Cain, a peaceful miller of the soil living five miles from here. The barns and season's crops were burned at midnight on Thursday, entailing a heavy loss. Early Saturday morning three stacks of hay in different portions of a field were ignited almost simultaneously and went up in smoke. The perpetrators left no trace, but there are strong suspicions.

Tax Collector Arrested.

Collingwood, Sept. 21.—Tax Collector J. W. Archer is under arrest here charged with the theft of funds of the municipality.

Archer was tax collector for a number of years, but the shortage is wholly in his accounts for 1907. The deficit amounts to $899, of which the council have secured $390 by withholding the collector's salary for 1907.

The case was held over until to-morrow, and in the meantime he is released on bail of $1,000.

To Be Winnipeg's D.O.C.

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—The appointment of a successor to the late Col. Evans as D.O.C. for this military district is not yet announced officially, but in military circles it is thought probable that Col. Samuel B. Steele, D.O.C. of District No. 11, with headquarters at Calgary, will be named.

Col. Steele made his mark as commander of the Strathcona Horse in the Boer war.

Safe-Blowers Busy.

Ingersoll, Sept. 21.—The safe in the Grand Trunk station at Beachville was cracked Saturday night, and from the evidences of clever work it is supposed the burglars are professional cracksmen. Nitro-glycerine was evidently the explosive used and the safe was badly damaged. There was no money in the safe.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth Improves.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, reached Ottawa on Saturday night from Europe, whither he had gone to consult specialists regarding his hearing. He reports that he is somewhat better, and that doctors hold out hopes for improvement.

Big Hotels Close To-day.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 21.—Hersee Isaacs, manager of the Cataract-International Hotels, announced yesterday that the last meal that would be served in the hotels would be breakfast to-day. This signalizes the closing of the summer season at Niagara Falls.

NEW RAILROAD SECTION IN THE NORTH WEST IS OPENED

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—President Hays and party of G. T. P. officials arrived from the east Saturday and will officially open the line as far as Wainwright to-day.

The president said there were now on the way west for the service of the company 1,200 new freight cars. This would bring the total number of cars in possession of the Grand Trunk Pacific up to 7,500. Of these 5,197 were box cars, and the company would be perfectly prepared in this respect to handle the business which they would be called on to look after when the line was brought under operation. Twenty new passenger cars were also on the way west, which, with those already in possession of the company in the west, would be sufficient for the demands of the passenger department.

In the list were included several dining and sleeping cars, as well as day coaches. There were 28 locomotives available for business, which would be sufficient for the work of the fall. Other locomotives were under order and would be forwarded from time to time.

THOUSANDS RALLY TO GIVE PREMIER A GRAND RECEPTION

Strathroy, Sept. 21.—That the personality of Sir Wilfrid Laurier still rings in harmony with the rank and file of the Liberal party seemed indisputable when the Prime Minister arrived at 12.30 on Saturday and found himself almost overwhelmed by the cordiality of his reception.

Ten thousand people lined the route of the parade and the cheering along the route was continuous and spontaneous.

A civic address was presented by Mayor Cameron, Reeve Hall, Councillors J. Smith, Jos. Battery, Thomas Benstead and Walter Wright.

When W. F. Innis rose to open the meeting, probably 5,000 people crowded within hearing distance of the temporary platform. W. S. Calvert and F. R. Pardee spoke briefly.

Dr. Routledge, Liberal candidate for East Middlesex; Dr. Fairbank, candidate in East Lambton, and Mr. Smith, in North Middlesex, briefly reviewed the outlook.

Sir Wilfrid was given an ovation on rising to receive the address of the Middlesex and Lambton associations, welcoming the Premier to Western Ontario. Pretty little Jean Calvert, daughter of the ex-member, presented a bouquet and received the customary kiss.

In the course of his speech, replying to the charge that the Government had given lands to companies instead of settlers, Sir Wilfrid said:

"This is my answer, and I gave it in the face of everyone in my hearing and challenge contradiction. Not one acre of land fit for immediate settlement, and on which farming operations could be undertaken at once, was given away. The only land disposed of was dry, or semi-arid, land, which required capital to develop and to induce men to settle upon it. The homes of the gophir and prairie dog were displaced by American settlers who understood the system of farming."

Hon. G. P. Graham and Hon. A. G. MacKay also spoke.

ROWDIES INTERRUPT BORDEN'S MEETING HELD AT MONTREAL

Montreal, Sept. 21.—A most regrettable occurrence took place at the Conservative mass meeting last night in the Monument Nationale. The Conservative leader and his chief lieutenant in Quebec, Mr. F. D. Monk, were refused a hearing by an audience that kept up a persistent uproar until a squad of police was marched into the gallaries, with instructions to put out all persons who refused to cease interrupting the speakers. The untoward event is regretted even more by the Liberal leaders in the city than by the Conservatives.

The hall was packed and the representative men of the party were on the platform, almost the entire audience rising and cheering wildly when the leader and his colleagues entered the building. H. Laporte and H. E. Ekers, two ex-mayors, presided.

The first speaker introduced was F. D. Monk, his speech was an appeal to his compatriots to remember that there would be nothing more dangerous to the prestige of the race than to become isolated from the political thought or opinion of the other parts of the Dominion; for a solid Quebec, he said, would eventually bring about a solid English-speaking Canada.

In the course of his address Mr. Borden made a statement regarding the G. T. P.

The Conservative leader declared that if he came to power the Grand Trunk Pacific would be carried out in its integrity, just as if they had not been the authors of the measure themselves. There could not possibly be anything like repudiation once Parliament and the people had endorsed the undertaking, although he had nothing to take back as regards what he stated when the measure was before Parliament.

Other speakers were E. T. Mareshal, the probable Conservative candidate in St. Mary's; Premier J. Douglas Hazen, Premier Roblin and Hon. W. J. Hanna.

The secret of the ten minutes' uproar was explained yesterday morning. It appears that in view of the fact that a section of the C.P.R. strikers had asked Mr. Borden to pronounce himself upon the merits of the dispute, and the leader having refused to say anything on the subject, the strikers decided to prevent him from speaking, declaring that they would howl Sir Wilfrid Laurier down too, when he came to Montreal.

Gowansville, Que., Sept. 21.—A very large gathering attended R. L. Borden's meeting here Saturday afternoon and his reception was quite cordial.

The Farnham, Que., brass band accompanied the party from that place, which was visited in the morning. Some 300 were at the station there to see the tourists. The party left for Montreal.

CONFESSED TO SHOOTING.

Witnesses to Sero Murder Say Prisoner Admitted Crime.

Belleville, Sept. 21.—The inquest held at Shannonville Friday night in the case of James Sero, the Indian who was shot and killed on Wednesday night on the Mohawk reserve, ended in a verdict of wilful murder against Thomas Smart, who is now under arrest.

The prisoner had told witnesses that he would kill Sero, and told others he had killed him and was ready to swing for it.

He alleged that Sero beat and wronged his (prisoner's) sister.

Not only did the prisoner admit shooting his grandfather, but Mrs. Catherine Sero, wife of the deceased, and Dorothy Smart, sister of the prisoner, both swore to seeing Thomas Smart fire the shot which did kill him.

To Mrs. Sero the prisoner said he did the shooting, and was now "ready to hang like a man."

The two men were in a tussle out in the orchard when the shooting took place. Prisoner said the reason was that Sero was not treating his sister right, as a girl of her age should be inside.

The sister, in her evidence, said Sero used her all right, and never beat her, as the brother asserted.

The prisoner is in jail, and will be tried at the fall assizes.

WELCOMED JAILED SISTERS.

Suffragettes in England Celebrate Release of "Martyrs."

London, Sept. 21.—The latest suffragette fashion is the wearing of "martyr robes," which consist of a white dress adorned with ribbons of suffragette colors. These martyr robes are worn when welcoming prisoners fresh from Holloway Jail and when planning onslaughts on the Government.

Last week two detachments of miners were released. They were greeted by a contingent of fellow workers, fifty of whom dragged their carriage in place of horses. As the last detachment consisted of Scotch prisoners, special Highland arrangements were made, and bagpipes, white heather and mesh plaid drapery figured in the procession.

August Bank Statement.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—The bank statement for the month of August would seem to indicate a betterment of business and financial conditions.

Deposits payable on demand aggregated nearly $160,000,000 as against $165,000,000 in July. Notice deposits also showed a small increase.

The total note circulation was fifty-nine and one-half millions, as against fifty-four and one-quarter millions.

There is slight increase in the amount of money loaned outside Canada, which for the month totalled sixty-two and three-quarter millions, against fifty-five millions in July.

There was a decrease of about one million dollars in loans in Canada. Assets and liabilities are higher than for July.

In Quebec Next.

Berlin, Sept. 21.—The Inter-parliamentary Union, which is now in session here, has accepted the invitation extended from Canada to meet in Quebec in 1909.

Bears in the Road.

Omemee, Sept. 21.—Alexander S. C. Thomas, while returning home from Bobcaygeon with a horse and buggy, was surprised to find three bears in the road about half a mile south of his home.

Lieut.-Col. Currie New.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Major J. A. Currie of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, has been appointed to succeed the late Lieut.-Col. W. Henderson as brevet lieutenant-colonel of the regiment.

Hears Warrant; Goes Crazy.

Alexandria, La., Sept. 21.—A mania for killing took possession of Edward Ayles, a negro prisoner, when his death warrant for the murder of his wife was read to him in jail.

He grasped a case knife, killed "Tip" Davis and Gandhill Brantley, and severely wounded four other prisoners, all negroes. One of the wounded may die.

The screams of the victims attracted almost a thousand persons to the vicinity of the jail.

Meanwhile jail officers played a fire hose on Ayles, the cold water finally bringing him back to reason.

Cattle Lost Seeking Water.

Peterboro, Sept. 21.—Cattle losing their lives in bog-holes and swamps in search of water is the remarkable state of affairs in some parts of Eastern Ontario, according to the statements of John Glendenning of Valentine, a man well known among the dairy and live stock and agriculture districts of the province. "Scores are dying in the mire," remarked Mr. Glendenning, "and nothing can be done to save them."

Maine Towns Threatened.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 21.—Numerous forest fires in Maine are devastating thousands of acres of timber lands and causing great anxiety for the safety of the property in at least ten towns in eight counties.

The towns and villages where the damage is heavy includes Brooksville, West Hancock, Surrey, Dickvale, Jackman, Lisbon, Searsboro, Biddeford, Eliot, Olamon, Milford, Castleville and Costigan.

Repeopling Italy.

Rome, Sept. 21.—Italian emigration to the United States is still decreasing. During the month of August only 4,328 emigrants left Italy for America, while 20,528 returned home.

The number of Italian emigrants to South and South American ports Jan. 1 to Aug. 31 was 61,115, while in the same period 228,449 returned to their native land. Of this number 204,445 came back from the United States.

SCHOOL GIRLS

Many teachers have little or no judgment about pushing a child beyond her endurance. They ought to know that girls especially have a danger period. Often, too often, utter physical collapse is the result, and it takes years and years to recover lost vitality.

Many a young girl has been helped over this critical period, and been prepared for a healthy womanhood by

The Substitutes

By Constance D'Arcy Mackay.

Copyrighted, 1903, by Associated Literary Press.

To look at Miss Miranda Eldridge you would never dream that she was one of those who keep alight the hidden fire. She was small and thin and careworn, and her eyes, except when she smiled, were full of the tiredness that a dreary procession of days had put there.

The other boarders seated around the long narrow table of Mrs. Pennington's basement dining room filled in the pauses between soup and roast with friendly jocularity, in which Miss Eldridge took no part.

To be sure, she answered pleasantly enough if any one spoke to her, yet she always lapsed into silence immediately afterward and as soon as dinner was over sought the narrow confines of her little hall bedroom, up four flights of creaking, ill lit stairs.

But as no way is really ever dark to those who have the inner vision, so to Miss Eldridge her skylight room was not the cheerless place it seemed. To others it might look sparse and cramped and lonely, but to her it was a sanctuary of dreams, where night after night she lived over again the one great event that had crowned her meager life.

Once in a past, now growing very dim and far, romance had touched her with a sweep of rosy pinions. That was twelve years before—twelve dreary, uneventful, work worn years—and yet Miss Eldridge had never forgotten. She still held the vision as if it were yesterday.

It had begun commonplacely enough. A wealthy aunt had chosen to remember Miss Eldridge's existence, and sent her a bit of pasteboard that bade her be present at an evening musicale. Tremblingly and unexpectant, little Miss Eldridge had gone, and had found it like most musicales until the magical moment when a tall young man who looked like a Greek god in evening dress came up to her and wanted to know if he couldn't bring her an ice.

Then he had stood with her, chatting lightly and easily of this thing and that, so brilliant, so apart from all that made up her humdrum little round, that she had listened to him, rapt and spellbound, as if he were indeed the true bringer of the Promethean fire.

And from that time on she had never forgotten him. He was the ideal beside which all other men were compared and found wanting. And though she had never seen him again, and though he moved in worlds quite other than her own, the hope that she would one day meet him still made her heart leap, still filled her days with expectancy and her nights with dreams.

Though that one blissful invitation was all that her august aunt had chosen to send her, were there not other places where she might glimpse her hero—the park, the bridle path or Riverside? It gave an eager uplift to each moment without which her life would have been bare indeed.

She faded, but her hope never did. Perpetual adoration kept it vital and alive. Yet there were times when even her high spirit faltered, times when something in her reached out for a more actual companionship than that of visions, and it was on one of these days that she first met the professor. Really met him, that is, for he had sat opposite her at the table meats in and mouth out with no deeper acquaintanceship than that which arises from politely passing the bread or intimating one's willingness to share the salt and pepper.

But now the professor had met her face to face in the lower hall one sultry September night when the rest of the boarders were clamorously scrambling for places of vantage on the stone steps.

Perhaps he read a fellow feeling in Miss Eldridge's eyes. Perhaps he guessed that there were moments when she, too, found Mrs. Pennington's unendurable. Be that as it might, on the spur of the moment he stopped her and asked if she wouldn't rather go for a stroll than "join that pandemonium out there," indicating the doorstep and its occupants by a vague wave of the hand.

Miss Eldridge paused, hesitated and accepted. Not that by this was her idol removed from its niche. Far from it. For as time progressed the sympathetic understanding which sprang up between herself and the professor brought to light the fact that he, too, had had his ideal—a woman seen only once, but beautifully remembered and treasured in his middle aged heart as an unfading rose whose luster dimmed all other flowers.

"Any glimpse?" he would ask her whimsically as they walked side by side in the crisping November weather.

Undiscouraged, she would shake her head. "And you?"

"Not the slightest," he would answer. And so it went.

Then came the morning when a large, square envelope was laid by Miss Eldridge's plate. Her aunt, growing old and feeble, had not the less diminished her social activities. After a long absence in Europe she had returned to New York and requested the pleasure of Miss Eldridge's company at ——. Miss Eldridge put down the invitation, white to the lips, her heart bounding furiously. Pride urged her not to accept, but a feeling stronger than any self love swept over the barriers of pride and brought them low. The old inextinguishable hope was there, vital and dominant as ever.

On the great evening she arrayed herself with trembling fingers. The face her mirror showed was flushed and radiant. It was as if her lost youth had stepped back to crown her for a moment with the touch of all sweet, imperishable things.

The professor was going to a special meeting of the board of education and had promised to wait for her at the car when it was time for her to return. Ten minutes before she arrived he was at his post, pacing restlessly. Under the thin flare of the street lamps his face looked more tired and haggard than usual. The glory, too, had faded from Miss Eldridge's eyes when she came. As she met him she looked quite worn. The professor guessed at the reason instantly.

"Wasn't he there?" he asked, a throb of commiseration in his voice.

"Yes," she cried, with a little laugh that was half a sob—"yes; he was there. He—he came and talked to me, and instead of—oh, professor, how can I tell you! He isn't the least bit like an Apollo Belvedere! He's grown stout and a little bald, and—and"— A second sob stuck in Miss Eldridge's throat.

But she had worshiped unreality so long that now she was determined to have the truth at any cost. "And I thought his remarks were exceedingly vapid," she ended bravely. Then she glanced up at the professor and noted the change in him.

"Why, professor," she cried, "has anything happened? Has"—

"Yes," said the professor grimly, "a great deal has happened. Tonight at the board meeting I saw her!"

Miss Eldridge's question came in a startled whisper. "And is she—still the same?"

"Yes, she is still the same. She has preserved her youth, and you know how preserved youth looks. I'd rather have an honest wrinkle than all the"—He stopped and then went on more calmly: "All my life I have been idealizing a pretty doll, endowing her with graces of the heart and soul that she never for an instant had, while here beside me— Oh, I've been blind as a bat, Miranda, blind as a bat, but I'm going to make up for it if you'll let me, if you'll listen to a poor middle aged suitor after your dreams of Apollo Belvedere!"

The glow had come back again to little Miss Eldridge's face. Her eyes were twin stars.

"Let you?" she whispered. "Oh, tonight, after my eyes were opened, I thought of you, and I felt so desperately lonely, for I knew you had some one else, while I"—

"The school board," said the professor irrelevantly, "have raised my salary. They've offered to make me principal of an outlying school where all the teachers own their homes—beautiful homes, with lawns and vine covered porches."

The professor straightened as he spoke and looked positively young.

And an hour later Miss Eldridge opened the tiny window of her skylight bedroom and tossed out across the roofs a faded bunch of violets that she had worn on a memorable night twelve years before and cherished ever since. Then she turned about with a happy sigh, for the dream was ended, and in its place had come the substance of reality.

HOUSE THAT REVOLVES

SCHEME OF A JEWELER TO CURE HIS INSOMNIA.

Owner Will Be Enabled to Move His Home In Any Direction to Woo Zephyrs or Avoid Light—Will Be Run by Electricity—Turning of the House to Be Practically Noiseless.

William Reiman, a jeweler in New York city, has had plans drawn for a revolving house which he will build at Bayside, N.Y.

Mr. Reiman's Bayside home will be the result of many years of thought over the matter of genuine home comfort, for he has often declared that, with the advantages of modern appliances and electricity, there seemed little reason for the sunny side of the house being in the sun all summer and the shady side being in the shade all winter.

Mr. Reiman would have a home the windows of which may follow the sunshine in winter or avoid it in summer. An architect has studied the problem and has completed plans for such a home, which will be built at a cost of $35,000, exclusive of the real estate.

As proposed, the house will be constructed on a turntable, which will be operated by electric power. The owner, in his library or bedroom, may press a button and on the piazzas will sound a tinkling of bells to those who are about to enter or leave the house, warning them that the Reiman home is about to manoeuvre by either the right or left flank. Allowing family, servants and guests time to get in or out of the house, Mr. Reiman will then press another button, and the house will swing to right or left, as he may desire.

Sitting in his library window and wearying of the view, he may turn the house around and get another vista without leaving his chair, or if the breeze shifts and the owner of the house finds himself cut off from it he gives the alarm and moves his home around and around and around until he gets the breeze where he wants it. Of course sunshine and shade will be his to command, and if he desires to sleep late and the light is in his window he presses the button near his bed and swings away from the east.

The house was designed by Mr. Reiman himself, and the plans as drawn show that his scheme is eminently practical. Mr. Reiman will have neither front nor back yard to his house. The lawns will be so laid out that the front entrance will fit at any point of the compass. The revolution of the house will be practically noiseless, and part of the turntable will be visible.

Mr. Reiman believes that his house will have a lot of hygienic advantages.

"I have had this house in my mind for a number of years," he said. "Prior to the actual decision to build I made some experiments to test the feasibility of the plan. I do not look on the matter as a fad, for it is a question of common sense. There is no more reason why one should be roasted or chilled in certain rooms of a house year after year than there is that one should live on the outside of it. I am satisfied with the plans provided me, and I believe that others will build revolving houses, following my plans."

Mr. Reiman will begin building the house this summer and will have it ready in the late fall.

"I will use the colonial style of architecture for the house," he said. "The kitchen will be built away from it. There will be five bedrooms and baths on the second floor and on the first a large reception hall, dining room, den, library and pantry. There is only one other house of this kind that I have heard of, and that one is said to be in Switzerland. The revolution will be practically noiseless. I have considerable trouble in sleeping, and that is the main reason why I am having this house built. If the sun is shining in my eyes in early morning or if my room does not catch the breeze that may be blowing, I can just press a button at the side of my bed and remedy the matter. If the house proves a success, which I have every reason to believe it will, I will build another down at Long Branch, N.J., where I own some property."

Stevens came near losing his job recently because of his habit of arriving late at the office, and it was not until Schmitz, his employer, told him if he was late again he would be discharged that he mended his ways.

Now he is telling his friends how the boss, who never has been able to get the kinks out of the English language, complimented him for his punctuality.

"Harry," said Mr. Schmitz, "I haf noticed dot you are early of late."

"You were behind before, but now you are de fairst at last."

Her Newspaper Acquaintance.

Among the guests at a fashionable New York reception was a recently appointed young editor of one of the dailies, who thought extremely well of himself. He received an introduction to the thirteen-year-old daughter of his hostess.

"And how do you like newspaper men?" he asked the little maid in a most condescending tone of voice.

"I don't know," she replied artlessly. "The only one I know is the man who brings our paper every morning."

"Yes," answered the nervous man; "you can't ask him the time of day without his getting as excited as a cuckoo clock."

CHAPEL ROYAL STORIES

CHURCH HAS BEEN SCENE OF INTERESTING EVENTS.

To Be Married In Chapel Royal Is One of the Greatest Honors to Be Achieved In England—Royal Weddings Have Been Held There For Centuries — Bishop Who Disliked Ogling Introduced High Pews.

The Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace, where Miss Reid, daughter of the American Ambassador, was married to the Hon. John Ward, Lord Dudley's brother, and equerry to the King, is little known to the vast majority of Londoners.

Visitors to the metropolis who make a point of seeing all the historic buildings to which they can obtain access, says The London Daily Mail, well know the unostentatious position of the chapel, which is entered from what is called the Color Court of the Palace. But to how many ordinary Londoners who wend their way through the courts of the palace, past the sentries who keep watch and guard beneath the Henry VIII. gateway, as a near cut from Pall Mall to Belgravia, does the large window to the right of the portal mean more than a mere window?

Yet inside the edifice lighted by it kings and princes have been married and have worshipped for hundreds of years and many babies of high degree have been baptized. It was in that chapel that King Charles I. attended service before walking through the park to the headsman's block in Whitehall.

It is a mark of great honor to receive permission from the King to be wedded in the Chapel Royal, which is one of the "peculiar" and "extra-parochial" places of worship in the realm, and not often is the little edifice used for the celebration of the nuptials of a subject. Queen Victoria and Prince Albert were married in the Chapel Royal, St. James's, and their daughter, the Princess Royal, was wedded there to the Crown Prince of Prussia, afterward the Emperor Frederick. The present Prince and Princess of Wales were also married within the small precincts. In former reigns Prince George of Denmark and the Princess Anne (afterward Queen), Frederick Prince of Wales and the daughter of the Duke of Coburg and George IV. and Queen Caroline were united there.

It is commonly reported in descriptions of the Chapel Royal that it is uninteresting in appearance, small and devoid of beauty, save for the Holbein ceiling, with its exquisitely colored panelling, among which a short inscription and the date 1540, with the name of Henry VIII., are discernible. Small it is—it measures only sixty-two feet long and seats only about 200 persons—but so well proportioned, despite its galleries, that the ultimate impression conveyed is that of the stateliest dignity. The royal gallery faces the altar; at one side is the organ gallery, and there are galleries for peers and peeresses, members of Parliament and other privileged persons.

On the floor of the chapel there are old-fashioned pews, and the quaintest are those reserved as seats of honor at the sides of the altar. Even for morning service the chapel very frequently has to be lighted throughout, and when from each sconce a candle gleams the effect is beautiful. More so is it when to the candles flowers are added in glorious profusion. For a royal wedding the pews are removed and low seats take their place.

Bishop Burnet "lodged a complaint" in his day to the Princess Anne (afterward Queen) against the "ogling and sighing which was ever being indulged in at the Chapel Royal," begging that the pews might be raised higher and made into closets, as in fact they afterward were.

It was Queen Anne who in the first year of her reign ordered "the Yeoman of Her Majesty's removing wardrobe" to provide three umbrellas for the Chapel Royal and two for the Ante-Chapel.

Curious royal warrants and orders in connection with the conduct of services and attendance in the Chapel Royal are extant. In 1622 it was decreed by James I. that:

"Noe man whatsoever presume to wayte upon us to the Chappel in bootes and spurs."

Charles II. ordered for the chapel through Lord Sandwich, "Master of our Great Wardrobe," the following articles connected doubtless with the upholstery and heating arrangements of the sacred edifice, as well as with the services:

"Item—two bare hydes of oxe leather.

"Item—three thousand of tenterhookes, three hamers, one fire shovel, one pare of tongs, three black jacks, three gispens, two brushes, one perfuming pan of iron, six houre glasses, and a paire of strong iron andirons; and that you content and pay for making the premises."

In explanation of these curious appliances it may be added that black jacks were large mugs made of leather, used in those days for the serving of small beer, and that a gispen was a small pot or cup, also made of leather. The perfuming pan of iron would be used for the incense burnt upon special occasions in the Chapel Royal, and the hour glasses probably to regulate the length of the sermons.

In the days of long sermons George III., who was a regular attendant at the services, used to be left alone at the conclusion of them, according to an old story, with his equerry and the parson "to freeze it out together," the Queen and the royal family having dropped out one by one from the chapel. It is narrated of the same monarch that he used to beat time with his music roll while the anthem was being sung, and incidentally bang the powdered polls of his pages when they were inattentive.

Influences Which Tend To Drive Boys From The Farm

Lack of Sympathy on the Part of Parents — Overwork and No Amusement are Prime Factors

IS AN EVER PRESENT EVIL

From The Canadian Dairyman.

Why is it that so many of our farm lads conceive a dislike to the farm, and seek a precarious livelihood as clerks, or in the overcrowded professions? The answer is not far to seek. Overwork and the evils resulting from it; lack of leisure for healthful and congenial recreation; the relaxed muscles, the strained, disordered nervous system, refusing the spontaneous action of body and brain necessary to mental, moral and physical development.

It is not uncommon to hear a parent remark; "Yes, Johnnie is growing up. He can do a man's work almost anywhere you can put him." But poor, twelve-year-old Johnnie's stooping shoulders, lustless eye and dragging feet, tell a very different story.

It is nothing less than cruelty to ask or expect a boy from twelve to fifteen to do a man's work, or even the half of it. Even up the work, and there are few boys that will shirk or neglect his share. If he prefers chores, let him be chore boy; if he would rather work in the field, well and good. But if you want your boy to stay with you, don't send him to the field all day and attach as much work, in the shape of chores, morning and night, as should comprise his daily task.

LET THE BOYS REST.

Getting up in the morning at an unreasonably early hour is one of the things that the average farm boy dreads. Nor is he to be blamed for this. A growing boy requires a great deal of sleep. What is the use of tumbling the whole family out of bed at 4 o'clock in the morning and prowling about in the dark for two hours, waiting for it to get light enough to work, just for the sake of being ready when daylight comes? Of course, there are certain seasons when early rising is a necessity, such as planting, harvesting and husking times, but two months, and at most, three months, out of the year, will cover the period when man, woman, child and beast can do as much between sun-up and sun-down as is good for their physical well being.

SPENDING MONEY.

Pocket money is another problem which our country lad—God bless him—is almost certain to stumble against sooner or later. The method that prevails to a great extent of allowing a boy to cultivate a certain amount of land for his own benefit, or of giving him a colt or a calf to have for his work in caring for same, offers many advantages. But for various reasons, we do not approve of it so well as another plan. In the first place, the cultivation of almost any crop to profit is uncertain, and disappointment to a boy is not only bitter, but discouraging as well.

If the boy prefers, give him a reasonable amount of work with the understanding that he is working for all, and that all are working for him, without any cash basis, placing the whole case on the basis of mutual helpfullness and affection. Then, on days when he really wants money, First of July, county fair days and circus days, allow him a generous outlay. What if he does spend it on things that seem foolish to us; they are not foolish to him. Let him spend it as he likes.

Remember, the country boy, unlike the city boy, has his world all around him, the fields, the woods and the streams are at his feet. There are no expensive journeys and exhibition hotel bills to be planned for him before he can enter in to his own. All he needs is to be taught aright the wonders which Nature constantly reveals to those who study her, and leisure for these revelations to develop. The result in nine cases out of ten will be a healthy contented boy.

SYMPATHY WITH THE BOYS.

After all, sympathy is the keynote of success with our boys, and if we want them to love the farm, we must give it without stint. We have always heard a great deal about the duty of children toward their parents. Turn it the other way round, and let the parent consider his whole duty toward his son, and we believe farm life will assume an entirely different aspect to the average boy. To feed and clothe the creature for whose existence we are responsible, is not enough. We should study him, play with him, work with him, laughwith him, and grieve with him.

Blessed is the boy whose father retains enough of his youth to enter understandingly into the dawning manhood of his son; who will share with him all the simple sports dear to boyish hearts, and who has no secrets, business or otherwise, which his son cannot share.

SPLENDID EXHIBIT OF HOGS

That Which Judges at the Toronto Fair Handled Were Excellent Stock

ENTRIES NUMBERED 414

The exhibit of hogs numbered 414 entries, of, on the whole, as prime stuff, as ever faced the judges at Toronto. This speaks well for the industry, especially after passing through such a depression as the breeders have experienced within the past year. The Berkshire entries numbered 143, largely in the hands of new exhibitors, such as William Wilson of Brampton, Ont.; J. J. Wilson, Milton, Ont.; L. Wood, Islington; E. T. Choate, Brampton; E. Chapman, Brampton. Most of the old exhibitors had their usual quota of stock.

BERKSHIRES

The aged boar class brought out a strong lot. T. A. Cox of Brantford, 1st, with a lengthy good one; William Wilson, Brampton, winning 2nd on a hog of choice quality but rather undersized for class. Cooper & Nephews, the well-known sheep dip manufacturers won 3rd and 4th upon a pair of useful hogs. Many good judges would have placed a large, smooth-topped hog of Thos. Teasdale's, well up in the money. In senior yearling's, three were brought forward by Thos. Teasdale, Concord; P. W. Boynton & Son, Dollar; Cooper & Nephews, who won in the order named. In junior yearlings, J. J. Wilson won 1st on a very smooth, clean-cut hog, with Teasdale, and Cooper and Nephews following respectively. T. A. Cox again scored 1st in the under 12 months class, with G. Wood, Islington, winning second and 3rd. E. T. Choate won 1st in the under 6 months' class, Boynton 2nd, Cooper & Nephews 3rd, and G. Wood, 4th, placings that were not altogether popular among the onlookers, several expecting a Teasdale entry to head the list. The silver medal was awarded to the aged boar belonging to T. A. Cox.

A fine growthy bunch of aged sows faced the judges, who awarded J. J. Wilson 1st, Cooper & Nephews 2nd, Boynton & Son, 3rd, and Teasdale 4th. In senior yearlings, T. A. Cox again scored 1st, Teasdale 2nd, Cooper & Nephews 3rd and 4th upon a very good lot, but a better lot came out as junior yearlings when J. J. Wilson again won 1st, with Cooper & Nephews 2nd, and T. A. Cox 3rd, upon a grand smooth pig. In sows, under 12 months, J. J. Wilson was again placed 1st, the fourth time in four entries, which is a remarkable record for a new exhibitor; Teasdale won 2nd and Cooper & Nephews 3rd and 4th.

The Yorkshire classes in which were over 100 entries put up one of the best, if not the best, exhibits they ever had at Toronto. D. C. Flatt and Son, Millgrove, the most extensive importers and breeders in Ontario, who deserve congratulations for the way in which their herd is fitted, won the lions share of the prizes, capturing every first and several seconds. Joseph Featherstone & Son, Streetsville, put up a strong and very creditable exhibit, next in order of merit to Messrs. Flatt. The only other exhibitor being Jas. Wilson & Son, Fergus, who also had a strong lot forward, but not just the type that the judges were after being of medium length; a profitable kind, however, for the average feeder. J. E. Brethour, Burford, failed to put in an appearance with his entry which would no doubt have added increased strength to the class. The judges were R. J. Sarbutt, Bellville, and Wm. Jones, Zenda.

Tamworths were never better represented than at this show. D. Douglas & Sons, Mitchell, were exceptionally strong in their exhibit, notwithstanding the fact that they lost 4 head, owing to the extreme heat when shipping. This firm are to be congratulated upon the fine form in which they showed their herd, some of them perhaps were rather too heavily fitted for the breed. R. O. Morrow & Son, Milton, and Chas. Currie, Morriston, were each out in fine form, breaking about even for second place, with a lot of useful stuff, the former winning the silver medal on sow, and Douglas & Son on boar. Herbert German, St. George, the only other exhibitor had a good useful bunch forward but not highly enough fitted for his competitors. J. C. Nichol, Hubrey, placed the ribbons.

The exhibit of other distinct breeds was not as large and representative as one might expect from the number of breeds it covered, perhaps because there is very little to encourage men to show where as many different types come together as success largely depends upon the leanings of the judge to one type or another. The breeds shown were the Hampshire, a belted hog and a comparatively new breed shown by Hastings Bros., Crosshill, Poland China's and Duroc's by C. E. Smith, Scotland, Ont., Essex by J. Featherstone & Son, Streetsville, Chester Whites by D. DeCourcey, Barnholm, and W. E. Wright, Glanworth. This latter breed which is very popular for crossing purposes should receive a distinct class at such an important exhibition. They were the principal winners in the above class.

A large and interesting exhibit of export Bacon hogs faced the judges who spent a considerable time in making their decisions. They finally placed Messrs Flatt 1st and 2nd with very uniform pens that won in the same order in the Yorkshire class. Third prize went to an entry of Featherstone's, while 4th and 5th was won by Douglas & Sons.'s Tamworths, some of which were a trifle thick for the class. The judges were the same as officiated in Tamworth and Yorkshire classes.

SACKING THE TUILERIES.

An Incident of the Revolution of 1848 in France.

The sight that presented itself was the strangest I have ever seen and has remained in my memory almost as vividly as if it were yesterday. The magnificent apartments of the palace were soon filled with as strange a set of ruffians as you could meet anywhere. It seemed as if they were all mad or drunk, and yet they were as jolly as mad boys. They seemed positively to revel in destruction and to yell with delight as they smashed and tore everything to pieces that they came across. There was scarcely a picture that was not cut into ribbons, and ornaments, however costly, were thrown down and broken to atoms.

While I was standing in one of the grand apartments, looking on in wonder, a little man, with a sword almost as big as himself, stood in front of a magnificent mirror that reached from the floor to the ceiling. He surveyed it for a moment, and then, as though he were about to storm a town single handed, went deliberately up to it and with one blow of his great cavalry blade shivered it to pieces. As they fell at his feet he put on a grand air and said "La!" as if this was one of the greatest deeds he had ever accomplished and the proudest moment of his life.—"Sketches From Memory," G. A. Storey.

GREEN THE BEST COLOR.

Saves the Eyes and the Temper, Says a London Doctor.

"If the whole of London were painted green it would have a wonderful effect upon the health and spirits of us Londoners," said one of London's leading specialists. "Eyesight and health are most closely connected, and among town dwellers eyesight is steadily deteriorating. Green is one of nature's cures for worry and fatigue. Watch a man who is worried or tired out and see how often he will wander to a window from which he can gaze on a tree in leaf. Instinctively his eyes seek the restful green of the foliage. A great deal of the good obtained from a visit to the country is from the incessant environment of the green fields and green leaves.

"A green room, too, is a splendid thing. I know of a case of a popular actress who could never understand why it was that in a certain room in her house she could always rest so much better than in any other one. She mentioned the fact to me one day, and I pointed out to her that the paper and furniture were entirely green."—London Mirror.

Sounds Fish Make.

The horse mackerel, or scad, is said to grunt. Purring noises are heard from the cuckoo gurnard when it is being removed from the water. The herring, again, is said to emit a faint squeak when the net has been drawn over it, and there are other fishes which are credited with vocal powers.

Most certain of all is the case of the little creature known to many a shrimper and fisher boy as the hummer, or hard head (Cottus scorpius), the sea bullhead, which when held in the hand near to the ear produces so distinct a buzzing noise that it cannot only be heard, but felt, since the vibration caused by the sound is perceptible by the hand. It seems to be the result of fear and comes apparently from the inside of the huge head.—London News.

A Woman's Reason.

"Of all the foolish reasons girls give for wishing to marry, or rather not to remain single," said Miss Afternoon Tea, "I think 'because she wants Mrs. on her tombstone' is the most inane. Why should she want it there where she cannot see it? I would rather have Mrs. on my visiting cards than on my tombstone, wouldn't you, Clarice?"

"Yes, dear, and that reminds me. I asked Jane Smiley yesterday why she was marrying so much sooner than she intended when I last saw her. She said, 'Oh, my visiting cards are almost gone, and I do not care to order another hundred of these, so I am hurrying up getting my new name to have engraved on them."

A Martyr.

The politician had been charged with perjury.

"What's that?" he asked languidly.

"Swearing to a falsehood."

"Why, any chump could swear to the truth," exclaimed the politician. "I'm the victim of professional jealousy, that's what," he added, with manifest indignation.

Consolation.

"Pa," boohooed the chastised son, "if I had let Willie Simmonds lick me instead of me licking him, would you've whipped me just the same?"

"Yes; but remember that in such a case you would be getting two lickings in place of one!"

The Height of Hospitality.

Hewitt—I suppose that when your uncle comes to New York you will see that he is properly entertained? Jewett—Yes; he shall have everything that his money will buy.

A Distinction of Terms.

"Did you say he was a crafty politician?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum, "not crafty, merely grafty."

Some men earn money. Others make money. Others get money.—Galveston News.

All in Harmony.

"I want something fast in the color of this automobile gown."

"It seems to me that you ought to get something that would run."

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

A delightful perfume may be made by mixing together two drops of ambergris and one ounce of spirits of wine.

When the fingers are stained from peeling fruits dip them in strong tea, rub with a nailbrush, then wash in warm water.

A good formula for skin food: Two ounces of rosewater, two ounces of almond oil, one-half ounce of white wax, one-half ounce of spermaceti.

At bedtime a child's hair should be loosened and shaken out in order that the air may pass through it and afterward carefully combed and brushed.

Never remove a child from its bed at night and carry it about the room, for, besides being a very bad habit, this is apt to give the child cold, and if a child once knows it will be allowed to get up if it cries peace will be banished from the bedroom for all.

When beef can be served to a sick person get a small piece of good porterhouse steak and broil it on the range. It will be free from frying grease, and the juices will not be boiled out. Cooked until tender, seasoned with fresh butter, salt and pepper, the dish is one of the most nutritious articles of food that can be given to furnish strength to a person regaining lost health.

Denied by the Light.

Moths fly into flame because their eyes can bear only a very little light. When, therefore, they come within the radius of the light of a candle, lamp or gas jet their sight is overpowered and their vision confused, and as they cannot distinguish objects they pursue the light itself and fly against the flame.

Postoffices.

The first postoffice was opened in Paris in 1642, in England in 1581 and in America in 1710.

Currants.

Currants, as most people are aware, come from Corinth. They are a variety of the grape family. The currants grown in America come from north Europe, Canada and England.

Off With the Old Love.

A prominent Chicago lawyer tells of an amusing incident which he witnessed subsequent to a certain breach of promise suit in which he had acted as the defendant's attorney. The two were standing talking when they were joined by a third man, a friend of the client and an acquaintance of the lawyer. The third man had been out of town for some little time.

"Hello, old man, what are you looking so blue about?" the newcomer demanded as they shook hands.

"Oh, I've had a little hard luck. I've got to pay Miss Blank $5,000 on account of a breach of promise judgment," was the disconsolate reply.

"Say, I'm glad to hear that, old fellow," the friend exclaimed fervently, seizing the dejected one's hand and shaking it vigorously.

"'Glad to hear it!' I've got to pay that money, I tell you! What do you mean?" the other demanded in astonishment.

"Just that, my boy. It will be just about enough for us to set up housekeeping on. Miss Blank and I are to be married next month, you know."

The Mysterious Gegenschien.

There is visible in the night sky, under favorable circumstances, a faint light, rounded in outline and situated always exactly opposite to the place of the sun. It is called the "gegenschien" and is one of the most inexplicable objects known to astronomers. According to a scientist, it may be a sort of cometary or meteoric satellite attending the earth. He supposes it to be composed of a cloud of meteors, situated about 1,000,000 miles from the earth and revolving around it in a period of just one year, so that the sun and the meteors are always on opposite sides of the earth. He estimated that the size of this ghostly satellite may be nearly the same as that of the planet Jupiter—viz, about 86,000 miles in diameter.

NATURE A VERY SKILFUL PHYSICIAN

Puts Up Her Medicines in Most Tempting Form.

Have you ever tasted anything more delicious than the fresh, ripe, luscious fruits? These are Nature's medicines.

A regular diet without fruit is positively dangerous, for the system soon gets clogged with waste matter and the blood poisoned. Fruit Juices stir up Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, making them work vigorously to throw off the dead tissue and indigestible food which, if retained, soon poison the blood and cause Indigestion, Headaches, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and a host of other distressing troubles.

But there is a quicker way to stimulate the organs to do their work properly. Take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" tablets every night, besides eating some fresh fruit every day. "Fruit-a-tives" combine the medicinal properties—many times intensified—of oranges, apples, prunes and figs, with the best tonics and internal disinfectants added.

Their action on Bowels, Liver, Kidneys and Skin is as natural as Nature's own, but quicker and more effective. Sold by all dealers—25c. for trial box—50c. for regular size — 6 boxes for $2.50. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CANADIAN ALPINISTS ATTACK WESTERN ROCKY FASTNESSES.

Mountains Near Vancouver Are Becoming Popular Resort For Venturesome Explorers — Coast Enthusiasts Essay to Climb Mount Garibaldi, One of the Magnificent Peaks of the Seaside Range.

With the advent of summer, though the heavy snowfall of last winter still lies deep on the high peaks, plans are being made for ascending the more lofty ridges and summits of the Cascade mountains, only a few miles from Vancouver. The moving spirits in the explorations are the Alpine Club of Canada.

The Grouse Mountain climb, which is the nearest to Vancouver and the easiest for beginners, is a pleasant one-day's outing; the trip on foot to the summit over a good trail can be made comfortably in three or four hours from North Vancouver, while the return occupies about half that time.

Mt. Crown, a mile in altitude above the sea, and also overlooking Vancouver, is becoming a greater favorite every season, a number of the fair sex having made the ascent which involves some hard climbing and camping out one night on the summit. It is a two-day or, better still, a three-days' trip.

One of the routes taken is over Grouse Mountain and along the breezy ridges fragrant with heath and red false heather, there being only one descent of consequence about a thousand or fifteen hundred feet, before the main climb of Crown is commenced. This route has the advantage of being above the heat of the valleys, with new views at every turn, pretty lakes in the hollows of the hills and the changing panorama of mountains.

The other route is up a water course that joins the Capilano river a short distance below the old waterworks dam. This course is favored by many, there being a hotel at the dam from which a start can be made; and also on account of all the climbing being pure gain, no descents having to be made.

The cold spring of this year had not made much impression on the accumulated winter snows and even Grouse is still thickly covered. This means that not much climbing on Crown and the Lions was done till well into July.

Sisters Creek, up whose water course the climbers travel to the Lions which stand guard over the harbor entrance, their heads 6,500 feet above the sea, is at present a torrent impassible, and even at the best of times, uncertain; rising several feet in less than an hour from the heat of the sun on the snow fields or a heavy rain storm. The Lions call for steady nerves of the men who would reach their precipitous summits, but both the eastern and western heads have been scaled by a number of parties. They command a grand view over Howe Sound, not to be obtained from Mt. Crown, while their tremendous precipices on that side go down sheer for thousands of feet.

Going further into the fastnesses of the Cascades, a lofty cloud-wrapped summit raises its head above a sea of glaciers. It is Mount Garibaldi fifteen or twenty miles inland from the head of Howe Sound, until last summer a virgin peak from whose dazzling ice fields parties who had previously gone unprepared to the attack returned blinded and with the exposed parts of their hands and faces blistered and burned an ashy grey by the reflected rays of a midsummer sun on the snow fields; while impassible crevasses and perpendicular walls of ice had barred the ascent of the last five or six hundred feet.

In August last year a party was formed consisting of Atwell King, J. J. Trorey, T. Pattison, A. T. Dalton, W. T. Dalton and G. B. Warran. Mr. King and Mr. Dalton had both participated in a previous unsuccessful attempt on the mountain and with the experience gained were confident of success, while the rest of the party had served their mountain climbing apprenticeship on Grouse, Mt. Crown, the Lions and many a lonely peak far and wide through the mountain systems of British Columbia, and fully realized what they would be up against, for the failure of former attempts and the reports brought back showed it to be no soft snap.

Blankets and provisions for five days were carried, though the trip stretched out to a week. The steamer was taken to Squamish Landing at the head of Howe Sound, where a rig was secured to drive the party ten miles to where the trail crosses the Cheakl river, where camp was made and the party started early next morning up the creek, which was followed till canyons barred the way, when the northern wall was ascended, and the heavy timbered ridge climbed to the five thousand-foot level, where camp was pitched for that night.

Next day camp was pitched at noon at timber line within easy reach of the peak, when storms coming up made the ascent impossible, though several attempts were made in the next few days. Finally the mists rolled away, and starting at sunrise the party climbed an arete to the base of the western shoulder of the mountain, where they roped up, and traversing the extensive glacier to the northward of the peak half circled the mountain and came out in view of Howe Sound once more, before a possible ascent of the cliffs could be found.

Here a steep glacier-covered slope offered a chance, and cutting footholds in the crust of the new snow up a dangerous angle to an even worse footing on a crumbling arete, a razor-edge almost, re-entrant, a dizzy precipice, thousands of feet above the glacier on the northern side. This continued to the summit, which was reached after seven hours of climbing, the aneroid registering 9,800 feet against 11,600 feet registered at the highest point reached on the previous attempt.

A magnificent ice field with ragged peaks little short of Garibaldi, and numerous beautiful lakes were noted across the Squamish to the westward, while northward to the watershed of the Squamish and Cheakamus, the glaciers and peaks were equally impressive. Looking eastward also unmelting snow fields with here and there dry glaciers stretched for many miles on the dark, rocky peaks.

The enthusiastic body of alpinists gathered this season at Roger's Pass in the Selkirks will probably be looking for a camping spot among the coast ranges in the next few years, there being virgin peaks, unexplored glaciers and mountain lakes innumerable on every hand.

CANADA'S FRUIT LANDS.

Has Immense Area Available For Setting Out in Orchards.

The question of over-production is one which is not infrequently referred to by the active and prospective fruit-growers of British Columbia. The experience of most other fruit-growing countries naturally suggests this subject to the minds of those looking to the future of this great industry in Canada's most westerly province.

In nearly all horticultural countries there has been an over-production of certain classes of fruit, but a careful anaylsis of the situation will reveal the fact that there has never been an over-production of certain standard commercial varieties.

The market has always demanded and absorbed the high class article, especially when put up in an attractive form. It is true that in the older districts where so many varieties of inferior quality were originally planted and the cultivation and care of the orchards carried on in an indifferent manner, much inferior stock has been offered, at any old price, which has the effect of demoralizing prices and minimizing the cost of production.

But the fruit-grower in British Columbia has the advantage of knowing something of the mistakes and experiences of other countries besides being adjacent to one of the best markets in the world. Let the fruit-growers of British Columbia confine their planting chiefly to a few well-known commercial varieties of apples which have been proven to be a success in this country, bearing in mind that the market of to-day demands an apple with color, flavor and keeping qualities, practice clean cultivation, systematic spraying, the use of the most approved up-to-date packages, and grade and pack the fruit with the utmost care no matter what market it is going to.

The idea in the east seems to be that only apples for export should be handled with special care and put up in attractive modern packages, but it is equally important to have the fruit grown in this country and appearing on our own markets first class in every particular, as Maxwell Smith says, "that which is not good enough for the British and foreign consumer is not good enough for the Canadian people."

As soon as British Columbia can supply a reasonable share of the fruit consumed in the four western provinces of the Dominion, the markets of New Zealand, Australia, Japan and China will be calling for more; but it must be the best.

The statement was recently made from a public platform that "if but one-sixth of the arable lands between the Great Lakes and the Rocky Mountains were in cultivation it would take a train of forty cars passing every fifteen minutes, twenty-four hours in the day, and 365 days in the year to carry out the wheat."

Even this calculation only includes the beginning of our prairie development and why worry about overproduction of good clean commercial fruit in British Columbia, whose geographical position gives her the advantage in the contest for this splendid home market.

Warning to Miscreants.

As a warning to others who may be similarly tempted, the Postoffice Department is spreading broadcast the story of a man who was brought to justice seven years after committing a fraud on the postal savings bank. The offender was Andre Kasak of Fort William, a Hungarian, who in November, 1908, stole a savings bank pass-book of John Martan, a fellow-countryman, and proceeding to Sudbury, fraudulently declared himself to be the depositor. By forging the name of a depositor he succeeded in obtaining a check for $500, and also in persuading the postmaster to certify to the endorsement forged upon the check, so that he was able to cash it. He then fled to Europe via Sault Ste. Marie and New York, and had made good his escape before the Postoffice Department learned of the theft.

The amount thus fraudulently obtained by Kasak was made good to the depositor.

In May last the Department was notified that Kasak had returned to Fort William. He was speedily arrested, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Do Not Fear Invasion.

In an interview a few days ago, Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, said Toronto need have no fears of another Bulgarian invasion this fall. If the present condition of business continued, the Government, he said, would make a regulation that all immigrants who come in before February must have $50 in cash, and from February to the spring $25. This would give the Government a chance to refuse undesirable people.

Silica Discovered.

A report comes from Wainfleet township that a deposit of silica has been found on Charles Reeb's farm, and that J. H. Smith and T. I. White are at work developing it, having purchased an option on the property. A force of men have been at work testing the vein, which is said to be quite heavy. A number of outside capitalists have examined the property.

THE NEW RURAL MAIL BOX

Thousands of boxes for rural mail delivery will soon, in accordance with the promise contained in the Postmaster-General's speech at Niagara Falls, Sept. 15, be seen on the concession lines of Ontario and other Provinces. The following sketches show the operation of the box adopted by the Government. It is so contrived that the position of the box on the arm to which it is attached can be easily changed from lying lengthwise along the arm to directly across the end of it. The arm itself should lie along the road in the direction of travel either way. When the position of the box is across the end of the arm it is an indication to the patron or to the courier, as the case may be, that the box contains mail matter. On the other hand, when the box lies lengthwise along the arm, it is a notification either to the courier or to the patron that no mail matter has been deposited therein. The position of the box on the arm can be easily changed from lengthwise to crosswise. The series of illustrations serve to show the relative positions of the box and the arm, when the box is empty and when mail matter has been deposited therein, either for collection by the courier or for delivery to the patron, as the case may be.

THE PLANET JUPITER

A Monster World, 1,300 Times the Size of Ours.

WHIRLS WITH AWFUL SPEED

It Spins Around at Such a Fearful Gait That a Furious Gale Perpetually Encircles Its Equator—Its Possible Inhabitants and Its Moons.

It is curious how little the average person knows about Jupiter. He has heard a lot, too much perhaps, about Mars, but that world, 1,300 times the size of ours, whirling in the terrific outer distance of space with its five moons, its 144 months yearly, known as Jupiter is almost if not quite a mystery.

In the first place, Jupiter, according to some astronomers, is inhabited. So are some of its moons, in the midst of which the great planet spins around like a top at such tremendous speed that it causes around the equator a furious wind that blows perpetually at a rate of about 250 miles an hour.

In the midst of this never ending, howling gale live the Jovians. Some astronomers say that because Jupiter is so much bigger and heavier than the earth no creature of any weight can support itself. A man weighing 200 pounds on this earth would, if carried to Jupiter, weigh 500 pounds, and, reasoning thus, they believe that nothing bigger than a cat could stand on this vast world.

But this is no doubt a mistake. If Jupiter stood still or revolved no faster than our earth all that astronomy says would be true, and a terrestrial man could not stand upon its surface. But as a fact the tremendous rate of revolution is so much faster than the earth's that in spite of its monstrous size it turns about in less than ten hours as against our twenty-four hours.

As it is, a man of normal earthly size, if transported to the equator of Jupiter, would actually feel much lighter than he does here on earth, because the swift rotation of the planet would almost lift him from his feet and threw him into the heavens. He would feel so light that the 250 mile an hour tornado that blows incessantly would pick him up and carry him around and around the planet like a speck of dust.

In order to keep on his feet the Jovian man or woman would have to be about fifty feet tall. Some of them would doubtless reach the height of fifty-five feet. Like all big bodies, the Jovian would have a tendency to slowness of motion. Having once seated himself, he would spend a good twelve hours at his breakfast and perhaps eighteen at his dinner and would probably threw up his job if his employer allowed him less than six hours for his lunch.

The oceans of Jupiter, torn into fury by the hurricanes, would pay no attention to one moon such as moves the tides on our earth, and it takes no fewer than five of these satellites to perform this work for Jupiter. They travel at various rates of speed, some flying very close to Jupiter's surface and others far off. They have atmospheres somewhat like ours on earth, and a moonlight on Jupiter is indeed a glorious sight, for these moons have a variety of colors. Two are blue, one is yellow and one red.

Jupiter needs all its moons at night for illumination, for without them its five hours of darkness would be black indeed. So distant is the sun that broad daylight is hardly brighter than twilight on earth, and one lone moon would not reflect enough of the sun's rays to guide the Jovian footsteps.

In the polar and semipolar areas the 250 mile an hour tornado of the equator is not present. Doubtless these are eddies and occasional windstorms such as there are on earth. And in these localities it is possible for smaller creatures to exist, and here, too, vegetation would flourish. The food supply of Jupiter must come from these areas, where it is cultivated and shipped to the equatorial regions by the dissimulative means. The polar regions are not frozen because of the great internal heat of Jupiter. And on these still oceans probably ships not greatly different from ours ply, but about the equator the unending storm would make surface sailing impossible.

If there are ships at all at the equator they are submarines, which dive into the calm depths beneath the surface. Locomotion by flying machines is extremely easy on the equator because, by taking advantage of the wind, the Jovians can navigate their planet at tremendous speed.

It is possible that because of the noise in the wind swept equator the Jovian is deaf.

Quite likely, on the other hand, he has good ears, but with a device, either artificial or contributed by nature, for stopping his ears, except when he wishes to listen.

This tremendous, good natured Jovian has a leather-like skin to protect himself from the scratches of flying things and a device for sifting the air that he breathes, for Jovian atmosphere is full of dust, and in spite of the difficulties of his existence he is a long lived gentleman. On the average he exists for about 800 of our years. Probably many a Jovian exists a full thousand of our little years.

Many of us may know what the echo of a careless word will cause vibrating in the hearts of some that hear.

A Famous Poison Mystery.

England had a famous poison mystery in the last century. Two members of a great club in Manchester, both men of wealth and keen politicians, each received, apparently as a New Year's gift, small boxes containing a few cigars of the very highest quality apparently. Both were taken fearfully ill after smoking, and one of them subsequently died. The cigars were found to be loaded with poison, and it was said that the man who recovered only did so because he used a cigar holder. The facts were at first hushed up, because, as was said, the suspected sender, whose motive was revenge on account of a lady, was a man of wealth and power. But this subject was cleared, and the mystery was deepened by the following circumstances: A rich Manchester merchant, traveling one day in a railway car about the time of the incident related, got into conversation with a most agreeably and highly cultivated stranger, who finally offered his cigar case. The Manchester man was found at Leeds almost unconscious and the only occupant of the carriage. He grasped in one of his convulsed hands the cigar he had been smoking, and after analysis showed it to be identical with the others. He recovered, but the stranger was never discovered.

Easy Way to Be Generous.

In a church of a New England village was an old man who had all the Christian graces save one, and that was the grace of liberality. He would do anything in the world for the cause of religion but give up his money. At the close of the financial year 1869 the church found itself $400 in debt. A church meeting was called, and it was voted to circulate a subscription paper on the spot and endeavor to thus raise the sum needed. This was done, and the old gentleman did not put his name on the paper. The result was rather disheartening, $200 only having been pledged. Silence reigned for a moment, when one of the most generous men in the church moved that "we double our subscriptions." Instantly the old gentleman was on his feet and with extraordinary fervor cried, "I second the motion."

He evidently felt that he was thus doing his part in hastening a most desirable result.

Would Follow His Example.

After the battle of Prestonpans a witty Scottish farmer amused himself by writing a ballad upon it, which so stung one of the English officers, who had behaved very basely on the occasion, that he sent the poet a challenge to meet him at H. for mortal combat.

The second found the farmer busy with his hayfork and at once delivered the challenge of the redoubtable hero. The good natured farmer, turning toward him with the agricultural implement, coolly said:

"Gang awa' back to Mester Smith and tell him I hae nae time to come to H. to gie him satisfaction, but that if he likes to come here I'll tak' a look at him, and if I think I can feght (fight) him I'll fecht him, and if I think I canna fecht him I'll just do as he did—I'll run away."

His Inspiration.

The negro brass band connected with the traveling troupe was blatting a tune in its characteristic slap bang style in front of the theater when a dusky cornet player who had been sulking all day suddenly quit blowing and did not resume.

"Say, Mose," demanded the leader in the ensuing pause, "ain't yo' workin' any mo'?"

"Ah is w'en Ah gits de inspiration," retorted the sulky musician, throwing the whites of his eyes across at the leader.

"W'en am dat?"

"W'en Ah gits mah las' week's pay."—Kansas City Independent.

Conscientious About It.

"Mr. Gilhzard," asked the caller, "are you carrying all the life insurance you can afford?"

"No," answered the man at the desk. "I can afford more, and I had expected to take out more, but from a note I got from my employer this morning I have begun to suspect that I'm carrying a good deal more than I am worth."—Chicago Tribune.

Forcing a Success.

"What is the name of your new novel?"

"'The Dungeon.' Good gloomy title, eh?"

"Yes. That name alone ought to get the book among the six best sellers."—Washington Herald.

Nothing Liberal About It.

Wilkins—I understand you are giving your son a liberal education? Hobbs—Liberal! Not a bit of it! They don't give anything away at the college where he is. I have to pay for every plaguy thing he gets.—Boston Transcript.

Thoughtfulness.

Mr. Sapheddle—I like to be different from other people.

Miss Caustique—That is very considerate of you. I dare say the other people appreciate your thoughtfulness.—Philadelphia Record.

Sarcastic.

He—Look at this infernal bill. You know I can't afford it. Now, I'm going to give you a piece of my mind. She—Are you quite sure you can afford that, papa, dear?—London Opinion.

IN A YOKOHAMA THEATER.

The Plays Last All Day and Sometimes Two Days.

Before leaving Yokohama I went to the theater, which certainly was unlike anything I have ever seen before. We sat on the floor of our so called box and had tea like the crowd. And such a crowd! It was an endless source of interest and amusement to watch them, whole families—mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law, children of all ages and parents of different generations, fathers, sons and grandsons. All had their dinners with them. Little trays were produced—tiny boxes full of rice, bowls containing weird foodstuffs, pink, white and green, seaweed on rice cakes, raw fish and nameless yellow condiments, tea in microscopic cups, of course, with no milk or sugar. The Japanese cannot understand Europeans putting milk in their tea, as, according to them, it has a strong smell. The children were dressed and undressed during the entr'actes, and people smoked, slept, ate, talked and fanned themselves. It was certainly a great contrast to see a little "musme" such as Pierre Loti describes, daintily dressed in the gayest of kimonos and smartest of obis, sitting between a cooly wearing nothing but a loose cotton jacket and an old bag nursing a baby. Although it was certain that most of the men had little on and the thermometer was 85 degrees, the atmosphere was not impossible, as I am sure would have been the case in a European theater under similar circumstances. The plays have usually fourteen or fifteen acts and last all day and sometimes two. This particular one, not having an actress such as Madame Yacco to interpret it, was quite unintelligible to me, but I admired the grace of the actresses, their easy movements when dancing and the way they managed their tight clothes. Imagine my surprise when I found out afterward that they were all men! Up to a few years ago men and women did not act together in Japan, the theatrical companies being composed of either one sex or the other. But a change has come over them, and there are now mixed companies.—Reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill in Century.

The Suffocated Duck.

"There's one thing I'm glad of," said a chef. "Caneton rouennais is dying out."

"Is it a disease?"

"No; it's a duck. It's the duck of Rouen, a famous duck which you kill by suffocation. When you order Caneton rouennais at a fashionable restaurant you may be sure that it is not suffocated for you as cruelly as though you had been Nero.

"But every now and then, after eating Caneton rouennais, people take sick and die. Foreign physicians, studying the matter, show us that the blood of a suffocated duck is apt to turn violently poisonous—that you may be eating Caneton rouennais or you may be taking the equivalent of a deadly dose of prussic acid.

"Yes, the Caneton rouennais of late has avenged itself on so many of its torturers that I don't think it will be long now before the suffocation of ducks will cease."—Exchange.

Junk Dealing a Great Industry.

But few of the thousands of people who see an "old iron" man poking through a heap of rubbish realize that the junk business in this country has grown to stupendous proportions. In Philadelphia last year over $25,000,000 changed hands in dealing in old metal, ranging from the trivial sums paid to the men who search the alleys for small discarded articles to the many thousands of dollars paid for machinery from dismantled factories.

The Pennsylvania railroad alone disposes of from 10,000 to 20,000 tons of waste material a month to Philadelphia dealers. This is chiefly wornout rolling stock and rails. The company which controls the street railways of that city disposes of almost an equal amount, and hundreds of other industrial concerns add their quota.—Popular Mechanics.

Inconsistent.

The East Asiatic Lloyd of Shanghai publishes a string of verses by one Richard Neumann, the burden of which could be expressed in the words, "Do not marry." In the next column Richard Neumann's name appears in an advertisement stating that the poet is willing to serve as witness at marriages at the following prices:

"In 5 o'clock dress, 2 taels.

"Cutaway coat and light trousers, 3 taels.

"Clawhammer coat, high hat, etc., 4 taels.

"Wearing all his decorations, 5 taels.

"Pay must be in advance, and witness must be invited to the meal following the ceremony."

Time Required.

Just before Mark Twain's daughter, Miss Clara Clemens, sailed for Europe she attended a reception, at which she met one of the friends of her Hartford childhood who had been a very small boy, but had grown to be an unusually tall man. Thinking that Mark might not remember the friend, she said to her father:

"You remember Tom Jones, father?"

"I remember part of him," replied Mark, peering up at Jones, "but it seems to me it would take a week to remember all of him."—Harper's Weekly.

Retiring may be the road to wealth, but a large number of people will refuse to travel it until the good roads movement has made it smoother.—Washington Herald.

Africans and the Locomotive.

The children of the desert were filled with awe when first the silence of the primeval solitude was broken by the puffing of the steam engine. Down at the other end of the Cape to Cairo line the simple Matabele, when first confronted by a locomotive, were certain that the strange machine was worked by the labor of an indefinite number of oxen, which they assumed were shut up inside; hence, when the engine stopped, they gathered in curious crowds, waiting to see the door open and the oxen come out, nor could they for many days be persuaded that the power of the locomotive could come from other than the strength of the ox.

The Arabs of the Sudan, more imaginative than the Matabele, saw in the fire horses of the railway one of the Djinns of the "Arabian Nights" harnessed by the magic of the infidel to the long train of cars. The steam engine was to them a living, sentient being, of which belief there is curious evidence in the fact that on one occasion a sheik made an impassioned remonstrance against the cruelty of making so small an engine draw so huge a train.

Composite Names.

"One of the differences between the east and the northwest," said a Puget sounder, "is the names of places, and the Skikoomishes, the Snohomishes, the Snoqualmies, the Wahkiakums and the lot of them give a man funny feelings, and when he runs across Bucoda, on the Northern Pacific railroad in Pierce county, Wash., he doesn't know whether it is Chinook or Siwash or what. But it is none of them—like Kenova, in West Virginia, which is near the junction of Kentucky, Ohio and Virginia, or Delmar, where Delaware and Maryland come together. Bucoda is a composite name, and its story is simple enough. When the Northern Pacific came in a town sprang up, and it must have a name. There were Indian names in plenty, but something more lover-like wanted, so Messrs. Buckley, Coulter and Davis, all Northern Pacific officials, put their heads together first and their names later, and the name Bu-co-da was evolved, with an etymology very apparent to any one who is at all informed in terminology. Bucoda it has remained, and it is not half bad as names go in the Puget sound country."

Beggars on Horseback.

"'Whoa, thar,' he says, pullin' up his hoss, and then he whines:

"'For the love o' charity, kind gent, would ye be so good as to gimme a crust o' bread for meself and a handful o' oats for the old mare?'"

The sailor smiled thoughtfully and stirred his ice cream soda with a long spoon.

"Yes, Hal," he resumed, "there's actual beggars on horseback in Roosia. They travels from town to town in caravans. They beg grub for themselves and fodder for their nags, just as I been tellin' ye.

"O' course, in the Argentine, where a hoss don't cost a cent, the only natural ye should see beggars on horseback, and I ain't sayin' nothin' about that. But in China they ride, too, while there's a Maltese beggar down Malta way what even drives a spring wagon an' takes his gal along. Interrupts his canoodlin' to ask you for a copper to stave off starvation, then starts right in again where he left off."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

An Unaccountable Falling.

It was a severe trial to Mr. Harding that his only son's memory was not all that could be desired. "Where in the world he got such a forgetful streak from is beyond me," said the exasperated father to his wife on one occasion.

"What has he forgotten now?" asked Mrs. Harding, with eyes downcast and a demure expression.

"The figures of the last return from the election on the bulletin board." And Mr. Harding inserted a finger in his collar as if to loosen it and shook his head vehemently. "Looked at 'em as he came past not half an hour ago, and now can't tell me.

"As I said to him, 'If you're so stupid you can't keep a few simple figures in your head, why don't you write 'em down on a piece of paper, as I do, and have done all my life, long before I was your age?'"

To Tell the Age of the Earth.

R. J. Strutt, a British scientist of high standing, in the course of a lecture at the Royal Institution, London, said that, thanks to recent investigations of radium, it soon would be possible to estimate the exact age of the earth.

Accepting the hypothesis that helium is constantly produced, at a definite speed from radium, Mr. Strutt proposed a quantitative estimation of the radium and the helium present in various minerals, as a means of determining their relative ages. Proceeding on similar lines, when once the rate at which radium is transformed should have been estimated, a simply operation in arithmetic would solve the problem of the age of the earth.

"I have," said Mr. Strutt, "been able to find that the age of flints present in chalk, is only one-thirtieth of the age of the mineral that is being mined in Cornwall. It is to be hoped that in this way it will be possible to form an exact estimate of the date on which man first appeared upon the earth."

Her Preference.

"A man," promptly suggested Miss Knox.—Philadelphia Press.

How a Girl Throws.

Perhaps a better title would have been "How a Girl Doesn't Throw?" because it is well known that a girl cannot propel a ball or anything else like a boy. Most people—and all boys—conclude that this defect arises from clumsiness, but that is a mistake.

The difference between a girl's throwing and a boy's is substantially this:

The boy crooks his elbow and reaches back, with the upper part of his arm about at a right angle of forty-five degrees. The direct act of throwing is accomplished by bringing the arm back with a sort of snap, working every joint from shoulder to wrist.

The girl throws with her whole arm rigid, the hay with his whole arm rigidly. Why this marked and unmistakable difference exists may be explained by the fact that the clavicle or collar bone in the feminine anatomy is some inches longer and set some degrees lower down than in the masculine frame. The long, crooked, awkward bone interferes with the full and free use of the arm. This is the reason why a girl cannot throw a stone.

First Victory of the Revolution.

The importance of the assault upon Fort William and Mary is generally overlooked by historians. The demonstrations against various British armed vessels, beginning with the firing upon the schooner St. John in July, 1764, as well as the battle of Alamance, in North Carolina, in 1771, were essentially local and were so far removed from the Revolutionary period that they produced no appreciable effect upon the war itself. The "Boston massacre" was the repulse of a mob by a squad of British regulars, but at Fort William and Mary the royal standard was lowered for the first time, and the gunpowder taken therefrom was burned by the patriots at Bunker Hill. The king recognized in the daring assault the inevitability of the impending struggle. There is truth in the claim set forth on the tablet on the old Fort Constitution of today that the site marks "the first victory of the American Revolution."—Army and Navy Life.

A Pretty Warm Fish.

A well known fisherman was fishing for perch and was seated along the edge of a lake near the roots of a large tree, which was a favorite spot for the perch. Luck had been only fair, and he was debating on the question of hauling in the line and going home when there came a powerful tug.

He knew that he had a huge fish and struggled vigorously for twenty minutes before he landed his prize. It was a sunfish, one of the largest he had ever seen. He landed it on the bank, and then he noticed that the rays from the fish were so powerful that he was almost blinded, and the grass in the vicinity was shriveled up by the heat.

A few minutes later the man fell over. He had been sunstruck by the sunfish and was beyond hope.—Philadelphia American.

Startling.

A gentleman opened a letter addressed to his son containing suggestions from a friend to the latter for a novel which he (the son) was privately writing. The father was exceedingly surprised and frightened upon reading the following dreadful words:

Dear Bob—You really must show more caution in constructing your plots, or the governor will be sure to discover the dead body of Geraldine in the cellar, and then your secret will be out. You consulted me about the strychnine. I certainly think you are giving it him in rather large doses. Let Emily put her mother in a madhouse. It will answer your purpose well to have the old girl out of the way. I think your forgery is far too small a sum. Make it three thousand. Leave the rest of your particularly nice family circle to me. I will finish them off and send you back the "fatal dagger" afterward by post. Yours,

JACK.

Nothing but Cod.

Kate Field once visited the Isles of Shoals and went fishing with a New England skipper. During the voyage she interviewed the old salt on the fish question, with the following result:

Said I to the skipper:

"What do you consider the best fish for boiling?"

Skipper—Boiling? Why, cod, to be sure.

I—And what is best for baking?

Skipper—You couldn't have no better dish nor cod for baking.

I—How is it with broiling?

Skipper—I never tasted no better fish for broiling than cod.

I—What is your opinion about frying?

"Frying!" repeated the skipper, scratching his head. "Why, what would you fry but cod?"

I—What fish is best for general purposes?

Skipper—General purposes! Cod can't be beat for general purposes, I tell you!

Bad Termination.

Said She—Did the story you were writing when I last saw you end happily or unhappily?

Said He—Unhappily. The publishers refused to accept it.—Chicago News.

Sudbury Nickel Pioneer Dead.

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Samuel J. Mitchie, millionaire capitalist of Akron and discoverer of rich nickel and copper mines at Sudbury, Canada, dropped dead in a hotel at Charleston, W.Va., yesterday.

He became prominent a few years ago through litigation with Judge Stevenson Burke of Cleveland, over Canadian property involving millions of dollars.

Rusty Nail Fatal.

Brockville, Sept. 21.—After suffering two days from lockjaw, caused by stepping on a rusty nail, which penetrated his foot, John S. Foster, aged 63, is dead. He failed to consult a doctor until too late.

The New Editor.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—S. D. Scott of the Parliamentary press gallery leaves today for St. John, N.B., to take charge of The Standard, the new Conservative morning newspaper there.

Iowa Can't Sell Liquor.

Davenport, Iowa, Sept. 21.—According to a decision rendered by Judge Smith McPherson of the United States Circuit Court, the Iowa mulct law system, under which saloons are now operating, is illegal. Judge McPherson declares that for the last quarter of a century there has been no lawful sale of liquor as a beverage within the state.

He further holds that no person under any circumstances can lawfully sell liquor as a beverage in Iowa.

His Command Extended.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Lieut.-Col. W. E. Hodgins has had his appointment as district officer commanding Military District No. 4 extended for a period of five years. Lieut.-Col. Hodgins began his military career 40 years ago, when he entered the Military School at Toronto as a cadet. In 1897 he was appointed to succeed Lieut.-Col. Bacon as secretary of the Dominion Rifle Association.

Juliet's Home Burns.

Rome, Sept. 21.—The house shown to tourists as the eminent palace of the Capulets at Verona, which is associated with the story of Romeo and Juliet, has been completely destroyed by fire.

A fire which recently broke out in the centre of the village of San Angelo Cancelli was extinguished by the use of wine, which was more plentiful than water.

Plantations Suffer.

New York, Sept. 21.—The steamer Siberia, which arrived here Saturday from West Indian ports, ran into the recent hurricane off the Bahamas Island, the storm commencing Sept. 11 and continuing until the 16th. As the centre of the storm moved over the island it was feared on the Siberia that great damage must have been done to the Bahama plantations.

Queen Amelia's Visit.

London, Sept. 21.—Queen Amelia of Portugal will be England's most royal guest—but, of course, on a strictly private visit. The bereaved queen, whose health has been shattered by the tragedy of February last and her subsequent worries, is coming for a thorough rest and change in rural England. She is said to be only a shadow of her former self.

Caught After Years.

New York, Sept. 21.—Franklin C. Marrin, 42 years of age, a lawyer, at Brooklyn, was arrested in this city on Saturday night after a chase, it is stated, of many years. Marrin is charged with defrauding a widow, a Mrs. Caroline C. Barry, said to have been a friend of his family, of $70,000 by means of worthless or forged mortgages.

To Oppose Worthington.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—At a meeting held in Sherbrooke Saturday J. C. Leonard was nominated as the Liberal candidate in opposition to Dr. Worthington.

Later on Hon. Sydney Fisher addressed a good-sized gathering.

Bishop Carmichael.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—The city was alarmed last evening to learn that his lordship, Bishop Carmichael, had been seized with heart failure and that life is despaired of.

The bishop had just returned from the Pan-Anglican Council.

Firemen Elect Officers.

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 5.—The Provincial Firemen's Association worked all morning yesterday, but took the afternoon off, and, as guests of Protection Hose company and the town council, went to Port Colborne.

These officers were elected: President, Charles Allan, Brampton; Vice-President, W. Birrell, Hamilton; Second Vice President, Adam Martin, Thorold; Secretary, George Thomas, Niagara Falls; Treasurer, George Elkins, Thorold.

To-day a big demonstration and turnout will be held.

Handicapped.

Gyer—Huggins is charged with having three wives.

Myer—So? What does he say?

Gyer—Say! What chance would a man with three wives have to say anything?—Chicago News.

A Paradox.

"So you think you see an opportunity," said his friend.

"See an opportunity?" said the enthusiastic person. "Yes, sirree! And, tell you, it's out of sight!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Just Trying.

"You look rather weary, old man."

"Yes. I've had a trying time this past week."

"Sick?"

"No, on a jury."—Philadelphia Press.

Mr. Pickwick's Tree.

Owing to its having become very decayed and dangerous the old sycamore standing near Dulwich college, known as "Mr. Pickwick's tree," has had to be cut down, much to the regret of the residents of Dulwich village, among whom the tradition prevails that Dickens' hero was in the habit of a fine evening of resting on the seat beneath its branches toward the close of his career.—London Globe.

PETERBORO' INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION IS OVER; DIRECTORS ARE DELIGHTED WITH ITS SUCCESS; THERE WILL BE ENCOURAGING SURPLUS ON HAND

10,000 People in All, Saw the Fair and the Crowd Was Well Satisfied---Prospects For Other Years Are Bright ---3,000 People Were Present on Saturday for the Last Day of the Fair

HORSE RACING BEST EVER SEEN AT FAIR EX-MAYOR YELLAND'S DOG RACE SUCCESS

Protest Against Walter G. on the Grounds That He Was Little Hector---Owner Took An Affadavit---Many Farmers Were Present on Saturday and Enjoyed the Fun

The Peterborough Industrial Fair for 1908 is a thing of the past, and the directors will have to wear their arms in slings if they don't stop shaking hands with themselves and everybody else over the result. It is no wonder they are pleased, however, as all records in regard to the success of the enterprise have been far surpassed. It is something, in two years to turn a deficit of over $200 into a surplus that this year will run very close to the $1000 mark, and the Board of Directors who have worked so heroically in the face of obstacles that have seemed almost insurmountable have reason to congratulate themselves and be congratulated upon the outcome.

That the Fair which has just ended has been a gigantic success cannot be gainsaid. The attendance on Friday was a record-breaker. About 6,000 people were on the grounds, and had it not been for the threatening weather of Friday night there would have been several thousand on hand for the evening performance. As it was some 660 paid admission during the evening and on Saturday about 3000 people filed through the turnstiles. This, in view of the far from promising outlook of the weather early Saturday morning, was a matter of congratulation to the directors, and as the attendance on Friday was enough to meet all the expenses of the undertaking, Saturday's crowd meant clear profit. Therefore the management had reason to feel satisfied as they viewed the gathering on the last day of the Fair.

Not only was the attendance of 10,000 most pleasing, but the fact that the people enjoyed the Fair was even more satisfactory to the directors. Everybody had a good word to say for the exhibits and programme, and that means more than the big gate receipts, for it insures the success of the event in the years that are to come. The Fair seems to have fought its way into the confidence of the people, and that is all that is needed to make it a success. There is no reason why Peterborough should not have one of the best Fairs in Canada. It has the drawing population, and with the success achieved last week there seems every reason to hope for big things in the future. Meanwhile the citizens of Peterborough should unite in praising the directors who have brought about this transformation in the reputation of the Fair.

The crowd on Saturday consisted to a large degree of the farmers from the surrounding country, although, of course, there were plenty of townspeople on hand. The farmers took advantage of the fact that it was market day to kill two birds with one stone, and after transacting their business in the morning patronized the Fair in the afternoon. There was plenty for the crowd to see on Saturday and everybody seemed satisfied. The Midway was a centre of attraction and the celebrities along the Pike reaped a bountiful harvest.

The performance in front of the grandstand made a big hit with the crowd. The Les Aripos in their astounding feats of strength and acrobatic juggling were warmly applauded, while the trick house act by Kennedy Bros. and Mack was the source of plenty of amusement.

Racing was good

The horse-racing was one of the big features of the Fair and never has there been better sport seen at the local Exhibition. The big purses offered by the management had brought out good fields of fast horses and they were out to win. The horses were driven for all that was in them and the spectators got their money's worth throughout. The finishes were close and the excitement was kept up all the way. Starter Martin Connors got the bunch away well and there were few tiresome delays, although a protest entered against one of the horses tied things up for a while.

There were four horses in the 2.28 class; Walter G. owned by Passmore of Orillia; Harry K, Dr. Cowan, Lindsay; Togo, the property of Geo. Powell, and Idolph, Ira Nattress of Millbrook. Several protests were entered against Walter G., it being claimed that the fast Orillia horse was some other than the well-known Little Hector, who has a mark around 2.11. His owner, Mr. Passmore, of Orillia, was called upon to sign an affidavit to the effect that the horse was really Walter G., and other horsemen made declarations to the same effect, which ended the matter so far as the judges were concerned.

The Orillia horse showed a fine turn of speed and won the class in straight heats, although Harry K., which had won the 2.50 class the day before, gave Walter G. a hard drive for the honours. They stayed close all around the circuit and the finish was always a whipping one. In fact, in the second heat the Orillia horse had to step along at a .21 clip to nold off the Lindsay pacer. The crowd enjoyed the race exceedingly. Togo, the big horse owned by Geo. Powell, made things interesting during the first half of each mile but wilted on end.

Following is the summary of the 2.28 class:

Walter G, Passmore, Orillia... ...1 1 1
Harry K, Dr. Cowan, Lindsay...2 2 3
Togo, Geo. Powell, Orillia... ...4 3 3
Idolph, Ira Nattress, Millbrook..3 4 4
Time—2.21 1-4, 2.23.

The 2.17 Class

The 2.17 class provided the best race of the Fair, and the crowd enjoyed every minute of the sport. The chief contestants were Harry Direct, owned by J. J. Cottingham, Peterborough, and Holland Boy, the property of Dr. Leach, also of Peterborough. The two had a battle royal for first money, and although Harry Direct won in straight heats it was only after the hardest kind of a race. The other contestants were Black Prince, owned by Dr. Forest, Port Hope; Queen's Baron, owned by Dr. Johnston, Peterborough; and Hazel Bell, P. McCarthy, Toronto.

In the first heat Holland Boy drew fifth position, but did not get away well. The race looked to be between Harry Direct and Hazel Bell, who had a great battle during the first half mile, but Holland Boy steadily wore down the lead and when the horse swung into the stretch he passed Hazel Bell into second position in a driving finish. Harry Direct won without much difficulty.

The second heat was between Harry Direct and Holland Boy, the others being not serious contenders. On turning the first curve Holland Boy, which was on the outside, swerved in front of Harry Direct, causing the pole horse to slow up. However, he succeeded in overtaking and passing Holland Boy, but the latter was not going to be beaten without a struggle, and came strong in the stretch, the result being almost a dead heat, Harry winning by something less than a head. Elms, first, the driver of Holland Boy, was called into the stand and "called" by the judges for his careless driving.

Harry Direct, who seemed to be in the best condition of his career, and never made a break all afternoon, won the third heat in easier fashion, although Holland Boy was a factor until the finish.

The summary follows:

Harry Direct, J. J. Cottingham, Peterborough... ... ...1 1 1
Holland Boy, Dr. Leach, Peterborough... ... ...2 2 2
Hazel Bell, P. McCarthy, Toronto... ... ...3 3 3
Queen's Baron, Dr. Johnston, Peterborough 4 4 5
Black Prince, Dr. Forest, Port Hope... ... ...5 5 4
Time—2.21 1-4, 2.23 1-4, 2.24 1-4.

Dog Race Funny

The dog race, inaugurated by Ex-Mayor Yelland, was a grand success and provided great amusement for the crowd. Seven canines in all were entered, and the start was the most amusing feature of the event. When the time came for getting the field away the air was shattered with an inharmonious barking that sounded as if a dog show was in session. Some of the dogs wanted to fight and others refused to be headed in the right direction, and the confusion was great. Many varieties of vehicles were used, from a regulation rubber-tyred waggon to a bike made out of a soap box, and as to the dogs there was the same variety. When the word was given to go the greater part of the field managed to get off in good order, but several were left at the post. There was trouble on the first corner where several of the canines went over in a heap and there was a conglomerate mass of boys, dogs and waggons. Charlie Pogue, who had a small dog and an exceedingly big bike, managed to avoid the mixups and won without trouble, leading all the way around and winning looking back. A dog owned by D. Rose took second money.

During the afternoon the judging of carriage horses and saddle horses took place in front of the grandstand, a feature that the crowd

IRVING BEERS,
Who will direct and play one of the leading parts in the local production of "All The Comforts of Home" which will be given in the Grand Opera House the last part of October, under the auspices of the "Peterborough Hockey Club." Mr. Beers has played with Mrs. Fiske, Mary Shaw and other acknowledged leaders in English Dramatic Art and played with Donald Robertson and an all star cast in the original American production of Ibsen's "Ghosts."

MANAGER SAID TO HAVE LEFT COMPANY STRANDED

The manager of the vaudeville attractions at the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition it is said played a pretty smart trick upon the members of his company. The Fair directors transacted their business directly with the manager, and accordingly on Saturday night when the fair came to a close, the directors paid him over the money. He was to have received $275, but owing to the fact that the company failed to give a night performance on Friday night, the directors decided to give him only $175 and he accepted this reduced figure. What's more he got out of town on the nine o'clock train on Saturday night, and the Fair Directors are informed that he left his company behind him without paying them any of the money.

KENNEL CLUB TO BE FORMED BY DOG FANCIERS

A meeting of all interested in the formation of a Kennel Club will be held on Thursday evening in the Y. M. C. A. parlour. This club has been advocated for some time by some prominent dog fanciers of the city, and it has been found that a large number are interested. The attendance of ladies at the meeting and their co-operation is requested. A Kennel Show will be held in the near future.

VICIOUS BLACK FLIES MAKING PRESENCE KNOWN

The streets of the city were to-day almost monopolized by an army of small flies, presumably driven out of the forests by prevailing bush fires. The black insect known as the Texas fly is also getting acquainted with Peterborough citizens and many are complaining about its vicious bites on the backs of mortals' necks.

HE FLED FROM MIMICO BUT WAS ARRESTED HERE

Harry Drummond, a young boy who was committed from here about two years ago to the Mimico Industrial School, escaped from that institution a few days ago and came back to Peterborough. His sudden break for liberty will do him no good, however, as the boy was arrested here this morning and is now in the police station waiting for officials from Mimico who will take him back to the institution. Young Drummond formerly lived on George street just below Dublin street.

REMARKABLE GROWTH OF A FUNGUS FOUND IN THE DEPTHS OF A HARVEY TOWNSHIP FOREST

The front window of the United Agency Company, George street, shows a remarkable growth from the depths of a Harvey Township forest, which is attracting considerable interest. It is a large fungus secured by Mr. J. S. Richardson, London street, on his farm about six miles north of Buckhorn, in Harvey. It is oval-shaped, 31 inches by 20 inches in diameter, and weighs about eight and a quarter pounds. When Mr. Richardson first noticed it on a log he thought it was some mammoth bird resting, and on a nearer view was surprised to find the fungus. It is of a beautiful hue, coloured and shaped by nature's own hand and would be an attractive ornament for any house.

Youth's Arm Pulled Out Of Joint At Elbow By Being Caught Between Two Pickets

Willis Richardson, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. J. S. Richardson, London street, received a rather severe injury yesterday morning in a most peculiar manner. He was climbing over a picket fence when he accidentally fell, his arm catching between two of the pickets. It was pulled out of joint by the sudden movement of the elbow and, of course, caused him considerable pain. The injury was attended to by Drs. Morgan and Brown. Willis was a regular attendant at school and was employed at the Examiner office after school hours.

CAKE OF ICE SHOOTS DOWN FLIGHT OF STAIRS LIKE A METEOR

People who happened to be passing the stairway leading up to the Peterboro' Bowling Club's Alleys on Saturday afternoon paused in alarm as a rumbling sound which seemed to indicate that an earthquake was in progress some where upstairs was heard. A moment later they were fleeing for their lives as a giant cake of ice came bumping down the steps and across the sidewalk like a veritable meteor and made a conscientious effort to bury itself in the centre of the street. For a moment there was a panic. Traffic was tied up and people sought their cyclone cellars. Then as there were no further signs of disaster a few of the more courageous ventured forth to seek the explanation of the strange accident. Soon it was learned that Mr. J. B. Hay, the enterprising proprietor of the alleys had attempted to carry the block of ice upstairs in a bag and when half way up the bottom dropped out of the ice market or rather out of the bag and hence the alarming avalanche. Not daring to investigate what damage the cooling material might have done Mr. Hay immediately fled and could not be persuaded to come forth until it was made clear that no one had been hurt by the glacier.

NEW THEATORIUM WILL HAVE ELABORATE STREET ENTRANCE

The theatorium which M. Pappas will open in the premises formerly occupied by the Times Publishing Co., promises to be according to the latest idea in that style of building. The work inside has already been begun, and it is learned that the firm of McGregor and Reid has the contract. The front will enliven the whole block and will be profusely decorated with mirrors, electric light and in fact all the most modern effects. The present front of the building will be removed, and the entrance will be moved back 12 feet. It is claimed that when the work has been completed it will surpass anything that this city has seen in the line of theatoria. The work will, it is believed, be completed in about six weeks or two months.

BOYS BREAK MORE WINDOWS IN THE STOREHOUSE OF HOUEDRY AND SON

Mr. Maurice Houedry complains that the windows of his storehouse are being continually broken by small boys throwing stones through them. The panes that suffer most are those on the south side of the building, looking towards the C. P. R. main line. On the floor towards the east end large stones and small boulders are strewn around on the floor, and the number of broken windows is disgraceful. Last spring Mr. Houedry put in new glass, but a large number of the panes have again been broken. The police have been notified and serious trouble is in store for any culprits who are apprehended in the future.

INCREASED EXCITEMENT WITH BIG BOOM AT COBALT MINES

Mr. Samuel Armstrong returned on Saturday from a business trip to Cobalt and states that there is another big boom in mining transactions in that district. Money has been unloosened and the actual value of the Cobalt holdings is receiving its due recognition. The people have the mining and speculating fever almost worse than before and the town is busier and even more excited than it was previous to the slump.

Mr. Armstrong, who resides in Otonabee is one of the shareholders in the Casey Mountain mine and spent the past two weeks in investigating the prospects it offered with a view to increasing his stock. He showed the Examiner some specimens he brought back with him from this mine and he states that it is the general opinion that the Casey Mountain will soon begin to turn out silver. In the veins calcite was found and as far down as 34 feet cobalt and nicolite which in practically every case precede silver. They have 13 veins of which the widest is 12 feet. In fact he says that they have the best surface showing in the district.

RAILWAY MEN HAVE SPLENDID LUCK WITH ROD AND GUN IN RICE LAKE WATER

Mr. W. G. Rankin, claims agent of the C.P.R., accompanied by Mr. W. S. Dodds, the popular C. P. R. agent, spent a day fishing at Rice Lake last week and succeeded in landing six splendid specimens of lunge, besides hooking five others, which were lost in an effort to get them into the canoe. The canoes were handled by Maddon and Jim Howard, two Hiawatha Indians, who certainly know their business. The fishermen report having had splendid sport, as the fish seem to be biting better this month than during the summer. The ducks are beginning to come in to feed on the wild rice, of which there is a splendid crop this year.

ONTARIO FARMERS WILL SHARE IN NEW INDUSTRY WHICH LOCAL FIRM HAS OPENED WITH SUCCESS

The Growing Of Fancy Beans At Ridgetown Introduced By Houedry and Son Last Spring, Pleases the Local Representative---Conditions Are Favourable

DISTRICT AROUND LAKE ERIE WILL BENEFIT BY THE INTRODUCTION OF THIS INDUSTRY

The result of the experiment of planting 10 different kinds of beans at Ridgetown, Elgin County, has been a success according to the statement of Mr. Maurice Houedry, Peterborough, the Canadian representative of Houedry & Son, Del de Bretagne, France. Thirty-nine bags were sown last Spring under Mr. Houedry's direction and the yield has been most encouraging. In fact it has proven conclusively that these fancy beans can be grown to advantage. These beans will be carefully picked over and will be planted next year.

Speaking to Mr. Houedry to-day he told The Examiner that in 1909 the area that will be planted with these beans will be six times as large as that of the past season. In this way each succeeding year will see the business grow, similar to the pea industry, which is now in a flourishing condition, and in a short time shipments will be made, besides a greater amount of the beans will be used for seed.

The business that this firm has built up in Ontario is highly spoken of by the farmers that deal with it, and the success of the bean industry in the district of Lake Erie should be a corresponding boon for those farmers who grow them. It is further understood that the general conditions of Western Ontario are favourable to the growing of these fancy beans, consequently there will be practically no limit to the extension of the industry.

"DICK BAKER" HAS LEFT PETERBORO; ACCEPTED A POSITION IN TORONTO

Peterborough athletics to-day have lost a prominent figure in the person of Mr. Dick Baker of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers, who left this morning for Toronto, where he has secured a position. His hundreds of friends in this city will regret to learn of his departure, and will at the same time unite in wishing him every success in the Queen City. Probably no one has done so much in such a short time for athletics in Peterborough as has Mr. Baker, who is mainly responsible for the success attained by the Y.M.C.A. Harriers and for the showing made by Fred Simpson. He has been a resident of this city for about three years and has lived in Canada for four years, coming to this country from London, England.

Dick, as he is known to everyone in Peterborough, has become famous as a trainer, and as such is known not only here but in Toronto, Hamilton and other cities. When Fred Simpson made his debut in the Examiner road race two years ago and showed such promise for the future, Dick took him under his wing and saw that he became a member of the Y. M.C.A. Since that time Baker has been a brother to the Indian runner, looking after him faithfully and honestly, and no one will miss Dick more than will Simpson. Under Mr. Baker's training Simpson developed rapidly. Starting out in July of the next year he won the Lindsay Marathon and then ran second to Tom Coley in the Hamilton Herald road race. The story of the two Olympic trials in Toronto, in both of which Simpson ran fourth, thereby securing a place on the Canadian team to England, is too well known to need repetition here. Baker accompanied the Canadians to look after Simpson and as trainer of the team, and in that capacity he soon became popular with the Canadian athletes, who showed their affection for him by coming to Peterborough last week at his request to run at the Harriers' meet, the success of which is undoubtedly due to Mr. Baker's efforts.

In the forming of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers and in the successful work of that organization, he has been a prominent figure. He has given the boys he had for the "Y" and Harriers-letes, and no doubt his services have been appreciated by the management. He trained Ray Best for the Examiner road race two years ago and looked after Ernie Wilson and Pete Wallace, the senior and junior winners of last year's Examiner contests, and was with Wilson when he scored his notable victory in Toronto last year over Tom Coley.

As a footballer, Dick has also gained laurels in Peterborough. In 1906 and 1907 he was a valuable member of the Quaker Football Club, which twice won the Midland League, while he figured on the forward line. He is a sprinter of no mean ability and in other ways was prominent in athletics, being trainer of the Strathcona Hockey Club which won the City League championship last year.

On top of it all, Baker is the best of good fellows. No distance was too far out of his way to help a friend, and as a trainer he never failed to put forth his best efforts for the men he had in charge. He will be missed greatly, more especially by those who have come in contact with him in the sphere of athletics in particular, but also by the people of Peterborough generally.

NARROW ESCAPE AT FAIR RACES; SPECTATOR RUN OVER BY SULKY

There came near to being a very serious accident in connection with the horse races at the Peterborough Industrial Fair on Saturday afternoon. During the first heat of the 2.17 class event three spectators attempted to cross the track. The leading horses, Harry Direct, Holland Boy and Hazel Belle, had passed by, and the man thought, no doubt, that it was safe to cross. Queen's Baron, however, came around the east curve, followed by Black Prince, and though the drivers did their best to dodge the men one of the latter was knocked down by Queen's Baron, and the sulky of Black Prince ran over him. The spectators thought the man was seriously hurt, but he got up and walked away, apparently none the worse for the accident. His name could not be ascertained. The driver of Black Prince was thrown off but not injured in the accident.

THIRTEEN YEAR OLD BOY BITTEN ON THE LEG BY LARGE COLLIE DOG

Yesterday morning the little son of Mr. Henry Thompson, Hazlett street, was rather severely bitten in the leg by a collie dog. The youth, who is about thirteen years of age, was in the vicinity of Nicholls Oval, when the dog attacked him and bit him on the calf of the leg. Mr. Walter Kinney, the owner of the dog, kindly drove the boy to Dr. Burnham's office, where his injuries were dressed. The skin was badly torn, but no serious effects are anticipated. The dog is a valuable one and Mr. Kinney would like to send it to some farmer in the country, where it would be of use.

HEADQUARTERS HAVE A HIGH OPINION OF THE LOCAL CORPS

The Peterborough corps of the Salvation Army is considered by headquarters to be one of the best in Canada, according to the statement made by Brigadier Potter of Toronto, who had charge of the festival services at the week-end on Saturday and Sunday. That there are many large corps is generally acknowledged, but only a few of these are considered better in a general sense. The band is exceptionally strong and its merit is recognized by the other bands and the officers at Toronto and Montreal.

Brigadier Potter was pleased with the week-end and spoke favourably, not only of the band but also of the songsters who sang as well on Sunday, night under the direction of Mr. Greene.

THE CROWNING HONORS.

"Great Britain is compassed to-day by what may well be said to be a galaxy of young nations, and amongst those daughter nations Canada, all consent, holds first rank. I don't pretend that this, as the culmination of the last twelve years, can be claimed as the work of the Liberal party in twelve years. It has been the work of generation after generation of Canadians, but I think I can claim that when the pages of history are unfolded to the eyes of future generations it will be regarded that though the generations which have passed laid the foundations, the supreme honour of crowning the edifice was reserved to the Administration which you placed in power in 1896, the mandate of which you renewed in 1900 and 1904, and which mandate, I believe, you will also renew as soon as the buglos sound the call of duty at the polls. I don't make any predictions as to the victory. I leave that to our opponents. They will do as they have done in the past, and we will do as we have done. They crow before election day. We commence to crow after election day."—Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

THE DIFFERENCE

This is the difference. Mr. Borden for the Conservative party is putting rural mail delivery into a platform; Mr. Lemieux, Post Master General for the Liberal Government and for the people of Canada, is putting rural mail delivery into practice. Mr. Borden preaches, Mr. Lemieux practises. Preaching without practice is like blossoms without fruit. The difference involved is what distinguishes Mr. Borden and the Liberal Government. And the same absence of practicability and the same presence of practical and proven ability are what distinguish the respective candidates now appealing to the support of the electors of West Peterborough. The Conservative candidate is a spinner of thems. the Liberal candidate is a measure of results. The Conservative candidate is an dreamer of theories, the Liberal candidate is a weaver of results. The Conservapotentiality and promise. What the country needs is a Government with a wide outlook, that embraces all the extended expanse of our country and its varied interests from ocean to ocean; a Government with an unequalled record of achievement in the upbuilding of the national interests of the country. The country has proved the Liberal Government and it has not been found wanting in the highest qualities of constructive statesmanship. That's the Government we have; that's the Government we want and that the Government we shall have to keep. As to representative. Peterborough wants a live representative, with experience, executive ability, aggressive energy and influential, political, business and financial connections.

MR. E. A. TANNER

Mr. E. A. Tanner is entering upon his campaign in East Peterborough with the same energy and businesslike qualities that he has applied to the success of his own business, to his work as reeve, and as president of the Board of Trade. In this latter capacity he has been tireless, and has given the authorities no rest till he has accomplished what he set out to do, to practically interest the Government to give Lakefield the boon of a new wharf, for which the Dominion Government has made a grant. As reeve of the village, he was energetic and resourceful. He introduced "up-to-date" municipal methods, and all agree that Mr. Tanner made one of the best, if not the best, reeves that Lakefield ever had. He is held in the highest esteem in Lakefield. There is no better test of the thoroughness of a man's good qualities than the respect in which he is held where he is best known. His candidature is very popular in Lakefield. The people, irrespective of party politics, feel that in the interests of the northern part of the riding no man is better qualified to give good service than Mr. Tanner will be as a representative supporting the party in power at Ottawa and the party humanly certain to be in power for another parliamentary term. There is no doubt that Mr. Tanner, as the member for East Peterborough, will give the Government no rest till he secures what the East Riding wants and is fairly entitled to. All governments have countless claims which cannot all be recognized at once. Some must of necessity be deferred, and the member who shows the most push, shows the most persistence, in urging the claims of his riding will get the best attention. As a supporter of the Government he will be on the ground floor to begin with, for any government will stand more badgering from a supporter than it would from an opponent. Mr. Tanner is young, energetic, a good speaker, and able to command attention. What is wanted in East Peterborough is the member who is able, either from his energy, ability and address, to have the most influence with the powers that be, and be most capable of compelling Government attention to the fair demands and requirements of the riding. Party triumphs and party feeling are all right in their place, but they can easily be carried so far as to sidetrack the best interests of a riding. A party triumph is a petty affair compared to the gain of substantial advantage in the interests of East Peterborough. Mr. Tanner is entering upon his campaign with energy and we bespeak a hearty reception for him at the hands of the electors.

ROBLIN THE PROPHET.

Premier Roblin of Manitoba, is in the east neglecting his job and raising his voice to testify that Mr. R. L. Bordon and company are No. 1 hard.

As a lawyer Mr. Borden knows that when he calls a witness to the stand he rests his case partly on the testimony of said witness. Sometimes the witness is discredited by one of his intimates deposing that he would not believe him under oath.

What if the witness himself swears that he is not to be believed? This is precisely the case of Premier Roblin.

On one occasion Mr. Roblin was obliged to take the stand in a court of law, and there, before judge and jury, he swore that he was not to be believed when he made statements in the Legislature or on the platform. When taxed with his public statements being inconsistent with the facts disclosed by him under oath, he said:

"I am not responsible for my political statements!"

This is one of the consorts of Mr. R. L. Borden at this moment inviting the people of Canada to take his word for it that the Opposition are entitled to a verdict, with the possible result that he might add moral dignity to a Borden Government as Minister of the Interior.

Premier Roblin's "turn" in the entertainment which the Borden All-Star Company is now playing to one-night stands is to prophesy in a foghorn voice. This is his prediction:

The Pacific Province was to return six Conservatives and one Socialist; Alberta and Saskatchewan were to return a majority for Mr. Borden; Manitoba, eight Conservatives and only two Liberals, "perhaps ten Conservatives," said the speaker, "though the Government had manipulated the electoral lists in such a way as to make it exceedingly difficult to carry certain two constituencies"; Ontario, 65 Conservatives out of 85 total; Quebec he would pass for the moment, though gains were to be expected; the Maritime Provinces, a majority.

On the night of October 26 Mr. Roblin will surely have another opportunity of saying, "I am not responsible for my political statements,"—Ottawa Free Press.

THE BRITISH PREFERENCE.

Toronto Star.

For several years prior to 1896 there was an agitation in Canada in favour of modifying the tariff so as to give a preference to the manufacturers of the United Kingdom. In 1893, Mr., now Sir Louis, Davies, then a prominent member of the Liberal Opposition at Ottawa, moved a resolution declaring that the tariff ought to be framed so that articles imported mainly from Great Britain should bear a low rate of duty. The Conservative Government met this resolution with an amendment to the effect that Canada should give a preference to British imports "if and when" Great Britain gave a preference to the products of Canada. The amendment was carried. It meant bringing the movement to a standstill, for Great Britain could not give a preference to Canada without abandoning free trade, a result which, as the most fervent protectionist would admit, could not be accomplished without many years of agitation.

As soon as the Liberals were returned to power, the tariff was modified so as to give an unconditional and substantial preference to British imports. The policy was denounced for two reasons that were inconsistent and mutually destructive. It was said that the preference was a sham, and would be of no value to the manufacturers of the United Kingdom; and it was also said that the reduction of the duty would let in such a flood of British manufactures that Canadian industries would be ruined. In other words, it was contended that there would be an increase of British imports, and likewise that there would not, and the Canadian Government was blamed for both the calamities.

Previous to the preference there had been a decline in British imports from $51,679,572 in 1883 to $29,401,188 in 1897. Since that time the British imports have risen from $29,401,188 to $94,904,540. It is true that imports from the United States have also increased rapidly, but it must be remembered that our imports from the United States are largely free goods, used as raw material for our own industries, and are evidences of the growth of these industries. The Financial Chronicle of Montreal points out that in the ten years there was an increase of 194.5 p.c. in imports from Great Britain, as compared with 173.5 p.c. in purchases from the United States and with 178.5 p.c. in total buyings from abroad. "When it is considered that during the preceding decade Dominion imports in general remained almost stationary, while there was an actual decrease of more than one-third in Canada's imports from the Motherland, and an increase of over one-quarter in takings from the United States, it is difficult to gainsay that the preference has had considerable effect."

Quite as remarkable has been the increase of Canadian exports to Great Britain. It may be argued that this is not due to the preferential tariff, because Great Britain gives no preference to Canadian products. But although there is no preference enacted by law, there is a preference by custom, sentiment and the good-will of British customers, and these have undoubtedly operated in favour of Canada. The preference given by the Canadian tariff attracted attention in Great Britain and was one of the leading topics of discussion in the English press during the summer of 1897. From 1897 to 1908 the exports of Canadian products to Great Britain increased in value from $77,227,502 to $134,484,156.

The Canadian Government has declined to interfere in the domestic politics of Great Britain by demanding that she shall adopt protection, but has asked that if a protective tariff be adopted, Canadian imports shall be imported upon specially favourable terms. The representatives of Canada have also intimated that if Great Britain shall give such preferential treatment to Canada, the Canadian tariff will be amended so as to favour still further the manufacturers of Great Britain.

It must not be forgotten that the Canadian preferential tariff not only favours the United Kingdom, but is a substantial measure of relief to the Canadian consumers. For this reason it is highly popular in the Canadian West and its continuance was advocated by the farmers who appeared before the Tariff Commission two years ago.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Make no mistake about Canada," says the Cleveland Leader. "A great nation is rapidly growing up to the north of us."

Mr. Borden accuses the Liberals of stealing some planks from his Halifax platform. It is his own fault. He should have convinced his followers of their value and better watch would have been kept over them.

"FEED THE BRUTE."

Man Is Always Peevish Before He Has His Breakfast.

The usual advice given to young wives is to "feed the brute," and another warning is not to cross a man before he has breakfasted.

"From my experience," says the proprietor of a large restaurant which serves many breakfasts, "I have learned to avoid my male customers before breakfast. Somehow ladies are not so irritable at that hour of the day as are their husbands and brothers.

"Many of my customers are early risers, who call in on their way to business. If you met them in the afternoon they would strike you as being most companionable men, but before breakfast even I keep out of their way.

"They growl at the weather, at the food, at the waiter, at each other and even at themselves. It is amusing to watch the visible change as they get through breakfast.

"With ladies it's quite different. They are not nearly so numerous as are the men, but they are much more amiable. I sometimes wonder if it is because they wake up less hungry. But as to that I can only guess.

"The fact remains, however, that man before he has broken his fast is usually a disagreeable sort of animal."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Foiling the Book Lender.

"The public library serves me in an important respect," said the man with the aggressive weskit, "even though I don't take a book out once a year. I can say I'll take a book out, and that serves my purpose. If the public library wasn't here I couldn't do that.

"I'm always being pestered by fool friends, who say: 'Have you read this or that? Oh, you haven't! Well, I'll lend it to you.' Then if I accept the loan the chances are that I never want to read the book anyhow and haven't the time if I did. Then I forget to return it and make a lifelong enemy of the lender. Some day there'll be a painless method of exterminating the book lender. In the meantime I dodge him by means of the public library. I say, 'Much obliged, but I've got my application in for that very book at the library.' Then that lets me out. That's about the only way I ever use the library." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GERMANY'S END.

An Old Prophecy Gives the Empire Only Five Years More.

Five years more and the German empire will come to an end. So at least says a prophecy made in the thirteenth century by a monk named Hermann, who lived in the monastery of Lehnin, in Brandenburg, where he wrote a work in Latin concerning the future destiny of Germany for many centuries. The work is styled the "Vaticinium Lehninense," and it is in verses after the manner of the sibylline books.

The monk seems to have foretold the defeat at Jena and the constitution of the Germanic confederation in 1815. Unfortunately the prophetic Hermann foretells in plain language the downfall of the Hohenzollern dynasty, and William II. is destined to be the last of his race to sit on the imperial throne. The verses that foretell this are:

"Verse 93. Tandem sceptra gerit qui stemmatis ultimus erit.

"Verse 94. Israel infandum sectus audet morte piandum."

(At last the sceptar is in the hands of him who will be the last of the royal race. Israel attempts an execrable crime that death alone can expiate.)

In 1840 William I., king of Prussia, consulted a celebrated soothsayer who in answer to his queries told him that he would ascend the throne in 1849, that the German empire would be established in 1871, that he would die in 1888 and that the German empire would come to an end in 1913. The first three prophecies have been fulfilled to the very letter.—New York Sun.

Queer Virginia Oysters.

But, sure enough, did you know there were some oysters, and Virginia oysters at that, which cannot live always under sheets of water? The seaside oyster does not grow in deep water, say over ten feet, and the most and best of them grow in water so shoal that it is dry ebb half the time. These latter are the most prolific seed bearers we have, but they will die if planted in deep water or in the Chesapeake bay. The inside or bay oyster should never ebb bare to thrive best. Singular, isn't it, that the Virginia oysters, one and the same bivalves, can lead a double life, but only one phase of it at a time! The seaside fellow must be out of water a good portion of his time to thrive, while the bay and river fellow will die in summer and freeze in winter if exposed to the air.—Virginia Citizen.

The Roast.

"To judge woman by her looks is to court error," said a well known woman. "I know a man who while carving at a dinner wished to say something that would please the pale, deep eyed, spirituelle girl at his side.

"'How do you like Maeterlinck?' he at last inquired.

"'Well done,' she answered, not once lifting her eyes from the great roast he was working on."—Washington Post.

A Difficult Case.

A physician received late one evening a note from three of his fellow practitioners:

"Please step over to the club and join us at a rubber of whist."

"Emilie, dear," he said to his wife, "here I am called away again. It appears to be a difficult case—there are three other doctors on the spot already."

New.

"I want you," said the stage manager, "to play the part of a banker, and I want you to try to play it with a touch of originality."

"All right," responded Yorick Hamm, "I'll leave off the mutton chop whiskers."—Kansas City Journal.

The Difficulty.

"Could you bring yourself to live in a flat on £4 a week?"

"I could, Harold," answered the pampered yet unspoiled darling. "But I do not know just how it would suit my French maid."—London Tatler.

The Real Question.

"Where does he get his money?"

"I don't know where he gets his, and I don't care. What I am interested in is knowing just how he gets mine."—Nashville American.

ORIGIN OF "EGYPT."

How the Name Came to Be Applied to Southern Illinois.

The year 1824 was very wet. Heavy rains fell frequently. Corn on flatlands was a total failure. This year the weevil destroyed the wheat after it was harvested. The next year, 1825, there was a remarkable growth of thistles on the branch bottoms. The winter of 1830-1 was known as the winter of deep snow. The snow was of a depth of from two and a half to three feet on a level. It drifted much and was very destructive to fruit trees. The weather was intensely hot. Both in 1831 and 1832 the early frosts so injured the corn as to entirely render it worthless for almost any purpose.

During the years between and including 1824-32, so nearly corresponding to the years of famine in the days of Pharaoh and his ruler, as he made Joseph to be, the people of Illinois, depended upon the southern part of the state for so much grain, particularly corn, that people in remembrance of the Bible story began to call the part of the state which had been so helpful in time of need Egypt.

Would Be Missed.

"I know what you'll miss most about us," said her neighbor, who was moving from the building, "our telephone, that you have been using. I shall never forget that night you called us up from somewhere where you had concluded to spend the night, that you had left your flat unlocked and were afraid there was a burglar in it. Would we go and see if there was a burglar in it?

"Wasn't that a nice thing to ask us to do? Here I had to get out of bed, wake up the hired girl and the elevator man and the janitor and go look for that burglar in your flat! And after all the trouble he wasn't there.

"No, you'll never get such neighbors as we are again, such obliging, burglar hunting neighbors—never in the world!"

The Danger.

The busy man stopped before an office building and leaped from his carriage. At the same moment an ambitious urchin ran forward and piped:

"Hey, mister, kin I hold yer horse?"

"No, you can't!" snapped the busy man.

"Won't charge y' much," insisted the urchin.

"I don't care about the charge," impatiently responded the man, throwing a blanket over his bony steed. "My horse will not run away."

"Gee, mister, I didn't think he'd run away!"

"No?"

"No. I thought he might fall down."

You can go out to wear it, But you cannot wear it out.

SATURDAY NIGHT'S LIBERAL CAMPAIGN RALLY THE BIGGEST, THE BEST AND MOST ENTHUSIASTIC

Many Crisp, Neatly Pointed Speeches---Important Statements Respecting Lock Works---Presence of Outside Capital Explained---Reference to Opposition Slander And Abuse

THE MEETING WAS A PRESAGE OF VICTORY

The rally in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms on Saturday was the largest and most enthusiastic yet held. The rooms were crowded to listen to short but timely and telling addresses; the local speakers were manufacturers, professional men and farmers and the attention paid the applause extended to telling points indicated that the audience was in perfect sympathy with the sentiments expressed and the statements made. The feeling of the meeting was one of confidence and enthusiasm that presages a decisive victory for the Liberal candidate.

The chair was occupied by Mr. J. F. Thornton, who introduced the speakers with appropriate remarks, and comments practically clinching the points of the previous speaker.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum

was the first speaker of the evening. He referred to the great benefits that Peterborough had always derived when Mr. Stratton was in the Provincial House, and said there were as many reasons why he should be elected as there were streets in the city. Peterborough at the present time, in common with other cities and towns in Ontario, was rather quiet, and he felt that it was a poor time to have a change of Government, a bad time to swap horses. (Applause.) Sir Wilfred Laurier was the greatest statesman Canada ever had, not excepting Sir John MacDonald ,whom the speaker had the honour of supporting for a great many years. Everyone in Peterborough knew that Mr. Stratton had given good service to his constituency when he was in Parliament. He had gone to Parliament to represent the people, and everyone of his constituents knew how well he had done it. (Hear-hear.) The Conservative party also knew how well he had done it because they had never left him alone.—Nothing but abuse. But he was always the neighbour and the friend of every man in Peterborough, they all knew him, and it was the duty of everyone who had the welfare of the city and county at heart to send him to Ottawa with a majority that would forever silence his traducers. (Applause.) Mr. Meldrum then paid a tribute to Mr. R. R. Hall for his work on behalf of the constituency; he had never forgotten the interests of Peterborough. Mr. Kendry had not accomplished much. For all the benefit Peterborough had received from his representation he might as well not have been elected. He had sat in the cold shades of opposition. Mr. Stratton had done everything for his constituents and might be depended upon to do as much again. He had always given his help to everyone, whether Liberal or Conservative, whenever wanted. Mr. Meldrum said that it was not on account of politics that he was supporting Mr. Stratton, he was a Conservative, but because he believed it to be in the best interests of Peterborough. Peterborough was first with him. He believed that the independent vote of Canada was becoming greater every year. He believed the Independent voter of Peterborough would feel it to be in the best interests of the city to assist in rolling up such a majority as had never been seen before, and which would make them proud for the rest of their lives. (Applause.) He would like to see the Government complete the G. T. Pacific, the T. V. Canal—and the Hudson Bay Railway before going out of office.

Mr. F. D. Kerr

asked: "Is there one man, Liberal or Conservative, but knows in his heart that if the Hon. J. R. Stratton could do him a good turn at any time he is always ready and willing to do it"; and that, said Mr. Kerr, was without regard to whether the man had voted against him, or was just about to vote for him. It was something to look for in a representative; that every man in the riding knew that he could look on Mr. Stratton as a friend. (Applause.) Mr. Kerr than took up some points in Mr. Burnham's address, playfully criticising his opinion as to what could become of the country under the present Government. Mr. Burnham thought that we would be a happier people "without any form of Government," and "that education and religion" were losing their hold. (Laughter.) But the speaker pointed out that we were on the whole quite as happy, and indeed much more prosperous and happy, in 1908 as we were in 1896, before the Laurier Gavernment was returned to power, and that "our religion and education" had quite as strong a hold on us now as then. Then Mr. Burnham said, "let humanity have a chance." "Who was preventing humanity having a chance?" (Laughter.) Certainly, it was not Mr. Stratton, for when it came to giving men a chance, in the shape of keeping industries alive, and endeavoring to keep labouring men in work, he was as active a citizen in that regard as Peterborough had ever seen. (Applause).

Mr. T. M. Hunter, North Monaghan.

Mr. Hunter said that it afforded him and the people of North Monaghan very much pleasure to see Mr. Stratton again their candidate. He was sorry to see Mr. Hall drop out, as he had done noble work for the constituency, but he believed that Mr. Stratton was the man to carry that work on. Every man prided himself on the fact that he was able and willing to take off his coat, and assist in the development of a young country like Canada. The difference between Mr. Stratton and Mr. Burnham was that Mr. Stratton had taken off his coat and had done a good share of the work. Mr. Burnham had not done much, if anything except for himself and his case. He then referred to the abuse that had always been heaped upon Mr. Stratton, and aptly recalled a remark of the late Sir John Macdonald's to the effect that "you always saw the biggest sticks in the orchard lying beneath the best apple trees." Mr. Hunter spoke of the record of the Laurier Government and said that although a lot of slander had been talked of there was nothing discreditable that had been proved or attempted to be proved. A Ministey of Public Works in the Conservative Cabinet had had one and one-half million feet of lumber stolen from him in a single contract. There was nothing of the kind to be laid at the door of any of the present Ministers. To be sure, some of the officials in one of the Departments, who had been there before the Government came into power had been guilty of some offences, but they had been promptly investigated as soon as the Minister in charge discovered the irregularities. He felt with the other farmers in North Monaghan, that it would be a calamity to see the Government turned out at this stage, and thought that one way to help the development of the country was by everyone taking off their coats and electing Hon. J. R. Stratton to represent West Peterborough. Hon. Sidney Fisher had been a good man for the farmers. He was a practical man, not a brewer as they had had formerly.

Mr. Daniel Belleghem.

Mr. Belleghem referred to Mr. Stratton as the "war horse of West Peterborough" and expressed his pleasure at seeing so many of the young men of the town assisting him once more to victory. It was the young men who were going to make the business men of the future, and he was glad to see them making so good a start in looking after the welfare of the town. He referred to the work done by Mr. Stratton for the town, and contrasted it with the do-nothing policy of Mr. Burnham. He had received a copy of Mr. Burnham's address with a photo showing a smile. It was the first time he ever wore a smile that he had ever seen.

Mr. D. O'Connell.

Mr. O'Connell said that the issues upon which the people were to decide had been presented as completely and as fully as they could be. Sir Wilfred Laurier had presented the Liberal platform to the people in his speech at Niagara Falls, and surely no fair, unprejudiced man, who had been following the two leaders in their statements of policy, could fail to uphold the Liberal platform. He referred to the work that had been done by the Government in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and contrasted the benefit to the country in constructing the railway as is proposed by the present Government, with the method that was adopted by Sir John MacDonald in the building of the Canadian Pacific, when the Company was presented with hundreds of thousands—even millions—of acres of land and money. Everyone who felt that the work of building the Grand Trunk Pacific must be continued until completed, felt that it must be entrusted to the present Government. Mr. O'Connell said the Government had during the four years that Mr. Hall had been member for West Peterborough carried out a great many improvements which had been distributed throughout the riding. Mr. O'Connell concluded by an eloquent appeal to the electors to consider the best interests of the constituency and Peterborough, and roll up such a majority for Mr. Stratton as had never been seen before.

Mr. R. R. Hall.

Mr. R. R. Hall, was greeted with a hearty round of applause. He compared the merits of the two candidates, and the methods used by each in presenting the issues to the electors. The electors of Peterborough were not interested in the administration of the Home Life Association. Its welfare was in the control of the shareholders and policyholders of the Company. The "Review" had been making the most mean and despicable attacks possible in that regard. What were the facts? It was some time since the investigation had been held. Every shareholder of the Home Life knew the whole story, in all its details, and at the following annual meeting, when the officers of the Association were being elected, Mr. Stratton was re-elected president without a dissenting voice. Most of the Board of Directors who voted for him so unanimously were Conservatives. These shareholders and directors, who were practically his constituents so far as Home Life matters were concerned, completely exonerated him and the question was not one in which the electors of West Peterborough were interested and it was disgraceful to see a man's private business affairs discussed where it was impossible to get the full details presented. Mr. Stratton had always borne the best kind of a reputation in his business dealings and at ill became Mr. Burnham, without any record for doing anything to try and besmirch the reputation of a Peterborough man because he happened to be a political opponent. If there was any high motive actuating Mr. Burnham, it should have been presented to the people at an earlier date.

In dealing with Mr. Burnham's contention, in his address to the electors, that the reason men were idle in Canada was because others would do the work cheaper in Germany and Great Britain, and we allowed them to invade our markets while they kept us out of theirs. Mr. Hall showed that the statement was entirely without foundation. Canada charges a higher duty to-day against German goods coming in than under Conservative rule, because there is a surtax of 33 1-3 per cent. extra duty upon German goods, over and above the general tariff, because Germany does not treat Canada as favourably as the other nations. Our imports from Germany have only increased 38 per cent. in 12 years, while during the same time our exports to Germany have increased 210 per cent. We exported to Great Britain last year $39,500,000 more goods than we imported. Great Britain admits our goods free, and we charge a duty upon British goods coming in here. Mr. Burnham either did not know what he was talking about or was willing to deceive the electors.

Mr. Andrew McFarlane.

Mr. McFarlane said that it had been his proud privilege to vote for Mr. Stratton at all his elections. (Applause.) Not every elector could say that, but he believed that this time there were a great many ready and willing to support him who had never done so before. (Applause.) During the last week the people had been given a chance to contrast the policies of the two leaders, Sir Wilfred Laurier at Niagara Falls and Mr. Borden at Sherbrooke, and no one could deny that Sir Wilfred had carried off the honours. The Liberal leader had borne out all his statements by incontestable proofs as to the results of the Liberal policy. Mr. Borden had been most inconvincing, especially in his charges of incompetence, extravagance and corruption.. The records of his own party when in power would not bear investigation in that regard. When George E. Foster was Finance Minister he opposed the reduction of postage on ordinary letters from three cents to two cents, on the ground that the finances of the country would not stand it. The Liberal Government had come into power, and had carried out the reform, not only making a reduction on ordinary letters, but on newspapers, drop-letters, etc. What was the result? During the last year of Conservative rule the deficit in the Postoffice Department had been over $700,000. In 1907 the surplus shown by the Liberal Government, under its new policy, was $1,100,000. Mr. McFarlane said that reforms of this nature had been carried out and were still being carried out in other Departments, and he appealed to all the supporters of Mr. Stratton to send him to Ottawa with an increased majority to help the work go on. (Applause).

Mr. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton, on rising to close the speaking, and the meeting, was received with hearty and continuous applause. He would not detain them very long. He was glad to see that the committees had been working well during his enforced absence for business reasons. He had an engagement for an appointment in Toronto, and he would tell them a secret, but they must not say anything about it until it is definitely accomplished. For some months he had been in negotiation with outside capitalists with a view to increasing the capacity and output of the Peterborough Lock Works. This company is not looking for capital; it was able to obtain sufficient for all its requirements. What they were looking for was to enlist the interest and experience of those familiar for years with this branch of manufacture, so that there might be produced in Peterborough goods that were now imported from the United States. If we had the goods we could sell them. What was needed was to produce what the people wanted, and the selling would look after itself. What we wanted was to make in Peterborough a greater variety of the better class of goods. With a view to accomplishing this, negotiations have been in hand for some months. Gentlemen have been here on several occasions and examined the conditions. The yhad arranged an appointment with him (Mr. Stratton) on Friday in Toronto, which prevented his attendance at the exhibition, where Messrs. Sexsmith, Burnham, and Mr. Tanner were busy interviewing the electors. Mr. Stratton believed he had been better engaged than in mere handshaking, but there was plenty of time for handshaking for the next forty days. He hoped to see a sufficient number of electors in that time to give him a handsome majority. He had not been able to get down to the exhibition that day. He had not even had time to see many of the gentlemen who had called to see him, being occupied with the gentlemen who desired to co-operate in the proposed extension.

Lock Works Expansion.

He and Senator Cox and Manager Fortye had taken the gentlemen who proposed going into the expansion of the Lock Works on a tour of inspection of the plant. They were well satisfied with what they had seen, and with the goods manufactured. But the aim of the company was to go ahead. He (Mr. Stratton) had hesitated when the Board had given authority to erect new buildings, but he believed that if he had the matter to do over again he would put up the new buildings, as they would have to come sooner or later, and it looked to be sooner. The present manager, Mr. Fortye, had too much for one man to do. He is an excellent man, reliable in every way, and while business is quiet at present that condition is only temporary. The works could have been shut down last winter, but this was not done. It was preferred to keep the men employed during the cold winter months, and to give them a fishing spell in the summer. The stock that had accumulated during the dullness had been worked off, business was loooking up and mens active operations would begin within a short time.

The outside gentlemen referred to had been in the city during the day, and everything except a few minor details had been arranged, looking to the enlargement of the operations of the company to a great extent, and to the production of goods of a character not now made in Canada. (Applause.)

Mr. Stratton said he hoped from that time out to give that attention to the campaign which was to be expected from a candidate who had entered into a contest to win, and with their aid he was going to win. He had issued an address to the electors that day, and he hoped every elector would read it. It showed what Liberal administrations, with the aid of Liberal representatives, had accomplished for the city and county. Sometimes people's memories were defective and important matters were overlooked, and he thought it would be desirable to recall to memory some of the things that had been accomplished. This had been done in his address, which he briefly referred to, and which may be seen by reference to it.

Mr. Stratton stated that the campaign, so far as he was concerned, would not be made a campaign of abuse, but would be a discussion of the issues that should legitimately determine the choice of the electors. He hoped to be able to show before the campaign was concluded the many public reasons why he should be returned by a substantial majority.

Explanatory.

The Review and Mr. Burnham seemed to want to make this campaign turn on the business of the Home Life. The management of the Home Life was a matter among the directors, shareholders and policyholders, and as Mr. Burnham was not fortunate enough to have a place on the board of directors, or a share of stock, or a policy in the Association, the interest he was taking was very neighbourly and affecting—almost as as pathetic as his interest in labour conditions in his address to the electors. (Applause.) So far as he (Mr. Stratton) was concerned there was nothing to conceal. All these matters had been fully discussed by the shareholders at the annual meetings, and by the directors at the meeting of the board, and both were thoroughly satisfied with the amalgamation, and endorsed the course of action which the Review was now vainly trying to make a scandal of. While he was not in the habit of talking in public over his business affairs, circumstances made it advisable that he should take them into his confidence and give them the facts.

While he was Provincial Secretary, he was asked by a number of Conservative business men to take the presidency of the Peoples' Life Insurance Company. They were Mr. D. W. Karn, piano and organ manufacturer of Guelph, a strong Conservative; Mr. C. Kloepfer, a large manufacturer of Guelph, and at that time Conservative member for the Dominion House of Commons; the late Mr. T. P. Coffee, another Conservative, and other gentlemen who were also Conservatives, as was also the managing director. With the understanding that he would not be expected to devote much time to his duties, he (Mr. Stratton) accepted the presidency, but the company was not succeeding as he would have liked. As soon as he retired from the Provincial Secretaryship, Mr. Stratton took rooms at the King Edward Hotel, and the following morning took the chair of the President of the Peoples' Life. Within a very short time here was a change in every official of the company. A new Managing Director was appointed and under Mr. Stratton's presidency, $40,000 was saved to the company within the year. Mr. J. K. McCutcheon was appointed the Managing Director, and there were some additions to the board. Subsequently, the managing director began negotiations for the amalgamation of the Peoples' Life and the Home Life, a certain sum to be paid for certain stock of the Home Life. It was found that the President and Vice-President of the Home Life had salary contracts for a long period of years. It was agreed to commute these contracts by the payment of a lump sum. The negotiations were conducted by the solicitors of each company, acting for their respective boards. The commutation was figured out as life insurance is figured, on an actuarial basis, and everything was done in a legal and regular way, and ratified by the boards of the two companies. Then the question arose as to providing the money to provisionally complete the business of amalgamation. This matter was discussed and it was felt that everybody could not raise $90,000 on short notice, and he (Mr. Stratton) was in a position to come to the rescue and provide the money. This he did by raising $90,000 on his personal cheque. When he was made fully aware of what was being obtained for the $90,000 he declined to pay over that amount as had been agreed, believing it was $10,000 in excess of what he considered a fair and reasonable sum for the consideration involved. The sum of $80,000 was finally accepted by those acting for the Home Life. That was late on a Friday afternoon. When he, Mr. Stratton, had paid the $80,000 under the revised agreement, he had $10,000 of his own money, raised on his own cheque, in his own pocket. He deposited it on the following morning in the Bank of Montreal to his own credit. The Manager of the Peoples' Life knew the amount that was paid, the Directors knew the amount that was paid. Some of the Directors of the Home Life stated they were not conversant with all the doings, but that was before the new board had taken possession, and some of the Directors of the Home Life had resigned to make way for the proposed new board, which comprised some members of each of the old boards. The agreement as to the commutation, etc., was subsequently amended according to his (Mr. Stratton's) ideas, and $80,000 was the only amount involved in the final stage of the business, although the papers had been prepared for $90,000. Thus the amalgamated companies were saved $10,000 by the course he (Mr. Stratton) had taken. Business transactions of such magnitude are not completed in a day or a week,—it took time. The Royal Commission met in October, 1906. The evidence taken regarding all insurance companies was published broadcast in the press. The first annual meeting of the Home Life following the investigation was held in February, 1907. Representatives were invited from all over the country, including shareholders and policyholders. There was a large attendance. The details of the amalgamation and the affairs of the Company were fully discussed, and it was moved by Mr. J. C. Stevenson, capitalist, of Vancouver, B. C., seconded by Mr. McPhillips, one of the largest shareholders, of Toronto, both Conservatives,

"That the thanks of the shareholders and policyholders be extended to the Board of Directors, agents and officers of the Association for the successful work accomplished by them during the past year."

This resolution was carried unanimously.

The Home Life, prior to his (Mr. Stratton's) becoming president, had the lowest earning record for investments of any company. That was three years ago. Last year, through a change of methods of investment, and by economy in management, it stood fifth in the Government returns as to the earning power of its investments. At the next meeting is was moved by Rev. Mr. Gee, Methodist Minister, Brantford, a large shareholder, and seconded by Mr. D. W. Karn, owner of the Woodstock Express, Conservative journal,

"That in view of the excellent statement of the investments of the Association, and the business received, an honorarium be given the President for his services during the past year the amount to be $2,000."

This resolution was unanimously carried. Mr. Stratton said that it was to be remembered that he did not receive any stated salary from the Home Life, the shareholders at the annual meetings voting whatever amount they think to be a proper recognition of services rendered and work accomplished. It was also to be remembered that he did not receive from either the Peoples' Life or the Home Life or any other source, any amount in consideration of the risk he took in personally advancing $80,000 in the interest of both companies.

He had referred to the publication broadcast in the press of the evidence taken by the commission in the fall of 1906. Subsequently the Royal Commission issued its report with its comments, the most unfair, the most unjust and most biassed document he ever saw, not only to the Home Life but to the Canada Life, the Sun Life, the Manufacturers' Life, the Confederation Life, and other Life Companies. However,, he brought the matter of the report again to the attention of the shareholders at the following annual meeting, and where the facts were best known, and it was moved by Rev. Mr. Silcox, seconded by Mr. McPhillips,

"That the thanks of the shareholders and policyholders be extended to the President and Board of Directors, officers and agents, for the excellent work performed by them during the past year."

The resolution was carried unanimously.

It was subsequently moved by Rev. Mr. Hazlewood,

"That in view of the excellent statement of the condition of the Company, the President be given for his services during the past year, the sum of $2,000."

This resolution was carried unanimously.

Mr. Stratton said he might state, that at the meeting of 1907, the Hon. J. W. Longley, Minister of Justice, Nova Scotia, representing the shareholders from the Maritime Provinces, Mr. J. H. Spencer, capitalist, Medicine Hat, representing western shareholders, Mr. J. S. Hough, K.C. of Winnipeg, representing Manitoba, were at his (Mr. Stratton's) request, invited to be present at the last three annual meetings, to inspect the books and documents of the Company, which they did thoroughly, and expressed their entire satisfaction with everything. The Board of Directors invite each shareholder to look for himself if he chooses, into the affairs and management of the Company. Why there is nothing to hide from either Mr. Burnham or Mr. Kendry, nothing to prevent their examining the books. Mr. Stratton said he never controlled the stock of the Home Life, he didn't control policyholders or shareholders, but he had their confidence, as a result of the painstaking attention he had given to the affairs of the Company. He did not need to pay any attention to the criticisms of Mr. Burnham. It was purely a Home Life matter, a question that concerned the directors, shareholders and policyholders alone. If they were satisfied neither Mr. Burnham nor anybody else had any reason to complain. He (Mr. Stratton) had no control over the Board of Directors. They were free to act as they saw fit. The two vice-presidents of the Company were Conservatives. Eleven out of the fifteen directors were prominent Conservatives in their own localities; four of the five members of the Advisory Board were Conservatives. He held a number of important positions on various boards throughout Ontario. He held in trust for important persons various affairs of large magnitude, absolutely and solely matters of trust. The shareholders of the Peterborough Lock Company were not afraid to trust him with their cheque book; neither were the shareholders of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. In all the affairs and various business activities in which he was engaged he was surrounded by Conservatives and there was not a man of them but would say that all his dealings had been invariably honest and above board and in the best interests of those concerned.

Mr. Burnham had shown himself in this campaign to be willing to ignore the discussion of public issues, and confine himself to personal attacks. He was advanced to his present position on the Review for that purpose. Mr. Stratton said that so far as he was concerned he would pursue opposite tactics, he would ignore personal abuse and discuss public issues. He could see by the faces of his audience, by their applause and kindly reception, that their sympathies were with him in such a course, and he felt sure that they represented in this respect a large majority of the electors. He believed the workingmen, the business men, the farmers and other gentlemen of West Peterborough, would measure Mr. Burnham by the "walking" stick the Young Conservative Club had presented him with when he was leaving Peterborough a short time ago to learn high morals at the feet of Hon. Geo. E. Foster. No man should complain if the world measured him by his own yard stick. It might be hard but it was fair. (Applause).

The proceedings of a large and enthusiastic meeting closed with "God Save the King."

PETERBOROUGH INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION A SUCCESS; DIRECTORS DELIGHTED

appreciated, and in which they took a greater interest than is usually the case in connection with the judging. The work of the judges was watched with interest, and the spectators showed that they were with the officials by applauding the awards. The judging was apparently excellent and no fault was found with the decisions of the judges.

The programme was over in good time and at six o'clock the grounds began to put on a deserted appearance. Most of the exhibitors had taken away their property before that time, and the Midway people were folding their tents like the Arabs and taking their departure for hunting grounds somewhere else most of them leaving on the midnight train for Ottawa.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

It is a pleasure to be able to continue an extended reference to some of the more enterprising Special Exhibits at the Fair.

THE "SIMPLEX" LINK-BLADE CREAM SEPARATOR

The splendid record which the "Simplex" Separator has made for itself in Peterborough and surrounding district did not suffer because of the fact that the company were unable to make an exhibit at the Peterborough Industrial this year. This was the first time the "Simplex" has been missed from our Fair in many years, but it can well afford to rest on its laurels for one year. Mr. Geo. Gillespie, the district representative, who has been a Fair director for some years, was called upon to take a more active part in the Fair this year, and so could not personally represent his favourite "Simplex." But, if not on exhibition on the show grounds, it was doing good work all the time in the store of Messrs. White & Gillespie on George street, the city agency. Besides, the Fair grounds were well filled with "Simplex" advertising literature, so that it was kept well to the front, and the best points about the self-balancing, link-blade cream separater were not neglected. From one of the circulars it is seen that the self-balancing bowl and system of ball-centreing bearings possessed by the "Simplex" are still the chars by themselves. The mechanical balance of a cream separator is of the first importance, and that is why the "Simplex" has become so great a success wherever it is in use in farmhouses and dairy factories in Canada and the United States. The company are now making a 900-pound "Simplex," the demand for hand machines of large capacities being on the increase. All information respecting the "Simplex" will be afforded by Mr. Gillespie at the store of White & Gillespie, 336 George street.

MACPHERSON BROS. STOVE EXHIBIT AND ELECTRICAL DISPLAY

Stoves play an important part in the thoughts of housekeepers and others just now And the practical display of stoves made by Messrs. F. J. R. MacPherson &, Co., 341 George street, found a great deal of favour in the eyes of visitors. This firm made a fine exhibit of ranges and heaters, manufactured by the Guelph Stove Co. Limited. The catchy name which this company has given to their very handsome series of stoves is "Idea." It is claimed that wherever "Idea" stoves are sold, buyers have a guarantee that they will always be found as perfect as modern machinery and skill can make them, or money refunded.

The MacPherson Bros. seem to have been fortunate in getting the sale of these new "Idea" stoves in Peterborough. The display opened the eyes of prospective stove buyers, and visitors became infatuated on sight with the handsome styles shown. Mr. W. H. Faulkner, the well-versed travelling representative of the Guelph Company, was in attendance, and the crowds kept him busy demonstrating the special features and advantages of his stoves. Besides other excellent features, these ranges possess a valuable improvement in a "duplex draft," which materially assists in giving a more even draft to the back and front of the range. Then the firebox is large and roomy and has the improved duplex grate. A new wrinkle is the "pan lift" for toasting and boiling. It is a good feature by which all the front lids and centre-piece can be lifted up in one piece for any purpose desired. The large oven and good deep flues are valuable features. The nickle-plating on these stoves is quite elaborate and of a high character and gives them quite an ornamental appearance.

MacPherson & Co. also made a most beautiful display of electrical goods in which they are large dealers. Everything in lamps, electroliers, fixtures and novelties that is new and up to date were exhibited. It was one of the most brilliant and attractive displays in the main building.

A novel feature of this exhibit was the new electric smoothing irons, electric radiators, toasters, etc., manufactured by the Collier-Cunningham Company of this city.

THE EMPIRE CREAM SEPARATOR

Farmers and dairymen were much interested in the fine type of the Empire Cream Separator shown in the main building by Mr. Fred J. Doughty, the travelling representative. These separators are built in three styles, each one a high quality, efficient machine. They are: The Improved Frictionless Empire, The New Empire Star, and The Centre Feed Empire Disc. These separators are sold under the strongest guarantee. Local agents in all surrounding towns — the United Agency Company, George street, being the local dealers. Mr. Doughty's city address is 508 Bolivar street.

KITCHEN CABINETS, FARM, SCALES AND FARMING MILLS

Mr. Chas. F. McDonnell of Downer's Corners, Otonabee, was on the grounds as usual with his interesting display of the above articles. They consisted of the well-known Chatham Fanning Mill, Kitchen Cabinet, Farm Scales and Incubators manufactured by the Manson-Campbell Manufacturing Company of Chatham. The utility and usefulness of these articles were apparent at a glance, and are becoming so popular wherever introduced that Mr. McDonnell finds them excellent sellers. His postoffice address is Box 896, Peterborough.

ARE GIVEN COTTON SURPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cowie, Portersville, Cal., Married a Year—Receive Many Remembrances

FORMERLY OF PETERBORO

Many readers of the Examiner will remember Mr. H E Cowie, son of Mr. Wm. Cowie, city, and now located in Portersville, California. In connection with the cotton wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Cowie the Portersville Messenger, says:

When a couple have been married for a whole year, according to the old wedding anniversary custom, they enjoy their cotton wedding. It so happened that Mr. and Mrs. Cowie, the former the foreman in the Messenger-Enterprise office, had been married just 365 days on Friday, and the fact that Friday was their wedding anniversary had been treasured by some good friends for many weeks that a surprise might be worked on the estimable couple and especially upon Mrs. Cowie.

The word was cautiously passed around and about 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, a long line of ladies was seen to assemble at the Cowie home on Hockett street, each carrying a bundle containing a cotton token for the bride.

Some brought muslin by the yard, while others brought sheets, pillow cases, handkerchiefs, napkins, aprons, thread, crochet cotton, and in fact anything and everything that even looked like cotton. Mrs. Cowie met them at the door and they literally loaded her down with parcels. As they departed, the large dining room table was left filled to overflowing with the tokens of their best wishes. The surprise was complete, since it was so arranged that Mrs. Cowie and Mrs. B L Carpenter were to go calling and while they were discussing whether or not it was too warm or no, the surprise was sprung.

While the surprise was planned for Mrs. Cowie in particular, it would be a hard matter to celebrate a wedding anniversary without the groom and a telephone message was sent to the printing office for Mr. Cowie. Thinking that the good wife wanted a loaf of bread for supper, the genial foreman swiped a "gob" of ink from his chin with his shirt sleeve and responded to the hello.

"Hello, Hello!" shouted Mr. Cowie, as he placed his lips to the rubber. Before he had time to receive an answer, his face took on a look of suspicion and he remarked, "What in—Hello, Hello, Yes this is me. I Want me down there? Yes I guess so, But say,—who—Yes, I'll be down in a minute if it's necessary."

Mr. Cowie hung up the receiver as he remarked, "There is certainly something doing down there at my house from the noise that I heard over the 'phone. Guess the house must be full of women." He removed his apron and left the office. An hour or so later he returned and judging from the smile he wore, he had evidently been given a royal reception.

The presents were numerous and useful now, and some of them will be useful in the future. In fact, the time limit on one article was marked to expire seven years hence.

Remembrances and best wishes also were received from a number of others who could not be present.

HUNTING NUMBER OF ROD AND GUN

Season Now in Sight—Some of Special Features

The eve of the big game hunting season brings the ever welcome Fall Hunting Number of ROD AND GUN AND MOTOR SPORTS IN CANADA, published by W J Taylor, Woodstock, Ont. This year the budget of stories is more varied than ever and include, not only moose and deer hunting, but also fox, bear, wolves, etc. A paper by John Arthur Hope on "The Red Deer or Wapiti and the Virginian or Common Red Deer of North America," will be read with interest by every sportsman, whether he is a big game hunter or a nature student simply. Fishermen, canoeists, campers, mountaineers and others will find that they are not forgotten, for although hunting has the pride of place, which is quite in keeping with the period of the year, the many sportsmen who are not big game hunters, may depend upon a variety which takes note of the fact that sportsmen have many tastes and are not all absorbed in one pursuit. Those, however, who are not big game hunters, may enjoy the many excellent stories dealing with this fine sport which appears in this capital number.

A Special Festival Sale At The Barracks To-night

Donations Received By Salvation Army Will be Disposed Of—The Festival Service Yesterday

BRIGADIER POTTER HERE

The preparation for the harvest festival at the Salvation Army barracks this year have been carried out probably better than ever before and the result so far has been most gratifying to the officers in charge, Staff Captain Goodwin and Captain Maisey. On Saturday evening and throughout Sunday the services were of a special thanksgiving nature, and were conducted by Brigadier Potter of the staff at headquarters, Toronto.

The Examiner paid a visit to the barracks yesterday and was surprised by the appropriate design that has been followed in all the work. The products of the field and the orchard, of the woods and the carefully kept flower plot are tastefully arranged about the hall. Staff Captain Goodwin with excellent effect has arranged the front in artistic and striking manner. The usual railing is replaced by a white rail fence with two gates. One is noticeably smaller than the other. On the former is written this passage—"Enter ye in at the straight gate," on the wider, these words are found, "Keep this gate shut, wide is the gate to destruction." The fence is painted white, and the lettering is in red, and is very appropriate in its suggestion.

The display of fruits and vegetables, grains and flowers is a splendid one and won very favourable comment from all those who attended the services. The mottoes on the walls are as follows "Make ready for God's Harvest Home, "Be Ready when His Reaper comes," "The earth is the Lord's," "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

Sale of Goods

To-night there will be a sale of the goods which have been donated for the Festival. These not only include the fruits, vegetables, etc., but also many household effects. The merchants have been quite generous in some cases and there is consequently a large amount of soap, biscuits and many useful things which will appeal to the women. Staff Captain Goodwin has completed all the arrangements for to-night and many changes have been made. Booths have been prepared in which fancy goods will be sold, also ice cream, candies and practically everything which was donated for the Festival.

A BRYAN SCARE IN WALL STREET

Financial Review For the Past Week—The Iron and Steel Markets

THE CORPORATIONS SUFFER

Examiner Special

New York, Sept. 21.—Wall street got a fit of nerves during the week just ended. Following the Vermont election came the election in Maine, where the Democrats gained 23 per cent. The Democrats of New York nominated for Governor a strong man and E H Harriman and James J Hill publicly stated that the great danger to the Republicans was the apathy all through the West. This was too much for speculators and they began selling stocks, so that for a few days it looked very much as if the panic days of last October and November had returned. The stock market lost five points on an average and losses of 6, 8 and 10 points in individual issues were common. The market had been advancing steadily for three months with hardly any reaction and the big men who bought stocks at low figures began selling quickly to take profits. Trading during the decline was unusuually heavy both on the New York and the Consolidated Stock Exchanges. There was plenty of good news, but the fear of Bryan overshadowed these developments.

Statisticians were busy during the week with the farm products of 1908. A careful analysis was made by several men with national reputations and the values of the products of farms of the county were figured out to dollars and cents. One expert shows the value of the leading field crops to be $4,427,300,000 or a little under our other products and finds their value to be $4,010,000,000, making the combined totals $8,437,300,000. With such wealth produced by the farms of the country, the greatest in the history of America, prosperity is certain to return.

A study of the conditions of the iron and steel markets show that during the week there was slight improvement, but not as great as for the week previous. This is due to the growing uncertainty as to the outcome of the Presidential election. There is also a growing fear that there will be tariff agitation later on. This also unsettles business. This time however, the tariff will be handled as a business and economical proposition and not as a political asset.

Equipment companies received a number of additional orders for cars, engines and structural steel during the week and as a result several shops of different concerns which have been closed were started up and about 5,000 additional men put back to work. The railways are showing more willingness to buy and as they spend millions each year there will be more work for the great army of the unemployed.

The coal roads have lost their fight in the Federal Court at Richmond which decided that railways must give all shippers the same transportation facilities whether it owns all or only part of the cars it carries. The decision of the State Supreme Court in Minnesota upholding the constitutionality of the thirty-six year old freight maximum law which had been forgotten for years is also cited as showing that corporations cannot expect decisions their way all the time.—J. R. Burtch.

MANY GRASS FIRES ON SUNDAY

Brigade Have Several Successful Runs —Blazes All Small

The fire brigade had a busy time yesterday afternoon running after grass fires in different parts of the city. The country is so dry that a burning match or a cigar stub is sufficient to start a blaze almost anywhere. The first alarm was sounded about ten minutes after two o'clock to a small grass fire near the sawdust pile on the Ashburnham side of the river and fifteen minutes later another alarm was sent in from the G. G. E. A grass fire had started in that neighbourhood, and had caught on to a fence but the brigade arrived before much damage was done. About a quarter after four o'clock a third alarm for a grass fire on Charlotte street, west of Pearl avenue, was sounded and the brigade had to turn out again. The firemen and horses had lots of exercise and practise, but people should be particularly careful just now where they throw burning matches and cigar stubs or any fire. The fire brigade was given a midnight call last night. It was just a few minutes after twelve o'clock when an alarm from the corner of Smith and George street was sent in.

LARGE FUNERAL OF MR. R. Q. DENCH

Held to the Hillside Cemetery on Sunday Afternoon—The Pall Bearers

The funeral of the late Mr. R. Q. Dench, of Douro, took place from his residence on Sunday, September 20th, at 2.30 p. m. The funeral was under the auspices of Lodge Clementi, No. 313, A. F. and A. M., Lakefield, of which the deceased gentleman was a Past Master. He had also, for many years been the valued secretary of the lodge and the esteem in which he was held was evidenced by the large number of brethren who attended the funeral to pay their last respects to his memory. After a short preliminary ceremony at the house the funeral cortege was formed and proceeded to St. John's Church, where the impressive burial service of the Church of England was conducted by Rev. W. J. Creighton, rector of the church. At the conclusion of the service the procession re-formed, and proceeded to the Hillside Cemetery, Douro, where the Masonic ritual was conducted by the Worshipful Master Rev. A. W. Mackenzie.

The pall bearers were: W. Bro. W. H. Casement, W. Bro. J. R. Fraser, W. Bro. F. J. Lillicrap, Bro. H. Garbutt, Bro. F. J. Moore, Bro. E. R. Tate, W. Bro. Kelly, acted as marshal.

The following brethren from Peterborough were present at the funeral: R. W. Bro. H. Walkey, R. W. Bro. R. Munro, R. W. Bro. Mulholland, W. Bro. W. Stocker, Bro. R. Dutton, Bro. J. J. Turner, Sr., Bro. H. Nesbitt, Bro. W. R. Morris.

Bros. Turner and Mulholland attended the funeral as representatives of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, of which the deceased was a member, Bro. Turner being D. D. G. M. of the order, and Bro. Mulholland the master of the local lodge.

DISTURBED BY SNORES OF BITTERN

Was Sleeping Alone at Robinson's Island When Rudely Awakened

On Robinson (Crusoe's) Island, some three or four miles down the Otonabee, there is an unpretentious wooden structure which is used by several bankers of this city for camping purposes. One of the party, it is related, was sleeping alone at this resort when he was awakened by a loud, steady snore which seemed to be close to the shack. Out of curiosity or something else, the man who was doing the Crusoe act, got up, lighted a lantern, and went outside. The result of his searching was that he found that the snores were produced by a bittern which was sleeping on an old box.

Some time later the lonely banker was disturbed by a sound that suggested that someone was stealing his canoe. It was simply another false alarm. It is learned that the original resident of the isle does not think as much of his unaccompanied visits over night to the cosy little shack half hidden among the cedars on the Otonabee side of the river.

HOW A WOMAN BOUGHT THE APPLES

Walked Away When Farmer Refused to Lower Price but Returned to Buy.

It was simply another manifestation of the innate characteristic of her sex. She was one of the many women who were purchasing supplies at the market Saturday morning. She was pricing a bag of St. Lawrence apples and showed that she was eager to have them. The obstinate farmer refused to lower his original price of sixty cents a bag, even though the young woman affectedly suggested that fifty cents was plenty, and that in particular cases he could easily make a reduction. She walked away simulating that she did not want the apples anyway. Ten minutes hadn't passed when she came back to the same farmer and gave an order for a bag. The market is one of the places where the average woman gives evidence of a few of the traits of her character.

SUCCESS

A Kansas woman, Mrs. A J Stanley, of Lincoln, has been awarded a prize of $250 by a Boston firm for the best answer to the question, "What constitutes success?" She wrote: "He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others, and given the best he had; whose life is an inspiration; whose memory a benediction."

Our Fall Suits Are Masterpieces of Fashion Fit and Fabric Beauty

THERE are three prime essentials to consider in the purchase of the New Fall Suit: Fashion, Fit and Fabric. Each is important and gets the scrutiny of every particular buyer.

In choosing our stock of New Fall Suits we carefully examined the samples of scores of Canada's best tailors, and selected only those that met with our rigid and exacting requirements of what Fashion, Fit and Fabric should be; and when the suits arrived we examined each individual one fully and severely.

The Result:—

Our showing thoroughly mirrors the most approved style ideas with scores of original, striking and becoming models. Ours are the Aristocrats of the Fall Fashionables. Perfectly proportioned and made in a unique system of sizes, a fit for every figure is here. The fabrics are of the latest colourings, all wool and shrunk before being made up.

AND AS FOR PRICE: The best Suit values we ever offered or you ever purchased are here at from $15.00 to $50.00. See them.

Hard Times Blown to The Winds

People have become tired of the hard times scare, they have found that the reality has not presented itsely in such stern proportions as they had been made to believe it would—like every other scare it has blown over and people have begun to feel easier. Well they may, for no more prosperous times ever faced a people than is now facing Canada. Never in the history of this store have we made greater preparations for the Autumn and Winter trade, than we have made for the present—never during our business career in Peterborough has any season opened up with greater activity than have the past weeks done. Especially is this noticeable in our large Homefurnishing Department. Our stock is in the best condition now and the Daily Sales show an increase over all other years. We feel confident of greater business this year than ever, and the public generally feel the same. Furnish your home with any new Carpets, Rugs, Curtains, Draperies, etc., that you need while our stock is complete. Come and see our beautiful showing in Art Rugs for all size of rooms

MONUMENT UNVEILED YESTERDAY

AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

The unveiling of a monument to the memory of the late Dr. Bradd by the members of Sherwood Forest Camp, Woodmen of the World, was impressively carried out at the Little Lake Cemetery yesterday. Over one hundred members of the order took part in the ceremony. The Woodmen met at their hall on Hunter street yesterday afternoon at about 2.30, and marched in procession to the cemetery. At the grave a large number of citizens had gathered to show honour to the memory of the dead. Upon arrival at the grave the Woodmen gathered round the plot, and the impressive and interesting unveiling ceremony in honour, respect and memory of the departed was begun. The musical part was furnished by the George Street Methodist Church quartette and they rendered several selections.

Sovereign Cinnamon, of Lindsay, head advisor lieutenant for Eastern Ontario, delivered a most interesting and impressive address, referring to the opportunities for doing good which the living have, and which cease at death so far as life here is concerned. He pointed out how careful one should be that no word was spoken or no deed done which would give offence to our friends. He also urged all to follow the straight path, and to glory in doing God's work and in loving his fellow man.

Others who assisted in the ceremony were:—Manager Taylor, of Brantford; Jas. Kyle, treasurer of the local camp; Clerk Haskel and Council commander Wm. Aitcheson and W. J. Johnston, of Forest Camp.

After the ceremony the Woodmen formed in procession and returned to their lodge rooms.

The monument was manufactured and erected by Coughlin Bros., Hunter street.

Music and Drama

ALL THE COMFORTS OF A HOME

The play of the above name is a four-act comedy written by Mr. Wm. Gillette, the eminent American playwright, known chiefly in this country through his dramatization and acting of the famous Sherlock Holmes of Mr. Doyle. "All the Comforts of Home" is considered by the leading critics of two continents to be the greatest work that Mr. Gillette has turned out and it will be produced by local talent in the Grand Opera House, Peterborough, the last part of October in aid of the Peterborough Hockey Club, of which Mr. C. G. Graham is president, and Mr. Fred Craig secretary. Irving Beers, a well-known professional, who produced the piece with marked success in Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg, will direct the coming production and play a principal role. The company is now organizing, and rehearsals will commence the latter part of this week. There are eighteen principals in the cast and no pains will be spared to make it a great success.

Children's EYES

Need the most careful and persistent attention. Early headaches and other troubles frequently emanate from defective eye-sight, which in itself, may have originated in early neglect of the eyes. The trouble is, parents seldom know their children's eyes are weak until it is too late.

School will be opened shortly, you had better bring your children to us, as we make a specialty of examining the eyes of the young and fitting them with the proper lenses.

DREAM OF WARKWORTH YOUTH

Charged Two Men With Putting Him in Hot Oven

Crown Attorney W F Kerr, Cobourg, was in Warkworth last week, investigating a village sensation. A young boy of that place charged two men with putting him in a bake oven, and giving him an idea of "Hell and its Comforts." He produced burnt shoes, clothing, etc., but the opinion of the Court was that he was a full fledged follower of Ananias and the case was dismissed. The boy had evidently burnt them himself, and imagination did the rest.

FATHER BRINGS SON TO POLICE FROM BARRIE

John Dougherty, a young boy, was arraigned at police court on Saturday on a charge of being implicated with young Fallon in the robbery at "Castlenock," the residence of Mrs. Dennistoun, some days ago. At the time of Fallon's arrest the police were looking for Dougherty, but he managed to escape from the house and went to Barrie, Ont. His father learning of this whereabouts went after him and bringing him back to Peterborough turned him over to the authorities. This morning he was allowed to go on the promise of himself, and his father, that he would appear on Friday morning.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Beasfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a gr. t advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative capacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, and the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,892,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion.

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

HASSAN ABDALLAH ARRIVED TO-DAY FOR BOUT WITH GENE; IS AN ATTRACTION IN MONTREAL

Hassan Abdallah, the world famous wrestler has arrived in the city today, and as the Sultan's royal wrestler, will be assured a royal reception. Even in a large city like Montreal, his unique Eastern attire is a thing of wonder to the pedestrians. Wherever he goes, in his hotel or on the streets, he is the "man of the moment." He has established himself a great favorite in the gymnasiums where he is doing his training, being of a quiet disposition and taking knocks and bangs just as if they were a regular necessity of life. When he comes along here he will be assured of generous treatment by the management, and if he can win (and he appears to not even consider it anything but a "try-out") or if he loses, it will be all the same. "If Gene Hurtubise can beat Hassan Abdallah," writes Manager Naylor, "I shall be the most surprised man in Canada. I know he went nearly an hour with Yankee Rogers as Mohl did, and a lot longer than a great deal of wrestlers have gone with "Yank," but that does not alter the fact that Gene is yet untried. Probably his worst fault is that he so soon lost his temper in his match with Rogers and wanted to fight on the mat. In the States or England he would have been disqualified for that alone. He has to learn to take his medicine and give it back in full. That is the way. I think Hassan will beat him easily. If he doesn't, and with what I know of the Turk, I would be prepared to state that Gene Hurtubise can beat the best of them wherever they are. He may be the "green diamond" we are all looking for, and I will say I would as soon see a Peterborough man at the top of the list as anyone else. Gene, personally, is one of the best boys you could wish to meet, and is just the kind of man I would like to handle and make a champion of."

Road Races At Williamston, Lindsay And Beaverton Fair; Local Athletes Are Wanted

Road races are becoming common throughout Ontario, three more being announced to take place within the next three weeks. A Glengarry Marathon race of six miles under the auspices of Glengarry A. A. A. will be run at Williamstown on Thursday, Sept. 24. It is under the sanction of the C.A.A.U. and there are ten valuable trophies, the first being a silver cup valued at $100. The secretary-treasurer is Dr. A. D. Falkner.

At Lindsay Fair

A four-mile Marathon road race is to take place on Saturday, Sept. 26, which is one of the days of the Lindsay Central Exhibition. The first prize is a $25 gold watch and the second a $15 silver watch. Entries will be received by Secretary Jas. Keith up to 12 noon on Sept. 26. For further particulars of them two races the hand bills may be seen at the Examiner office.

Beaverton Race

On Wednesday, Oct. 7, a ten-mile road race will be run at Beaverton which the following letter to a local man will explain:

Our ten-mile annual road race will be run over our course here on Wednesday, Oct. 7, and we would like to have Fred Simpson among the contestants. Do you think he could come up that day? Our entry blanks are not out yet, but will be on Monday or Tuesday next. This race is with the sanction of the C.A.A.U., and registered men only will be allowed to compete. The first prize is a beautiful silver cup suitably engraved, and second, third and fourth men will receive silver medals suitably engraved. Kindly let me hear from you.

ALEX C. KAY,
Secretary, Athletic Club.

P.S.—Our course is a measured one and the roads are fine.

THE PROPER GIVING OF THANKS

Splendid Address Given by Archbishop of Rupertsland at St. Luke's Church on Sunday

THE SPIRIT PREDOMINATING

The spirit of the true thanksgiving was the subject of an able and inspiring sermon at St. Luke's Church Sunday morning by his Grace the Archbishop of Rupert's Land the Most Reverend S. Matheson, D.D His Grace is on his way to the meeting of the General Synod at Ottawa and remained over in Peterborough to visit friends. A large congregation heard this eloquent speaker and his remarks were listened to with great earnestness.

Previous to announcing his text he thanked the rector of St. Luke's for his kind invitation to preach again to his congregation. He had intended to speak on the Pan-Anglican Conference, which he had attended, but owing to the annual harvest festival being so near at hand, he decided that a few remarks on the subject of thanksgiving would be most appropriate.

Choosing for his text the words of the 17th verse of the 17th chapter of St. Luke's gospel, "And Jesus, answering, said, were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?" his Grace pointed out what a blessing it was to give thanks, referring to the fact that Canada had much to be thankful for. The bountiful yield of the fruits of the earth and the return of commercial prosperity during the past year called for some grateful recognition by God's people.

The two most pleasurable feelings a person can have, the archbishop said, are when a man expresses gratitude and when he gives something which probably has cost him self-sacrifice. Both of these gave pleasure. When something is given it is an evidence of the gratitude of the heart. The speaker said at the annual harvest thanksgiving an opportunity would be given to thank God in a tangible way.

He regretted the fact that the day set apart did not come earlier in the season, thus making it necessary to hold harvest festivals when the church could be decorated with the fruits and flowers of the field. The flowers spoke messages of God's love. In the archbishop's diocese a splendid service is held on Thanksgiving Day. "If there was the proper sentiment in this Dominion," said the speaker, "what a beautiful thing it would be to celebrate the day as a nation returning thanks to God for His manifold blessings."

His Grace the Archbishop next spoke of the propriety of giving thanks. He said it was proper as an antidote against this materialistic age. "People are very wise nowadays and they think they can depend upon the material. They forget that God is behind everything. He referred particularly to his people of the northwest. They spoke of Canada's fertile lands with their millions of dollars' worth of grain, and forgot God. But when that terrible enemy, frost, threats and them they were reminded of the Giver of all good things, and on Sunday prayers were offered for good crops, and the churches were filled with people. The materialistic spirit pervaded the world.

There were many reasons to be thankful. The fruits of the country had been given in abundance and commercial prosperity was returning. The archbishop urged his hearers to come and tell God they are thankful and to live it out in their lives. The last thing is to give a gift. He thought it was noble for the congregation of St. Luke's to give to something outside their own church and on Wednesday they would give the offering to Northwest missions. There was no part in the world where there was a better opportunity of planting the church among white people. It is an opportunity unsurpassed, but it will only last a short time. It is for the people of the East to give assistance in establishing churches in the West.

The archbishop assisted in the evening service, and the rector, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, delivered the sermon.

DEAD BODY FOUND FLOATING IN TORONTO BAY MAY HAVE BEEN THAT OF ALBERT HARDING

Toronto, Sept. 22.—Special.—The body of a man, about fifty years of age, lies at the new morgue awaiting positive identification.

The body was taken from the slip at the foot of York street, where it was floating about. The police believe that it is that of Albert Harding, of Berks, England. Several letters, addressed to Albert Harding, from England, to the Royal Hotel, Bobcaygeon, and the National Hotel, Peterborough, led to the conclusion that the man had travelled considerably of late. Several of the letters were from a sister in Berks, and from their references deceased had apparently been in ill-health and despondent. Two silver watches and $4 were in his possession. A return ticket to Bobcaygeon, dated Sept. 11th, pointed to the probability that the man reached here a week ago. As the body had been in the water about that length of time, it is supposed to be a case of suicide.

The police are endeavouring to secure other evidence for identification.

Many Harvesting Scenes In West Along C.P.R. Route

Mr. J. J. Howden Returns From a Trip to Pacific Coast—He Was Accompanied by His Wife—Saw Large Canneries at Mouth of Fraser River

HE VISITED FERNIE, TOO

Mr. J. J. Howden, accompanied by his wife, has recently returned from an extended visit to the Pacific Coast, in the completion of which he has spent the last six weeks. Mr. Howden, like many others before him, speaks very highly of the opportunities that are presented on every hand and believes that the vast country will soon be asserting itself to its limit.

One of the most interesting phases of western life which Mr. Howden was fortunate in seeing, was the fisheries at the mouth of the Fraser River. This year the catch will be considerably lighter than usual but the canneries are busy with the work. On the return home there were many scenes of harvesting and general activity in this respect was noticeable all along the line. It is a fact that three or four farmers will club together and purchase a threshing outfit of their own, also helping each other in the actual work. Frequent signs of this were evident.

The overcrowding of men in the larger towns is quite noticeable to the traveller. At Regina and Moosejaw they were being fed to the number of one hundred a day in each of these places, and elsewhere the same story was told. They were given the privilege of sleeping in the waiting rooms of the C. P. R. The western cattle are being brought in from the fields in fine condition, and on the markets are bringing fine prices. In fact, are much better than those in the east.

Fund For Shingling The Roof Is Fast Increasing

Staff Captain Goodwin and Captain Maisey are meeting with success in their Harvest Festival work, and a fairly large sum has already been received. It is their intention to secure enough money to cover the expenses of shingling the roof and providing the winter's fuel. Of course, the money received at this time is divided into two equal parts, one of which goes to headquarters for the relief of these officers who are stationed at poorer posts. The other half goes to the local corps. The sale of goods last night was very successful, some $50 being received. The officers desire to thank all those who have assisted them in making a success financially, and otherwise of the Harvest Festival.

The last meeting will be held on Thursday evening for the benefit of the young people's work, and another pleasant time is promised.

New Hose And Controllers Received At The Fire Hall

Chief Howard is wearing a happy smile to-day for the equipment of the hall has been augmented and improved by the arrival of the 500 ft. of Paragon hose which was ordered by the department. He has also four new controlling nozzles which he states will prove their value to the public before they have been used many times. They are so constructed that they will throw a solid stream or a spray. The latter is of advantage in a household, dry goods store, etc., where the water is needed but in such a quantity that no loss will not be suffered through a deluge of water. The water can even be shut off at the nozzle which operates like some of the common lawn hose in general use.

The reporter asked if shutting off the water in this way would not injure the hose. The Chief replied, "No, why this hose is made to withstand 400 lbs. pressure and the pressure of the water flowing throughout under ordinary circumstances cannot be more than 50 or 60 lbs."

PRICE OF MILK ADVANCES ONE CENT PER QUART TO-MORROW

To-morrow morning the price of milk in Peterborough will be raised to seven cents per quart. The milk dealers held a meeting last night at which the majority of them were present, and decided upon the advance of one cent per quart in view of the shortage in the supply and the cost to them. The prevailing dry weather has been the cause, as the grass has almost disappeared.

TEA ROOM TO BE OPENED BY THE KING'S DAUGHTERS

The King's Daughters will on October 1st next open tea rooms in the old Bank of Montreal buildings, situated at the corner of Water and Simcoe streets. The rooms will be cosily and attractively fitted up, tea will be served from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and the ladies in charge will do everything in their power to make their guests comfortable and eager to pay a return visit.

Peterborough is large enough to warrant the establishment of such a delightful accommodation as these cosy tea rooms will furnish. They represent a boon which will be appreciated especially by ladies, who, on their down-town visits, after the fatigues of shopping, will welcome a place where they may meet to enjoy a chat and a cheering cup of tea in pleasant surroundings. It is hoped that the tea rooms will be appreciated and well patronized, not only for the convenience and comfort they will afford, but also on account of the fact that the public favour will aid the King's Daughters in extending the already large scope of their benefactions.

RUG RETURNED BEFORE THE INK HAD DRIED

Dr. Gray, who lost a valuable buggy robe last week is wearing smiles on having it recovered. A "lost" ad, was inserted in the Examiner a couple of days later and as Dr. Gray himself remarks, "the ink couldn't have been dry on the paper before it was brought to his home." "Why," he said, "the man who found it left it at my residence before I saw the paper." His name was "Welch" or "Walsh," and as Dr. Gray was absent at the time he desires him to call and receive a reward for his honesty, for which he is to be commended.

—A local cattle dealer who was back in Harvey yesterday states that there have been several copious falls of rain in the past few days and the country is thereby showing evident good results. The roads are in fine condition and there is little dust.

Gospel Hall Congregation Has Had Most Successful Series This Summer

The summer series of open air meetings, under the auspices of the Gospel Hall congregation, was brought to a close on Sunday night, when a most successful meeting was held in Central Park. The series, which commenced in June last, have proved very beneficial and have been largely attended. They have been held every Sunday night after the churches were dismissed, and have been very popular with the citizens.

LITTLE CANADIANISM.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Review, which reflects the personal opinions or fancies of the Conservative candidate, who writes the political end of its contents, denounces the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway as an injury to Ontario—it will decrease the value of farm lands in Ontario. The building of this railway is to increase the facilities of transportation and open up new lands to settlement and wheat growing in the West. It will extend the wheat belt 100 miles North, across 900 miles of the Northwest and will be the means of giving homes to millions and doubling and trebling the wheat out-put. Opposition to this enterprise is petty politics, short-sighted and unpatriotic, hostile to the best interests of Ontario. Everybody who sees beyond his own nose, (appreciates the intimate relation there is between the western wheat crop and the prosperity of the East. The temporary depression that fell upon the country largely through the failure of the Western wheat crop of last year, is being removed by the great crop of this year, a crop of such magnitude that its disposal will pour sixty million dollars into the current of Canadian trade. One may well doubt the political sanity of a man who, to push the petty interests of his candidature among the unthinking will assume a position of hostility to the tremendous interests of the country as involved in the development of its resources. Canada has no use for Little Canadians, in parliament or any other position where they can give any sort of effect to their unpatriotic littleness.

GOOD MANAGEMENT

A prominent United States capitalist has just returned from a trip over the Canadian Pacific Railway. Speaking in reference to its prosperity, he says: "Its sources of income are remarkably diversified, and everything it operates pays, because of good management." There's the key-note—"good management." Good management is an essential to success in railway management, the management of national affairs, or the management of the affairs involving the interests of a riding, by a parliamentary representative. The Canadian Pacific Railway is a case in point. The Dominion of Canada is another. When the Laurier Government took charge of the affairs of Canada in 1896 everything was down—going wrong. There was no progress, there was no buoyancy of trade, but under good management — efficient administration — everything came our way. Canada has never had twelve such years of growth, prosperity and progress as have been experienced from 1896 to 1908. Canada has thrived under good management, and it would involve a tremendous risk to change the managers now, and turn the national concern over to the old board of directors, who made so sad a muddle of the business for a good part of the eighteen years in which they held office. No; we must, to insure a continuance of good management, retain the Liberal Government in power; we must retain the rulers who have proved their ability. We have had good management of the interests of West Peterborough for four years from a representative point of view. We have now to choose between candidates in order to insure a continuance of good live representation. We have to make choice between a man who for a score of years made one of the most alert, watchful and successful members West Peterborough ever had and a man who has never done anything to speak of to advance the material interests of the city or riding and gives no promise of usefulness in a representative capacity, but on the other hand is opposed to progress, opposed to improving our transportation facilities, and building up and peopling the great West in the interests of the whole of Canada. Shall we hesitate a moment as between the man of deeds, of proved ability, and the man who contents himself with theories and speculative propositions? Canada needs a continuation of "good management" of her affairs; West Peterborough demands a continuation of "good management" of her local interests; and the electors know how to retain both.

The Toronto News places emphasis on the fact of the increase of attendance at Normal Schools, as a proof of the wisdom of the policy of the Whitney Government. It is a proof that teacher-students, with the Model Schools closed, had nowhere else to go. The records of attendance do not enlighten us as to the number of poor, but clever, students debarred by lack of means from attending a Normal School at a distance, who would have been able to attend a Model School near their homes.

REVERSIBLE.

Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative party is adept at changing his base—anything for office. He has been denouncing the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway enterprise as a mad folly that would swallow up 200 millions of the people's money. He now declares, for the sake of getting office, that he is willing to complete this mad folly, the Grand Trunk Pacific, if given the opportunity. A year ago in a public speech, Mr. Borden denied positively that he wrote a letter to Mr. Hugh Graham of the Montreal Star, as Mr. Graham stated he did on oath, in which letter Mr. Borden urged Mr. Graham to be careful not to send instalments of the corruption fund of which he had charge, to men prominent in the Conservative party. Speaking in Montreal on Saturday Mr. Borden admitted that Mr. Graham would not say anything untrue, sworn or unsworn—practically admitting the truth of Mr. Graham's sworn statement as to Mr. Borden's instructions concerning the distribution of corruption funds. Mr. Graham's memory may have been at fault, as his explanation.

CONDITIONS CHANGED

Conditions have changed from Conservative days, under the Liberal Administration, in the eyes of the British public and British financiers. The Financial News, of London, England, of September 17th, discussing the Canadian Government's expenditures says that "Canada is justified in spending with a lavish hand for necessary public purposes. Referring to Sir Wilfrid's control of Dominion affairs, it says that under his guidance the country has emerged for all time from the agricultural, commercial and industrial depression wherein it had been plunged, and that his expressed desire to finish the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific is no mere electioneering claptrap."

What contrast to the dull, dreary days of depression under Hon. Geo. E. Foster's inept regime! Then Canada's credit was at low tide; now Canada's I. O. U. is a gilt edge security. In the first half of this year British capital to the extent of the enormous sum of one hundred and forty-three millions of dollars has been brought into Canada to help finance government, municipal and business enterprises, one hundred and forty-three millions of British cash capital. Another evidence of changed conditions is afforded by the contrast to the fact that in the dull ante-'96 days, Hon. Geo. E. Foster, then Minister of Finance, put his foot, indeed, both feet, down upon the proposal to reduce the rate of Canadian letter postage from three cents to two cents. He said it couldn't be done; it would add immensely to the immense deficits Mr. Foster's immense incompetency was achieving. That was under a Conservative Government—the government of a party that is now knocking with bleeding knuckles at the portal of power, with Mr. Borden prospectively at the helm of the ship of state, and Mr. Foster prospectively as purser, in charge of the public chest. Are they to be trusted in view of their record?

What Mr. Foster couldn't do a Liberal Government has done. Sir William Mulock, Postmaster General in the Liberal Government, reduced the rate of letter postage from three to two cents, and inaugurated imperial penny postage. At that time Mr. Foster or Sir Charles Tupper—it doesn't make much difference which; it's all in the family—predicted that the Post Office deficit would be a million dollars a year. Instead of $750,000, as it was in the year 1896. What, on the contrary, was the result? With this great reduction of postage and vastly extended and improved and consequently, more expensive service, in a year or two the post office began to show surpluses, and there has been a surplus every year since, and last year it reached the swelling figures of $1,100,000, a surplus $100,000 greater than the deficit Sir Charles or Mr. Foster predicted, showing that the prophecy was two millions out, and further showing what business methods and enterprise applied to administration of a public utility will accomplish.

And this surplus means more, as the country will soon see. Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Postmaster General, is able to carry out a great scheme he has had under consideration and investigation for some time. It warranted him introducing the beginning of a system of rural mail delivery, whereby the farmer in certain districts, can have city conveniences by having his mail matter delivered at his own door. The Liberal Government is a Government that does things.

THE GOVERNMENT AND AGRICULTURE.

Toronto Star.

In the twelve months ending with June 30, 1906, the exports of Canadian farm products amounted to fifty and one-half million dollars.

In the nine months which made up the short fiscal year ending with March 31, 1907, the value of farm produce exported was $130,000,000.

Thus in three-quarters of the year 1907 our exports in this line were eighty per cent greater than they were for the full fiscal year of 1896.

This phenomenal expansion in exports of foodstuffs becomes all the more remarkable when the increase in consumption in the home market is taken into account. The extent to which the home market has grown may be gauged from two simple statements of fact:

(1) The salaries and wages paid in Canadian manufacturing establishments in 1901 amounted to $118,249,000, while the wages alone totalled $134,375,000 in 1906.

(2) The cost of operating the steam railways of the country increased from $67,481,000 in 1903 to $103,748,000 in 1907.

These additions to the operating expense of railways and the wage bill of manufacturers could not have taken place without creating a corresponding expansion of the local demand for foodstuffs produced on Canadian farms. The assertion may safely be ventured that great as has been the development in the market beyond our borders the development in the home market has been greater still.

All this progress is not the result of chance. There is a reason for it.

The chief explanation of the onward movement in agriculture is found in the intelligence, industry and progressive spirit of the Canadian farmer. Much is owing to the admirable work done through the Agricultural College of Ontario, the Farmers' Institute system, and the agricultural press of the Dominion. But it is simply stating a fact when it is declared that one of the principal influences in making for progress emanated from Ottawa.

The work of the Dominion Government has told in many ways. The Dominion Experimental Farms have disseminated a vast fund of valuable information regarding varieties and methods. Many of our most profitable grain crops had their origin in samples sent from Ottawa. The Seed Division has performed a most useful service in securing greater purity in the grain and clover seeds sold to farmers by merchants. The Fruit Division through its monthly reports in the season of production, has kept fruit-growers informed as to the crop and market outlook, and has thus given information to growers which has enabled the latter to market their products to the best advantage. The same division by its effective supervision of packing has given the apples a standing in the British market which ensures an average selling price of about a dollar a barrel over American apples. The Dairy Division, by demonstrations afforded through plants built for the purpose, has convinced cheesemakers of the value of cool curing and a vast improvement in the quality and price of Canadian cheese has followed as a consequence. The average value of the cheese produced in Ontario in 1896 was a little over 8c. per lb.; in 1905 it was over 10 cents.

Not only has a valuable educational work been carried on through the Dominion Department of Agriculture, but through that and other departments practical work has been done as well. By providing for a refrigerator car service and cool chamber space on shipboard it has been made possible to land our fruit and dairy products in the British market in the best possible condition. Through the Railway Commission again a reduction in cost and improvements in service has been forced upon the carrying companies. These reductions have added at least one cent to the farm value of every bushel of grain marketed in Ontario, fifty cents to the value of each beef bullock sold, and between five and ten per cent. to the returns obtained for a given volume by producers in the Niagara fruit district. Finally, by means of commercial agents stationed at leading trade centres in Great Britain, and through displays at great exhibitions, our products have been kept steadily in the eye of the British buying public.

In brief, the Dominion Government, by wise direction and intelligent assistance, has materially aided in increasing the volume of farm production and in securing for producers better returns for the fruit of their labours.

It is eminently fitting that a government which has done so much for material well being on the farm has now undertaken to give the farmer city conveniences by delivering his mail at his own door.

ECONOMY

(Toronto Star.)

Liberals do not deny the Opposition statement that the country's expenditures have been largely increased. In fact, the Government claims credit for that increase, and points to it with pride. Any captain of industry, whose well-managed business expanded until his expenses had grown from $30,000 to $90,000, would congratulate himself upon what he accomplished, especially if he could show that the greater business was far more profitable than the less. The country may take satisfaction in an expenditure that has grown from less than forty millions when the Conservatives held office, to more than ninety millions under Liberal rule, because the increased national business is better managed, more profitable, and more beneficial than were the conditions and methods which it superseded.

In the last fiscal year of Conservative government, ending in 1896, our national revenue was $36,618,591, and the expenditure was nearly one-half million greater, so that the year's accounts showed a large deficit. Contrast with this the results attained by the present Government. To make our figures as nearly up-to-date as possible we take the last official returns, being for the year ending April 30th, 1908, and we find our revenue to have been $83,474,555. The current expenditure for the same year was $64,999,608. There was an enormous surplus, out which the Government expended on capital account $28,138,720, and still had a surplus left. There is no extravagance in doing a big business at a substantial profit. There is no economy in a small business done at a serious loss.

There has been expenditure, liberal expenditure. What for? For the benefit of the country. The money has not been uselessly squandered or given away. For some of it, we have railways, canals, fine buildings, and other tangible possessions to show. Part of it has been expended in opening up great areas of new territory and filling them with a prosperous population, the country's best assets. Part of it has been expended in giving to the people cheaper and better public service than they ever enjoyed before.

A good illustration of this improved public service is found in the management of our postal system. This department of government in the year 1896 cost the country $4,793,699, and for the other year mentioned it cost $7,708,142. But let us take a look at the actual business results shown by these two different years. Here they are:

1896—
Revenue	$4,005,891
Expenditure	4,793,699
Loss	$ 787,808
1908—
Revenue	$7,708,142
Expenditure	6,596,377
Profit	$1,011,765

How much better it was to do the large business with the big expenditure, than the smaller business at a loss. This is only a part of the difference between the record of the two years. The large volume of outlay represented a still greater and better service. This is strikingly shown in the following table for the same two years:

	1896	1908
Letters carried	116,628,000	323,644,000
Post cards carried	24,794,800	33,674,000
Total	140,822,800	357,318,000

Under the Conservative Government, with higher rates, a comparatively poorer service was operated at a loss to the country, which had to be met from some other source of revenue. Under Liberal management there were very low postal charges, a vastly improved and increased service, and profit made to be used for other public purposes. Which was really the economical administration? Which Government was actually chargeable with extravagance—for mismanagement and loss are among the worst kinds of extravagance, while liberality may go hand in hand with the truest economy.

The Post Office Department controls one service out of the many which the Liberal Government has carried on prudently, efficiently, and profitably, it is not likely that the country will take its business out of the hands of that Government and hand it over to the fault-finders who criticise and condemn the modern methods, and boast of what they call the "economy" of the system that was discarded twelve years ago.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"If we preach purity and practise corruption we shall be worthy of all the scorn that can be poured upon us," says Mr. Borden. It's certainly "coming to him." Let him have it out of a Colchester "tomato" tin.

A Practical Working Man Writes Straight, Good Sense

A Plain, Sensible Dealing With the Present Situation—Why Working Men Should Support Laurier and Stratton

CONDITIONS IN A NUTSHELL

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As an Independent elector, or one who claims to be at liberty to use this franchise independently, conscientiously and for the best interest of this country, I wish to give a few of the many reasons why I and every other working man should support the present Government and the Liberal candidate in the West Riding of Peterborough. I have supported the Tory party at different times, but I do not belong to what they call the Stratton Conservatives. I am an adherent of no party, much less its slave. Many men who supported Sir James Whitney will be found on the side of the Liberal Government on this occasion.

What the working men and the people in general want is a progressive government, one which has faith in the resources of our country. We want representatives who are alert and lively enough to convert our public utilities to the best interest of the people. I believe a party in power should make a strong effort to see that the masses as well as the classes get justice, and we must admit that the Liberal Government has been the only party which has made any effective efforts to better the conditions in regard to the employer and the employed.

In regard to Laurier's railway policy, I will not attempt to discuss them, because if I were capable I have not the time to go into the matter but I believe in them because the great financial men of Great Britain and Canada are not afraid of failure. The fact that the Canadian Government and sundry financial institutions were able to do business on English capital to the amount of $143,000,000 between January and August of this year, is proof enough for me. If Laurier's G. T. P. was the ruination of the country, would the present government be able to borrow money at less per cent. than the Conservatives could when they were in power. I believe it would be most unwise, while our credit is so good, to make a change and place the affairs of our country in the hands of Mr. R. L. Borden and Hon. G. E. Foster, men whom even such staunch Conservative journals as the Toronto News and Montreal Star condemn as unfit and not capable of handling the affairs of our country as they should be handled.

In regard to the Government's Immagration policy, let us go back a couple of years and we find that when the Doukhobors and other foreigners did not turn out as well as expected, the Conservative cry was "Why do they not induce some of our own kith and kin to immigrate?" Owing to the bad reputation the country had for so many years under Conservative rule it was a hard task, but when the government did induce them to come out unfortunately there was a world wide depression and to make their lot harder the Conservatives are trying to make out that they are, to put it in its mildest term, undesirable people. Two years ago when we had the best of times and lots of work for everybody, those same Conservatives would be up in arms if anyone would dare to insult one of His Majesty's subjects because he was poor, but they must take advantage of the present circumstances of those people who would be no better off in any country at the present time, to raise an argument against the present Government.

Mr. Burnham in this address tells us that the condition of the working men is becoming bad. This is, to an extent, a sad fact, but he must admit that our condition is not as bad as that of the working men in other countries and not so bad as to compel us to emigrate to the United States, as was the case under the system he advocates. He speaks of our beautiful homes. The working men of this country have beautiful homes and (what is more a great many own those beautiful homes and I know for a fact that a few years ago when we were boys and living under Conservative rule, we did not enjoy the comforts and modern improvements that we have to-day. Could our fathers live as we live to-day and bring up and give their children such an education as we are able to give ours, on the wages paid at that time, in the most of cases not more than $1.50 per day, for the most skilled mechanic. He says Canada ought to be kept up as she was a few years ago and he is correct if he does not go back too far; a year or two will do. This address also states that clothing is higher than it was under Conservative rule. How often can you see the best tweed made-to-order suit in some stores offered to-day for $15.00. When I was a boy and that was when the Conservatives were in power, we could not look at a suit less than $20.00, and it was not as good as you will get to-day for $15.00. But why go further into the matter? I have known Mr. Burnham and have often heard him on the public platform and I have always considered him a very clever man, but after reading his address, I must say I am greatly disappointed in him as a politician and I could not support him when the other man is taken into consideration. There is no time in the history of Peterborough when we were more in need of a good live man, and I believe we have that man in the Hon. J. R. Stratton.

I am very much pleased to know that the Liberal party intend to conduct their campaign as they have in the past, independent of mud-slinging and slanderous attacks. Why Mr. Burnham will do for himself in this line what he refrained from doing for others in the past, I cannot conceive. In regard to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, I do not think we, as Canadians, do justice to ourselves. We should be more proud of the fact that Canada can produce one so bright as he. When those who knew him best sent him to England to look after our interests, and gave him a free hand, I do not believe that they thought that he would take the place that he did among the leaders and statesmen assembled there. Anyone who knows anything about politics and politicians in England must know that it must take a strong, clever mind to go in their midst and attract their attention. Such a man is Laurier, and I would not at all be surprised to see him go back stronger than ever. I and many others I know, will help bring this about.

Yours truly,
WORKING MAN.

Deputy Minister of Labor to Run in North Waterloo.

TO RESIGN IMMEDIATELY

Brilliant Young Member of Ottawa Departmental Staff Is Chosen by Acclamation—Has Been Associated With Department Since It Was First Created Eight Years Ago—Plans Strong Campaign.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—William Lyon [illegible] was nominated as the Liberal convention of North Waterloo in the Waterloo town hall yesterday afternoon, his being the only name put before the meeting. The nomination was moved by Leander Bowman, Woolwich, seconded by John Hosteler, Wellesley.

A telegram was sent advising Mr. King of the nomination, and after an hour's wait his telegram of acceptance came, causing a renewed outburst of cheering.

The telegram also stated his intention to resign forthwith his post as Deputy Minister of Labor, and that he would be in Berlin to-day to remain until after election.

W. L. MACKENZIE KING.
Who Was Yesterday Nominated to Run In North Waterloo.

In accepting the nomination Mr. King said:

"My acceptance is a step which has not been taken without long and earnest consideration. My work of the past eight years, during which time the Department of Labor has grown to be one of the most important departments of the Governemnt, has afforded me too many opportunities for public service, and is too near my heart to be quickly or lightly parted from. Indeed the serious responsibility involved in giving up a position of such great public usefulness has been realized so fully that were it not outweighed by the deepest of convictions as to what is at the present time a public duty, I would certainly not sever my connection with a department with which I

FOLLOWED HER MOTHER'S EXAMPLE.

AND KEPT DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY IN THE HOUSE.

Mrs. W. J. Wilson, Tessier, Sask. tells of her experience in the following words: "I wish to tell you of the good I have found in DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. Last summer my little girl, aged two years, was taken ill with Summer Complaint, and as my mother always kept DR. FOWLER'S in the house, when I was a child, I seemed to follow her example, as I always have it also. I at once gave it to my baby as directed and she was at once relieved, and after a couple of doses were taken was completely cured."

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY imparts a healthy tone to all mucous surfaces, corrects and heals all forms of canker and counteracts all tendency to pain and inflammation, while it gives tone to the debilitated system when weakened by exhaustive discharges and fluxes of whatever nature, thus making it the best and safest remedy for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Pain in the Stomach, Sea Sickness, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all Summer Complaints.

Twenty-Two Bulls Ran Amuck.

Lisbon, Sept. 22.—Twenty-two bulls escaped from the arena at Moita yesterday and ran amuck through a crowd that was assembling to witness a bull fight.

Five persons were killed and some twenty wounded.

Troops were summoned and shot the animals to death.

Religious Paraders Storm Street Car.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—A street car was demolished and its crew injured when a religious parade of 1,000 persons, led by Bishop Paul Rhode, became a maddened mob in Chicago Heights.

The motorman of the car attempted to pass through the line of the parade.

Captain Drowns.

St. John, N.B., Sept. 22.—Captain Charles Deutrement of the Yarmouth schooner Edith F. S., bound from Yarmouth to Back Bay, Charlotte County, fell overboard and was drowned. None of the crew witnessed the accident.

Duel With Pocket Knives.

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 22.—In a fight with ordinary pocket knives, Charles Dunfield of Pennsylvania was killed yesterday morning by Sam W. Ray of Tennessee as the culmination of a quarrel.

Barns Burned Near Whitby.

Whitby, Sept. 22.—Fire destroyed the barns on the farm owned by Wm. Smith, ex-M.P., and tenanted by Horace Ellis, one mile south of Brooklin. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lantern.

Canadian Teachers Welcomed.

London, Sept. 22.—The Canadian teachers arriving in London are promptly made honorary members of the London Teachers' Association, and given all the privileges of membership.

New York State Banks.

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 22.—A decrease of over $8,000,000 in total deposits and an increase of over $46,000,000 in resources of state banks from June 17 to Aug. 31, are reported.

"THE maxim of many housewives is, "When in doubt blame the flour." This is unfair.

If your baking goes wrong, investigate—find the cause. Look to your stove, your yeast, your baking methods.

If you succeed in pinning the trouble down to the flour—if you clear yourself—then take up the flour question in dead earnest.

Consider that flour, to be successful from a baking standpoint, must be fine to produce light bread or pastry, pure to make that bread or pastry wholesome, and rich in nutriment to make it nourishing.

The good housewives all over the country are learning that has these three qualities in the greatest degree.

Ogilvie's Royal Household is milled by the most modern methods, purified by the only process that makes for absolute purity and made only from Manitoba Hard Wheat which contains the highest percentage of nutriment.

Royal Household Flour, in competent hands, never disappoints. Your grocer will guarantee this and gladly furnish the flour.

MAKE A CHANGE

A New Back for an Old One—How it is Done in Peterboro

The back aches at times with a dull feeling, making you worry and restless, sharp pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, it is agony to bend, stoop or lift. The rubbing of liniments or application of plasters does no good in these cases, they do not reach the cause. To get rid of these symptoms and exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one, follow the example of this Peterborough citizen:

Mrs. John Barclay, 563 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "My back was weak and tender, and a dull, grinding pain had settled in the small of it. I could not stoop to lift anything and could scarcely turn in bed. Rheumatism had settled in my hands and shoulders. I was in constant suffering and could find no relief. The urine plainly told the disordered, inactive state of the kidneys, as it was thick and highly coloured and contained a quantity of brick dust sediment. Booth's Kidney Pills were advertised at the Market Drug Store, and I tried them. I found more relief in one box of Booth's Kidney Pills than in all else put together. My back strengthened and the pains left it. Rheumatism disappeared and has not since returned. The urine cleared, I am strong and well and feel like a new person." Sold by dealers. Price, 50 cents. CONCLUSION OF FESTIVAL AT ST. JOHN'S

Flower Service on Sunday Afternoon—A Reception to Rev. Canon Davidson

St. John's Harvest Festival concluded on Sunday evening last with full choral evensong and sermon, attended by a large congregation. It being the eve of St. Matthew, Apostle and Martyr, the Rev. Dr. Foster based his sermon upon the life of the Apostle and Evangelist.

The music throughout the festival has been splendidly rendered by the choir, and both they and the choirmaster have been heartily congratulated for their painstaking work.

The flower service on Sunday afternoon was a great success. The huge basket of flowers offered by the children remained in front of the altar until after evensong, when Mr. Jay kindly conveyed them to Nicholls' Hospital.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon to arrange for a reception to be given to Rev. Canon Davidson when he arrives in the city from England. Mrs. Jos. Mills presided, and committees were appointed to make all necessary arrangements.

In all the services on Thursday and Sunday special prayers and hymns were used for the Rev. Canon Davidson's safe journey home.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM

Is the Only Possible way of Having an Effective Cure

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin, brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one, but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling hair and baldness can only be had by killing the germ: and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ ut Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. McDermid & Jury and the Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS RAPIDLY GAINING

(London Correspondence, Chicago Examiner, Sept. 14.)

Nothing is more interesting than to watch the evolution of an idea, and the thought that is rapidly gaining ground in the Church is undoubtedly that in Christian Science a great many of the statements are not only in accord with the teaching of Christianity, but are essential truths which have been overlooked through lack of faith.

That the power of healing was given must be unquestioned by all who read the Gospels. The forces of the mind are only now being thoroughly understood. We have in these days a growing group of complaints almost directly the outcome of restrained nerves.

That these must and can be met by mental treatment is undoubted, but the question is, "Does the power stop there?" This is a matter which has been bravely faced by the assembled bishops in the Lambeth conference, who have made a pronouncement which at any rate opens the door to further discussion and makes it evident that the most thoughtful and enlightened minds in the ecclesiastical world are of opinion that we have to ask ourselves very seriously how this matter stands.

There is just one way to prove the excellence of "Salada" Tea and that is to try it. Ask your grocer for a package to-day.

ANOTHER PETERBORO BOY MEETS WITH SUCCESS IN THE WEST

Peterborough boys always give a good account of themselves wherever they may be, and the latest proof of this statement is given by the Strathcona, Alta., Chronicle, which, in reference to the second annual convention of the Alberta Funeral Directors and Embalmers Association, has the following to say about Dr. G. C. Wainwright, who is an old Peterborough boy and a nephew of Mr. Mark Wainwright:

"The demonstrator who has been chosen is Dr. J. C. Wainwright, of Strathcona. Dr. Wainwright has the unique distinction of being the first Canadian lecturer on the science of embalming and the first practices connected with funeral direction. He has a great advantage over other lecturers from other parts of the world, inasmuch as he understands western conditions thoroughly. His knowledge and experience have been acquired here and as the lectures are to assist those living in the west, no one is so well endowed to deliver the lectures as a westerner. While it is a signal honour for a young man like Dr. Wainwright to be selected as lecturer there can be no doubt that the time and attention which the doctor has devoted to his business have gained him a breadth of experience which merited his selection."

The South African Veterans To Form An Association Here

Last night a meeting of the South African veterans was held to discuss the advisability of forming an association with a view to taking concerted action regarding the sales or the disposals of their land grants in the west. There was a large attendance of members present. They talked over the question but nothing definite was concluded last night. Another meeting will be held on Friday night in Mr. McDonough's cigar store, when organization will be effected and officers elected. Delegates will also likely be appointed to attend a meeting in Toronto next Tuesday night of the Toronto South African Veterans' Association.

Each of the South African veterans has been given a half section of land in the west and many of them are now desirous of disposing of it.

Rain Will Bring Busy Time To Farmers; Hay Likely Dearer

There is considerable discussion these days about the price of hay, as to whether it is going to increase or will remain as it is at present. On the market this morning there were about half a dozen farmers who brought in loads for sale. The price was between $13.50 and $15, according to their demands. To an Examiner man one of them stated that there was a rather plentiful supply in the country and for the present the price would likely remain the same. However, if a good rain falls in the near future the price will likely go up, for there will be no hay brought into the city. The farmer explained that the work on the farm has been put back a month by dry weather, with a heavy downpour this drawback will be removed and the delayed work will be taken up and continued until completed, with the probable result that few farmers bring hay into the city.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 367 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY AT CHARLOTTE ST. CHURCH

Largest Attendance in History—Successful Event

At the Charlotte street Church Sunday School on Sunday, the most successful rally in the history of the school was held. There was a large attendnace of scholars at the morning service when the pastor, Rev. G W Henderson, preached an eloquent and appropriate sermon from the 17th verse of the 8th chapter of Proverbs.

The attendance at the session of the school in the afternoon was the largest since the school's inception, 478 being present. A feature of the attendance was the presence of fifteen members of the cradle roll. A unique programme was carried out, the scholars joining heartily in the singing and the responsive reading. Solos were sung by Mr. James Browne and Miss Howell and short addresses were given by Mr. Downie, B.A., Dr. M A Morrison and the pastor.

At the evening service a most impressive sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Henderson, to the teachers. Altogether it was a most successful Sunday School day.

Some Good Fishing

—Mr. J J Gillman, proprietor of Jubilee Point, was in the city last night, coming up on the steamer Monarch. "Jack" together with several of his friends were each provided with lunge. Rice Lake fishing is splendid at present.

REGULAR CONCERT AT KNOX CHURCH

Second of the Season Given by Young People's Guild Last Night

The Young People's Guild of Knox Church held a social evening last night, and as usual there was a good attendance, showing even increased interest in the work. Rev. Mr. Keith occupied the chair, and when the discussion of business was taken up the question of a new president was introduced, owing to the resignation of Mr. E. Mayboe. Mr. Wallace Patten was, on motion, nominated, and elected by acclamation.

The following programme was presented:

Medley of popular songs—The Mandolin Club.

Reading—Mrs. Mowry.

Piano duet—Mrs. H. McCannon and Miss E. Bullen.

Reading—Miss Barr.

The Mandolin Club was composed as follows: Messrs. A. Crenfield, J. Brightman, Jas. McNichol, W. MacPherson, H. Quinlan, A. J. Tovey and H. Theobald.

After the programme refreshments were served, concluding a very pleasant evening.

WINNERS OF THE DOG RACE AT EXHIBITION

The dog race at the Peterborough exhibition, one of the funniest of the many events there, was won by Charley Pogue. The second prize was won by Claire Stewart, while Harold Rose crossed the tape with his Otonabee canine third.

AN OTONABEE SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLDING CONCERT

Fruit Social and Entertainment on Wednesday Evening

The Union Sunday School of Cold Springs, Otonabee, purposes holding a fruit tea and entertainment in their new hall on Wednesday evening, the 23rd inst. There is expected to be quite a number in attendance. Mr Cooper of Peterborough, noted organ tuner, has kindly offered his services to assist on the occasion. It is believed that his efforts to entertain will be much appreciated. Mr. J. John of Peterborough will also be present.

Children's EYES

Need the most careful and persistent attention. Early headaches and other troubles frequently emanate from defective eye-sight, which in itself, may have originated in early neglect of the eyes. The trouble is, parents seldom know their children's eyes are weak until it is too late.

School will be opened shortly, you had better bring your children to us, as we make a specialty of examining the eyes of the young and fitting them with the proper lenses.

SIGNALLING CORPS HARD AT WORK

Under Command of Lieut. Higgins—Inspection on October 7th

The signalling corps of the 57th Regiment will meet again to-night to prepare for their examination and inspection which takes place on Oct. 7. They are under command of Lt. W. R. G. Higgins. The meeting to-night is a very important one and it is necessary that every man should be present who is desirous of attending inspection and trying examinations. Major Mundell of Kingston, accompanied by Sgt. Maj. McGowan will be here to inspect the corps.

YACHT OWNERS GATHER NUTS AND GRAPES ON RIVER

A number of Peterborough launch owners made trips down the river on Saturday and Sunday and visited the woods close to the shores where the Canadian nut is found. In and about Hatrick's Point walnuts and butternuts are plentiful and also beechnuts. There are several other places where they are as easily procured. A member of one of the parties states that they procured several large bags of the different nuts and had a very pleasant time as well. Wild grapes are found along the river, especially below the first bridge, and these are gathered in the same manner. Many took advantage of the ideal weather yesterday to enjoy a pleasant sail and several went as far as Rice Lake.

LADY INJURED COMING FROM CHURCH

Carried Home by Two Boys Who Were Passing

While returning from church on Sunday evening, Mrs. Mabee, Aylmer street, met with an accident by falling off the sidewalk at the corner of Dalhousie and Bethune street. Mrs. Mabee is an elderly lady and was consequently badly shaken up. Two boys, Allan Robertson and Hilmer O'Neil, who happened to be passing, came to the rescue and carried her home.

BRANTFORD FISHERMEN DOWN THE RIVER

Return With Their Limit of Lunge—With The Mermaid

A jolly party of fishermen from Brantford and vicinity, arrived here last evening from Rice Lake, having taken the trip on Mr. Jas. Wedlock's trim little yacht, the Mermaid. They left here yesterday morning and arrived back with a full complement of lunge. They report a pleasant outing and report fishing the very best.

IMPROVING THE STREET RAILWAY

Diamonds at G.T.R. Crossings Replace Those Worn Out

The diamonds at the points where the G.T.R. crosses the street railway's tracks are being replaced by new ones, the men of the former company doing the work. The diamond at the Lock street crossing has been completed, and to-day the men started at Charlotte street. The line being temporarily broken, the cars were forced to stop on either side, the passengers being transferred.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE ENTERTAINS

Many Attended Pleasing Function at the George Street Methodist Church

There was a pleasant time spent last night at the George street Methodist church when the Epworth League entertained those of the Methodist belief, and many of their friends who are attending or teaching in the various schools of the city. Invitations had been sent out and about 400 were present. The reception took place in the basement, which was suitably decorated for the occasion. A banner bearing the word "welcome" hung in a conspicuous place. The chair was occupied by Mr. McCann, the president, who welcomed the visitors to the church. Addresses of welcome were also made by Mr. S. R. Armstrong, superintendent of the Sunday school, and Rev. E. A. Pearson.

A number of unique social features were introduced, and the prize in the principal one captured by Miss Stubbs. Music was provided by the orchestra of the Sunday school. Other pleasing features of the programme were a duet by the Misses McKee, a solo by Miss Reesor, and the contributions of the ladies' quartette composed of Miss Reesor, Miss Chesty, Miss Lean and Mrs. Rohill.

The function was a pleasing success and very creditable to the Epworth League who had it in charge.

Music and Drama

PAIR OF COUNTRY KIDS

"A Pair of Country Kids," a rural comedy drama, is the play announced at the Grand on Saturday, Sept. 26th, matinee and night, and from all reports that have reached Manager Turner, the country kids are a lively pair, and seem to be making a large number of friends everywhere. The play is highly spoken of as a clean, up-to-date rural comedy drama, true to nature and with all those lovable folks "down on the farm," that we all remember after we have moved to the city, or that we meet every day where we have been content to remain close to nature with the homespun folks. This company is made up of real actors who can act, sing and dance, and will give you an evening of genuine amusement, and you will surely laugh at the kids for they are busy constantly getting in and out of mischief.

It is a laughing, bubbling pure heart and home story. When the curtain drops on the last act you feel as though you had been refreshed by a drink or good cool spring water. The kids are full of fun and these two characters alone insure a good performance.

Dr. Foster will be in the vestry of the church every morning from 9.30 to 10.30 to attend to parochial business.

The daily prayers of the congregation are asked on behalf of Rev. Canon Davidson, who is returning from England on the S. S. Kensington.

PUBLIC ISSUES.

In an open letter Mr. J. H. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, professes a desire to discuss with Hon. Mr. Stratton, the Liberal candidate, the latter's connection with the Home Life Assurance Association. Mr. Stratton does not propose to publicly discuss private business affairs, in which the public have no concern or interest. Mr. Burnham never had any business, never did any business and cannot be supposed to know enough about business affairs to know that the public has no interest in the discussion he suggests, as he will find out by the result of the present campaign. Mr. Burnham is at liberty to conduct his campaign in his own little way and Mr. Stratton should be permitted to do it as he prefers. There are important and legitimate public, and, indeed, important and legitimate personal, issues affecting the choice of the electors, which may form proper subjects of discussion. Mr. Burnham will receive no assistance in drawing a herring across the scent—to obscure the issue as between the effective and energetic, or the theoretical and passive representation of West Peterborough, and the effective or disruptive administration of Dominion affairs.

IDEAL LOCATION FOR COTTAGE

One Man Would Prefer to Build At Campbelltown—Or at Hatrick's Point

TO EXTEND IN FUTURE

"If I had the notion to build a cottage on the river or Rice Lake," said a prominent launch owner who is well acquainted with the Otonabee water, "I believe I would erect it right at Campbelltown. There are more advantages right there than at any other spot that I know in this locality."

"You know" he continued, "there is no better fishing ground for either bass or lunge than from that point to the lake. I've been over it often enough to know what I'm talking about. The fishermen from town do not go down that far and there are few in the vicinity to share in the sport. This leaves the fish unusually plentiful and it is a black day in the calendar that you do not get a good catch. Then when it comes to the shooting season you're right there close to the creeks and marshes where they are as plentiful as any place. Yes, that is a good location, the only other that I would compare with it is Hatrick's Point on Rice Lake. A cottage at either of these points would come up to my ideal. You can drive easily to either although it is much longer by water.

"I believe that in a few years you will see cottages at these places, and as many others nearer the city. With a nice little family launch the distance of a few miles down the river is not such a drawback to the man who works in the city and the popularity of the river is bound to keep up the stride that has been made in the last few years.

The Members of Branch No. 30, C.M.B.A., are requested to attend the meeting to-night the 22nd instant. Special business of importance.

LOSES HIS BRIDE.

Toronto Man in Cincinnati. Declares She Was Kidnapped.

Cincinnati, Sept. 22.—Jay Pitman, decorator, who came here from his home in Toronto, Ont., with his young bride Sunday, reported to the police yesterday that his wife was kidnapped Sunday night.

Pitman left his wife to engage an expressman to haul their goods from the depot and spent several hours after that seeing the sights of the city. When he returned she was gone, and neighbors told him that a strange man took her away.

Pitman and the police searched the city all Sunday night and yesterday without finding any trace of the young woman.

Pitman is positive she was kidnapped, though the police cannot understand why the kidnapper should also take the grips and suit cases belonging to the couple.

WOMAN IS FREED.

Toronto Woman Acquitted on Vitriol-Throwing Charge.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Ellen Taylor was acquitted by a sessions' jury yesterday on the charge of throwing carbolic acid in the face of Edward Chandler of Lee avenue on June 1 last.

In acquitting her, Judge Winchester remarked: "The jury has acquitted you, though I cannot understand how they arrived at the verdict. If there is anyone guilty, you are the guilty woman, and I cannot see how the jury returned such a verdict if they have weighed the evidence and remembered their oath."

Ten Chinamen tried to beguile the federal authorities at Montreal into admitting them into Canada, but were foiled and are now in bond on the Elder-Dempster steamer Bornu, and will be deported to Mexico.

The Aberdeen Free Press, referring to the allegation that the woollen industry in Canada is being imperilled by British competition and its demand for higher duties, says: "It never occurs to them to ask whether an industry which cannot exist without 30 per cent. protection is really efficient or worth bolstering up in this fashion."

Thrilling Story of Sea.

New York, Sept. 22.—A story of shipwreck is brought by the crew of the Norwegian steamship Yumuri, which went to pieces below the feet of her sailors at Castle Island, one of the Bahama group.

The men, after terrible sufferings, were rescued by a volunteer crew from the Prins Willem I. of the Royal Dutch mail line, who rowed through a boiling surf in a broken boat and brought all the shipwrecked men off in safety from the barren shore upon which the Yumuri had stranded.

Mystery In Suicide.

Hamilton, Sept. 22.—There will be an inquest on the death of William C. Person, eldest son of W. C. Person, of the Commercial Oil Co., who was found lying unconscious on the floor of the store room yesterday morning. There was a strong odor of carbolic acid, but no sign of any cup or glass by which he might have taken it. He was rushed to the City Hospital, but died about noon. He was 28 years of age, and leaves a widow and two children.

Two Fires In Welland.

Welland, Sept. 22.—The residence of Ontario Police Officer Thos. Greenwood, at Chippewa, was completely destroyed by fire. The fire originated from children playing with matches. The barn of Edward Saher, in Willoughby, was struck by lightning and burned, together with contents owned by Peter Carver. The total loss is estimated at $3,000.

Flames at Chelsea Again.

Chelsea, Mass., Sept. 22.—Between 4 and 5 acres of wooden buildings on the north side of the Boston & Maine tracks in this city, which escaped the conflagration of April 12, were swept away yesterday by another disastrous fire, entailing a loss of $500,000. A fire engine was destroyed.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT BISHOP

Rev. Dr. Carmichael of Montreal Collapses After Service.

HAD JUST ENDED SERMON

He Had Been to Pan-Anglican Conference at Lambeth and Was Delivering Message to Congregation When Seized With Heart Disease—Was Author of Several Works and a Famous Orater.

Montreal, Sept. 22.—After giving to the parishioners of the cathedral Sunday the message of the Pan-Anglican congress at Lambeth, Bishop James Carmichael collapsed, and at 7 o'clock yesterday he passed away.

At the beginning of the services, Rev. Dr. Simonds, the vicar of the cathedral, between which body and the bishop there had been some friction, arose and welcomed the bishop on behalf of the wardens, clergy and people in a hearty way, which touched the aged prelate.

When the sermon was finished Bishop Carmichael said to the vicar, "I believe I am going to faint," and was assisted to the vestry. There he recovered and prayed with the choir before they left the chapter house. When taken home he grew rapidly worse, and three doctors were called in, his son, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Finley and Dr. Hamilton. They saw that he was seriously ill with heart trouble, from which he had been suffering for some time. He remained conscious till 6 p.m., and thought that while he was very ill he would recover as he did from similar attacks a year ago. After that he became unconscious.

RIGHT REV. JAS. CARMICHAEL.

A year ago while preaching in St. Stephen's, he became faint and had to stop the service, he recovered in a few minutes and finished his sermon. Mrs. Carmichael died about two years ago. There are four sons, Rev. Rural Dean Carmichael, Knowlton; Fred Carmichael, Bank of Montreal, Toronto; Dr. H. B. C. Carmichael, Montreal, and Saunders Carmichael, lawyer.

The late Bishop Carmichael was the author of a number of volumes on ecclesiastical subjects, including a volume of sermons on the Christian year, church union, series on the prayer book, book on design and Darwinism, and a monograph on the higher criticism. He was an active participant in work in connection with the Citizens' League, of which he was the founder, with the Protestant Hospital for the Insane, Robert Jones Convalescent Hospital, and many others of like nature. As a master of pure Irish oratory he was practically without a peer in Canada.

Dr. Carmichael was 73 years of age and one of three Irish graduates of Trinity College, Dublin, who, on the invitation of the late Dr. Cronyn, the first Anglican Bishop of Huron, came to Canada in 1856, and were ordained by him for work in his diocese. All three of these, namely, Drs. Dumoulin, Sullivan and Carmichael, became bishops.

McKee Rankin Indicted.

New York, N.Y., Sept. 22.—McKee Rankin, the theatrical manager, and his star, Miss Nance O'Neil, were arrested here yesterday by a United States deputy marshal, on an indictment found against them last July in California, alleging that they had infringed the copyright of the Sudderman play, "The Fires of St. John."

Object to Steps.

St. Thomas, Sept. 22.—The St. Thomas Street Railway Commission, at a meeting held last night, decided to fight Dr. Helen MacMurchy's proposed bill for the lowering of street car steps. It was pointed out that as no one in this city wanted the change that the entailed expense would be a needless one.

Navy For Australia.

London, Sept. 22.—(C.A.P.)—A cable from Melbourne says Lord Crewe has sent Premier Deakin a despatch which has pleased the Australian Government, as the Admiralty promises to retain certain cruisers in Australian waters, besides actively assisting the genesis of the Commonwealth navy.

TEN THOUSAND AT TILBURY.

Premier Warmly Welcomed by Both French and English.

Tilbury, Sept. 22.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier spent yesterday among his own people. Two-thirds of those who thrive in this enterprising village are French-Canadians and speak still the language of the mother country.

At Tilbury a big crowd had gathered and the Premier acknowledged the civic address briefly in French and English. The parade was witnessed by a large number, and the demonstration was not unlike that at Strathroy on Saturday.

The crowd which gathered for the speeches must have been close on to ten thousand. Sir Wilfrid spoke for about half an hour in English, repeating much of his Niagara Falls' speech. Hon. G. P. Graham followed, dealing with issues as at Strathroy.

Sir Wilfrid then spoke for twenty minutes in French, his utterances being received with enthusiasm by his compatriots who comprised possibly forty per cent. of the audience, which was swelled by excursions from Windsor, Leamington, Amherstburg and St. Thomas.

Big Strike.

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 22.—More than 400 cotton mills in Lancashire stopped yesterday as a result of the dispute over wages between operatives and employers. This means that 40,000,000 spindles are wholly or partially stopped, that more than $250,000,000 of capital is not bringing in any return, and that 140,000 operatives are without work and losing something over $700,000 in wages a week.

A Fire Investigation.

Woodstock, Sept. 22.—Early yesterday morning a big barn on the farm owned by Richard Aberson, near Plattsville, was burned. It is said the grain in the barn had been seized and sold for debt, though it had not been removed. Part of the stock was also sold on Saturday for debt. An investigation will probably be held in an endeavor to ascertain the cause of the fire.

Liquor Detective Drunk.

Huntsville, Sept. 22.—William B. Aird, purporting to be a detective acting in the interests of the License Department, Toronto, was arrested here Sunday afternoon on a charge of being drunk and incapable. He was before Magistrate Reese yesterday morning, and in answer to the charge pleaded guilty. The magistrate fined him $5 and costs or thirty days in jail.

Burglars Scared.

Weland, Sept. 22.—The Fenwick postoffice, kept by W. H. Fry, was burglarized, yesterday morning, the booty consisting of $70 in money and $151 in postal notes.

Two charges were necessary to break open the safe. Lindley Hart stood at his window, not twenty feet away, but was afraid to stir out or give the alarm.

Miniature Fleet's Long Trip.

New York, Sept. 22.—Six tiny vessels, whose mission it will be to warn the mariners of the Pacific of rocks and shoals along the upper western coast of the United States, started yesterday on a fifteen thousand mile cruise around South America.

Improvements For Hamilton.

Hamilton, Sept. 22.—The Government has promised to spend $15,000 at once on the improvement of the city dock and to open the first rural delivery mail service in the Dominion between Hamilton and Ancaster.

Paris Misses Telephones.

Paris, Sept. 22.—Paris is practically prostrated commercially to-day as a result of the fire that on Sunday night destroyed the central telephone building. The postoffice building was not destroyed.

Murder at Christening.

New York, Sept. 22.—A swift razor thrust which nearly severed the head of Louis Nanna brought to a tragic end early yesterday what had been a jolly all-night christening party.

Rifle Butts Burn.

Kingston, Sept. 22.—The old rifle butts on Barriefield Common were destroyed by fire yesterday. The butts were condemned and used for the last time early this month.

Asks $120,000 Alimony.

New York, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Katherine Clemmens Gould, who is suing Howard Gould for divorce, yesterday applied through counsel to Justice Giegerich for an order compelling Mr. Gould to pay her $120,000 a year alimony and $15,000 for her counsel fees.

Stanfield's Underwear

A Talk by the Maker to the Wearer
(Chapter 2)
Shrinking The Wool
In its natural state, wool consists of long, curly, silky fibres, dotted with tiny prongs or branches. These prongs, when wet, interlock with the long strands and pull together, to protect the sheep from rain and dampness.
When wool is woven, the same thing would happen, were it not for the Stanfield process, which makes the prongs on each strand of wool lie down until the knitting is finished.
Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear is made absolutely unshrinkable by this special process, invented and perfected by the Stanfields. It is the only method of treating wool, which renders it unshrinkable and uninjured.
One way of getting rid of the prongs, is to burn them off by plunging the wool into a tank containing lime. As the prongs are a part of the wool, naturally the lime will "eat" the wool as well as the prongs. This is why some imported, and some Canadian-made "Unshrinkable," Underwear won't wear. It has been treated with lime in the effort to make it unshrinkable.
The illustrations above, show wool under the microscope both before and after going through the Stanfield process. They show that all the prongs that make it shrink are made harmless, BEFORE the Underwear is woven. And as there is no "shrink" in the wool, there can be no "shrink" in the Underwear.
Every garment, bearing the Stanfield label, is sold with our standard guarantee of "Money Back If It Shrinks."
All sizes from 22 to 70 chest measure. The label tells the weight—RED label for light—BLUE label for medium—BLACK label for heavy weight.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING PAGE

Examiner Road Race This Year Will Bring Out Big Field Of Fast And Well Trained Runners

With Thanksgiving Day only a matter of a little more than a month away the long distance runners of the city and vicinity are beginning to look forward to the Examiner road race and a number have already gone into training for the big event. It is expected that with the great interest there has been displayed in road racing during the past two years the race, or rather races, this year will be the most successful on record. When the first Examiner road race was held two years ago long distance running was unknown to Peterborough. It is true a big field of runners turned out for the event, but they were all novices at the game and some of them went into the races without any training. This year conditions will be changed and a field of well-trained, speedy runners will toe the mark at Lakefield Thanksgiving Day and the race should be a hard battle all the way.

Already the question of who will win the senior race is being discussed by the sporting fraternity and will undoubtedly prove a hard problem to answer. With Ernie Wilson who was second in 1906 and who won the event last year, Charlie Thorpe, Pete Wallace, Geo. Fowler and other Y.M.C.A. Harriers in the hunt, as well as a large number of other runners, there will be a grand struggle. Smoke and Johnson, the Chemong Indians, who figured in the three-mile race at the Harriers' meet, will in all probability be entered, as well as Irons, another Chemong man, and it is likely that several other Indian phenoms will be on hand for the occasion. Smoke promises to be a dangerous man in a ten-mile event and will be in good shape for the race.

It is not too early for runners to commence their training for the event and the men who get out and get into condition are the men that are going to be out in front of the procession when the Examiner office is reached on Thanksgiving Day.

WILL HURTUBISE STOP THE SYRIAN'S LIST OF VICTORIES? LOCAL FANS SAY HE WILL

Great interest is being displayed in the wrestling match between Eugene Hurtubise, Peterborough's well known wrestler, and Hassan Abdallah, the Sultan's famous grappler, which takes place in the Brock street rink to-morrow night. There will be a record crowd present. There is something fascinating about the personality of Gene's opponent that is arousing intense interest among the fans and they are anxiously looking forward to see the quaint visitor from the Orient, who has been cleaning up everything that he has met on this continent. Manager Naylor, who knows all the details of the wrestling game, says that his new man is a top notcher, and he will need to be, as Hurtubise, who has been working out faithfully, will be in the pink of condition and will give the famous Syrian an awful argument. Two good preliminary bouts have been arranged, and the evening's sport will be about the best that has been seen here in a long time.

GAMES ARE BEING ARRANGED WITH THE TORONTO CHAMPIONS

Corney Burns, manager of the Peterborough Baseball Club, champions of the Midland Baseball League, left this morning for Toronto, where he will arrange games with the St. Andrew's team, champions of the Senior League, which will either be Park Nines or St. Mary's. The games with the St. Andrew's team will be played first, starting with a game in Toronto on Saturday. The second game will be played here about the middle of next week, and the third, if necessary, will come off in Cobourg on a week from Saturday. The games with either the Park Nines or St. Mary's, whichever team wins the other league will be played during the week following, the best two out of three games to count.

The Petes are determined to win the title of champions of Ontario. They have cleaned up everything east of Toronto, and as the Toronto teams have beaten all the western and northern teams that they have played, the Petes by winning the series from them can with reason claim the honours. They will have a strong team for the final games, among the players available being Clements, Hawkins and Quinlan for pitchers; Burridge and Edmunds for catchers, Lawson, Anderson, Maddock, Shea, Burns, Murphy, O'Brien and others, who have worn the blue and white uniform during the past season. Considerable interest is being taken in the post season series, and no doubt large crowds will be present at the games.

Y.M.C.A. RUGBY TEAM WAS ORGANIZED LAST NIGHT

At a meeting held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. parlours, a Y. M. C. A. Rugby club was organized, with the following officers: President, C. E. Sisson; Vice-President, S. Cunniff; Secretary-Treasurer, R. Elliott. C. G. Graham was elected captain and S. Colling, manager.

Mr. R. McWilliams was appointed to represent the club on the executive.

The boys will meet on Wednesday evening for their first practice.

The prospects before the club are very bright. A number of fast players have signified their intention of turning out with the "Y," who will be able to place a team in the field that will be hard to beat. With the above officers looking after the team the season should be a good one.

THE SWING OF THE HAMMER

The cognomen of the Eastern gentleman who is to wrestle Gene Hurtubise to-morrow night sounds like the name on a package of Turkish cigarettes.

Dick Baker will probably spring into the athletic limelight as a trainer of one of the Toronto Clubs. "What, What!"

The Lindsay Free Press gravely announces that McKenzie, an old Hamilton Rugby player, will stay in Lindsay and turn out with the Mudville team provided they get him a good job. The C.A.A.U. will probably be grateful for the information.

Miss Cora Livingstone, the lady "wrassler," who is appearing at a Toronto theatre this week is devoting her attention only to feminine wrestlers. She no doubt realizes that any old kind of a girl can throw a mere man down.

The Toronto papers announce to-day that the Inter-Provincial Junior series is claiming the Toronto teams that were supposed to belong to the O.R.F.U. Whereupon it is up to Joe Hay to preach another sermon on the wickedness of the "Big Four."

The "Salaam" with which Hassan Abdallah will greet Gene Hurtubise to-morrow night will probably be changed to "Salam" before the match is over.

A Meeting of the City Rugby League will be held at the Examiner Office on Wednesday Evening, Sept. 23rd. All teams wishing to enter will please send delegates.

RUGBY

All teams desiring to enter either the senior or junior series of the City Rugby League are asked to send in their names as soon as possible to Secretary Jas. D. Clarke, at the Examiner Office. A meeting of the League will be held this week and it is important that the teams should be entered before that time, so that the executive will have something to work on.

Sporting Comment

Contrary to expectations, Hassan Abdallah, the giant Syrian, who is to meet Gene Hurtubise to-morrow night in Brock street rink did not arrive last night but will be here to-night. Word has been received from Hassan's manager that the big fellow is hard as nails and looks for an easy victory. That he will not get what he is looking for is the opinion of local fans, especially those who have seen Gene working out. The local grappler has developed wonderfully since his last match, has gained weight and speed as well as a more intimate knowledge of the inside points of the game, and he will make the Oriental wish he was back under the protecting wing of the Sultan. It will be a battle royal between two big skillful, well-trained wrestlers who will go at each other from the handshake, and the large crowd that is sure to be on hand will get its money's worth of excitement. The match will be catch-as-catch-can for a purse of $200, winner to take all. The preliminary bouts will be Ted Crowe against Bobby Long and Jack Wilson against Lillie and two lively battles should be in order. The bouts will start at 8.15 sharp.

THE PATENTS' ACT AND EMBARGO

Mr. W. A. Bailey's Views on the Introduction of Store Cattle into Ireland

NOT TIME FOR A CHANGE

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Mr. J. H. Burnham, in his address, says that "Britain protects herself where she needs it by a cattle embargo and by the Patents Act, which requires patented articles (and nearly all are patented) to be manufactured there." It must be remembered that the embargo was established because of disease traceable to foreign cattle. The British Board of Agriculture states that "anthrax, Texas fever, and tuberculosis exist in the United States; in Canada, anthrax, tuberculosis and parasitic mange are present." Apart altogether from the question of disease, the introduction of Canadian store cattle would create a very serious situation in Ireland, where nine-tenths of the land holders depend upon the rearing of store cattle. Any change in the policy of the Government can only mean profit to the few and enormous loss to the many, especially in the case of Ireland, Mr. Garton, who handles a largely colonial meat market, doubted whether a dealer would derive any benefit, and Canadian exporters were making quite as much, if not more, than they would by shipping store cattle. Duckworth & Son doubted, even were store cattle allowed to come in, whether the Canadian farmers would send any more than they do now.

In regard to the Patents Act complained about; is it not only what other countries have done for years? In England, if there is any protection, it lies in the original grant of a patent to a particular man as a reward for invention. It is frankly recognized that this protection is a means whereby he can extract higher prices from the public and increase his wealth at the expense of the community. These are the characteristics of all protection, and while, in this case, the law tolerates the evil for the sake of offering an inducement to inventors, it strictly limits the privilege to fourteen years (and nearly all popular articles have passed that age). A patent is protection for one man. All that the new Act does is to forbid this privilege being used to protect the trade of a foreign country from being thereby protected at the expense of their own. It would be absurd to allow patents to be made a means of artificially diverting trade.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

THE NEWS NOTES FROM OMEMEE

Anxiety is Felt for the Root Crop—Dry Weather Causes Trouble

Examiner Special

Omemee, Sept. 23. — The weather continues dry and smoky, and very much anxiety is felt about the injury to root crops, as fodder promises to be scarce.

No ploughing has been done here.

About one hundred from here took in the Peterborough show on Friday and Saturday, starting from the new platform station, Sturgeon street, which is quite convenient.

Rev. Mr. Peckover was very much pleased over the large and appreciative congregation to greet him in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough.

Quite a few attended the Reform Convention at Lindsay on Saturday last from here and speak strongly of the great enthusiasm in selecting Dr. Nelson, of Fenelon Falls, to support the Dominion Government under such a wise leader as Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Lindsay Show, the 24th, 25th and 26th—which will be patronized well from here, there being no Emily Township show here.

The water in Pigeon River has not been so low for years, and a number of wells are dry, but there are no bush fires raging in those parts.

There are a number of campers enjoying themselves in Pigeon River, engaged in shooting ducks and fishing.

Mrs. Thos. Webster, of Lakefield, passed through here this week to visit her mother.

HUNDREDS DIE FROM CHOLERA

St. Petersburg Grave Diggers Cannot Work Fast Enough.

PEOPLE BLAME THE DOCTORS

Superstition Exists Among Lower Classes That Physicians Started Cholera Epidemic by Poisoning River and Fruit — Hospitals Cannot Take Any More Patients—Death List Grows.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 23.—The cholera epidemic, which continues to assume more appalling proportions every day, has concentrated the attention of the St. Petersburg authorities on the long-neglected task of improving the water supply and sewer facilities of the capital.

The sewers now empty into the River Neva or the open canals, traversing the city, and the water supply is taken from the river. This, in spite of the fact that Lake Ladoga, 30 miles away, offers an abundant supply of fresh water, obtainable at small expense. The mayor of St. Petersburg, at the instigation of Premier Stolypin, has appointed a commission to arrange for immediate action in these directions.

Up to noon yesterday the municipal hospitals reported for the last 24 hours, 417 cholera cases and 176 deaths. There is a total of 1,587 patients in various hospitals. These municipal statistics are most incomplete, a fact which is shown conclusively by the number of interments. At one cemetery these aggregated 424 for the last three days, or within twenty of the total number of deaths reported.

The minister legend that the physicians of St. Petersburg caused the epidemic by poisoning the waters of the Neva as well as the fruits sold in the general markets, still persists among the people, although the press is conducting an educational campaign against this superstition. The police yesterday arrested one man for spreading this rumor, and they intend to make a summary example of him.

The cholera dead are being interred at Preobrazhenskoe, which is about one hour's distance on the railroad from St. Petersburg. A train of several coaches carrying the mourners and a dozen freight cars with the dead in crude coffins goes daily to this place. The scenes are heartrending in and about the chapel, where the service is conducted uninterruptedly night and day.

The coffins are of crude workmanship; they are made of spruce and thickly coated with tar. The identification numbers of the patients are marked with white paint.

The scarcity of grave-diggers has caused a painful delay in the past few days, 150 coffins containing bodies now being stored in the adjoining woodshed. Some of the mourners have been waiting their turn for several days.

The Rech reports a case in which a cabman made the rounds of all the hospitals Monday night with a cholera patient, who was refused admission to all of them.

Church Conference at Berlin.

Berlin, Sept. 23.—Pastors representing congregations of the middle district of the Lutheran Synod of Canada have been in annual session here yesterday and to-day. Rev. A. Eggers, Hespeler, is presiding, and preached an inspiring sermon at a public meeting in St. Matthew's Church last evening.

The annual convention of Mennonite Church is also being held here this week in Bethany Church, which was dedicated on Sunday. The ministerial session was held yesterday, presided over by Rev. C. N. Good of Toronto, West End Mission. The conference proper opened to-day.

Fisheries Officers.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The election of officers of the International Fisheries Congress resulted: President, Prof. Hesmon C. Bumpus, director-general of the Natural Museum of History, New York City; secretary-general, Dr. Hugh M. Smith, deputy U. S. commissioner of fisheries. Vice-presidents for each nation were also elected.

Prof. Edward F. Prince, Dominion commissioner of fisheries, Ottawa, was selected as the vice-president to represent Canada, and Dr. B. Rathburn, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, to represent the United States.

Operated Slot Machines.

Montreal, Sept. 23.—Judge Piche dealt summarily with two Lachine hotelkeepers, Nap Decoster and Arthur Lablanc, yesterday, who were found guilty of having slot machines on their property. Both men pleaded guilty. Judge Piche gave each fifteen days without the option of a fine, together with $50 fine or two months additional.

Slot machines outside the city of Montreal have so far been operated openly in spite of the law to the contrary.

Sifton Again.

Brandon, Sept. 23.—An enthusiastic Liberal convention last night nominated Hon. Clifford Sifton for the fourth time. No other name was proposed.

Invited to Saskatchewan.

Moosejaw, Sask., Sept. 23.—Rev. A. C. Reaves of Campbellford, Ont., has been invited to the pastorate of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here.

Chinamen Confess That Canadian Railway Employe at Windsor Put Them In Car and Sealed It Up—Scandal in Detroit Over Officer Who Arranged Scheme to Get Credit of Capture.

Windsor, Sept. 23.—When a Wabash foreman opened a car of merchandise in Detroit yesterday he found four Chinamen and three bottles of whisky which were not scheduled on the way bill. One of the bottles bore the label of a Windsor soda water manufacturer, but the contents were probably as contraband as the Celestials.

Immigration officers who were notified, suspect that the Chinks were placed in the car in the Windsor yards.

Two of the Chinamen, who could talk English, confessed that they had paid $6 each to a man for putting them in a car and that he promised them transportation to their destination for that amount. The cargo of human freight is in "cold storage" at the Wayne County jail.

A scandal has developed over the smuggling of Chinamen into Detroit. One of the inspectors, Adam Hoffman, has been suspended from duty on the charge of having paid $20 to two Windsor youths for smuggling Joe Sano, a Mongolian, and tipping it off to Hoffman that they were coming, in order that Hoffman would get the credit for the capture. The Windsorites got off, but the Chinaman is still in jail.

BUREAU IS ILL.

Solicitor-General Is Very Low at Three Rivers.

Montreal, Sept. 23.—Word was received here last night that Hon. Jacques Bureau was lying dangerously ill at his home in Three Rivers. He is suffering from an acute attack of appendicitis, and has high fever and a great deal of pain. In conversation over the long-distance telephone his doctor stated that he was much worse last evening, being very restless and feverish. If there is no improvement to-day he will be operated upon.

HON. J. BUREAU.

His illness has caused widespread sympathy among his political and business friends and associates.

GIBSON TAKES OATH.

He Is Now Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—John Morrison Gibson, B.A., ex-Attorney-General, lieutenant-colonel, K.C., notable as a rifle shot, and prominent in electric corporation circles, was sworn in yesterday at the Parliament Buildings as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

The ceremony was a private one, a lady who desired to be present being excluded. It occupied a few minutes only about 11 o'clock.

Rudolphe Boudreau, clerk of the executive council, Ottawa, read the commission, making the appointment.

Sir Charles Moss, the Chief Justice, then read the three oaths, first of allegiance, second of office, and third as keeper of the great seal.

Hon. J. J. Foy, as Attorney-General, handed over the great seal to the new Lieutenant-Governor in the absence of the Provincial Secretary, Hon. W. J. Hanna, and the ceremony was completed, except for the handshaking.
